NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XVII.—TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHTS, 1919.

b.—Martinsyde Attempts, May and July, 1919.

The Martinsyde machine reached St. John's, Friday, April 10th, 1919, by the Str. Sachem, and the following day it was taken out to the hangar at Pleasantville, an eastern suburb of the town. While much the same in appearance as the Sopwith, it was built by a rival firm, and equipped with a 285 H. P. Rolls-Royce-Falcon engine capable of developing an air speed of 100 m.p.h. Capt. F. P. Raynham and Major Chas. W. F. Morgan, were pilot and navigator respectively.

Bad weather had prevented the Sopwith machine from getting away, and by rushing preparations the Martinsyde people had theirs assembled and in readiness for a trial flight the following Saturday, April 18th. A small mail of 2 pounds (about 60 letters) was prepared for the Martinsyde, the official mail being practically a duplication of that made up for the Sopwith. For the most part the 3c Caribou without any distinguishing overprint was used, though some letters bore stamps of other denominations. Across the face of the envelopes was written "Trans-Atlantic Aerial Mail", or words to similar effect. The Post Office agreement with the Sopwith people was that if the Martinsyde should be first to leave, the mail prepared for the Sopwith should be transferred to her.

Fogs and rain preventing, not until Sunday, May 18th, did the Sopwith get away. The Martinsyde attempted to follow, but hardly had it gone 200 yards when it crashed to the ground, damaging the machine, and slightly injuring the airmen. On advice of his physician Major Morgan returned to England by the steamer sailing May 24th, and Nav. Lt. C. H. Biddlecombe arrived by the Str. Digby, June 14th, to take his place.

The Martinsyde was rebuilt and successful trial flights were made over St. John's on July 4th and 14th. On Saturday, July 12th, the mail bag was opened and a further 25 letters were included—19 being from people associated with the venture, and the other six from persons abroad who had requested that the letters be sent by the Martinsyde. No more mail would be accepted by the aviators. The object of the second flight was to beat the record of Alcock and Brown, who had successfully crossed the Atlantic to Ireland, June 14th-15th, in the Vickers-Vimy machine, in 16 hours and 12 minutes. The mail bag was to be dropped into the first village in Ireland over which they passed, and flight continued to London.

All being ready the Martinsyde left the Quidi-Vidi field, at 3.30 p. m., Thursday, July 17th, and after going 50 yards the machine plunged downward and became a wreck. The airmen were not injured. After this second crash the aviators made no further attempt at Trans-Atlantic flying, and Capt. Raynham sailed for England, by the Str. Grampian, Monday, July 21st, taking with him the Martinsyde mail bag.

In the September following there were reported from London, Caribou stamps of the values 1c, 2c, 3c, and 24c, the 2c U. P. U. post card, and the 3c stamped envelope, overprinted in black.—

1st Atlantic
Air Post,
Martinsyde, Raynham,
Morgan.

The claim was made that this overprint had been supplied for mail carried in the Martinsyde machine. In addition to being postmarked June 17, 1919, one cover bore also the registration marks of the St. John's office. Nothing was known of the overprinted stamps in St. John's and the Postmaster-General stated that the overprint had neither been sanctioned by the Post Office Department nor by any Department of the Government. The records of the Registry Dept. failed to disclose any registered mail in the Martinsyde mail bag.

It was later learned that a London reporter in St. John's, covering the Trans-Atlantic air flights, had prevailed upon one of the local journeymen printers to overprint the stamps and stationery. He was also interested in stamps and bought quantities of the Cabot and Caribou series, and through favor had been able to get the overprinted stamps cancelled by one of the Post Office employees.

The following letter from Dr. Robinson to the London Times, is final evidence against the issue being sanctioned by the Newfoundland Post Office Department, or Government,—

"To the Editor of the Times—

"Sir,—

A correspondent in your issue of December 30th, 1919, recently forwarded me, with an inquiry, in an article headed 'Stamps in 1919', referring to Newfoundland aerial stamps, says, inter alia, 'Stamps of several values bearing a distinguishing overprint were likewise prepared in connection with the Raynham-Martinsyde venture, but, as this met with disaster at the outset, were never used.' Will you permit me, as Postmaster General of Newfoundland at the time, and responsible for all stamp issues, to say that the quoted statement is wholly incorrect? If any such stamps are in existence, they were neither printed nor designed by the Postal Department or by any Department of the Newfoundland Government. Collectors are advised that any 'Raynham-Martinsyde' issues should be regarded as forgeries.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Postmaster General of Newfoundland 1916-1919.

ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.
May 11th, 1920."

c.—The American Flights, May, 1919.

For over two years the U. S. Navy had been preparing for the Trans-Atlantic flight, and the route laid down was one via Newfoundland and the Azores, to the continent.

On may 8th, 1919, the seaplanes NC-1, NC-3 and NC-4 (Navy-Curtis planes,

FOR YEARS I HAVE MADE A SPECIALTY

of net priced approval books for the general collector. These books contain only the better class of stamps, priced from one cent to several dollars each. The "Seebeck" issues of Cent. America and similar "wall paper" are conspicuous by their absence, but—there are plenty of good Br. Col., U. S., Fr. Col. and older issues of Europe. Also a few of the better class Neurope and War issues. If this grade of stamps—neatly mounted, marked with Cat. No., Cat. value and reasonable net prices—appeals to you, send a good reference for a selection.

each fitted with four Liberty motors, capable of developing 90 m.p.h.) left Rockaway, Long Island, for Trepassey, on the south coast of Newfoundland (60 miles from St. John's), via Halifax, a distance of 1080 miles. The NC-4 in command of Lt. Commr. Reid developed trouble, and a forced landing was necessary near Chatham; the trouble was remedied, and flight resumed. The actual flying time between Rockaway and Trepassey was 15 hours and 16 minutes.

When the planes were ready to start out from Trepassey, some 50 destroyers were strung along the route, to render assistance in case of mishap.

On the evening of Friday, May 16th, the three planes left for Horta (1200 miles), but only the NC-4 accomplished the flight, arriving Saturday morning, May 17th; flying time 15 hours, 18 minutes. The other two planes met with mishap, but the crews were rescued.

While the U. S. seaplanes did not compete for the Daily Mail's prize of £10,000, still to the NC-4 belongs the honor of accomplishing the pioneer flight across the Atlantic Ocean.

On May 20th, the NC-4 continued on to Ponta Delagada (150 miles), and on May 27th the Lisbon leg of the voyage (800 miles) was accomplished. The actual flying time of the NC-4 between Rockaway and Lisbon, Portugal (3230 miles), was 26 hours, 47 minutes. On May 31st the trip was continued to Plymouth, England.

The first aerial mail between the United States and Newfoundland was carried by the NC-1 and NC-3, being addressed for the most part to U. S. Naval officers in charge of arrangements at Trepassey. The NC-3 in charge of Commr. Towers, chief of the expedition, carried official dispatches, including a message to Secretary Daniels of the American Navy, then visiting in Portugal, and also letters from Mr. Rodman Wanamaker of New York, the American enthusiast, to King George and Queen Mary of England.

The U. S. dirigible C-5, with a crew of 6 men, in charge of Commr. E. W. Coyle, attempted Trans-Atlantic flying, and met with a measure of success. Leaving Montauk Point, N. Y. at 8 a. m., May 14th, the "blimp" successfully accomplished the first leg of the trip, and arrived at Pleasantville, Newfoundland at 11 o'clock the following morning, May 15th, a non-stop voyage of 28 hours, 1200 miles. High winds were blowing the day of her arrival, and at 5.30 that afternoon she broke from her moorings and drifted out to sea. Destroyers were sent in pursuit, but she was not recovered.

d.—Vickers-Vimy Flight, June 14, 1919

Not until the week following the departure of the Sopwith, did the Vickers-Vimy machine arrive by the Str. Glendevon. It was quickly assembled at Pleasantville, and on Monday afternoon, June 9th, a successful trial flight of 47 minutes was made.

This machine was much larger than the Sopwith and Martinsyde, for while the two latter weighed approximately the same (6000 lbs.), the Vickers-Vimy, equipped with two 375 H.P. Rolls-Royce-Eagle engines, weighed 14000 lbs. Capt. John Alcock was pilot, and Lt. Arthur W. Brown, navigator.

The Postmaster General was successful in arranging for a general mail to be carried by the Vickers-Vimy, as well as the Handley-Page, and the conditions under which letters would be accepted for Trans-Atlantic passage, were contained in Dr. Robinson's letter of June 7th, which appeared in the morning papers of Monday, June 9th.

"Editor Daily News,—

Dear Sir,—Arrangements have been finalised for the conveyance of a small mail both by the Handley-Page and Vickers machines. Of necessity, the mail will be very small, the maximum weight in each case not exceeding three pounds, including ten official letters by each airship. The Handley-Page mail will be dispatched from Harbour Grace probably on Tuesday, and one-third of the weight, or one pound, will be for letters from those citizens of Harbour Grace, the starting point, who may desire to avail of the opportunity.

"The mail for the Vickers-Vimy Rolls machine will be closed at St. John's, as soon as the allotted number of letters is reached.

"Not more than two letters will be received from any one person. No responsibility for the delivery of the mail will be accepted by the Department The fee for each letter will be $1.00, and the special stamp may be obtained at the General Post Office, or from Postmaster Foley at Harbour Grace. These stamps, which are the 15 cent Cabot surcharged, will remain on sale and will be useable for Trans-Atlantic air-post during 1919, whenever the opportunity may offer. By permission of the Government, 50 cents out of every $1.00 will be apportioned to the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund. All mail should be handed direct to Mr. Campbell, Secretary of the Department, at any time after 10.30 a. m. today. None will be accepted before. It will be impossible to avoid disappointments, but the principle of 'first come, first served' will be strictly enforced.

It may interest the public to know that the 76 'First Trans-Atlantic Flight' stamps, which were offered for sale at $25.00 each, were rapidly taken up, thus adding $1,900.00 to the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund.

Yours truly,
J. Alex. Robinson,
Postmaster General.
G. P. O., June 7, 1919."

The special stamp provided for the Vickers-Vimy and Handley-Page mails was the 15c scarlet of the Cabot series, showing a group of seals, overprinted in black, at the offices of the Royal Gazette—

Trans-Atlantic
AIR POST,
1919.
ONE DOLLAR.

The sheets of 100 stamps were first quartered, and then overprinted from a setting of 25 subjects (5 x 5). There are three varieties of the overprint, positioned as shown in the following diagram—

A A A B A
A A A C A
A A B B B
A B A B A

A.—Normal, 16 times in the setting.

B.—No comma after AIR POST—8 times, Nos. 4, 8, 10, 18, 19, 20, 22, 24.

C.—No comma after AIR POST and no period after 1919.—No. 14.

The first 600 stamps overprinted were handed to Mr. Campbell, Secretary of the Post Office Department, for use on letters presented to him for inclusion in the Vickers-Vimy and Handley-Page mails. The stamps were attached by the Post Office employees, and none were sold to the public until Wednesday, June 11th, by which time a further lot of stamps had been overprinted. In all 10,000 stamps were overprinted, 30 of which were damaged and destroyed, leaving the total issue 9970.

The first three pounds of mail handed in was sent to Harbour Grace for the Handley-Page, which was expected to get away at the same time as the Vickers-Vimy. In the bag of special mail which was put aboard the Vickers-Vimy machine, Friday afternoon, June 13th, by Dr. Robinson, there were 196 letters (including ten from officials) and one small parcel. The earliest cancellation known for this mail is June 10th, 1919, 3 p. m. and the latest, June 13th. This mail did not require the usual 3c letter postage—the Trans-Atlantic stamp covered the total charge. In all 197 stamps were used on the Vickers-Vimy mail. The aviators were given 63 of the special stamps, for use on their own letters as a part of the subsidy for carrying the mail, as well as the sum of $1.00.

Leaving Lester's Field, St. John's, Saturday, June 14th, 1919, 1.43 local time (4.28 G.M.T.) the machine with great difficulty got her altitude, and as she sped westward she barely missed houses, trees, etc. In Conception Bay she swung around, and with the breeze climbed higher, and returning, passed over town, and left the coast by the Cabot Signal station at a height of about 1000 feet.

The Trans-Atlantic crossing was successful, and the aviators landed at the Marconi Wireless station, Clifden, on the Galway coast of Ireland, Sunday, June 15th, 8.40 G.M.T., having covered 1960 miles in 16 hours and 12 minutes. And the Daily Mail's prize of £10,000 was theirs.

Capt. Alcock took the mail bag with him to London, and there delivered it to the G. P. O., Tuesday evening, June 17th. Thus letters postmarked St. John's, June 13th, the day before the flight, were delivered in London four days later.

The manner of distributing the special stamps made for the Vickers-Vimy and Handley-Page mails, was not subjected to the same criticism of the First Trans-Atlantic Air Post stamps, and the following interesting excerpt is taken from the Daily Star of June 14th,—

"The Sopwith stamps I maintain are of a speculative character and though I firmly believe the Postmaster General had no intention of issuing them with this idea in mind, I certainly think he erred in advertising them at $25.00 each, which was really inviting speculation by suggestion.

"The Handley-Page-Vickers stamps are a different proposition altog and the Postmaster General has ac the right method for disposing of By surcharging the 15c Cabot making them $1. he at once gave a face value . . . . . The tax is very moderate for the privile having a letter delivered in the old try within 30 or 40 hours after l here, and though at present the n carried is exceedingly small, in th future a much larger mail will be a utilise all the remainder of the stamps, which I believe were a bi white elephant to the Department using them for aeroposts the re will thus benefit largely, and ther be nothing of the speculative about them."

Harbour Grace, on the north si Conception Bay, and about 65 miles St. John's, was the center of acti in connection with the Handley flight. The machine arrived by th Digby, May 10th, and the followin was taken up to Harbour Grace the construction of the "Atlantic", was of the biplane type, over $1 had been spent, and it was equipped four 350 H.P. Rolls-Royce-Eagle gines. The Sopwith and Martinsyd chines were of such size that they easily be wheeled out by a half men, but for the Handley-Page, a tractor was required. Admiral Kerr was commander; Maj. Herbe Brackley, pilot, and Maj. Gran, gator. Although the "Atlantic" ar two weeks before the Vickers-Vim due to its size, trial flight was not until Tuesday, June 10th. In that defects showed up in the radiators it was necessary to make replacemen

The arrangements made by the Office Dept. for a mail to go by machine were outlined in Dr. Robin letter of June 7th to the daily p (vide Vickers-Vimy flight), and the three pounds of mail handed in a G. P. O. were dispatched to Ha Grace on June 11th. The mail bag was delivered to Admiral Kerr by master Foley (of Harbour Grace, Saturday morning, June 15th, con 115 letters (of which ten were offi from St. John's, 56 from Harbour G and a number of letters and post from the Handley-Page staff. The first Trans-Atlantic flight from the old world to the American continent was accomplished by the British dirigible R-34, which arrived at Mineola, Long Island, July 6th. After the failure of the Handley-Page at Parrsboro, N. S., Dr. Robinson endeavored to have the Handley-Page mail transferred to the R-34, and taken to England on its return flight. The following letters to the local papers, are of considerable interest:—

"Editor Daily News,

Dear Sir,—When Admiral Mark Kerr abandoned the direct flight from Harbour Grace to England and decided to make for the United States instead, a small supplementary American mail was made up by postmaster Foley, and the Admiral was asked to forward the English mail via New York.

After the disappointment at Parrsboro, N. S., on the suggestion of Mr. Arch Gibb of Ayre & Sons, Ltd., I cabled General Maitland of the R-34, asking him if he would kindly convey the Handley-Page mail by his triumphant dirigible, and at the same time requested Admiral Kerr to get in touch with the General. No reply has yet been received from the Admiral, but tonight the following message reached me—

'NEW YORK, July 8th.
Postmaster General,
St. John's, N. F.

'Will be pleased to take mail from Handley-Page up to within half an hour departure, providing same does not exceed 20 lbs. in weight. Departure probable dawn tomorrow.

(Sgd.) GENERAL MAITLAND.'

Whilst there is no great probability of the connection being made in time, Newfoundland generally, and especially those whose letters are in the Handley-Page bag, will much appreciate the kindness and courtesy displayed by General Maitland. Wearing his well-won laurels and on the eve of a second great adventure, the readiness of this distinguished soldier and aeronaut to carry the mail from the land over which the dirigible passed a few days ago, is a graceful act, for which gratitude and admiration is due, and which on behalf of the public, and personally, it is my privilege through your columns to tender. Even though connection may not be made, it is the will to do and oblige that counts. Newfoundland's wish is that the return voyage of the R-34, her gallant commander and equally gallant crew may be accomplished with comfort, safety and success, crowned by triumphant welcome home.

Yours truly,
J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Postmaster General.

G. P. O. St. JOHN'S,
July 8th, 1919."

"Editor Daily News,—

Dear Sir,—Yesterday the following message was received from Admiral Mark Kerr,—

'Parrsboro, N. S.,

Forwarded mail to General Maitland; giving directions to send by steamer if airship sails before arrival.

(Sgd.) ADMIRAL KERR.'

There is therefore a possibility that the mail may arrive in time for despatch by the R-34.

Yours truly,
J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Postmaster General.

G. P. O. St. JOHN'S,
July 10th, 1919."

The R-34 sailed earlier than first expected, shortly before midnight July 9th; the Handley-Page mail from Parrsboro missed connection, and was forwarded to England by steamer.

"NEW YORK, July 22rd, 1919.

Dear Sir,—

Replying to your inquiry of July 17th, concerning mail from Newfoundland for England intended for connection with the R-34, you are informed that the records of this office show that the mail in question was received here on the morning of July 11th, too late for connection with the R-34, which left Mineola, N. Y., about midnight of July 9th. The mail in question was dispatched by the S.S. Mauretania, July 11th.

Very respectfully,
(Sgd.) T. G. PATTEN, Postmaster,
per WM. F. MURPHY,
Asst. Postmaster."

The "first come, first served" feature was adhered to by the Post Office Department in accepting mail, but in delivery, circumstances made this "the last shall be first, and the first, last." The Handley-Page mail was the first to be handed in, while that taken in later was carried by the Vickers-Vimy, and delivered in London June 17th. The Handley-Page mail was postmarked St. John's, June 9th, 1919, 5 p. m.; Harbour Grace, AM June 14th, 1919, and delivery was effected in England on Sunday, July 20th.

The re-constructed Handley-Page resumed her trip from Parrsboro, N. S., shortly before noon, Thursday, October 9th, and at 11 o'clock that night landed at Greenport, Long Island, having accomplished the trip of 800 miles in 11 hours and 5 minutes. Mail was carried by the Handley-Page from Parrsboro, N. S., on which ordinary Canadian stamps were used—the postmark was "Parrsboro, N. S., AM OCT. 9. 1919."

f.—British Dirigible R-34, July, 1919.

The British dirigible R-34 was the only attempt made to fly from the old world to the new, and with a crew of some 20 odd men, in command of Maj. G. H. Scott, R.A.F., it left Scotland Wednesday morning, July 2nd, for New York via Newfoundland. Mineola, Long Island, a distance of approximately 3200 miles, was reached, Sunday morning, July 6th. Gen. Maitland, head of the British Airship Service, was one of the official passengers of the R-34.

Passing over Grand Bank, Newfoundland, on July 4th, a parachute was dropped by the R-34, containing several letters—one for the Prime Minister (Sir M. P. Cashin), and another for J. R. Bennett, Colonial Secretary.

On the return trip to England, the R-34 carried about 25 lbs. of mail from the States, but no special postage stamps were used.

g.—Speculation in the "Flying Seals."

Of the 10,000 15c Cabot's overprinted for Trans-Atlantic mails, 30 were spoilt and destroyed, leaving 9970 stamps available for the Vickers-Vimy and Handley-Page aerial mails, and the public. The stamp was available Monday, June 9th, for letters to go by the two planes, and two days later was placed on sale to the public.

At first there was little demand for the special stamp, and on July 1st there were 8726 in stock. Sales bettered in the following months, and at the end of September stock was down to 5000 odd. In the following week they exhausted.

Late in September an English clergyman of St. George's on the west coast of the island, wired in to the G. P. O. for 1200 copies, and a few days later came to St. John's in person for 5000 additional. Such a quantity was not available, but after reserving 500 for orders in hand, the balance of between 4000 and 4500 was handed over.

The stamps were bought as a speculation, as the clergyman hoped to derive from their sale an amount sufficient to provide himself with a post-graduate course at one of the English universities. Unfortunately, the success he anticipated did not materialise, for the stamps did not find ready sale at the prices asked, and later he found it necessary to make a considerable reduction.

SHOP KINKS FOR THE SMALL DEALER.

By C. A. PEASE, Monrovia, Cal.

Breaking into the "dealing game" with infinitesimal capital, I was obliged to study such methods as would combine convenience, simplicity, and a minimum of expense. I have evolved a few ideas which I have never seen mentioned elsewhere. Some of them may be of use to others of my fellows.

Arrangement of Stock.—Get a quantity of cigar boxes, "50 cigar" size, as near the same length and depth as possible. The width is of less importance.

In each of these place two upright partitions, 1¼ inches high, (strips cut from other cigar boxes are O. K. for this) forming two compartments each 3 inches wide in the clear, leaving a narrower compartment, (the remainder of the length of the box), at the right hand end. Fasten these partitions in place with glue or brads.

Pair up your boxes so that each pair will be the same length, if possible. If all are exactly the same length, so much the better, but a slight difference in the length of the various pairs can be allowed for later without any serious damage.

Now fasten each pair together, by a cleat about ¾ inch wide, and ¼ to ⅜ inch thick, running along each end of the two boxes. This cleat should be flush with the top edge of the rear box, but the front box may to advantage be raised enough so that its cover may open flat over the top of the rear box. Leave the covers on the boxes, and have hinge side of covers to the rear. A space of ½ inch should be left between front of rear box and rear of front box, for finger-hold in opening rear box.

You can keep these trays in cabinet form, by having a couple of upright sides, with cleats for the side cleats of the trays to run on.

Thicker or thinner cleats on the ends of the trays will make up for slight differences in length of the boxes, so that the outside width, cleat to cleat, will be the same.

Label each tray, with a large, legible number, on its front.

For containing and arranging the Stamps you will require:—a sufficient quantity of Manila, side-opening, No. 1 Drug Envelopes, which measure 1¾x2⅞ inches. (Dont use the transparent envelopes here! I tried them, but when bunched up, they are too slippery.)

You also want, say, a couple of hundred small cards, 2x2⅞ inches. It is better, though not necessary, to have these of at least two colors, for reasons that will appear later.

These envelopes and cards will just fit crosswise in the 3 inch compartments with ⅛ inch play.

Sorting the stamps.—Now, get busy with your catalog and stamps. Start at front of catalog, take the first country you have represented. Write or stamp the name of the country along the upper, long edge of one of the 2x2¾ inch cards, and place at top of first compartment in rear box of first tray. Take the stamps, in the order of their cat. numbers, place those of the first number you have, in the first envelope, and so on in sequence.

On the flap of each envelope, I write, in the following order:—Name of country, followed by year of issue, of the stamp contained; below this, face value of stamp, followed by cat. number; below these, cat. value, new and used, thus:—

Argentine — 1899
5c — #125
Cat. 5 — 1

For regular issues, this is all that is needed, but sometimes information is added after the face value, as "Off" for officials, "Due" for postage dues, etc.

Insert the envelopes in their order, following the "country" card, (which projects enough above the top of the envelopes to show name of country), with the flap edge of envelope up, and flap facing forward.

When your stock of that country is all up, place another card, bearing name of next country on your list, and proceed as before.

When first compartment is full, go on to the next, and so on. The narrow space to the right of each box is not filled by these regular series, but is used for surplus. If you have too many of any one number to go conveniently in one envelope (don't crowd them), bunch the rest, or place in other envelopes, marked with country and cat. number, and place in the "surplus" compartment, and in the regular envelope place a little slip, "surplus to right". If too large a surplus to keep conveniently here, I store them, bunched or loose, in common parlor match boxes, stacked up regularly, each box bearing a number, and then the slip would read "surplus, box 7" or whatever its number might be.

As your stock enlarges, you can at any time add a new number in its properly marked envelope, inserting it in its proper sequence among the others, with no confusion. As compartments become crowded, work forward into the next, and into new boxes as needed, always keeping them in proper sequence.

Label the front of your trays, in addition to their numbers, with what they contain, thus:—"A to Austria", Azores to Belgium", etc., as the case may be. As they spread out, paste new, corrected labels over the old.

In looking for any particular stamp, as in filling want-lists, refilling sheets, etc., the written flaps, facing forward, are easily seen by pressing the envelopes apart slightly. Every stamp is in its own proper place, and may be turned to instantly.

Large blocks, parts of sheets, etc., I keep between the leaves of a Box Letter File, a reference slip in the proper envelope referring to them.

It is well, and an extra guide, in changing the initial of the countries, to change the color of the "Country Cards". Thus, all A's in blue, say; then all B's in red; then all C's in blue again, and so on.

Sheets, Books or Cards, for Approvals.—I use cards only for special occasions, as where I have a few, choice stamps, which I do not want to sheet. Then I have a few cards, post-card size, each with two pockets and a protecting flap folding over the face. The stamps, each in a small transparent envelope, are then inserted in the pockets.

I started using sheets, as I guess everybody does, but am abandoning them as fast as possible, in favor of loose-leaf books. I find them much handier, better protection, easier and quicker changed when desirable, and last, but by no means least, some fool kid cannot so readily double it over endwise to make it fit an odd-sized envelope, thereby ruining a lot of stamps, and necessitating re-sheeting.

In the long run I find them less expensive than the sheets. As a leaf of ten stamps is cleaned off, remove the leaf, where two or three leaves have only two or three stamps left on each, remount on one leaf, looks better, and saves waste weight and postage.

Also, as new stamps are acquired, they may be added with much less bother, especially if, as I do, you sheet up as near as may be by countries and s

I am working entirely into loo books, holding ten stamps to the Rather expensive, you say, for stamps? Yes, if you buy them, make my own, and they cost m if any more, time and labor in than the sheets, and are far supe every respect. You can do the Here is how I do it:

LANT COLONIAL PACKET

different Stamps from Colonies h as: U. S., Danish, Dutch, Brit- ch (not only 1c and 2c, but values cent.), German, Italian, Portu- d Spanish. Cat. very high. Net 55.

LANT, HEMPSTEAD, N. Y.

These are printed on one side only with ruled lines, one horizontally through the centre, and five vertically, about 1 1/16 inch from each other and from the right hand end, making ten stamp spaces, and leaving the last vertical line ½ inch from the left hand end, to leave a binding stub.

The covers are made from a fairly stiff, but not too heavy "cover paper", preferably gray or dark colors, to show soiling less, and are cut 3¼x12¼ inches, and folded to 3¼x6⅛ inches. Or if preferred, they may be cut to the latter size, and each pair hinged together at the end with a piece of 1 inch "craft tape" 3 inches long, showing ½ inch on each side.

A 75c ticket punch, making a round hole, will punch a dozen or so leaves at a time, on the centre line, halfway between the left end and the first vertical line.

One of these punched leaves then furnishes a guide to similarly punch the covers.

In addition to the ruled leaves, I also keep a stock of plain leaves, for mounting sets. I prefer these of a different color, to avoid confusion. "Chemical Manila" (which isn't a manila at all) of a yellow color, is excellent for these.

A box of "Paragon" or other similar paper fasteners, completes the requirements. These cost me 25c per box of 100, and less in quantity. Take 6, 10, or any desired number of leaves, with the punched ends together, insert in a cover, poke the shank of Mr. Paperfastener through the hole, spread his feet out, and you have as good a loose-leaf approval book as you can buy at any price, and cheaper than you can buy the plain books, or even the sheets, and you can add, remove, or change leaves at your pleasure.

Having sets mounted on punched slips uniform in size, I can put any number together, into a regular cover, for protection, and can remove, add, or change at will.

For larger sets than will conveniently go on these slips and leave room for name, price, etc., I proceed a little differently, still keeping the same principle, and keeping them interchangeable with the others.

Instead of the 3x6 leaves, I use leaves 5½ inches "long", and 4½, 6 or 9 inches wide, folding in each case to 5½x3 inches. To the upper three inches of the left hand edge I paste a slip 3 inches long projecting ½ inch to the left, and punched to form a binding stub. This makes the folded sheets 3x6 inches, as the others.

The 4½ inch wide will accommodate two rows of stamps, the 6 inch, 3 rows, and the 9 inch, 5 rows, or a full regular sheet, leaving in each case ample head room for name, price, etc.

Catalog Price or Number—Which?—I find it better, and put up all my stuff now, with cat. number and net price under each stamp, instead of using cat. price, either with discount or net price. It is handier for both parties.

If the customer has a cat. price given, but no number, he generally has to ramble all through the catalog to find where the stamp belongs, anyhow, and if he is a sticker for price (and most of us are, in a way), even if a "cat. price" is given, he isn't going to be satisfied until he looks it up, in the catalog, to see if you are trying to "put one over" on him; and it is a regrettable fact, that he often has good excuse for this, as in many cases the "cat. price" given, on the sheets, isn't even a 45th cousin to Scott, but is simply double what the dealer wants, so he can give "50% discount". This may be a square deal, but it doesn't appeal to me as such! In either case, the "cat. price" doesn't do the customer a particle of good.

On the other hand, if cat. number is given, he can turn to it at once, knows where it goes, and can at the same time note the price if he desires, with no extra trouble.

To the dealer, the cat. numbers are an instant guide to replacements, and this alone I find a great saving of time and convenience.

Taking Care of Vacancies.—I have here a little kink that I think no one else uses, at least, I have never seen it used except by myself.

Of course, one often runs out, temporarily, of certain stamps of his regular line. In refilling sheets, the usual custom in this case, is to write or stamp "out" or "sold" in the vacant space. Well, when you get the stamp in stock again, you are up against the proposition of either remounting the whole sheet or scratching out the "sold" mark, which does not add to the neatness of your sheets, not a little bit.

Instead of this, I have little slips, which I print in sheets and roulette (with a dressmaker's tracing wheel), to stamp size, bearing the words "Out, Pease", and stick these in the vacant places, with a hinge, exactly as I would the stamp. I generally add in ink the cat. number of the stamp that it replaces, to avoid furnishing the temptation to some smart guy to transfer it from a ½c space to a 10c space, to his own fancied advantage. (Don't think, from this, that I am a pessimist; quite otherwise! In the 9 months I have been running my little business, I have had only one customer who has tried to "put one over" on me, and that was a 13-year-old kid, who didn't know any better!)

When you again get the stamp in stock, just pull off the "out" slip, and insert the stamp as if nothing had happened. No fussing, no mussing, no scratching out "sold marks", no re-sheeting.

This one little kink is worth dollars to me every week, in convenience, and I believe it will be so to anyone who tries it.

I shall be glad, in another article, to explain my "Triple Card Index" system, which is at once simple, practical, and complete, and keeps track of every customer, every lot, and I may say, every stamp that goes out, and every item of information instantly available.

EDITORIAL.

Announced—We learn from our English contemporary, Stamp Collecting, that in all likelihood, a stamp exhibition on a magnificent scale will be held in London, "early in 1923," inasmuch as the recommendations of Fred. J. Melville, president, to that effect, have been adopted unanimously by the Council of the Junior Philatelic Society. It will be recalled that the great exhibition at Horticultural Hall was held eleven years ago by the same society. Undoubtedly this exhibition will be international in its scope and attract the attention of the philatelic world in growing measure until its consummation.

Conventions—The President of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association has named Chicago as the seat of this year's annual convention, which will be held some time during August at a time not to conflict with the A. P. S. and S. P. A. conventions. From the tenor of several letters that we have received, we may say here, there will be no lack of snap to the proceedings of the American Philatelic Society at Milwaukee where several subjects, not forgetting that of publicity, will be discussed impersonally no doubt, but pertinently, we are sure.

Uncertain—A correspondent asks if we "think that a market letter, something on the order of the leaflets published by financial analysts will be supported by dealers and collectors." He thinks that he has had the training along general lines to enable him to grasp the subject with a sure hand and so far we are inclined to agree with him. We did say some time ago that we wanted to have more information on price possibilities and the market trend but we cannot believe that a professional sheet of the kind would long survive. Our inquirer should save his money to buy stamps with as we cannot conceive that a philatelic market letter would induce many subscriptions from collectors, and dealers no doubt would think that as market prophets they are sufficient unto themselves. Then, auction prices are an index of changing prices. For instance, the imperforate ten cent, 1851, has about doubled in price within a short time, a fact that auction sales show, but we do not believe that any market prognosticator would have selected this stamp before it began to ascend as one that the lightning would strike. The trouble is that the really inspired philatelic judge is just the one who is averse to giving his deductions publicity; and we do not say that his reluctance is based necessarily upon selfishness.

Duplicates—From a reader in North Carolina, we have received a letter as follows: "I was greatly taken with your reproduction of an early advertisement of the American Bank Note Company, showing that in the '50's, the company in question had absorbed practically all of the engraving concerns of the country. Recently, a friend of mine bought two thousand Confederate and broken bank bill from an old banker here in the south and I send you a ten dollar bill of the Bank of Georgetown, South Carolina, from which you may get material for a few observations." The bill is beautifully engraved but is made up of stock designs, we should say, including the portraits of Franklin and Washington, in the same size and exactly as they appeared on the one and three cent stamp of 1851. At the upper margin of the bill is the imprint: "Toppan, Carpenter & Co., Philada. & New York." The bill is dated July 1, 1857, and at that time the firm was making our stamps; previously, the firm was Toppan, Carpenter, Casilear & Co. but in 1855, the company dropped the "Casilear" from its name.

Gift—From Mr. J. V. Yegge, we have received a prisoner of war letter that was sent by a Confederate soldier in the Rock Island, Illinois, barracks. It is postmarked, Rock Island, Ill., July 21, 1864, and has the stamped inscription in the customary oval frame: "R. I. Barracks—Examined—Prisoner's Letter." The envelope which bears the regulation three cent of 1861, is addressed to the wife of a prominent judge in Davenport, Iowa, an unusual destination for a letter originating from a southern prisoner held in the north, as the Confederates' correspondence from the northern prisons was restricted as a rule to communications to their families and friends at home. The explanation in this instance is that the good-hearted wife of the judge used to send the boys from the south presents of tobacco, etc., and that she received grateful letters of acknowledgment from the prisoners.

Count—The following order was issued by the post office department recently. "Stamped Envelopes Bearing the Old Embossed Stamp of the Four-Cent Denomination. 1. Central-accounting and direct-accounting postmasters are directed to report promptly to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of stamps, the number of four cent embossed stamped envelopes, bearing the old embossed stamp of square design, printed in brown with head of Grant and numbers 1822-1885. 2. Instructions will be issued in later as to the disposition of these stamps." This is the stamped envelope issued in 1903 and there is a four cent stamped wrapper of this design.

Souvenir—A reader asks if we know anything about the "paper weights, with cast of the features of Columbus that were distributed about twenty-five years ago and which were made from the melted transfer rolls, plates and dies of the issues from 1847 to the 1894 issue, when the Bureau of Engraving and Printing began to make our stamps." We suspect that our correspondent knows as much of the subject as we do. A good many years ago we read that when the plates, etc., of the issues 1847 to 1893 inclusive were destroyed the metal was cast into paper weights which were distributed among different officers of the Washington departments. We have never seen to our knowledge one of these mementoes, whose appeal to the philatelist we can appreciate.

Columbians—We had the privilege of seeing a batch of Columbians of high denominations that were taken by a man from mail matter that was received by his firm during the period of use of the stamps. In the lot that was bought by the dealer were the following dollar values: $1, three; $2, fifty-five; $3, four; $4, twelve and $5, fifteen.

* * *

Right—The following paragraph is taken from a letter recently received by a gentleman who makes a specialty of collecting philatelic accounts: "One German dealer who advertises in the WEEKLY has sent me a long list of persons who received approvals without asking for them. I wrote to him that lots of Americans of good standing did not return stamps that were sent without permission unless postage was included and he was very glad of the information; and he authorized me to pay all expenses if they would return the stamps."

AN "ECONOMY" ENVELOPE.

By GEO. M. MORELAND.

Referring to the article by Mr. W. A. Patillo in your issue of April 23rd last, I have in my possession one of the 3c envelopes surcharged "Penalty", etc., and also surcharged with the triangle,—the symbol of the Dead Letter Office. These envelopes, it is believed, are not at all rare. They have been used for nearly a year overprinted with penalty notice for use of at least one of the Departments at Washington, and it is but natural that the Division of Dead Letters would further surcharge them for their use also. The Postmaster who required Mr. Patillo to pay for postage due stamps to attach to his letter before it was delivered to him was simply carrying out a regulation of the Department which has existed since 1919, requiring return postage on all letters returned to writers from the Dead Letter Office which had not been properly addressed. These covers, while interesting, will probably never be rare.

Speaking of oddities, I have a cover sent me by a philatelist living in which is one of the current issue 2c envelopes, but instead of hav stamp imprinted on the usual co is on the reverse side of the envelo nearly in the center of it.

INTERNATIONAL WHOLESALE STAMP CORP.

404½ CONGRESS ST., PORTLAND, ME.

D. BURHANS & CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

This rather pleasing adhesive has the general outline of an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size. The central space is occupied by a panel nearly square in shape, but having rounded corners, and in the panel is a full face portrait of the proprietor, Mr. D. Burhans. The portrait is adorned with a plentiful supply of whiskers chopped off rather abruptly below the chin, but luxuriating very freely along the jaws and "forninst" the ears, giving Mr. Burhans a somewhat pugnacious appearance, which, however, is not borne out by his broad open countenance and wide expanse of forehead. A student of character, no doubt, could find plenty of material in this miniature portrait which is not much over a quarter of an inch tall. Mr. Burhans' broad shoulders also appear prominently in the portrait, and as there is no shading around his head, his features stand out with an unusual degree of clearness.

A long narrow panel starts at the lower corners and forming the sides of the stamp is curved over the top similarly to the corresponding panel on the L. W. Buck Match stamp. The panel is labeled, starting at the left, "D. Burhans & Co., Burlington, Iowa," and in the crescent shaped space above the top frame of the portrait the word "MATCHES" is found. Outside the curved panel in each upper corner is a triangular ornament completing the rectangular shape of the stamp, and bearing the numeral I. A curved label at the bottom, with graduated pearls below it, reads "U. S. INTER. REV." and the narrow space between this label and the lower frame of the portrait is filled in by the words "ONE CENT." As there is very little room left for ornamentation on the stamp the engraver did not try to add much ornamentation, and the completed design has the merits of being odd, as well as pleasing.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, Dec. 8, 1870.
First issued, Jan., 1871.
Last issued, Nov., 1874.
504,900 issued on old paper.
97,050 issued on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

It seems quite likely that this stamp must have an interesting history, but as the writer has never been able to learn what its history is, it must of necessity be omitted here. At the present time Burlington, Iowa, is a city of about 25,000 people, located on the west bank of the Mississippi River, in the southeastern part of the State. The sometimes prevalent idea that the town was named after the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, otherwise known as the Burlington Route, is not correct: the town was there before the railroad. Aside from the fact that the railroad helped to make the town famous, and that the Burhans stamp was issued and used there, Burlington has had something else to shed lustre upon its name.

About the time the stamp was in use a Burlington newspaper colled the Hawkeye was widely read and many of the witty and sensible writings of its noted editor were quoted all over the United States. Quite likely the "Burlington Hawkeye Man" lighted, or attempted to light his stogies with Burhans matches and it is even possible that the matches were accepted—more or less gladly—in payment of Burhans' subscription to the Hawkeye. That sort of trade was prevalent in those good old days. One of the cleverest skits from the typewriter,—no, pen,—of the Hawkeye Man brought forth a deathless ditty in kind that went about like this:—

"If I were the Burlington Hawkeye Man,
Hawkeye Man, Hawkeye Man,
If I were the Burlington Hawkeye Man,
I'll tell you what I'd do:
I'd look around for a little hole,
A little hole, a tiny hole;
I'd crawl into that tiny hole,
And pull the hole in too!"

Perhaps—but don't take this too seriously—the Hawkeye Man accepted the suggestion, crawled into that tiny hole, and took a lot of the Burhans match stamps with him. At any rate that is a plausible explanation of what became of many of them.

The Burhans was first issued just about the time when the Buck stamp of Clinton, Iowa, was going out of use. Clinton is a city approximately the same size as Burlington, also located on the west bank of the Mississippi about 100 miles further up the river. The Buck factory was destroyed by fire, but what happened to the Burhans factory we do not know. Certainly if the dates and figures regarding the Burhans stamp, as given in the Boston Book, are correct, a fire or something more unusual must have happened at the Burhans factory. The old paper became obsolete early in the fall of 1871, and unless Mr. Burhans ordered and received enough stamps to last him several years while that paper remained in use, it is difficult to understand why the number of stamps on silk paper received by him was so much smaller. Perhaps the fact that when the Carpenter contract to supply the revenue stamps expired August 31, 1875, there were turned over to the Government 189,390 Burhans stamps may help to explain the apparent discrepancy.

The Burhans stamp is usually found on the old paper in use at the time it was current—not on the very thin old paper in use during the sixties—and quite frequently the paper seems identical with the experimental silk paper used in 1871, so it is quite probable that the experimental silk paper was used for this stamp. The stamp also exists on the full silk paper of the second issue, but is very rare indeed on this paper and worth several times any quotations that have ever appeared in print. All told the writer has seen less than half a dozen specimens.

The scarcity of the Burhans on old paper was better appreciated 20 and 30 years ago than in recent years. Just why a stamp of which even fairly good copies have never been plentiful has been quoted at such a nominal figure would be hard to guess. Sterling priced the old paper at $3.00 in 1888 and the silk paper at $5.00. Scott quoted $2.00 on the old paper in 1895; $4.00 in 1896-98; $3.50 in 1900-1904; $2.50 in 1906 to 1911, and $1.50 in 1914 to 1920. It is quite unbelievable that merchantable copies are more than twice as common today as they were twenty-five years ago. Scott quoted $10.00 on the silk paper from 1895 to 1909, and $12.50 in 1910 to 1920. The writer is much inclined to doubt if the Scott Company owned or sold a single copy of the full silk paper during those twenty-five years.

The Burhans was engraved by Carpenter in Philadelphia, and all the stamps were printed there. Probably there was only one plate. No pair, strip or block has been noted. Color, black.

Don't Be Bashful!

Every day or so I have to write some good fellow to tell him his inquiry or order came a week or a month too late to do either of us any good.

Recently a new customer who was a bit timid about trying my service because he feared my prices were higher than the market, came to see me and went away with a purchase nearly five times as great as he had anticipated before he had actually seen the stamps.

That sort of thing happens right along.

Mint British Colonials—all of them—up to and including the £5, and higher values, at substantial discounts. Plenty of other U. S. and foreign, too, including pairs, strips, blocks and covers.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—A few months back, quite a little excitement was caused by the finding of the Meredith correspondence in Philadelphia. The prominence of the gentleman and the extent of his correspondence led one to believe that philatelically it would rival the famous Townsend-Whelan find, so rich in St. Louis Bears. Dr. S. W. Woodhouse, Jr., the genial finder of the Meredith letters, made a few remarks at the recent banquet of the Philadelphia Stamp Club that will prove of more than passing interest to our readers.

Since the first announcements, he has had the opportunity of going over the many covers and tells us that when you consider that the letters were posted during the days of our early issues, that the find is a disappointment. There is a wide range of letters from Baltimore during the very years of the Postmaster's Provisionals, but, sad to relate, not a Buchanan is present. There are no St. Louis or Providence Postmasters, but a few of the black New Yorks. Quite a few of the 5c 1847 were found, but only two copies of the 10c black, which again lends weight to the remarks that the 5c is greatly over-rated at today's prices, while the 10c is still selling at under its real value. There is a fine cover with the 1c 1851 with broken plate and quite a few of the normal varieties. The find was strongest, however, in its carriers, for it contained a wide range of the famous Philadelphia varieties, especially the hand-stamped varieties.

Dr. Woodhouse would not announce as to the disposition to be made of these interesting pieces, but from remarks made on the side, one is led to believe that some of the pieces will reach the market very shortly.

In a recent chronicle mention was made of the Ackerman collection, and it was stated that Mr. Ackerman had purchased the wonderful lot of the 1847 issue gotten together by Dr. Chase. We now learn that while the pick of the lot went to Mr. Ackerman, that the actual sale was negotiated by Mr. Elliott Perry, consequently we were technically wrong in stating that Mr. Ackerman bought the collection.

Mr. Perry also informs us that when Mr. Ackerman purchased a part of the Needham collection, that he obtained all of the United States and all of the foreign, with the exception of his United States Locals and his Confederates.

Through the courtesy of the Hon. James L. Wilmeth, Director of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing, we are able to bring our plate number list up to April 28, 1921.

It will be noted from above that plate No. 13104 is an experimental plate of 300 subjects only. This plate was made for the purpose of experimenting in the development of dry lithography, and was not sent to press.

The Bureau also advises that in the surcharging of "Future Delivery" and "Stock Transfer" stamps, that no record is kept as to which are surcharged vertically and which horizontally. Of the dollar values we have seen only the $1 and $2 "Stock Transfer" with horizontal surcharge. The Bureau states that with the exception of the following, quite likely all values were overprinted both vertically and horizontally.

Future Delivery, ½c, 1c, 3c and 5c.
Stock Transfer, ½c, 3c and 5c.

I have never seen the ½c of either issue and would certainly like to know if such a variety is in the hands of our readers. I also doubt very much the existence of any of the cent values with a vertical overprint.

The Third Assistant Postmaster General in the Postal Bulletin of May 2, 1921, sent out the following notice to Postmasters, which is of more than passing interest:—

"Third Assistant Postmaster General

Stamped Envelopes bearing the old embossed stamp of the four-cent denomination.

1. Central accounting and direct accounting postmasters are directed to report promptly to Third Assistant Postmaster General, Division of Stamps, the number of embossed stamped envelopes bearing the old embossed stamps of grilled design printed in brown with the head of Grant and numbers 1822-1885.

2. Restrictions will be issued later as to the disposition of these stamps."

It will be recalled that the above envelope is the one that was overprinted by the postmaster at New Orleans and revalued 2c. It is quite likely that this little incident has brought to the attention of the department the fact that quite a few of these are on hand throughout the country and that it may be well to revalue them and place them into general circulation.

There is no doubt thousands of dollars' worth of old envelopes and adhesive stamps throughout the many post-offices, and if the department would only bring them together at the larger central accounting offices, no doubt collectors would take most of them off of their hands. I heard a story not so long ago about a postmaster in one of the small eastern offices having on hand over a hundred one dollar Columbian stamps. These have since been sold to a dealer.

ANTIGUA.—Of the new issue of postage and revenue stamps (mentioned in ours for January 29th), the ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d and 6d values are on white paper with new watermark, the 3d on new yellow paper, old watermark; the 1s on new green paper, old watermark; and the 2s and 2s 6d on blue paper, old watermark; all are from Plate No. 1.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—Dr. C. F. Roh has shown us a copy of the 10pf, Germania type, orange color, in an aluminum case, which he advises is being used as emergency currency and that there are many other kinds of forms and shapes also in cases made of wood and porcelain.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—Mr. Lewis A. McArthur advises that the item listed in the issue of April 16th under the heading of Bulgaria, should be under the country noted above and are a Charity issue. We thank Mr. McArthur for calling our attention to the error.

LITHUANIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted to us for chronicle a set of three stamps of this country of a new type. At the top is "Srodkowa Litwa" in two lines and at the base "Poczta" with the value in a circle above In the centre are the customary figures. The values are 25pf green, 1m brown, 2m yellow, also the same values have been overprinted "N A Slask 2 M." together with the 2m lilac value of the same type. The overprint is red and the stamps are imperforate, but those not thus surcharged are to be had both perforated and imperforate.

We have also been shown the 25pf stamp of the same type printed in red with the overprint in green.

NEW HEBRIDES. — The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted to us the 25c and 50c stamps of New Caledonia surcharged "Nouvelles Hebrides Condominium" with the added surcharge of "10c" and "5c" respectively. Also the 1sh green, 2sh violet on blue and 5sh green on yellow with the overprint "1d.". All these new surcharges are in black.

SALVADOR.—As we have during the last few years expended a vast quantity of paper, ink, patience, and type, in chronicling a heterogeneous mass of Salvador provisionals, it grieves us to find that the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain (from which we take the following extract) is adding to the list:—

"Mr. Higlett sends us the 25c brown, 1916 issue, with the original figures of value obliterated by two large circular marks. Midway between these is a figure '6', and the old inscription 'Veintecinoe' at the foot is blotted out by the word 'Seis'. The overprint seems to be in black. We do not know when the provisional appeared."—Stamp Collecting.

SWEDEN.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the following Charity stamps of this country: The 2ö orange, 3ö yellow brown, 4ö gray, 5ö green, 6ö lilac of type A5 have been surcharged in a similar manner to the issue of 1916 except the words "Landstormen Fem Ore" is in smaller type than heretofore and the other values, 12ö blue, 20ö red, 24ö yellow, 30ö brown and 50ö rose red also bear the same surcharge as above with the exception of the value, which is "10" instead of "5" and the printing of the last two lines, which is of the same style as above mentioned.

GIVE CREDIT WHERE IT IS DUE.

Some of our exchanges have the habit of reprinting matter from the columns of the WEEKLY and dismissing very briefly the giving of credit. Sometimes "Beverly contemporary" will be used, or "U. S. contemporary", when the proper thing is to give MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS as the right designation. If we publish matter that is worthy of reprinting it is no more than right that our publication shall be named and full credit given. We shall try and be equally careful in this direction. It is not that we need free advertising, but that we have a proper pride in publishing articles that are considered worthy of being reprinted.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

A very handsome catalog has just been received from Theodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France. It is a complete list of postage stamps relating to the war and issued since August 1, 1914, by the belligerent and neutral powers. This catalog has been corrected and is thoroughly up-to-date. We note particularly the fine stock used in printing the book, also the great care taken in the makeup. The cuts used to illustrate the catalog are particularly well executed and we have no hesitation in recommending this book "Nouveau Catalogue 1921 Complet des Timbres-Poste relatifs a la Guerre". Price 7 francs 50 centimes, obtainable from the publishers.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We are informed by G. M. Guidi, M. D., that Italy is resorting to the use of postage stamps in the form of encased currency. From information gleaned from various sources, it is very evident that various countries are using postage stamps to take the place of low valued coins.

—G. W. Sulman of Chatham, Ont., has just returned from a tour around the world. Renewing his subscription, he states that he has missed the weekly visits of our paper greatly.

—We have received word from Robert L. Beatty of the death of F. H. Kerr, New Castle, Ind. Mr. Kerr was owner and manager of the Central Stamp Works, a member of the A. P. S. and a long time subscriber to the WEEKLY.

—We have received from Olaf Grilstad, Trondhjem, Norway, a strong wholesale list which every dealer should have. Its scope is confined to the stamps of Scandinavia, but it is without doubt the most complete list of its kind ever published. Copy may no doubt be had upon request.

—S. W. Hacker & Co., Peru, Nebr., has issued a list of United States post cards. The main varieties run to forty-eight and a goodly number of minor varieties are also given. The price of the list is 12c.

—Fred S. Martin informs us that unintentionally he made a mistake in copy submitted for the Esthonia article. Nos. 40, 59, 60 and 61 were noted as appearing on certain dates when in fact it is not known when these four stamps were issued. Mr. Martin has several airplane covers on which are Nos. 8, 11 and 40 and the airplane No. 101. They show date of posting as March 20, 1920, with receiving date at Berne, Switzerland, March 30, 1920. It would seem as though ten days to cover this distance does not mean a very swift air mail service. These are the present day postage rates in Esthonia:—"drop letters 2m, inland 5m and foreign 10m."

—Does anyone know the present address of Mark Manning, formerly of Newark, Ohio? Letters sent to him are returned unopened with statement "Box number closed and letter uncalled for".

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XX.

The 1912 Issue.

In 1912 new 5, 10 and 20 öre stamps were issued, the type of 1904, with large numerals, being reverted to. These stamps were surface printed on the usual Crown watermarked paper, by H. H. Thiele, in Copenhagen, in sheets of 200 divided into two panes of 100 each. The perforation is the product of the comb-machine with 13 gauge. Why these denominations were issued in this type we cannot say unless they represent a temporary expedient while the new King Christian X stamps were being prepared. The 5 öre was issued in June and the two other values a month later.

On September 16th of the same year an entirely new denomination of distinctive design made its appearance. This new stamp, of the facial value of 5 kroner, is twice the size of the other values in contemporaneous use and is a handsome label printed from a line-engraved plate. The central design shows the Central Post Office of Copenhagen as indicated by the inscription in small letters below the building, "KJOBENHAVNS CENTRALPOST BYONING 1912". Above "DANMARK" is curved in bold, uncolored letters, and at each side of the name are large post-horns surmounted by Royal crowns. Across the foot is "KRONER" in large capital letters, while in each of the lower angles is a big numeral "5" on an oval disc of solid color, though the figure is so large that very little of the color shows. The rest of the design is filled in with scroll ornamentation.

This stamp appears on the usual Crown watermarked paper, but, owing to its unusual size, two crowns are shown in each stamp. The perforation gauges 13.

CHAPTER XXI.

The King Christian X Series.

Late in 1913 the first of the new stamps showing the portrait of the new King, Christian X, made their appearance. Coincident with this new issue a new watermarked paper was used. This has a design of hollow crosses in multiple form so that parts of one or more show in every stamp on the sheet. The paper has no marginal inscriptions, the pattern of crosses extending over the margins as well.

No change was made in the design for the 1, 2, 3 and 4 öre values but they can, of course be immediately distinguished from the previous issue by the watermark.

The values expressed in öre, above the 4 öre were all of the same design and were surface printed. A profile portrait of the King, with head to right, is shown within an oval with ground of horizontal lines. The oval band around the portrait is inscribed "DANMARK" at top and "ORE" at base, while the sides are filled with a pattern of oak leaves. The oval band is interrupted at each side, below, by oval discs on which numerals denoting the respective denominations are shown in bold uncolored figures. In each of the upper corners the royal monogram—a "C" containing a small "X" surmounted by a Crown—is shown, on a ground of horizontal lines.

The 1 and 2 kroner stamps were printed from engraved plates and are alike in design. The King's portrait is similar but less of the collar is shown for the reason that it is enclosed within a circular band instead of an oval one. On this band "DANMARK" is curved above while the rest of it is filled with a pattern of oak leaves. In each of the lower angles are large numerals of value with the word "Krone" between in thick uncolored letters while in the upper angles the royal monogram is shown. These details all rest on a background of horizontal lines which give the design as a whole its rectangular shape.

The values appeared at irregular intervals, evidently replacing the corresponding values of the old series as stocks were used up. The following are the dates on which the different values appeared:—

October, 1913—5 and 10 öre.
November, 1913—25, 35, 50 öre, 1kr.
December, 1913—15, 20 öre, 2kr.
March, 1914—2, 3, 4 öre.
June, 1914—1 öre.

Not only was entirely new paper introduced for this series but at the same time a change of perforation was made, the new gauge being 14x14½ and the product of a comb-machine.

In 1915 a new denomination—80 öre—was added to the set, this being of the same type as the other öre values, while in October of the same year the 5 kroner value was issued on the new paper. No change was made in the design of this value and it has the same perforation as its predecessor.

CHAPTER XXII.

The 1915 Provisionals.

Just prior to the issue of the regular 80 öre stamp, recorded in the last chapter, two provisionals of this value were issued—presumably to fill pressing needs for this denomination.

The discarded stock of the 12 öre value of the 1874 type, which had been stored at Copenhagen for some ten years, was overprinted "80 ORE" in two lines in type almost exactly like that used in producing the 35 öre provisionals in 1912.

The old 8 öre official stamps of 1899 were also used up, the overprint in this case consisting of "80 ORE", in two lines, with a chain pattern at each side, "DANMARK" above, and "POSTFRIM" below.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The 27 öre Provisionals.

During 1918 several postal rates were revised and one of the new rates called for a 27 öre stamp. While a stamp of this value in the regular type was being prepared a number of provisionals were issued, the authorities deciding to use up stocks of the discarded newspaper stamps by overprinting them for postal use.

The overprint consisted of large size numerals "27" with "ORE" on each side, "POSTFRIM" at top and "DANMARK" at the bottom. The surcharge was so arranged that the figures "27" covered the original denomination of the various stamps used while the other portions fitted over the inscriptions on the newspaper stamps.

While this large crop of provisionals was probably more or less unnecessary we have one thing to be thankful for—there are no inverted varieties! The surcharge was evidently applied to 100 stamps at a time and apparently the same type was used for all the stamps certainly printed. Some values are known with the period after "POSTFRIM" and these are not generally known they are worth looking for. We have seen the surcharge on the 7 öre and 20 öre value with multiple watermark showing also after "POSTFRIM."—evidently caused by a type space being too high in the form—and the 7 öre stamp is sometimes found with a thin line above the right hand "ORE". Probably these minor varieties exist on other values.

All of the newspaper stamps with the multiple crosses watermark received the overprint and also all those with the crown watermark with the exception of the 20, 38 öre and 1 kr. We believe some of the values with the latter watermark to be highly speculative, for it is doubtful if they were ever on regular sale at a post office but were sold to a few favored individuals via the "back stairs" route. According to a well-informed correspondent the approximate numbers printed were as follows:—

Crown Watermark.

27 öre on 1 öre	8,000
27 " " 5 "	18,000
27 " " 7 "	8,000
27 " " 10 "	10,000
27 " " 68 "	80,000
27 " " 5kr.	160,000
27 " " 10kr.	100,000

Multiple Crosses Watermark.

27 öre on 1 öre	290,000
27 " " 5 "	180,000
27 " " 7 "	300,000
27 " " 8 "	202,500
27 " " 10 "	255,000
27 " " 20 "	190,000
27 " " 29 "	280,000
27 " " 38 "	50,000
27 " " 41 "	150,000
27 " " 1kr.	340,000

If the above figures are correct, and we have no reason to doubt their approximate accuracy, it would appear that catalogue quotations do not properly reflect the relative rarity of some of the varieties.

U. S. 5's AND 10's OF 1847

I have made a specialty of these stamps and still have a very nice lot to offer. If collectors are willing to ignore the high price on this issue, I can show some nice copies at market prices. Also all other scarce U. S. in stock, let me know your wants.

I have all kinds of stamps from sup to full catalogue, to damaged at low price. U. S., B. N. A., Br. Col., S. A., Europe, all the good ones; get in line. I am selling to collectors from coast to coast. Play fair with me, and I'll go out of my way to treat you right, but when I meet with a dealer who is one-sided, and thinks every dollar is a crook, I pass, because I only wish to deal with ladies and gentlemen, and I am right here that 95% of those I have done business with are fine people to be in touch with.

STAMPS OR "JUNK."

Reply to Mr. Power's "Stamps or Holes?"

By C. M. TYLER.

This year I am rounding out my twenty-fifth year as a collector of postage stamps. I mean by the word collector a man who enjoys life in following this pursuit, gets his amusement and recreation by the steady study of all branches of the great world hobby, one who has helped the "dealer" to earn his bread and butter. I am something else from nine to five, trying to earn the wherewithal to support the "dealer". I believe in stamps, and put all (note the word all) of my spare cash in stamps. I do not carry any of it to the stock market, as I believe the stamp-market is the safest investment in the world, and therefore I do not lose it in Wall Street. I merely make these remarks in order to qualify myself as knowing something about the subject and therefore what I want to say is worthy of notice.

During these twenty-five years my one great joy is that of finding some odd variety or freak perforation. Perforations, broken plates, laid paper, odd cancellations, shades, watermarks and the many other idiosyncracies of stamps is why I am still a stamp collector. I do not collect pictures, soap wrappers or cigar bands, if I did, about twenty-five minutes would have fixed me. Perforations to me are not simply holes, but a very important part of philately. They mean nothing to some "dealers" or stamp collectors, but to a real Philatelist mean a whole lot. Wiggly watermarks have as much right in the collection as those in the form of lozenges, stars, crowns, etc. Not to pay attention to such important items makes the collection one of junk and not stamps. No real up-to-date dealer would advocate that collectors disregard them. He can have more money for his bread and butter if he educates the collector to specialize on one or two countries rather than try to accumulate a few from all countries; there are too many normal varieties for any collector to build up even a representative collection of the world, unless he has a million dollars of spare cash.

Quite recently I organized a Junior Philatelic Society for boys from 12 to 18 years of age. I helped the younger ones to fill the spaces in Scott's International album regardless of perforations, watermarks or shades. As a beginner it was right to make them simply stamp collectors. As to the older boys, I taught them to specialize on one or two countries and advised them to make as complete a collection of them as possible. I showed them how to tell the gauge of the "abominable perforation", explaining that every gauge meant a different issue, regardless of whether the design and color were the same. Scott's blank albums are used by the older boys and if they continue to follow my directions they will some day be Philatelists, not merely "stamp collectors". Physicians also, can become Philatelists if properly guided and advised by the more experienced.

It has been my experience that high-priced perforations are hard to get. Very seldom have I found a dealer who would cut the liver out of his price for a 2 cents red perforated 12x10, or the imperforate of present issue of the U. S of type I. If he did so, there would not be enough to go around and they would sell like hot-cakes.

The Scott Album is a wonderful album, but no doubt it is published for the stamp collector, not the philatelist. The good old Ne Plus Ultra album is for the real philatelist. That one doesn't have spaces marked off for anything—they have to be made by the collector, even for the 4c U. S. Pan-American inverted center (which the postal records show was never legitimately issued and therefore is not a postal emission). Scott's Standard catalogue is a check-list for the blank album, by its guidance places can be made or left blank for every known variety of every issue of any country, including the numerous perforations, shades, watermarks, double impressions, shifts and what-not. It is quite true that the Standard catalogue falls short on many of the so-called sub-varieties, but it would be valueless to the philatelist if any of the listed varieties should be expunged therefrom. Rather, it should be unabridged and include every known postal emission of all countries. There being a great number of collectors of U. S. revenues, stamped envelopes and postal-cards; these should be included, as Scott's is pure and simple an American catalogue. Foreign issues of these classes should have no place in it. Postal-cards are as much a part of the postal emissions of the United States as stamped envelopes and should be listed. It is quite true that collectors support the publication of this book, but I am certain that only one printing would be necessary if perforations should be eliminated. On the other hand, I should say a third printing would have to be made if postal-cards should be added to the 1922 issue.

I would like to start a movement to better the catalogue by this addition, and also recommend that the present bulky catalogue be issued in two volumes, one for the Eastern Hemisphere and one for the Western. It would be much easier to handle and mean larger sales for Scott. Will every reader of MEKEEL'S who agrees with me drop a postcard to them about it, not to me, as I have troubles of my own.

"DATES."

Dates! How I used to hate them at school. They meant nothing to us, as we were taught them, done up together in strings and bunches, as a butcher sells sausages. But in my stamp-collection I am always coming across these once-despised dates, tucked away in odd corners of the design, and, being only human, they arouse my curiosity, and I take down catalogue and encyclopædia and find that my modern treasures are often links with past events scattered over the last eight or nine hundred years. Of course many stamp designs refer to events even more distant, but there is nothing like the printed figures of the date to give one's curiosity an enlivening jab, so I give here a brief summary of the world's events, as recorded in stamp dates, hoping that it may stimulate the interest of other collectors in the historical aspect of stamp designs.

Of course many stamp dates are dates of issue only, and have no reference to anything else. These I omit, as well as those which, not being a student of the weirder alphabets, I may have passed in the stamps of the Near and Further East. Perhaps readers may be able to bring the list to completion. The list is arranged according to the earliest date on each stamp described.

tive series, 100r.) Discovery of Brazil, by Cabral, a Portuguese navigator, while attempting to find a westerly route to India. His portrait appears on the 50c of the 1906 issue.

1502-1902. (St. Lucia, 2d, 1902.) Discovery of St. Lucia. This stamp is one of the very few on which a snake is shown. (Dominican Republic, 1902 issue.) Founding of San Domingo. The small drawings at each side of these stamps illustrate 400 years of scientific progress.

1513-1913. (Panama, 2½c, 1913.) Discovery of the Pacific Ocean by Vasco Nunez de Balboa (cf. also U.S.A. Panama issue, 1c, 1913), a Portuguese discoverer who founded a colony on the Gulf of Darien. Other stamps of Panama on which he appears are the 1c of 1906-08 and of 1909, and the 2c of 1915.

1535. (Canada, 20c, "Quebec" issue of 1908.) Voyage of Jacques Cartier, the discoverer of Canada. His portrait is also found on the 10d, 1858, the 17c, 1859, and the 1c, 1908.

1580-1651. (U. S. A. 1c, "Jamestown" issue, 1907.) In honour of Captain John Smith, the English explorer, an adventurer who founded a colony in Virginia and explored parts of Canada and N. Virginia.

1595-1617. (5c of same issue.) Princess Pocahontas, the Indian girl who saved the life of John Smith and afterwards became his wife.

1605-1905. (Spain, "Quixote" issue, 1905.) Tercentenary of the publication of Don Quixote, by Cervantes. (Barbados, "Olive Blossom," 1906) Tercentenary of the colonisation of Barbados.

1608-1908. (Canada, "Quebec" issue, 1908.) Tercentenary of the founding of Quebec, by Samuel Champlain, whose portrait appears on the 1c, while his house and a scene in his travels are shown on the 5c and 15c.

1609-1909. (U. S. A., 2c, 1909.) Exploration of the Hudson River by Henry Hudson in 1609. The same stamp also commemorates the first successful attempt at steam-navigation in America, when the Clermont, designed by Robert Fulton, went from New York to Albany in 32 hours, in 1807.

1610-1910. (Newfoundland, 1910 issue.) Commemorates the first permanent colonization of Newfoundland, by John Guy, under a charter granted by James I, and with the patronage and support of Sir Francis Bacon. Portraits of all three appear on stamps of the series, while Guy's ship, the Endeavour, is shown on the 4c.

13 Nov., 1615-1915. (Brazil, 100r, green, 1915.) Tercentenary of the discovery of Cape Frio, north of Rio de Janeiro.

1696-1896. (Montenegro, 1896 issue.) Bicentenary of the Montenegrin Royal Dynasty. The design shows the Royal Mausoleum near Cettinje.

U. S. Collection for Sale. Obtained in England. 102 diff. postage only before 1890. In "Stewart" loose-leaf album. Includes nice copies of many desirable stamps such as 10c 1847, 5c brick red, 30c 1857, 90c 1861. Catalog over $210, for $85. L. McLOUTH, 7653 Bosworth Av., Chicago. (C.P.S. No. 86.)

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1585 to 1588 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

COLONIAL STAMP NEWS.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS IN IMPERIAL ISSUES.

The latest stamp communique issued by the Crown Agents for the colonies covers the period from January 1st to March 31st, 1921. It contains a budget of interesting news for collectors of modern British Colonial stamps, which we summarize below for convenience of reference.

NEW DESIGNS.

Trengganu—A new series of stamps bearing the portrait of H. H. Sultan Sleman bin Zenalabadin is in preparation, comprising the duties 2, 4, 5, 10, 20, 25, 30 and 50 cents, $1, $3, $5, $25, $50 and $100. The two last are new denominations. The border designs and lettering of the new stamps will be the same as for the present issue.

Virgin Islands—Postage and Revenue stamps have been prepared in a new design, of the conventional size, shewing a figure of the Virgin, in addition to the King's Head.

EMERALD GREEN PAPER.

The small remaining stock of the old pale green paper (480 set size) has been surfaced with a much brighter green than previously used, and has been used to produce the following stamps:—

Nigeria: 1sh and 10sh, Plate 8.
Gold Coast: 1sh and 10sh, Plate 8.
Straits Settlements: $5, Plate 8.
Grenada: 1sh, Plate 2.
East Africa: 75 cents.
Hong Kong: 50 cents.
B.P.O. in China: 50 cents.
Gibraltar: 1sh, Plate 2.
Malta: 1sh, Plate 2.
Mauritius: 1 and 10 rupees.

NEW KEY-PLATE.

The postage and Revenue Key Plate, 1912 design, No. 2 having been condemned and destroyed, is replaced by a new 120 set plate, No. 3, from which future supplies of Grenada and other stamps will be printed.

"SCRIPT CA" WATERMARK.

New printings of current British colonial stamps have been made upon paper having the new type of Improved Crown and Script CA watermark, as under:—

Antigua: ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d and 3d (new design).
Bermuda: 2nd commemorative issue, ¼d, ½d and 1d.
British Guiana: 2c, Plate 2.
British Honduras: 2c "Peace" stamp.
Cyprus: 10 and 30 paras, 1, 2 and 4 piastres.
Gambia: ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 2½, 5d, 6d, 7½d and 10d.

DIE AND TYPE VARIETIES OF THE U. S. 2c 1911-20.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

Flat Plates.

Numerous correspondents have requested that we describe in one article the several dies and types of the 2c stamps that have been issued during the last several years, so I will endeavor in a few words to so describe them that they may readily be told apart. It will be recalled that the first die of the 2c stamp in the current series was made the latter part of 1911, and the first finished products from this die, which carries Bureau No. 534, were issued early in 1912, hence are designated in Scott as the issue of 1912. This being the first die made for the stamp, it has been philatelically designated as die I. This die has been used for all of the flat plate stamps since 1912, with the exception of two plates from a second die. This die I was also used for all of the early 2c coils of this issue.

After the first die had been in use for some time, the Bureau thought that it would be advisable to make a die of a larger number of subjects, hence a larger transfer roll, and in this way lay down several stamps at a time instead of one at a time, as had been the previous practice. For this purpose a second die, consisting of ten subjects, was made from the first die, and in the making, there were slight changes, resulting in what we philatelically know as die II. This die bears Bureau No. 667, and was used to make two plates only, namely, Nos. 10208 and 10209. Laying down plates in this manner did not prove satisfactory, due to the varying quality of the steel, for it was found that in laying down ten subjects at a time that the expansion could not be taken care of as satisfactorily as laying down one at a time, hence this method was discontinued. This second die was used for the flat plates only, and should not be confused with the coil die.

These two dies may be readily told by the following description:

Die I.—The die is not cut deeply, consequently the stamp tends to have a flat appearance. The cord at the neck tends to become a part of the neck rather than stand out straight, and the button of the cord is not distinctly outlined.

Die II.—The lines of the die are cut deeply, consequently the stamp stands out and the lines of the hair and face show most plainly. The cord of the neck is distinctly cut and stands out from the neck itself. The button is completely outlined and stands out very strongly.

No other dies have been made for laying down flat plates, consequently all of the current engraved stamps are likely to be die I, for die II is somewhat scarce.

Coils.

As mentioned before, the die I just described was also used for the early coils, so that die I of the coil stamps is identical with die I of the flat plate stamps, with the exception of the fact that the finished coil product is slightly longer than in the case of the endwise coil, and slightly wider in the case of the sidewise coil. This difference is due to two facts—first, the stretching of the steel in curving the plate, and second, the coil stamps are printed by the dry method, hence no shrinkage in the paper occurs.

It was later found, that this flat plate die did not produce the desired result, in the case of the coil stamps, for the frame line seemed to be drawn too heavily. A second die was therefore engraved, resulting in what we call coil die II, known to the Bureau as their No. 605. Even this die did not turn out the product desired, and transfer rolls were taken from it wherein the outer frame in recess was cut down 20%, and plates from this transfer roll were marked S-20. They were all of course die II differing from the originals only in the intensity of the frame. They then found that they had not cut away quite enough, hence 40% was taken, resulting in the plates marked S-40. This time the Bureau found that too much had been cut away, and struck a happy medium of 30%. Instead of making this change on a transfer roll, however, an entirely new die was made. This new die bears Bureau No. 611, and is what we know philatelically as coil die III.

In so far as the two classes of stamps from die II are concerned, that is, stamps from the S-20 and S-40 plates, we have been unable to distinguish one from the other with certainty, for heavily inked S-40 stamps so closely resemble lightly inked S-20, that they cannot accurately

A VERY USEFUL BOOK

Almost every day we come across U. S. stamps misplaced, or thrown in loose because the owners "couldn't locate the plaguy varieties." Why should this be? For the sum of Fifty Cents any collector can secure from us a book detailing, with sketches and arrow pointers, all the difficult points to be cleared up. That book we call the 19th Century U. S. Handbook—was published in 1917, is just as reliable now as then and if you leave your U. S. in wrong it's because you're careless—that's all.

be told apart. Later, the Bureau made from this die III a multiple die of six subjects, die bearing Bureau No. 619, but as stamps resulting from this die are identical to the one previously described, we naturally know the finished products from this last die as die III also. One of the die III transfer rolls seems to have become somwhat worn, resulting in the left half of Washington's queue being entirely white, instead of showing lines. This variety has been described as die IIIa. The three above dies may be distinguished as follows:

Coil die I.—In the first section of the curled ribbon directly above the left figure "2" there are two diagonal lines. In the second section of the corresponding curled ribbon over the right "2" there are also two lines. The large white lock of hair in front of the ear is formed by the termination of the many lines of the face. In the large lock of hair back of the ear we find first a short colored line, then a long one.

Coil die II.—In the two ribbon sections described above we find two diagonal lines. The lock in front of the ear is formed by one heavy colored line which stands out distinctly. The lock in back is similar to die I.

Coil die III.—In the two ribbons described above there are three diagonal lines. The large lock of hair in front of the ear is formed by one heavy colored line which stands out distinctly. In the lock of hair in back of the ear, there are two lines of equal length.

"Offset" or Surface Prints.

It will be recalled that during the war, considerable time, as well as money, was saved by producing the 1c and 3c stamps by the surface printed method. The Bureau had about discontinued this which were not entirely up to standard, process when they obtained some inks although samples tested proved satisfactory. Foreign matter in these inks resulted in a large number of engraved flat plates being destroyed within the course of a few days. As it takes months to complete an engraved plate, and as it takes skilled labor to do this work, the Bureau found that they were likely to be seriously handicapped in taking care of the enormous supplies required, and as a result, reverted in the case of the 2c stamp to the offset method.

They immediately took a photograph of die I described above, and from this photograph made the necessary zinc plates. The stamps resulting from this procedure have been designated as type I. We have not described them as dies for the plates are made from the photograph, and not from the die as is the case with the engraved product. The Bureau realized that these were gotten out in short order, and therefore felt that they could improve upon the product, resulting in their touching up a photograph of the first die, going over all of the lines most carefully, and giving us a further variety which we described as type II. The Bureau then believed that their methods of producing these plates could be somewhat expedited, and made some slight changes in their methods of production, resulting in slight touching up of the type II negative resulting in what we have described in the past as type III or type IIa. Since designating this stamp in my Chronicle as IIa I have received numerous letters calling my attention to the fact that a sub-type always complicates matters, suggesting that this be called type III. I will therefore call this last change type III in the future.

These three types of the offset printed stamps may be distinguished as follows:—

Type I.—In the button on the neck the first and second vertical lines are connected at the top and bottom, also the fourth and fifth vertical lines are similarly connecting. The upper left serif of the letter "U" of "UNITED" runs into the white part of the background, hence the letter is not entirely outlined.

Type II.—The lines in the button are not connected either at the top or bottom. The letter "U" is entirely outlined.

Type III.—Similar to type II but the center stroke of the figure "2" is so heavy that it appears as if the top of the figure is separated from the bottom.

25th ANNUAL MEETING OF THE TEXAS PHILATELIC ASSOCIATION.

By H. S. Parsons.

The twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Texas Philatelic Association was held April 18th in the rooms of the Scientific Society at San Antonio, Texas.

An auction sale took place during the afternoon session, at which over three hundred lots were disposed of. Very good prices were realized on the United States, stamps, which in many cases brought much over catalogue value. A block of eight No. 33 three-cent 1851 sold for $46.10, and a five-cent black Tuscumbia, Ala., brought a price of $75.25.

Report of the Secretary-Treasurer, H. S. Parsons, showed that thirty-six new members had been added to the Association during the year and that two members had resigned, two had died and seven had been dropped from membership, leaving one hundred ninety-seven names on the membership roll, of which ninety-three are paid up and in good standing, a large percentage at this time of the year. Twenty-six members reside in San Antonio, thirty-six elsewhere in Texas, eighteen in other states, and thirteen in foreign countries.

The report of the financial condition showed the receipts in the Current Fund amounted to $75.00 for the year, with expenses of $40.50, leaving a balance of $43.92. Receipts in the Insurance Fund of the Sales Department totalled $123.58, including a loan from the Permanent Fund, and the expenses were $220.26, leaving a balance of $16.63. Receipts in the Permanent Fund amounted to $13.56, and a loan of $75.00 was made to the Insurance Fund of the Sales Department to assist in paying a loss, leaving a balance of $109.03. The total of the three funds is $169.58. The Insurance Fund of the Exchange Department is made up of stamps, and it now has a catalogue value of $29.06.

Report of the Sales Superintendent, Charles Roemer, showed 77 books were received during the year, valued at $1,794.89, which, added to the 63 books, valued at $1,490.17, on hand and in circulation at the beginning of the fiscal year, made a total of 140 books, valued at $3,285.06. All of these books were retired, with sales amounting to $1,291.99, or 39%. During the six years in which Mr. Roemer has conducted the Sales Department, a total of 549 books has been handled, valued at $13.595.59, with total sales of $6,273.35, or 46%.

The Association was unfortunate last September in that a Sales Department circuit containing sixteen books of stamps, with a net value of $448.45, was lost by fire which destroyed the house of the member who had received the circuit that very day. Efforts are being made to effect a collection of this amount to avoid a long delay a settlement was effected with the owners of the book, $211.98, which practically wiped out Insurance Fund. However, the association has a cash balance on hand protect any other losses which might occur, and plans are being made to re this fund.

The following officers were re-elected: E. W. Heusinger, President; H. S. Parsons, Secretary-Treasurer; and Edgar, Conductor of Sales. New officers were elected as follows: A. Schumacher, of Houston, Vice-President; H. C. Naschke, of Austin, change Superintendent; and J. R. Thomson, Librarian and Assistant retary. Charles Roemer was re-elected Sales Superintendent, but immediately resigned, giving as his reason that he desired to take a rest and later devote time to personal affairs. Fred was then elected Sales Superintendent. These seven officers constitute the Executive Committee.

The President appointed the Exhibit Committee, consisting of Charles Roemer, Chairman; F. Noyes, of Alice; J. E. Guest, of Dallas. In order to prepare plans for a fitting celebration of twenty-fifth anniversary of the society to be held in San Antonio next November, the President then appointed a committee on Arrangements, consisting Major C. H. Bandholtz, Chairman; Porch; Oscar Jannasch, of Houston; V. Pfeuffer, of New Braunfels; and C. Cuenod, of Galveston.

The remainder of the evening was spent in a social manner. Alexander Jouffray exhibited a twentieth-century collection, and Jesse Burt showed an excellent collection of United States and colonies. Oscar Jannasch displayed a very large precancel collection.

Besides several visitors, the following members were present at the annual meeting: Messrs. Heusinger, Egg, Roemer, Green, Parsons, Lurie, Thomson, Blamey, Warren, Burt, Jasburn, Jouffray, Bandholtz and Porch, San Antonio; E. T. Fincher, of Silo; A. H. Schumacher and Oscar Jannasch of Houston; and H. Edgar French, Boerne.

SALE 234--JUNE 15

This sale will be the one that contains the splendid lot of interesting Confederate Stamps, both on and off the covers, many of which have a large historical value in addition to the stamps. Among the lot is a cover addressed to John Brown as a prisoner, Major General Braxton Bragg, Honorable H. A. Stephens, Vice President of the Confederacy, numerous rare prisoner's letters, etc. There are 17 of the "Ten Cents" No. 208, and other interesting lots. This sale will also contain many other miscellaneous lots, something of interest for all classes of collectors.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIV.

New Values and Color Changes.

Shortly after the issue of the numerous 27 öre provisionals the regular 27 öre stamp bearing portrait of King Christian X made its appearance. It represented a new departure in the stamps of this type inasmuch as the portrait was printed in black and the surrounding frame in scarlet.

Other new values issued during 1918 were 7, 12, 30 and 40 öre the two last named being bi-colored with centres in black like the 27 öre. In the same year the 50 öre value was issued with the portrait in black while in 1919 the 35 öre appeared in similar form.

In 1920, 8 and 60 öre stamps were issued, the latter being bi-colored, and in the same year the 25 öre also appeared with the centre in black.

The same head plate was used in the production of all the bi-colored stamps, which were surface printed like the single colored values.

Early in 1920 it was reported that the 12 öre and 27 öre values had been withdrawn from circulation as, owing to a revision of postal rates, these values were no longer required.

In April, 1919, vertical strips of stamps were issued for use in automatic machines showing the new 7 öre value and the 3 öre together. The stamps alternate 7, 3, 7, 3, 7, 3, and so on and we understand both were delivered together from the machines on insertion of a 10 öre coin. During the last few months these 7 plus 3 öre coils have been issued in horizontal strips.

CHAPTER XXV.

The Faröe Islands Provisional.

An interesting provisional was issued in the Faröe Islands in January, 1919, owing to the new 7 öre rate of postage. It appears there was a shortage of 2 öre stamps—a value very necessary, we are told, to use with the 5 öre to make the new 7 öre rate for letters. But unless there was also a shortage of the 1, 3 and 4 öre denominations we cannot see that there was any real reason for the issue of a provisional. However, be that as it may, on the 2nd or 3rd January the postmaster at Torshavn was instructed by telegram, by the postmaster General at Copenhagen, to halve some of the then current 4 öre stamps and use the pieces as 2 öre labels in connection with a 5 öre to make up the 7 öre rate pending the receipt of the new 7 öre stamps which were then being printed. Apparently the 4 öre stamps were soon used up and then the 4 öre wrapper stamps were similarly halved. Even these did not suffice to save the day and as the promised supply of 7 öre stamps was still among the ranks of the missing, the agitated postmaster of Torshavn asked (by telegram) and received permission (also by telegram) to have a small lot of the then current 5 öre stamps—of which there was evidently a liberal stock on hand—surcharged "2 öre" as a temporary expedient.

The surcharge consisted of a large figure "2" above the word "ORE in black and not more than 15,000 were printed; in fact some reports put the quantity as low as 10,000.

CHAPTER XXVI.

The Ferry Post Stamps.

In 1919 two special stamps were issued in connection with mail carried on the ferry steamers crossing the Limfjord. These consisted of the current 15 öre and 1kr stamps overprinted POSTFAERGE in large letters across the top, the lower value being issued in February and the 1kr in July. We understand that the 15 öre is for use on letters and the 1kr for parcels but whether they represent the entire postal charge or an additional charge above the regular postage we cannot say.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP J. V. K. Wells Mgr. BURNT HILLS, N. Y.

special notices should be sent and despatched by the receiving offices. These will not bear the franking stamps referred to above, but simply the date stamp of the despatching office. The Newspaper 'avis' stamps, which alone can be employed for this purpose and which are not intended to be sold at the post office windows, seeing that as a general rule it is the post offices themselves that these stamps are to be affixed, will be sent out in the values 1, 5, 7, 10, 20, 38 and 68 öre, and 1, 5 and 10 crowns. No discount is allowed on the Newspaper stamps.

The Post Offices should send in the necessary requisitions for these Newspaper Stamps to the Treasury Department, before the 14th of this month. Regarding this subject it should be observed that the provincial post offices and the despatching offices, at which hitherto the publishers of newspapers have not delivered the special 'avis' for the despatch through the post of copies of papers to non-subscribers, will do well, with a view to the despatch of these 'avis' by private persons, to provide themselves with the said stamps, at least in small quantities of the lower values.

The Newspaper Stamps are only sent out in sheets of 100 copies, and are reckoned at the value expressed upon them. In regard to the date at which these stamps should be employed, the special 'avis' should be franked with the Newspaper stamps from the 1st October of this year, even though the 'avis' have been sent before that date. From that date the charge of 1 öre made for sending the Supplements of papers and reviews should be denoted by the post offices, by means of the said Newspaper Stamps, that is to say that the communications addressed to the post offices for the despatch of supplements should have affixed to them stamps to the value of the sum corresponding with the number of supplements. These stamps will be obliterated in the same manner as the special 'avis'. That part of the charge, which is eventually subject to the payment of 1 öre for despatch of supplements addressed to foreign parts, if it is a case of subscription through the Post Office, is to be indicated as hitherto, on condition, however, that the Newspaper Stamps are to be used, instead of ordinary stamps."

We must confess that the meaning of some of these regulations seems a little obscure and difficult to understand—possibly due to translation. We gather from various sources that the stamps in question were used to denote the payment of postage on newspapers sent to persons who had not regularly subscribed for their papers through the Post Office, as can be done in Denmark and some other countries. Apparently the stamps were not affixed to the newspapers themselves but to a special form of some kind, termed "avis" (? advice). Furthermore, we understand that this postage could be paid in a lump sum covering numerous newspapers to various subscribers. Thus, in the case of supplements reckoned at a cost of 1 öre each, a thousand could be sent to that number of individual subscribers and payment made with a single 10kr stamp.

The design, which is the same for all values, consists of uncolored numerals in the centre on an octagon of solid color. The top, bottom and sides of the octagon are concave and between these depressions and the surrounding frame are Posthorns, while on the other sides of the octagon are Royal Crowns, Across the top is "AVISPORTO" and across the foot "MAERKE" while at each side, largely obliterating the posthorns, are straight labels containing the words "ORE" or KR".

The design is that of Mr. C. Hagen, which won the second prize in the competition of 1902, and was purchased by the Danish Government for 300 crowns. The die was engraved by Ch. Danielson, who altered the inscriptions.

The stamps were surface printed in sheets of 100 on paper watermarked Crown and Perf. 12½, 13. The three high denominations were printed in two colors.

In 1915 the 1, 5, 7, 10, 20 öre and 1kr denominations were printed on the new paper then being used for the regular postage stamps with watermark of multiple crosses and at the same time new denominations of 8, 29 and 41 öre appeared.

In 1917 the 38 öre was issued on the new paper and shortly afterwards the use of these special stamps was discontinued.

COUNTERFEIT DUES OF THE D. W. I.

Charles S. Thompson.

Some time ago mention was made of these imitations, but no distinguishing features were indicated. Specimens of the counterfeits in question have now reached the writer, and as they are fairly good reproductions of the real articles, it will be well for collectors to exercise caution in purchasing any specimens which purport to be D. W. Indies, Nos. 106 to 108.

The 5 bit has evidently not been faked, as it is a common stamp, but the 20, 30, and 50 bit, being far more valuable than present obsolete catalog quotations indicate, have held out sufficient inducement to the forger, who seems to be none other than Fournier, or rather his successor, for the fakes bear some of the marks of his craft.

The paper is exceedingly white, instead of being slightly yellowish; there is no gum, as against the thick, crackly gum of the genuine. The color of the central panel is Davies' grey, a cool grey which is much lighter than that of the genuine. But the surest test is in the perforation, which is rough and irregular, gauging 12 instead of 12¾, and being made with a single-line machine, the corner perforations are fouled, which is not the case in the genuine, perforated by a comb machine. In size there is practically no difference, but the details of the design are blurred, and there are many little irregularities in the counterfeits, the central figures being noticeably rough in outline when examined with a lens.

Do You Value Your Collection

The answer is shown by the care you are giving it. The finest old rarities do not appear to advantage when mounted in a haphazard way among a lot of illy cut specimens, but on the page of a fine album even those stamps within the reach of the average collector will bring joy to your heart when carefully mounted. The album faithfully indicates the pride you feel in your collection, and the pleasure you derive from your hobby will be many times increased if you give your treasures the setting they should have.

The "Superba" Album

has been especially designed by collectors to meet the requirements of those who wish to insure the safety of their stamps, and combine beauty and durability. It is to-day considered by hundreds of leading philatelists to be the best album on the market. The price is much lower than any album of similar quality now offered.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XVIII—AIR BILL, 1919.

In the latter days of May 1919, an Air Bill was passed unanimously by the House of Assembly, and later, with modifications, was approved by the Legislative Council, or Upper House. It gave to the Imperial Aircraft Co., Ltd., of England, the right to make surveys for establishing aerodromes on Crown lands in connection with a proposed daily air service with Montreal. The trip by air, it was expected, could be accomplished in about 15 hours, compared to the four or five days necessary by the sea and land route. The Bill also provided for an inter-town service, with smaller planes. The service never materialised.

Consideration was given at the same time to connecting up St. John's with Nova Scotia, and so favorable were the propects of this service being commenced at an early date, that Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., were asked to prepare designs for an aerial stamp, and three such were submitted during the summer of 1919.

This probably gave rise to the report that a special series of stamps was being prepared for the visit of Prince of Wales to the island, on August 12th and 13th. It will be recalled that the 4c of the Royal series was issued on the occasion of the visit of King George and Queen Mary (then Prince and Princess of Wales), in October, 1901, while on the Empire tour.

XIX—RESIGNATION OF DR. J. A. ROBINSON, DECEMBER, 1919.

In the November elections, the Cashin government was overthrown, and the Squires-Coaker combination came into power. Up to that time the Post Office Department had been under the office of the Colonial Secretary, but the new administration decided to make of it a separate Department, with W. W. Halfyard (formerly Colonial Secretary), Minister of Posts & Telegraphs. This appointment was rumored in November at the time the new government was sworn in, but not until December 5th was it formally gazetted. Dr. Robinson refused to continue in the Post Office as Deputy Minister, and resigned the following day. His last official act was to send to all the Postal Telegraph and Telephone officials the following farewell message:—

"The appointment of a Minister of Posts and Telegraphs renders the office of Postmaster General both impossible and unnecessary. My resignation will therefore be tendered at once. In bidding farewell to my fellow workers, I thank you for your assistance and co-operation, and ask that the same may be continued to the Hon. W. W. Halfyard."

"The Departmental (Posts and Telegraphs) Act 1920", passed by the Assembly of 1920, enacted—

"The office of Postmaster General is hereby abolished and the duties and powers heretofore imposed upon and vested in the Postmaster General . . . shall be imposed and vested in the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs. . . . ."

Section 3 of this Act provided for "an officer who shall be called 'The Deputy Minister of Posts and Telegraphs', who shall be the Deputy head of the Department of Posts and Telegraphs."

G. W. LeMessurier, formerly Chief Accountant, and in the postal service for over 40 years, was appointed Deputy Minister of Posts and Telegraphs.

XX.—U. P. U. LETTER RATE DISREGARDED, 1918.

Cap. 31, Revenue Act 8-9, George V., provided for an extra cent postage on every prepaid letter and letter packet posted in the Colony, and the new rate became effective May 17, 1918.

This extra postage applied to town and inland letters, Empire letters, as well as those to the United States of America, with which by special convention, the domestic letter rate is in force. Foreign letters were not exempted.

The Government seemed unaware that the 5c letter rate could not be changed by an act of the local legislature, and when the matter was drawn to the attention of the Post Office Department, their reply was non-committal. The Director of the U. P. U. Bureau at Berne, whose duty it should be to see that legislation of this character is brought to the attention of the offending member, and corrected, replied:—

". . . . . .j' ai l'honneur de vous informer que le Bureau international de l'Union postale universelle n'intervient pas dans les relations du public avec la poste.

"Je ne puis en consequence que vous donner le conseil d'addresser votre reclamation a l'Administration centrale des postes de la colonie interessee."

The London authorities were next addressed, but as Newfoundland is a self-governing Dominion, and not subject to the Secretary of State for the Colonies, the correspondence was referred to the Governor of Newfoundland, and by him to the Colonial Secretary's office.

Under date of the 10th February, 1920, the Deputy Colonial Secretary wrote:—

". . . . . This Government admits the position which you have set up in this connection. The same was brought to their notice shortly after the passing of the legislation in 1918, and it was understood that the legislation could not be enforced except with respect to local letters and letters passing to countries with which we have a domestic rate.

"As a matter of fact, the Government issued instructions to the Law Clerk of the Legislature that in the session of 1919 legislation should be introduced to cure the defects in that of 1918, but in some manner the Law Clerk of the House overlooked the same. It will be given attention in the Session which will shortly take place.

"I trust that the above explanation will enable you to understand the situation which otherwise would seem peculiar."

And again, on August 26th, 1920:—

"I am in receipt of a report from the Department of Justice to the effect that the commission of the War Tax on foreign letters was legislated upon at the last session of the House of Assembly, and special reference has been placed in the Revenue Act for this year in connection with the same. I am sorry that

XXI—LOCAL REGISTRATION RATE INCREASED, 1920.

In his report for the year ending June 30, 1918, the Postmaster General wrote:—

"Newfoundland has a cheaper domestic registration rate (3c domestic, 4c Empire, and 5c foreign) than have most countries. In Canada the rate is 5 cents, and in Britain 4 cents. The expense of registration is not confined to salaries. The cost of registration books, bags and seals is very heavy. Beyond all this is the fact that a registration fee of 3 cents actually carries with it insurance to the amount of $10.00, a rate of three-tenths of 1%. The insurance principle may be extended with general advantage. It is rarely that registered letters fail to reach their destination, and the low premium should be sufficient to cover all losses and leave a substantial margin of profit."

But a change was soon to come. Legislation in the session of 1920 increased the domestic registration rate to 5 cents.

"POST OFFICE NOTICE.
Local Registration Fee.

On and after Thursday, 15th July, the fee for registering a letter addressed to any place in Newfoundland or the Labrador will be five cents. Thus to register a one ounce letter will cost 8 cents; over one ounce and up to two ounces will cost 10 cents, and two cents extra for each additional ounce or fraction thereof.

W. W. HALFYARD,
Minister Posts and Telegraphs.
G. P. O., July 14, 1920."

For the year ending June 30, 1919, 368,571 registered articles passed through the G. P. O. at St. John's.

See M. W. S. N. for Feb. 26, 1921.

XXII.—SUPPLIES OF CARIBOUS EXHAUSTED, 1920-21.

A further shipment of 2c and 3c stamps came by the Str. Sachem in December, and April, 1921, a consignment of almost five million stamps of the 1c, 2c and 3c denominations was received.

On December 15, 1920, the 5c Caribou exhausted, followed by the 4c on January 19th, 1921. Stamps of lower denominations served until the str. Sachem, arriving January 25th, brought further supplies of these two values, approximating the original printing in numbers. The stamps were slightly different in shade, and the 5c was comb perforated instead of single line.

The 10c Caribou, of which 185,000 were in stock at the end of April, 1920, should shortly exhaust, and as the last of the 10c Cabot were used early in 1918, a further printing from the Caribou plate will be necessary.

In September, 1920, the 12c Caribou was down to 4000, and on Nov. 9th it exhausted. The 15c lasted until February 13th, 1921. No further printings will be made of these two values, for remainder stock of the Cabot series in these two values is sufficient to care for postal needs.

Of the 24c there is still a goodly stock, backed by remainders of the 24c Cabot series. Only 16,000 of the 36c Caribou stamps were sold in the first 15 months of its sale, so there should be no call for further supplies for some time.

Had there not been the change in the Post Office Department a new series of stamps would have been issued in the summer of 1920. It was considered that the size of the Caribou stamps made them inconvenient for use on receipts, etc., and in addition, the purpose for which they were issued, had been served. The new administration has had the matter under consideration, but nothing definite has been decided upon. Until decision is reached, further printings will be made from the Caribou plates as required.

A CATALOG OF SIDE-LINES.

By P. M. WOLSIEFFER.

I notice the article from Hugh Clark of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., stating that the Telegraphs are to be omitted in the next catalog. While this is all right and agrees with my views on the subject, yet we should take into consideration the many collectors who have purchased them and made collections of them, and I think it would be wise for somebody to get up a small catalog to include United States Local stamps, Telegraph stamps, Revenue stamps, Match & Medicine stamps and if possible all the fiscal and telegraph stamps that have been used for postage, as well as cut square envelopes. In other words there should be a catalog published frequently of these side lines, if you may so call them, that have been collected for years.

I think a good start could be made by getting up a little booklet of locals, telegraphs, revenues and cut squares, just those things of interest to United States Collectors. In this catalog I should of course avoid the many minor varieties that are now in the general catalog which take up so much room, makes the catalog so voluminous, and is really the cause of the locals and other things being dropped out, that really should be included I have always thought it was a mistake to drop out Revenue stamps and telegraph stamps that have been regularly authorized and used for postage.

MR. HUBER'S WORK PRAISED.

By A. C. ROESSLER.

I so thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Huber's story on the Newfoundland Caribou that I felt compelled to drop you a line expressing my appreciation of such splendid philatelic writing.

I do not know that I have ever read of any issue so fully covered and so interestingly written. I think that it would be quite impossible for anybody to point out any one thing that should have been included in that story—and at the same time there wasn't too much. It was just right.

Maybe it is because everyone likes Newfoundland so much that this story is making such a hit. I bespeak a large sale for the hand-book.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Wm. W. Randall calls our attention to the fact that there was one error in the post-card serial. A mistake was made in the Charleston, S. C., die, and the Columbia, S. C., drawing should have replaced it.

—Eugene Klein, 1318 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa., has just issued a May price-list of sets, albums, packets and philatelic accessories. It will be sent upon request to any address.

Convention—We learn that there will be a stamp exhibition at Milwaukee as a feature of the convention of the American Philatelic Society next August, under the direction of Mr. W. O. Staab of that city. Headquarters will be at the Hotel Pfister. One and twenty years have elapsed since Milwaukee entertained the A. P. S. convention and we can assure members that they will be doubly welcome on this coming occasion.

Precanceled—We had a visit recently from Mr. H. S. Dickey, Newton, Kansas, who is known particularly as an authority on precanceled stamps and from him we received the following information, "In time past, precanceled stamps have not been taken very seriously by the general collector, but since the U. S. of older issues have been so generally bought up, there is no other class of stamps to which the collector may turn to except precanceled, which are still comparatively cheap and consequently offer greater possibilities for advancement in value than any other U. S. stamps which are available in quantity." Mr. Dickey believes that the great number of precanceled that are being made adds to the interest of the stamps in question and will have a tendency to attract rather than repel new collectors. Mr. Dickey, who is the composer of a half-dozen songs that he has published with music was in Chicago attending the annual convention of the Piano and Music Merchants.

Gavit—"Your reference to the early days of the American Bank Note Company impels me to ask if you know that J. E. Gavit, who later was president of the American Bank Note Company engraved in 1850, the so-called Albany essay, which, with its portrait of Ben Franklin with fur cap, in large square, puzzles collectors who see it for the first time. At the time, Mr. Gavit and his brother were bank-note engravers in Albany. 'In 1860, the outside frame was removed and U. S. Postage. Three Cents, put in straight lines at top and bottom.' The Albany stamp was prepared as a design for the new issue that was impending in 1850, and was submitted to the authorities, I suppose." We thank our correspondent.

Bill—Feeling that we are becoming hopelessly out of date without a paraphrase of Walt Mason, we seek to repair our broken fences with one of those inspirational warblings after Mason by Bill Bloss, a worthy understudy of Walt. By special request, he tells "Why Bill Saves Stamps". "Sometimes I come home feeling blue, and ornery, and cross, and glum, from thinking of the bills come due, and business being on the bum. If I was like some ginks I know, I'd beat my wife and tear my hair, and round the house I'd loudly blow, and growl and snarl like Old Man Bear. But such procedure is for scamps who haven't learned a better way, for I get out my postage stamps to chase the troubles of the day. I light my pipe, and go to work, among my friends from lands afar, and soon am dreaming of the Turk, or temple bells of Zanzibar. This Iceland speaks of midnight sun, this Panama of the canal, and as I sort them one by one, in every one I find a pal. I soon forget the bills to pay, and that the world is full of bunk, and with my postage stamps I play, the stamps that some folks think are junk. Some nights I go to Argentina, or through Bulgaria I roam, and when enough I think I've seen, I simply quit—and I am home! I've met strange folks, and princes, too, and kings and heroes brave, and animals to fill a zoo, among the postage stamps I save. I've journeyed down the river Nile, and penetrated far-off nooks, and yet I've stayed home all the while, and pasted postage stamps in books. I might play cards or Kelly pool, or sit around and chew the fat, but with my stamps I'd rather fool, right in the back room of my flat."

Advised—Forbear, good friends, forbear,—we have no special knowledge of conditions in the American Philatelic Society in relation to the publicity and the U. S. stamp illustration developments in particular; and we have less information about the catalogue than we are supposed to possess. It must be admitted that the members of the American Philatelic Society are within their rights in asking for light on subjects that engross much attention at the annual conventions but are dismissed with scant ceremony between-times; but why bump us? We are not officers of the American Philatelic Society nor acting as the official journal of the organization. When the publishers of the catalogue wish to make announcements to the catalogue-buyers, they will hang the banners on the outer wall, in a manner of speaking; and until that time, we respectfully suggest that those who want to commend, correct or condemn the catalogue do not let their vagrant fancy fall on us. We understand that the publishers of the book are glad to get letters of helpful suggestion, constructive criticism or "what have you?" from patrons of the book; and unless these letters contain a news interest or present an angle out of the ordinary, write direct to the publishers.

Revised—We have had a letter from a correspondent who says that our observations on Neurope stamps must have saved "grief" for others as well as himself. It is supposed that our reader refers to our warning against speculation or even precipitate buying of the new stamps, as we have never advised aganist the collecting of these issues. While many of them are not entitled to high philatelic respect, the historical strength atones for the philatelic weakness of a raft of them. In an important respect, there is little objection to the Neurope stamps that was portentous of and no charges of profiteering are to be made. It was the speculation in the Neurope stamps that we portentous of danger but as for the collector who bought his stamps for his collection, no hardship has been worked on him. So many lots of Neurope came into this country from friends and relatives of collectors that those who received them here had to dump them on the market at almost any price.

Reproduced—One of our oldest readers calls attention to the fact that it was the custom of several of the stamp monthlies, about fifty years ago, to give with each number of the paper, an unused foreign stamp, usually, that was stuck in a frame made by printer's rule. Yes, but what impresses us the most is to find reproductions of the U. S. 1870 set, in colors marvelously matched in a certain old stamp journal. Speaking of a striking example of the three cent green of the issue, the publisher says: "We annex a first-class engraving of the three cent stamp, printed in the correct color. It is the first stamp that has ever been printed in any magazine in the original color. It is the handsomest stamp ever engraved."

NEWS FROM EUROPE.

By A. Koechlin.

Bavarian service covers are very hard to get, as all the employees have strict orders to cut out the affixed stamps and forward them to the Secretary's office.

The Swiss provisionals were sold out the first of March. There are booklets for sale at some of the branch offices and their use for franking is not limited in time.

Two more provisionals will shortly be issued by the Mountain Republic. They will consist of 5 on 2c and 20 on 25c. They will be the last of the set. The number to be issued is given as one-fifth of the first set.

Germany increased her rates of postage April 1. The 10pf service stamp has been issued in the same color as the current 10pf Germania type.

The Austrian "surprise set" belongs to the past. The "high water" issue now obsolete had franking value only during March and for inland mail. It sold at three times its face value and in complete sets only of twenty values, 5h to 20kr.

LONDON EXHIBITION IN 1923.

The following important announcement was issued to the philatelic press April 27th.

By an unanimous vote, the Council the Junior Philatelic Society, meeting April 26th, decided to proceed to organise a great Stamp Exhibition on a pu scale in London for 1923.

By 1923 an interval of eleven years have elapsed since the last great st exhibition was held in London. Jubilee International Stamp Exhibi of 1912 was organised by the Juni and held at the Royal Horticultural H Westminster; it was an enormous s cess, and was visited by upwards 45,000 people in six days. The vete dealer, Mr. W. S. Lincoln, aptly wrot it as the most go-out-into-all-the-wor and-preach stamp exhibition ever hel Postage Stamp.

ESTHONIA, All Unused

Special offering of these attractive stamps, many of which are already obsolete, and as it is reported that in the near future the stamps will be perforated, then all of this issue will become obsolete. The prices are low and few of them have been offered at all. All are well worth the asked prices, and I expect that soon I shall be obliged to advance the price on many of them.

PANAMA AND ITS POSTAGE STAMPS.

By Frederick E. Heydon.

Chapter XXI.

Bocas del Toro Registration Stamps.

These extremely rare and interesting labels seem, with two exceptions, to have been issued entirely for legitimate postal requirements.

438. 20c blue on light blue, surcharged

R DE PANAMA in violet.

a. Period after R.

439. 20c red-brown on light blue, surcharged same in violet.

440. 20c blue on light blue, surcharged same in violet and additional manuscript surcharge 10 in red.

441. Manuscript "Panama" over COLOMBIA and 2 of 20 changed to 1.

442. Pen lines through COLOMBIA and "10 cs" over 20.

443. 10c yellow surcharged R DE PANAMA in violet and large R.

I have not seen this stamp, but although it has been stated that the overprint was rather a cancellation than a surcharge, I am inclined to accept it for reasons stated in Chapter XIX.

The 20c red-brown on light blue and blue on light blue exist with the surcharge "Panama" in violet and 20 corrected to 10 or 10cs in manuscript in red. The first of these was certainly used postally in at least one instance, as Mr. Bartels very kindly sent me his copy for examination. The enclosure was from Bocas del Toro, and dated May 5, 1904. It was addressed to a party in St. Louis who was interested in stamps, and I presume referred to this subject. The date itself is suspicious, being long after the regular Bocas del Toro stamps were issued, and the fact that it was not used in the ordinary course of commercial correspondence unfortunately tends to support the belief that it may have been used in an attempt to legitimize a purely speculative issue. I do not feel at liberty to accept the evidence presented in defense of the issue.

General Issues of Registration Stamps.

The first specially designed registration stamp for the new republic was issued in August, 1904. Like the 1c and 2c adhesives for general use prepared at the same time, it was line engraved, printed by the American Bank Note Co., New York, and perforated 12.

444. 10c yellowish green, white wove paper.
a. 10c blue-green.

This issue remained in use until December 31, 1916, and the absence of well marked varieties during so long a period is rather unusual.

When a new issue was determined on, recourse was again had to surcharging, thus saving the expense involved in the preparation of new dies. There were some remainders still on hand of the 8c stamps of the 1906-1907 issue, and 30,000 of these stamps were surcharged with a large R and 5 Cts. in dark red. I have been informed that of this small issue about 26,000 were secured by collectors on the Isthmus, and even the normal type will never be common, while some of the varieties are very scarce, as the errors when discovered were promptly corrected. The full list with numbers in setting and data as to quantities issued is as follows:

445. 8c reddish violet and black surcharged R. 5 Cts. in dark red.
(The normal type shows a 5 with a short upward turn at right of top stroke.)
a. 5 Cts., s sideways. (No. 47 in about 45 sheets).
b. 5 inverted. (No. 36 in about 100 sheets).
c. 5 larger and more slender. (No. 85 in about 80 sheets.)
d. 5 thinner than normal type and without the upward turn referred to. (Nos. 47, 48, 49, 50, 97, 98, 99 and 100 in all sheets).
e. Inverted surcharge. (One and one-half sheets, lower half being inverted).
f. Vertical pair, one inverted. (10 pairs known).

This issue remained in use less than a month. On Jan. 28, 1917, the 8 centesimo stamps of the American Bank Note Co. issue were surcharged in the same way as No. 445. No errors are known in this setting, but when surcharging, the greater part of a lot of 10,000 sheets were found to be stuck together by the gum. They were separated by wetting them, but some of the gum still adhered to the face of the stamps and prevented the surcharge taking properly. The apparent errors in missing and defective letters are believed to be due to this cause, and to the sheets becoming dirty and wrinkled in drying. Very small quantities of this issue are known to be held on the Isthmus.

446. 8c violet and black surcharged R.5 Cts. rose. (30,000 sheets printed, but 10,000 more or less defective.)
a. Violet and black surcharged dark red. (One sheet known in which color of surcharge varies from rose to garnet, and thought to be due to an imperfectly cleaned roller previously used for black ink.)
b. 8c violet and black surcharge R. 5 cts. rose, inverted. (Upper half of one sheet known.)
c. Vertical pair, upper with inverted rose surcharge. (Ten pairs known.)
d. Broken R. Upper half of R sometimes below 5 Cts. and lower half above, due to sheet wrinkled and folded when surcharged. (About 20 known.)
e. Cts. above the R and Cts. on lower margin.
f. Surcharged with R only. (Varieties e and f are due to one of the wrinkled sheets being doubled over before surcharging. Two copies of each are said to exist.)
g. t in Cts. resembles a lower case i and there is a horizontal cross through the 5, making it appear broken and higher than the Cts. (This error, of which only two examples are known, was due to one of sheets being folded before surcharging.)
h. Diagonal surcharge. (Lower half of one sheet except the numbers specified below.) No. 51 surcharge missing.
i. Diagonal surcharge with R only. (Nos. 52 and 53 show only the upper part of the R, but Nos. 54, 55 and 56 the entire letter. These are from the half sheet referred to.)
j. Surcharged with part of the 5 only at right. (Only one copy known, No. 91 in half sheet with preceding.)

447. 8c violet and black surcharged R.5 Cts. in carmine.
(This was the second printing of No. 446 and the total issue consisted of 20,000 sheets.)
a. 5 Cts. Projecting lead. (This occurs as No. 88 on entire issue of 20,000 sheets.)
b. Inverted surcharge. (Upper half of one sheet.)
c. Inverted surcharge with 5[illegible] projecting lead. ([illegible] to exist, No. 13 in [illegible]
d. Vertical pair, upper [illegible] error [illegible] Ten pairs known.)
e. Vertical pair, upper one [illegible] surcharge.

Meriden, Conn.

Dear Sir:

I received today the last 400 variety packet which I ordered from you. Out of dozens of variety packets that I have bought from different dealers, yours is so far ahead that there is no comparison. Out of the ten or twelve 400 variety packets that I have received from you I have less than 200 duplicates and these duplicates are stamps that I can trade easily. Your packets always contain something different.

Yours truly,
W. A. SIEGRIST.

Don't Be Bashful!

Every day or so I have to write some good fellow to tell him his inquiry or order came a week or a month too late to do either of us any good.

Prices are right, right here.

Recently a new customer who was a bit timid about trying my service because he feared my prices were higher than the market, came to see me and went away with a purchase nearly five times as great as he had anticipated before he had actually seen the stamps.

That sort of thing happens right along.

Mint British Colonials—all of them—up to and including the £5, and higher values, at substantial discounts. Plenty of other U. S. and foreign, too, including pairs, strips, blocks and covers.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—There has been located by the Scott Stamp & Coin Company a new United States variety that comes as quite a surprise and until more information is obtained from Washington it is impossible to explain its existence. I refer to the current 2c red, perforated 11, unwatermarked and from the rotary press. While the Scott Company had but a few copies they learned from the postal clerk that the stamps came from sheets of 170 subjects, consequently must be from the coil waste. Coil waste from the sidewise coil sheets are always perforated 10 at the sides and we therefore ask why these are perforated 11 instead of being the usual compounds. Are they changing the coil perforations or has a new wheel been put into one of the machines awaiting the repairing of the old wheel. It is hoped that more light can be thrown on the stamp next week. In the meantime we list it for it has been seen. It is definitely a coil plate for it is Die III which is not known in the flat plate.

Some 1c rotaries in sheets of 170 were located at the same time but these were the usual perforated 11x10 compounds. These sheets differ from the former, however, in that the margins at the top are cut off resulting in a straight edge.

1921, Rotary Press, Perforated 11.

In my last chronicle mention was made of the fact that the department had asked the central accounting stations for informaion regarding the number of the 4c Grant envelopes in stock. I now learn that the department is considering the revaluing of this stock by means of a 2c overprint but has not arrived at a final decision. Our readers will be promptly advised as soon as the figures are in showing the number on hand throughout the country which will enable the department to make a decision.

I have called the attention of our readers several times to the fact that the dies for overprinting the 3c envelopes quite often seem to be changed somewhat as they move from city to city. For instance when the Portland die was used in that town all eight of the vertical lines were complete. When Buffalo started to use the same die the fourth and fifth lines had been cut in half and the bottom removed. The die used in Mobile had a "2" with a rounded top; by the time Montgomery started to use it the "2" was flattened. These differences have been so noticeable that I thought it was done intentionally in order to distinguish the work of the several offices. I now find out officially however, that no instructions have been given for any alterations to be made in the dies and the department is under the impression that the differences are due to the adjustments in the different machines or that perhaps the dies have become injured in some way.

Where they differ however I will continue to list them as separate cities. Some just received from Alberqueque are the same as those of Columbus so that they are listed under the first city. Messrs. W. A. Beach and George P. Smith have shown me some from Grand Rapids and a good friend in the Post Office at Buffalo has kindly sent quite a few from that city. The cashier's office at Buffalo as well as in most of the larger post offices throughout the country is very accommodating but there must be a grouch at Salt Lake City for he states that they have not the time to bother with such requests although it must have taken the postmaster some time to write his signature which was sprawled over half of the paper. If we could only bring some of these people to realize that the collector hands the department hundreds of thousands of dollars for which they have to make no returns, they might wake up to the fact that we are entitled to some consideration.

Mr. Cassius L. Clay sends some from Montgomery as well as a provisional postal. Mr. Smith has located a new Little Rock.

Mr. Edgar L. Green has shown me three covers sent from Chester, Pa., addressed to the same party dated from July 9th to July 29th bearing copies of the 3c 1869 with a shifted print. On one copy this doubling is especially noticeable.

We mentioned some time back that Scott listed in their bulletin the 1914 5c wine stamp with revenue watermark. Mr. O. J. Olson has kindly sent for inspection a block of this desirable variety.

We wish to thank Messrs. P. M. Mann. J. V. Nielson, Jr., Burt C. Wear and A. S. Warthin, Jr. for notes of interest.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. K. Lindsay sends us copies of the 30h brown and 45h green of the set previously issued with the words "Deutschosterreich" in a curve at the top and value figures and "Zeitungsmarke" at the base. The stamp imperforate and square in shape.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Guest's Issue Service has shown us the stamp of a new type for this colon the left is the coat of arms of the try and at the right is the prof King George in a circle with the above and on each side the "Peace". Below the coat of arms value and at the base the name country and "Postage & Revenue"

CENTRAL LITHUANIA.—Several visional sets of stamps have been at Vilna by General Zeligowsky, designed and roughly executed. have now been superseded by a or less) permanent issue, well en and printed, of which we have re two values only, 3 and 5 marks. the remaining values are issued t will be included in our new issu tribution. There have also been is Red Cross, a White Cross and a cite set, the last-named being overp "Na Slask 2 M.", but as these app be issued solely for speculative pu we shall not import them nor i them in our catalogue.—Whitfield Monthly List.

CHILE.—Mr. H. A. Spowart sen Philatelic Journal of Great Brit cutting from a South American illustrating a modern Chilian rari 14c value, printed on the Dujardin now in use, was prepared showing trait of Don Manuel de Salas, in The frame was in pale rose.

A few of these were distribu September 17th, 1920, to Conc Quillota, and Valdivia. Next d Director of Posts wired forbiddi issue of the stamps because the en had made the illustrious de Sala "blotto"! Concepcion and Valdi turned their stamps at once, but C had already sold fourteen copie moreover, someone having got w it, rushed off and bought the rem of the sheet for $11,000, Chilia rency. Our Strand contemporary the post office clerk will be s dealt with for this speculation.

The Government are said to ha stroyed the entire stock, but doub few sheets will have escaped fr slaughter of the Amalekites.

Following on the recent expos the Sanfuentes bogus labels, swindlers must find it pretty hot i just now!—Stamp Collecting.

GUATEMALA.—The Economist Co. have shown us the 20c stamp 1902 issue with the overprint "192 y medio centavos" in three lines ir

AND.—Special postage stamps been issued for use on corrence of value or importance intendenclosure in the "floating safes" are carried by Dutch Mail steam- the protection of valuable mail sea transit. There are seven nations, from 15 cents to 7½ —Whitfield King's Monthly List.

ENZO MARQUES.—Mr. John T. s has shown us the 1918 5c rose stamp, Scott's No. 328, with the ge "Seis Centavos" in two lines in green, and which he advises d in the above mentioned colony.

EL.—The Economist Stamp Co. that the 10c stamp of France ged "Memel 10 pfennig" have e added overprint "15" in blue. e 40pf on 20c stamp of the same has been surcharged "60" in the olor.

RAGUA.—Mr. Edwin W. Fuss and A. Schoenfeld have submitted to of the 1c and 5c stamps of the ue surcharged "Oficial" with this nt obliterated and above the Particular" printed in red. Mr. ield also submits this stamp with d "Parricular" as an error. Mr. Fuss at the same time calls attention to the 25c blue, official stamp of 1915 which has been overprinted "Vale un centavo de cordoba" in three lines in black and the 3c of the same set with the same surcharge. The printing of the former is in black and the latter in red.

Mr. Fuss also sends us a copy of the surcharged stamp of 1902, 30c on 1c plum with inverted overprint.

PORTUGUESE COLONIES.—Some drastic changes are being made in the stamps of the Portuguese African Colonies. Separate issues will no longer be made for Inhambane, Quelimane or Tete, in which districts the stamps of Mozambique alone will be used in the future. Similarly, the stamps of Angola will be superseded by those of Portuguese Congo, the two Colonies being amalgamated under the latter name. Finally, no further printings of stamps of ¼, ½, 1, 1½ or 2 centavos will be made for any colony, the lowest denomination now in use being that of 2½ centavos. This is due to the heavy fall in the rate of exchange, the cost of printing exceeding the face value of the stamps. — Whitfield King's Monthly List.

SAARGEBIET.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the following values of the latest set; 60pf red border with brown centre, with a view of a castle; 2m red and black, showing a large municipal building, 25m black, blue and red, a much larger stamp than the others, portraying an industrial plant.

ST. VINCENT.—Guest's New Issue Service has advised us that the ½d value is now printed on the new watermarked paper.

SALVADOR.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us for chronicle the following values of the 1916 issue with these surcharges; 29c, overprinted "15" in red the same value also surcharged "6cts" in blue and the 50c with "35 Treinta y cinco" in black. Blocks and heavy lines obliterate the former values. Also the 1919 $1 stamp with the words "60 Centavos" in red.

SWEDEN.—Mr. Eric Kling has shown us a 20ö stamp of a new type, the central part of the stamp showing a likeness of King Gustav V looking to the left in what appears to be a naval uniform. The color is violet and is imperforate at top and bottom and perforate on the sides, for use in the automatic machines.

Mr. Kling adds that the change in the design may be due to the severe criticism to which the former issue has been subjected. While Mr. Kling was in Stockholm last year not only were the newspapers ridiculing it but also the movie theatres.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. Geza Szekula has submitted to us the 7½c gray stamp with the surcharge "5" and three horizontal lines obliterating the former value. The overprint is red.

UKRAINE.—In the preface to our 1919 catalogue we ventured to express the opinion that many of the local surcharges of Hungary, Poland and Ukraine were of doubtful origin and still more doubtful value. Some of our subscribers who differed from us took us to task at the time, but we adhered to our opinions and refused all offers at the fancy prices that were asked, as we foresaw the inevitable slump. That we were quite justified so far as values are concerned is proved by the fact of an advertisement having recently appeared, offering Ukraine "tridents" at from one-fortieth to one-twelfth of prices hitherto asked and paid.—Whitfield King's Monthly List.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—At a recent meeting of the Philatelic Society of the Oranges it was voted that clippings found by the members dealing with stamp collecting should be forwarded to the WEEKLY for such treatment as we deemed wise. We are grateful to the Society for their co-operation. We are always glad to receive clippings even though they may not be suitable for our use. Mr. Jewett, the secretary of the Society, and various other subscribers have sent us a page clipping from the World Magazine of May 8 in which an entire page was given over to the illustrating of recent issues of postage stamps from New Europe.

—H. A. Washburn, Waldron, Ind., reports unsatisfactory exchange relations with four different parties, Mark H. Manning, Newark, O., B. H. Tan, Java, D. E. I., Otto C. Moreno, Buenos Ayres, Arg. Rep., and Count R. Stellato, Carrozieri, Falia, Europe. We do not as a rule publish information of this kind but the facts are so well established that we give this list as received.

—On Tuesday evening, May 3rd, members (including their wives and friends), of the St. Louis Stamp Society, held their sixteenth annual banquet and had a very enjoyable evening. Some very interesting talks on philately were made, also reminiscences of the first few years of the society exchanged. Henry A. Diamont was toastmaster of the evening and the following contributed to the evening's entertainment:—H. Marston, Mrs. H. A. Diamont, Mr. and Mrs W. D. Hellman, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Swatek, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Eilers, Miss Eilers, C. W. Weissbecker, Miss Koppen, Herbert Gerding, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. Yeckel, Marion Smith, E. A. Shoenfeld, J. V. Donaldson, W. A. Donaldson, Elmer Schmaltz, T. C. Mann, E. A. Moseley, Miss L. Brown, Mrs. B. H. Woolrych, Mr. Nelson and C. N. Smith.

THE UNSCRUPULOUS DEALER.

By C. M. TYLER.

When the stamp craze first strikes the collector, who is generally in his teens, his first thought is to procure a large assortment of stamps at once and at a price that fits his small pocketbook. His friend, who first gave him his idea of collecting postage stamps, shows him how he started with 1000 varieties for a quarter which he bought a long time before from a well known reliable dealer. From this packet, he told him, that more than half were different and he got a lot of fine swappers besides. They at once look through a stamp paper for the ad, but find it not. But here, what are these? Just look at the great number of ads and all from great big stamp dealers, too. The boy knows nothing of these dealers and his first impression is that all do an immense business and have large stores. They are generally located many miles from his home town, and as he reads the various ads he pictures in his mind a large department store where stamps only are sold. In these he imagines he can see several floorwalkers directing numerous customers to such departments that carry their particular wants. "I want to see some early United States postage stamps," says a customer to one of the imaginary floorwalkers. "Take the elevator, please, second floor, front," says the floorwalker. "I want some of the latest issues from Bavaria and Hungary," says another. "Bargain counter in the basement, down those stairs," is the reply. So that is what it looks like to the beginner after reading some of the wonderful offers he sees in the stamp journal.

Not finding the particular advertisement he was looking for, another looks still better, and at a price he can afford. This is what he saw:—"Over 1000 nicely mixed stamps from all over the world. Catalog up to 60c each. Postfree and insured—59c—enormous value—fine for your collection, for exchanging or for selling." Well, he thinks that is just what he wants and the name of the dealer is a postage stamp Company, near a large city. Very catchy ad all through, big quantity, small price and besides starting his collection, he will have many duplicates for swapping with his friends. After waiting several days he receives a large envelope from the dealer, opens it and starts to sort 'em out. When he is through this is what he has:—212 stamps, many of them duplicates, but all good traders, including one from Ukrainia cataloguing 60c; 164 stamps of the U. S. on pieces of paper, all 1, 2, and 3 cents common everyday varieties, and 140 stamps both foreign and of the U. S. so badly damaged as to be of no use, or a total of 516 stamps. For once and for all he is disgusted with stamp dealers and now knows what P. T. Barnum meant when he said, "There's one born every minute."

He next tries the approval sheet method of adding to his collection. A friend has told him where he can get them at 50% discount from catalogue value. This looks good to him, as he can see his collection grow at $2.00 for $1.00. He sends for a selection, giving his father as reference. In several days he receives them and Oh! how good they look to him. He removes a few he needs to fill blank spaces in his International Album. He now owning a Standard Catalogue, looks up a few items and finds that the stamps are priced considerably higher than shown in the catalogue. He is duped again; instead of getting a discount of 50%, he finds the prices have been so greatly increased as to give him about 10% off. Also, he finds many British Colonials priced at full catalogue value, and when he reads the note at the bottom of the page that "pen cancellations" are worth about one-fifth of those postally used, he notes they are all cancelled by pen and again he finds he is doing business with an unscrupulous dealer. The stamps left on the sheets are returned by registered mail with a Money Order for the amount due, and he asks that no more stamps be sent to him. In about a month or two, much to his surprise, he receives a very impertinent letter from the dealer a him to return the stamps sent to h approval. He answers that they returned. The dealer claims they not been received, to return them a or pay the full amount, otherwi would report his name to the A. His honesty having been question is very much hurt, and knowing t did return the stamps, shows the to his father. Then the father tak matter up, finds the Money Orde cashed, and after proving this t dealer, gets a short note saying, "hi girl clerk must have gotten the e mixed", and there it ends witho apology.

He has now become a subscri many stamp journals, more to help along and for the good of the than for the good they are to him is now a full fledged collecto wants to keep in touch with all t worth while to know about his Many sample copies come to him a freely sends his money for a year scription to the Philatelic This, T her Thing and after awhile, not received any further issues, that they died aborning and no re- paid back to him. He now finds he en duped by the unscrupulous publisher, and decides to stick to he old-time reliable weekly or y journals. Never again will he in promoting the hobby by sub- n money.

ral years later the young man has n many tried channels increased ection and by great study has be- e real philatelist. He joins a large l Philatelic Society. His name ed on the circuit list of the Sales nent and he receives their books ly. By this means he is able to ny good varieties he has been for many days. Now he fied that the unscrupulous dealer going to annoy him any more. at is this? Here's a letter from s Manager saying that he notices nps in the last circuit sent to him en removed and inferior copies ted. Once more he finds he is st another unscrupulous dealer— rst kind of all—known as the r-dealer. The books referred to t the property of the Sales Man- d although falsely accused, he how the Sales Manager could er what stamps are entered for ther members. He is requested for the stamps, amounting to be reported to the Attorney for iety for necessary action. The re at last returned to the right- er, who states that the stamps been substituted, that he is sat- ey are the same specimens he placed in the books. No apology is made for the false accusation, and there it ends. With his honesty finally proven, he is again disgusted, and being afraid to deal further with the Sales Department for fear of graver charges being made against him, he allows his membership to lapse. He wonders how he can still continue as a collector and add to his collection.

He decides on buying direct from advertisements of only dealers whose names are prominent in the business, send his cash with the order and get full value for his money. He finds a very alluring ad. as in the days of old, mentioning a certain $2.00 stamp printed in the wrong colors through an "error" so reported. The ad. leads him to believe the dealer has made a great find and that there are only a few in existence. The dealer offers to sell them "while they last" at the small price of $2.75, well centered copies, and o. g. He bites, gets a copy of the stamp and the next day learns he can buy them at face at his own Post Office, that the stamp is not an error of color or hard to get, but was printed according to regulation. Not a cent has he received for the overcharge made by this unscrupulous collector-dealer. He again makes up his mind not to have anything to do with dealers by mail.

His name and address having been printed in the Year Book of the Philatelic Society, he is now receiving great quantities of auction sale catalogues unsolicited. On looking them through he sees several really desirable items he would like to have for his collection and takes a flier just to see what happens. Much to his surprise he receives several lots that he had bid on, and at a great deal less than his bids. Here surely was something well worth paying attention to. Now he is satisfied that he is at last free of the unscrupulous dealer and as he can set his own price and only have such stamps in his possession that he has ordered, never again will he be accused of dishonesty. Several more of his bids bear fruit and as he now has joined the Specialist class, he is only collecting the stamps of the United States and Guatemala. He has for sometime since learned that it is impossible to build up a representative collection of the whole world on a limited pocketbook, so has disposed of all others to his friends.

He now receives a few lots from the last auction which includes lot No. 119, being several blocks of U. S. 1908-9 together with some o. g. strips of coil stamps. The bill reads lot No. 1190, but that was not noticed until five weeks after he has paid the bill he receives a letter from the Auction Manager stating that by mistake lot No. 1190 was sent to him instead of No. 119 and as that lot sold for $17.00 it would appear that he still owes $14.20 the difference between the two and further, that the Manager would have to leave the matter to him, believing he will decide what an honest man should do in a case like this. By further investigation he finds that lot No. 1190 was a stamp of Cuba, a country from which he has no stamps in his collection, and if it had been received his honesty would have compelled him to return it at once.

So now he is fully satisfied that it is impossible to dodge the unscrupulous dealer and in order to not believe that all dealers look upon all collectors as being dishonest, he buys only over the counters of the reliable dealer by frequent trips to the larger cities. He has learned that they are the ones who do very little advertising, are experts in their line and care more for permanent customers than the catch-penny kind.

You, Mr. Dealer, who reads this will probably say there are as many unscrupulous collectors and that you have to be on your guard at all times. That may be so, and in some future issue I hope to give a few items from the other side of the case and tell of a few "piker" collectors I have come in contact with in my many stamp dealings for the past several years.

"JUMBO" BOOKS

A host of our customers will remember our series of "Jumbo" books which were very popular with general collectors. Lack of time and difficulty of getting material prevented our making up a new series last year. As this goes to press we have a brand new and better range of books than ever before well under way and can submit to those willing to spend at least $2 on a selection. Books will contain 250 to 400 stamps each and there will be, we expect, some 30 to 40 books in the series. Prices will run about half list with extra discounts of 10% on $3.00 or more and 20% on $5.00 or more purchased. We cannot publish a detailed list of the books till the series is completed. The most popular series of books ever put out we believe. Thousands of pleased buyers.

LARGE SELECTIONS

We are also preparing for those ready to spend $20.00 or more at a time a large collection mounted in sections. Cat. numbers and prices under each stamp. The value of each book running into three figures. British, French, Portuguese Colonials will be in separate books of their own. Over 2000 var. of Port. Colonials will be represented. For those with large collections or who wish to look over and select from larger lots than usually sent, this is the best offer we have ever made for those who want items cat. under $5 each. Very few stamps listing over $5 will be found in these books. The rarer items can be furnished on want lists or in special lots.

We believe we have one of the best series of books, etc., out for the average collector. Selections suitable for all classes of collectors whether able to spend $5 or $5000. An enormous variety, mounted in books by countries or groups of countries, and priced at reasonable net prices. The list below gives only a partial idea of what we can supply.

We will gladly send any books wanted to serious, responsible collectors, who mean business and are prepared to make reasonable purchases. Prompt returns and business treatment are all we require. Strangers must give us some proof of their responsibility. Those who have dealt with us before and we know are O. K. need give no references.

WANT LISTS are the best way to buy. Costs you no more, you get just what you need. Saves our sending you $50 worth of goods to make a $10 sale and tying up $40 worth to no advantage. If you have time or are well filled up on certain countries, by all means send us a want list. Where only a few items are needed it's a small chance you'll get them out of an approval lot. Tell us just what you want and save everyone bother. Prices usually about half cat. If more you can depend on it the goods are worth it and the price fair in every case. You also get best copies in stock. Big lists of 2c and 3c stamps not wanted, but we are willing to supply a fair proportion of them with higher priced items. Such lists do not pay for clerk hire on them. If not prepared to spend over a certain amount at one time, please tell us the limit to send from your list. Want list blanks supplied to those who want them.

TERMS Business treatment of us and our selections and returns within 10 days of receipt.

CURIOUS STAMPS FOR PALESTINE.

(Press Clipping.)

NEW YORK, May 7.—The "mandate for Palestine"—otherwise the British official scheme for the government of the ancient home of the Jews—provides for what will certainly be a curiosity in postage stamps—namely, a stamp upon which the descriptive statement will be printed or engraved in three languages. There are already stamps on which words are found both in English and in Arabic, Turkish and certain Indian tongues, and doubtless other bi-lingual stamps, but as yet none in which the legend is tri-lingual.

But one requirement of the Palestine mandate is as follows:

"English, Arabic and Hebrew will be the official languages of Palestine; any statement or inscription in Arabic on stamps or money in Palestine shall be repeated in Hebrew, and any statement or inscription in Hebrew shall be repeated in Arabic."

Inasmuch as a British protectorate will scarcely employ stamps which are not first of all marked in English, we may look forward to a Palestine stamp which will be inscribed first of all in the ancient tongue of Israel, then in the imperial language of England, and finally in the tongue of the sons of the desert, who have come in to occupy the fields that once flowered and fruited only for the subjects of King David.

The tri-lingual inscription on the Palestinian postage stamp will in itself tell a long story. Nothing could be more romantic than the Hebrew return to the land of Canaan, where Abraham is supposed to have been established by the divine command 1,644 years before Christ, or some 3,564 years before a Jewish governor returned once more to Canaan, and the official revival of the ancient tongue, which even at the time of Jesus was already a dead language, having been supplanted by Aramaic.

In simple fact, the use of Hebrew on the stamps of Palestine would correspond very closely to the marking of the stamps in England in Latin, for the reason that Latin was the official tongue of the country under the Roman Empire. But as the Zionists have chosen to revive the Hebrew as their official language, the written or printed messages of the children of Abraham will now be borne on their way by the aid of the tongue of David and Solomon.

Scarcely less interesting is the official use of the tongue of Arabia, in Holy Land. Arabic is, in fact, a Semitic tongue, kindred to the Hebrew, but now differing greatly from it. The Arabs are the aboriginal inhabitants of the general region. Biblically, they are the sons of Ishmael, and therefore of Abraham, as are also the Jews; the kinship is there; but historically they are comparatively late comers in Palestine, having swept in and occupied the lands from which more "civilized" inhabitants had been driven.

There they are now much at home; and yet if the plans of Jews' reoccupation of the ancient land of Israel are carried out, the Arabic is destined to appear in time from the Palestine stamp. Little by little the Jews will increase in numbers, until they are preponderant, and who can doubt that eventually the sovereignty will pass to them and that the Arabs will, family by family, fold their tents and silently away from Zion?

"STAMPS OR HOLES."

Dedicated to Mr. Power.

By E. S. MOYER.

'Tis a sensible thing ye have said, Mr. Power,
And lest I forget I must write ye this hour,
To say that I'm with ye to do what I can
To put perforations under the ban.

'Tis thirty odd years since I began to collect;
And, during this time, I may say the effect
Of stamps on my mind has been "whole"-some and good,
But "holes" round the edges I've always tabooed.

I'm thinking of Pat, who was asked one fine day
Which doughnut he'd have,—the one made the way
That's common, you know, with a hole like a plum,
To hang it, and roll it around on your thumb;

Or the one that was made with doughnut all through,
As big as the other, as good, of course, too;
And, true to his nature, he promptly consoles:
"I'm fonder of doughnuts than I am of the holes."

"DRUNK" ON STAMP.

Intoxicated Patriot Results In Recall of Issue.

A curious explanation is given of the reason for the recall and destruction of a new 14-centavo postage stamp recently issued by the Chilean post office. The main features of the design, printed in black and rose, consisted of a portrait of Don Manuel de Salas.

No sooner had the stamp been issued, however, than someone observed that the engraver had portrayed de Salas drunk. Supplies were hastily called in from outlying post offices by telegram, but not before 114 copies of the libelous stamp had been sold at Quillota. The remainder of the stock was destroyed by the Chilean Government.—London Times.

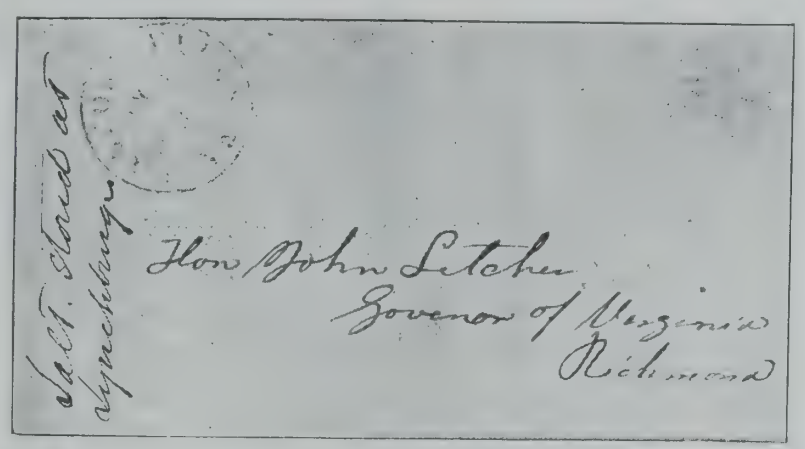
Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

A NEW CONFEDERATE PROVISIONAL.

By AUGUST DIETZ.

"BALCONY FALLS, VIRGINIA" is the latest applicant for admittance to the select circle of Confederate States provisionals, and the candidate bears credentials stronger and more interesting than many an old member of this class of entires.

I have recently been privileged to look over some of the war-time correspondence of Governor John Letcher, of Virginia, and among the material I found this envelope.



While the above illustration—photographed direct from the original—would seem to tell its own story, a closer description may be of interest to your readers.

The Balcony Falls is a "turned cover". Tried by the accepted tenets governing the admittance of newly-discovered claimants for recognition, the Balcony Falls would have no case at Philately's court, were it not for the fact that the inside of this envelope carries its own unquestionable proof and eloquent, though mute, brief.

"Turning" the cover, we find an ordinary commercial envelope with the business card of Talbott Bros., Richmond, Va., makers of stationary steam engines, in the upper left corner. The addressing, in handwriting, reads:

Mr. Charles H. Locher,
Balcony Falls, Va.

It was franked with the common 3c U. S., of 1857 and cancelled Richmond, Va., date illegible.

Now to the interesting part of its story. Charles H. Locher was postmaster of Balcony Falls (Rockbridge County), being appointed to that post by President Pierce in 1854. When the Confederate authorities assumed control of the posts, Mr. Locher was continued in office, and held the same continuously to the close of the war.

It is quite evident that Postmaster Locher, complying with the order to Southern postmasters to provide themselves with some temporary "stamp" for franking letters until the regular Confederate stamps were available, either himself "cut" this design on wood or pine-bark, or had some one deft with the pen-knife prepare it for him, and, following the custom quite widespread in the South, he "turned" every available envelope in his possession, affixing his provisional franking stamp, and probably sold his stock over the counter, but certainly using this one in the regular manner of correspondence.

The letter was addressed to the War-Governor of Virginia, and contained, as His Excellency's notation across the left end of the cover shows, information concerning "Salt stored at Lynchburg," a commodity in which much "profiteering"

CLASSIFIED PACKETS
Here is something the younger collectors will appreciate. I call them packets, but they are really small collections.
United States stamps properly classified according to issues and placed (each issue separately) on approval cards. The service of classification is worth a good deal. The stamps furnished are in good condition. Any packet is returnable.

H. F. COLMAN

and "hoarding" was carried on at that time.

The envelope is of the ordinary commercial size, measuring approximately 6"x3¾", and deep buff in color. The Stamp, representing a five-pointed, rim-lined star in color, bears the figures "10" in its center in white, the whole surrounded by a single-line circle. In four of the open spaces formed by the points of the star, and beginning opposite the figure "1" of 10, appear the letters "P-A-I-D", the "D" ending opposite the figure "0" of 10, and in the fifth space appear the letters "C. S." (Confederate States), all in color on white background (to be exact in this instance—"buff background"—the color of the envelope).

The stamp is evidently hand-affixed (stamped, not letter-press printed) and in a "reseda"-shade of green, identical in color with the ink of the cancellation stamp of the post-office "Balcony Falls, Va., Oct. 3."

The year of the letter is 1861.

The fact that both Stamp and cancellation are in the same ink and color would establish their origin in the Balcony Falls post-office.

The distinction which removes this stamp from the unrecognized class of "PAID" receipt-cancellation stamps lies in the inscription "C. S.", which, unquestionably, is intended for an abbreviation of "Confederate States."

Charles H. Locher was well known in the County of Rockbridge, and three sons and one daughter survive him—the eldest of these, Charles Locher, Jr., I am told, is president of a large contracting firm in a Middle-Western city.

DEATH OF C. W. BOCOCK.

A. H. Schumacher informs us of the death of a veteran philatelist and an old-time subscriber to the WEEKLY, Judge C. W. Bocock, Houston, Texas. He was sixty-eight years old and is survived by a widow, two daughters and a son. He had a large general collection and specialized collections of United States and Mexico, and was the first president of the newly organized Houston Philatelic Society. He made a specialty of getting stamps in pairs, both vertical and horizontal, also blocks of four and larger, and his collection contains some very unusual pieces. He graduated from the University of Virginia in 1876 and practiced law up to a recent period.

BACK VOLUMES.

We can furnish a number of bound volumes of the WEEKLY up to and including 1911 at $2.50 each. They are bound in substantial fashion with cloth back and are indexed.

We can supply unbound volumes of the WEEKLY for every year excepting the first four, at $1.50. Cost of transportation will be borne by us.

Send an order for a sample volume. Let us select the sample volume at the special price of $1.25.

B. BENDEL & CO.
(And Successors).

Much of the early history of this firm is unknown to the writer, and there are facts regarding its later history, and in particular the proprietorship of the stamps issued under the name of H. Bendel, upon which there is still much information to be obtained. The San Francisco Directory for 1875 lists B. Bendel & Co. as proprietors of the Empire Match Factory, which was located at the S. E. corner of 11th and Harrison Streets. The firm was composed of Bernhard Bendel and Henry P. Duffy, and their office was at 520 Front Street. The following year the Empire Match Factory, B. Bendel & Co., Props., is also listed, but the firm was then composed of Bernhard Bendel and Campe & Co., which latter firm was the proprietor of the Empire Steam Coffee & Spice Mills. The members of Campe & Co. were Charles F. Leege, Bernhard Bendel and Henry Campe.

In 1877 the firm of B. Bendel & Co. was apparently owned by the Estate of B. Bendel, and is listed as the proprietor of the Empire Match Factory at 318 Front St. The following year the firm of Hofen & Co. appears under the Estate of Bernhard Bendel and in 1879-80 Hofen & Co. are listed as agents of the Empire Match Factory at 412 Clay St., and the factory still appears to be owned by the Estate of Bernhard Bendel.

In 1881 Hofen & Co. appear as agents of the Empire Match Factory and in 1882-83 they appear as agents of both the Empire and the Eureka Match factories, and the Estate of B. Bendel is not listed. At that time Hofen & Co. was composed of Leo Hofen and Charles F. Leege, and they were also the proprietors of the Empire Steam Coffee & Spice Mills. From 1884 until 1886 Hofen & Co. continued as proprietors of the Empire Steam Coffee & Spice Mills and as sole agents of the Empire and Eureka Match Factories, but in the 1887 Directory Hofen & Co. does not appear. In that year the firm of Leege & Mills are listed as proprietors, or agents, of the Empire and Eureka Match Factories at the Clay Street address.

The Eureka Match Factory appears in the San Francisco Directories as early as 1868, and that year it was owned by William H. Jessup & Co. This firm was composed of W. B. Williams and the firm of Elam & Howes. The latter firm was the selling agent and was composed of Robert H. Elam and Edward K. Howes, who were manufacturers and importers of woodenware, brooms, etc., at 310 Clay St. The Eureka factory was located at the corner of Harrison and Nevada Streets.

In 1875 E. K. Howes & Co. were proprietors of the Eureka factory and in 1877 the proprietors were E. K. Howes & Co., and W. B. Williams. The Eureka factory is listed in 1878 to 1880, and in the Directory for 1880-1881. From 1882 to 1886 Hofen & Co. were the agents, and in 1887 the factory was owned by Leege & Mills.

The first stamp used by the Empire Factory are labeled B. Bendel & Co., but in the spring of 1877 the firm name was changed to read, "H. Bendel doing business as B. Bendel & Co." and stamps with the latter title continued to be issued until the match tax was abolished.

The only H. Bendel appearing in the San Francisco Directories in the period is one Hermann Bendel, who was a member of the firm of Taylor & Bendel, importers of wines, liquors and wholesale groceries in 1869, and from 1875 until 1881 was a member of the firm of Tillman & Bendel, who apparently succeeded Taylor & Bendel. In 1877 when the title of the Bendel stamps was H. Bendel he is listed as residing in Bremen, Germany, but next year and thereafter, his residence is given as Oakland, Cal. In no instance is there any definite indication that he was associated in any way with the match business. However, for several years Hermann and Bernhard Bendel were almost the only persons of this name that appeared in the San Francisco Directories, and it is possible that they were relatives, and that the name of H. Bendel on the stamps belongs to this Hermann Bendel.

The stamps themselves possess some degree of beauty and considerable interest, and one of them has probably caused more "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth" than any other match stamp. Excepting only the stamp of the Louisiana Match Factory, the Bendels were the only match stamps printed in brown. There is a variety occurring in one of them, which is the only known error of print in all the match series.

B. Bendel & Co.

In regard to the B. Bendel & Co. stamps the Boston Book gives the following data:

1c Brown.
Die approved, November 30, 1874.
First issued, December, 1874.
Last issued, December 13, 1880.
2,610,950 issued on silk paper.
220,500 issued on watermarked paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

12c Brown.
Die approved, Sept. 17, 1874.
First issued, October, 1874.

32 stamps per sheet (4x8).

Both of these stamps were engraved by Joseph R. Carpenter of Philadelphia, and were first printed there. Probably there was only one plate of each denomination. The 1c stamp is an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size. A rectangular frame line encloses a sort of corrugated background with scalloped edges. A colorless ribbon curving across the top of this background with a small colorless star above either end is labeled "U. S. Internal Rev." and a colorless ornamental panel across the bottom bears the words "One Cent." Just above either end of this panel is a small colored shield bearing the colorless numeral I. The central part of the design is occupied by circular disk, the upper part of which consists of a circular band bearing "B. Bendel & Co." in the upper segment and "Match Factory" in the lower segment, all in colorless letters upon a shaded ground. This band encloses a central disk upon which an ornamental maltese cross is drawn upon a colorless background. Curved just below the cross is the word "Empire."

The stamp occurs in several shades of brown, of which a yellowish golden tint may possibly be the Philadelphia printing, although the writer has never seen the Carpenter imprint on this stamp. Darker shades on silk paper are National prints and the imprint is of the first type used by that Company, and reads, "Printed by the National Bank Note Company, New York". It is extremely unlikely that any of the 1c stamps of this type on watermarked paper were printed by the National Bank Note Company or by its successor, the American Bank Note Company. The Boston Book states, "These stamps, on watermarked paper, were most probably printed by mistake, the printers having gotten hold of this plate instead of that of H. Bendel. But one lot was delivered and the plate was at once condemned." There is convincing evidence that the error was made by the Bureau both in the case of this 1c Bendel stamp on watermarked paper and that of the Dalley error on watermarked paper. Because of the great similarity between the first and second dies of the 1c Bendel stamps they are very frequently confused and as the second die reading "H. Bendel doing business as" is extremely common on watermarked paper it is often shown, or offered as the rare variety of the B. Bendel 1c.

When the Bureau at Washington took over the printing of the private die and other revenue stamps from the American Bank Note Company the plates previously used by that Company and its predecessors were turned over to the Bureau and in many instances these plates were used by the Bureau printers. The plate of the second 1c Bendel stamp had been in use since June, 1877, and there appears no reason why the first plate should have been used either by the National Bank Note Company, or American Bank Note Company, or the Bureau after the watermarked paper came into use, which was late in 1877, or early in 1878. The National Bank Note Company began to use the second 1c plate, ("H. Bendel"), several months before the watermarked paper was used at all. The most convincing proof, however, that the error was made at the Bureau is found in the stamps. The errors are practically identical in color with the early Bureau prints from the second 1c plate and the writer has seen a copy of the error on undoubted watermarked paper which bears the National imprint scratched by the Bureau engravers, as was their custom when they began to use plates that had been turned over to them by the previous printers.

The 1c B. Bendel stamp is not particularly scarce on silk paper; fine copies of the National printing being worth approximately the catalog quotation. The golden brown shade is much scarcer and should bring several times as much as the common shades. Sterling quoted $5.00 on the watermarked error in 1888. The Scott prices were $7.50 in 1895; $10.00 in 1896; $15.00 in 1898, and $10.00 since 1900. It does not seem to the writer there has been proper appreciation of the actual rarity of this stamp since 1898, and even at that time their quotation was moderate even for copy in ordinary condition. In spite of the comparatively large printing the stamp is extremely rare, and after a long painstaking search the writer has been able to trace only about a dozen specimens. Copies on silk paper with the silk pulled out, leaving thin places that bear some faint resemblance to the true watermark have been seen, and a great many copies of the common stamp from the second plate, which were posing as the rare error have been encountered, but very few of the real thing, and the stamp is certainly scarcer than some other private die stamps that are rated as high as $50.00.

This is a large adhesive in the form of a horizontal rectangle, measuring 1¾x2¾ inches, and the design is decidedly ornate. The central portion is occupied by a large circular disk, the upper part of which consists of a circular band inscribed "The Empire Matches" above and "San Francisco" below, all in colorless letters on a horizontally shaded ground. This encloses another circular disk bearing a large maltese cross upon a radially shaded background. In the upper part of the cross a torch appears; curved across the middle is a label reading "B. Bendel" and just below it "&—Co.", all resting upon an intricate background of diagonal lines which is repeated outside the central disk and forms there a large panel with curved indentations at the corner. Joined to the central disk at either side is a diamond shaped ornamental panel bearing large monogram US. These are joined by ribbons curving above and below the central disk, the upper labeled "U. S. Internal Revenue" and the lower reading "1200 Matches". Curved panels in the four corners of the stamp are inscribed in colorless characters 12—12 above and "Twelve Cents" below. A Greek fret border surrounds the entire design.

This stamp and its successor were the only match stamps of the denomination of 12c except the Percussion match stamp which was also used in San Francisco. The label "1200 Matches" reveals at once why the stamp paid a tax of 12c—the rate of tax being 1c on each 100 matches. The stamp occurs in the rich golden brown shade also found occasionally in the 1c B. Bendel adhesive, but the writer has noted only one or two copies of the 12c, all the others being in the clearer and colder color. The latter shade is believed to be the National print.

Owing to their size these large stamps are usually somewhat imperfect, but there is a fair supply of quite respectable copies, and the better ones usually sell at $3.00 to $4.00. The unusual size and their attractiveness have always given them more than ordinary popularity, and they have appreciated in value steadily from the middle '80's until 1898. Sterling and Scott quoted the 12c at $1.00 in 1886 to 1888; in 1895 the Scott price reached $2.50. This was increased to $3.00 the following year, and to $4.00 in 1898. The quotation has held firm at that figure for the past twenty-two years, and although that is not a great deal to pay for wonderfully fine specimens, it will remain a fair basis for estimating the value of ordinary good specimens until there is a greater demand for private die revenues. A collector purchasing one at present rates is obtaining a U. S. stamp that is probably just as rare as many other U. S. adhesives that catalog ten times as much, but the demand for such other stamps at the present time is so much greater that it would be foolish to value this stamp upon its scarcity alone.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Universal Stamp Alliance has been organized in Cincinnati. While officered locally collectors everywhere may become members. For particulars address Dr. L. G. Tedesche, 1406 John St., Cincinnati, O.

—Subscribers will please note that our mailing list is not arranged alphabetically and we have no way of reaching persons to whom letters are addressed in our care. We have a letter for Lewis A. McArthur, which will be forwarded upon receipt of address.

—Cincinnati has precancelled the 1c Pilgrim with the words CINCINNATI, OHIO, and heavy rules above and below. The precancelling is due to the fact that the office has a large supply of this particular stamp.

—Elsewhere in this issue will be found the story by August Dietz of his discovery of a new Confederate local. This is the second of its kind to his credit. His previous discovery was of the Franklin, N. C., in 1899.

—We have received the Philatelic Review for April, published by P. C. Mackey, 354 Senator St., Brooklyn, N. Y., and edited by A. H. Pike. The number before us is of special interest in that it contains an index to January philatelic publications. This index is compiled by A. H. Pike and a sample copy of the paper may be obtained for a 3c stamp.

—We have received through the courtesy of F. H. Vallancey greetings from the Eighth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, held at Harrogate, May 3-6 under the auspices of the Leeds Philatelic Society. The card was posted at the Congress post office and bears the special postmark "Philatelic Congress, Harrogate". The design of the card is a reproduction of the Mulready.

—An article by George M. Emery, whose publicity work has been frequently commented upon in the WEEKLY, recently appeared in various metropolitan papers. We have before us the Pittsburgh Despatch of Sunday, May 22, containing the article, which occupies a full half page and includes some forty-five illustrations.

—We are pained to record the death of Warren C. Tudbury, whose name will be familiar to many of our readers. He died May 18 in Berkeley, Cal., and news of his death reaches us through E. P. Seebohm.

—In the society column of the State Gazette, Trenton, N. J., we are informed that Bela Szekula of Lucerne, Switzerland, was the guest of E. B. Sterling Thursday afternoon and evening, May 19. The item refers to the very valuable collection of rarities that Mr. Szekula carried with him and a number of guests participated in the pleasure of the occasion. Mr. Szekula left New York on Saturday, May 21, for Switzerland, after a most profitable and pleasant visit to the United States.

—We have referred elsewhere to the latest stamp story of George M. Emery. We learn that it appeared not only in the Pittsburgh Despatch but in the Boston Evening Transcript and the Philadelphia Public Ledger. A full page and one-half was given to the story in the Transcript, and the Ledger gave it an entire page. It is a good piece of publicity work.

CHAPTER XXIX.

The Official Stamps.

On April 1st, 1871, 2, 4 and 16 skilling stamps were introduced for official use. The design was the same for all three and showed the Royal Arms (three Lions passant and nine hearts) on a dotted ground within a shield surmounted by a Royal Crown. The Arms are on an oval ground of solid color within a frame inscribed "TJENESTE" at left, "POST" at top, "FRIMAERKE" at right and the value at bottom. In each of the angles are ornamental blocks, in the spandrels between oval and frame are triangular ornaments filled with vertical lines, while the white lines above and below each of the inscriptions terminate in foliate ornaments.

One original die served for all three denominations and this was engraved on steel by Ph. Batz. This die was without any expressed value and from it secondary dies were made from which the clichés for making the printing plates were struck.

Mr. Hanciau has made the interesting discovery that there are two minor types of each value and as he has found those of the 4 skilling in an unsevered pair it is to be presumed that, in each case, they occurred in the same plate. They differ in the figures and letters of the value, as follows:—

"2 skilling. I.—the "K" of "SK" is more open than in the second type; the two letters are the same height, and are slightly spaced.

II.—The "K" is not so open and the "S" is slightly shorter than the "K".

4 skilling. I.—The lower part of the "K" is more open than in the second type and the "S" is upright.

II.—The "K" is more closed while the "S" slopes to the left from above.

16 skilling. I.—The "S" and "K" are spaced, the former letter being upright.

II.—The letters "SK" are close together; the "S" is sloping; and the "6" of "16" has the head more bent than in the first type."

These stamps were issued at the time when a change in perforation in the ordinary stamps was under way. The first lot of the 4 and 16 skilling were perforated by the old machine gauging 12½, 13, while all three values were later issued with the 14x13½ perforation. All three denominations are known entirely imperforate and the paper on which all were printed has the Crown watermark like the contemporary stamps for regular use.

The Circular of December 19th, 1874, which we have already referred to in connection with the ordinary stamps of 1874-79, also announced an issue of official stamps in the new crown currency to appear on the 1st of January following.

The series comprised four values—3, 4, 8 and 32 öre—and the design is identical with that of the last issue except as regards the value at foot. The paper and watermark are the same as the postage stamps of the same period.

Mr. Hanciau has found two varieties of the 4 öre, irregularly distributed in the sheets, one having the numeral "4" wider and with a larger lower stroke than the other. Two varieties are also said to exist in the 8 öre differing in the shape of the figures.

In July, 1899, the 4 and 8 öre appeared on the thicker, whiter, paper with 12½, 13 perforation first introduced for the regular postage stamps some three years previously. The 3 öre with this same perforation was issued on May, 1902, and in October of the same year new 1, 5, and 10 öre stamps were issued with this perforation. The design of the new values is exactly the same as the others.

The 32 öre value was never issued with the 12½, 13 perforation and on October 1st, 1902, this denomination, as well as the 8 öre, was withdrawn from circulation.

In 1915 all the values of the official series then current—the 1, 3, 4, 5 and 10 öre—were printed on the new paper with multiple crosses watermark like the contemporary stamps for regular use. The addition of a 15 öre value to the set in January, 1920, completes the history of these stamps to date.

In the first series only the 2 skilling shows any real variation in tint but in the 1875 set all values provide shade varieties, those of the 3 and 4 öre being numerous and quite striking.

According to official documents the numbers printed of the obsolete denominations were as follows:—

2 skilling	902,200
4 skilling	2,377,900
16 skilling	309,600
8 öre	6,209,300
32 öre	560,200

EDITORIAL.

Reduced—Evidently, the recent special sale of the Pilgrim stamps instituted by the postmasters at the request of the department was a success as the P. M.'s have now been advised to cease plying the wiles of their salesmanship, as may be seen from the order of the department, as follows: "Postmasters are advised that the surplus of 1, 2 and 5 cent Pilgrim Tercentenary stamps has now been sufficiently reduced as to make it unnecessary for postmasters to offer them to patrons in lieu of the current series, unless excessive quantities are held in stock. Postmasters are instructed in future to submit requisitions for only such quantities as will be needed to supply patrons who express a preference for them."

Roll—Stamp Collecting, our weekly contemporary, shows journalistic enterprise in providing its readers so promptly with a comprehensive report of the earlier proceedings of the British Philatelic Congress at Harrogate, England. Rightly, emphasis is placed upon His Majesty's willingness to be placed at the head of the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists. As Stamp Collecting says: "No higher testimony than this could be paid to the worthiness of the Royal Hobby." Those honored with distinction, in this country, are: Dr. Carroll Chase; C. A. Howes; John F. Luff; B. W. H. Poole; Charles Lathrop Pack; W. R. Ricketts and Chas. E. Severn. The next Congress for 1923 will be held in London, "in conjunction with the Great Exhibition." We gather from the reports that the Congress was a success and discharged its duties to a nicety; and as we have said before, we are much impressed by the well-ordered programme.

Publicity—A discussion on Mr. D. B. Armstrong's paper, "Philatelic Propaganda in the United Kingdom," was an item that attracted our attention and we shall expectantly await particulars of the findings of the Congress. The possibilities of philatelic publicity are such that there can be no valid argument against a campaign of recruiting for stamp collecting. The only argument is over the choice of ways and means for conducting the work but as the subject is viewed from its different angles, the best mode of procedure finally will be adopted.

Queer—From Professor F. G. Middleton, we have received copies of the 1½ sen and 3 sen commemorative of Japan, accompanied by the very interesting observations as follows: "I enclose copies of the 1½ sen and 3 sen commemorative stamps which celebrate the 50th anniversary of the establishment of postal service in Japan. There are two more values that I do not enclose; and this is why. During recent years, Japan has issued several commemorative issues. Later, some of the values have risen in price to figures that are very attractive to those holding any quantity of the stamps. This latest issue was put on sale Wednesday morning, April 20th. At ten minutes to six (A. M.) our friend, R. Yokohori went to the post office to get complete sets. At that early hour only ten copies of the ten sen were for sale, and Yokohori San was allowed only one copy. At this time, he saw several clerks in the back part of the room calmly dividing a sheet of tens among themselves. Exclamation point. The four sen and ten sen are being held by post office clerks, who bought up every available stamp. Never have I wanted to be able to express myself in Japanese so much as I did last Wednesday. At that words would have failed me as there is no profanity in Japanese. In a few weeks, the ten sen will come on the market; probably at from 75c to $1.50, and the Great American philatelic public will probably prove again that Barnum was right. A special cancellation was also used on these stamps. A circle encloses an envelope with several peace doves fluttering about. As I write, there are naval airplanes soaring aloft, and every day one sees soldiers marching along the streets. The Japanese have a fine vein of irony. This special cancellation is only used as a souvenir, and is not a true postal cancellation. It is really a decoration and nothing else.

Stamps—The design of the three and ten sen, engraved taille-douce, is that of the Tokyo post office, we believe, while the 1½ and four sen are surface-printed and bi-colored, the four sen coming in two shades of red on the same stamp, and show the national flag of Japan, between two of the divisional flags of that country. The design of the two flag stamps is as eccentric as that of Japan's first stamps of 1871 were in the estimation of the stamp collectors of that period. The addition to Japan to the list of stamp-issuing countries made a decided impression on the collectors of a half-century ago. In those days when a collection of one thousand stamps meant something new stamps were eagerly welcomed; and in fact, spool labels, license stamps and other labels were accepted by many collectors as soothing the aching void. Here is a characteristic notice of the first issue of Japan from the contemporary philatelic press: "The appearance of these stamps has caused quite a stir amongst philatelists, sufficient to cause one of our contemporaries to state they were the first to chronicle them. As this is not true it shows how excited they must have got about it, for all their readers know that they never made a mis-statement, and every word in any American paper is a lie (see any number of their papers). Since our description of them in the July number, we have been favored with three of the stamps to copy. The set consists of four stamps; the colors and values are: ½ tempo brown, 1 tempo blue, 5 tempos green, —vermilion." Now what can the hell-hounds of the hated rival say to that.

Permit—We are pleased to mark the enterprise of the county auditor, who from his court house at St. Clairsville, Ohio, sends out the blanks for personal tax returns in a first-class mail Permit No. 1 envelope, with the postmark, St. Clairsville, Ohio, April 6, 1921." This, verily, is gilding the pill for the stamp collector, as Mr. Chas. B. Ryan, who sends the Permit, will admit.

* * *

Express—Hundreds of times the romantic Pony Express has furnished the theme of articles in the magazines and newspapers, not to mention the stamp press. Too, at least one book is devoted wholly to the history of the enterprise that stands high in the annals of American accomplishment. One of the best accounts of the Pony Express is the recital of "Uncle Dan" Drumheiler, who in the Spokesman-Review of Spokane, April 10, 1921, tells of the wild freighting and express days "when marauding Indians and Buffalo held sway." We thank J. M. Hitt, librarian of the Washington State Library, Olympia, Washington, for the clipping which we shall present in part, at least, in an early number, as the testimony from the lips of one who rode the route himself is worth having.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1585 to 1588 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In my chronicle of last week mention was made of the discovery of the 2c rotary print, unwatermarked, perforated 11 instead of the perf. 11x10 as heretofore. I stated that these were in sheets of 170 subjects and were therefore undoubtedly coil waste I now learn through the courtesy of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing that among the waste there were some stamps that were imperforated entirely instead of perforated one way and that this imperforate waste was run through the regular machines both ways, hence, the new variety. These stamps were packed with the regular compounds and delivered to the New York Post Office and how many were saved I have no way of knowing. It is more than likely that a slight change such as this may have slipped the attention of most clerks and that there are not a great many around.

Mr. D. C. Hammett kindly sends for inspection a part of a pane of the 3c offset print, type IV in which over three-fourths of the first vertical row of stamps is without color. This most unusual as well as interesting block was found in the Topeka Post Office. The manner in which all of these offset printed stamps are produced is such that many odd varieties are obtainable and it will pay our readers to watch the large stocks of the 2c stamps which are now being widely distributed.

Heretofore the 2c surface print, type I has only been seen in the one light shade which varies but slightly. I know in filling a page of my own collection that I had great difficulty in getting blocks that showed even slight variations. I have recently had the pleasure of going over quite a large lot of plate number blocks and was fortunate in locating one block in as deep a red as I have ever seen the later types. A double print of this type I has never been located to the best of my knowledge although some collector may have been so fortunate as to have found such a stamp and put it into his collection without saying anything about it.

Several years back the Post Office Department started to use envelopes turned in for redemption for their official mail by simply marking out the corner card by means of a black solid rectangle and printing the official penalty permit over the embossed stamp. The Dead Letter Office especially has used a large number while the office of the Third Assistant Postmaster General often uses them in their correspondence with postmasters. These stamped official envelopes are to be found in all sizes on all colors of paper, in the 1c, 2c and 3c denomination. Some of the 4c and 5c may have been used in the same way although I have as yet to hear of them. I simply mention this fact for many of our readers are kindly calling these varieties to my attention at this time. Personally I think them well worthy of recognition and are entitled to rank with the old Department Official envelopes of many years back.

During the last week I have seen the first of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes bearing the Meridian, Mississipp overprint and through the kindness of a correspondent in that state we are able to list quite a few varieties. The Postmaster at Salt Lake City has also opened his heart somewhat and on second request kindly sends me a little selection for chronicle.

Our very able New Orleans correspondent, Mr. Cassius L. Clay, comes in strong this week with quite a few from his city.

Mr. LeGrand Payne writes to inform me that they have on sale in Indianapolis the 2c return postals overprinted in Chicago. We also have quite a large stock here in Philadelphia which will without doubt be revalued one of these days.

We wish to thank Messrs. Emil Jost, M. S. Ryan, H. E. Damsereau, H. B. Howard, Fred Stenton, Jr., and B. C. Wear for notes of interest.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman under date of the 9th inst. advises that the new 50c blue, will appear on the occasion of the opening of the Exposition at Brussels on the 26th of May. It is printed on special paper in sheets of 50: it will later on be issued on ordinary paper to the general public in sheets of 100.

CZECHO SLOVAKIA.—Mr. Henry Hooreman advises that all stamps perforated and imperforated including aero issues of the castle type are now obsolete.

EGYPT.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit copies of the 2m and 10m in lighter shades than heretofore and also the 50m in plum color.

SPEAKING OF HIGH PRICES:—

A certain early European postage stamp issued before 1850 which has been a standard rarity ever since there have been stamp collectors is selling abroad for the equivalent of one thousand American gold dollars—more than 50% higher than the American catalog price.

I offer two very good copies — about equally fine—for less than catalog.

First check for $333.33 received takes the first copy. Price of the other copy is $500. Whoever sends the second check will have first shot at the second copy—at $500.

Neither stamp is wonderfully superb, but both are in better condition than this rare stamp is usually found. I need not state that both are guaranteed genuine—absotively!

UNITED STATES—ROTARY PRINT
2c Carmine, Perf. 11

Made from the imperforated rotary coil waste. Issued in sheets of 170. Do not know if it is going to be a rarity or if it will be as common as dirt. Inquired of several New York dealers yesterday (May 24th) and they had not even heard of the variety. One dealer said he had a few, but would not sell them.

If you are a sport, send me 50c for a mint block and take a chance. In a year it may be worth $5 or it may be worth only 10c. Price not guaranteed. You are taking a chance. Pikers please keep their money. It is my opinion, however, that it is a good buy.

We have been having the compounds from the rotary waste for over two years and have never had any imperforated waste before. Will we ever have it again? A New York correspondent writes that he has tried to obtain them from most of the stations, but without success.

ITALY.—M. Theodore Champion informs us of the impending appearance of three stamps commemorating the restoration of the Julian Venetia to Italy, which will be sold at twice their face value in aid of a specified charity. —Stamp Collecting.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us a copy of the 2c stamp of 1906-08 issue surcharged "3" in black with two horizontal lines obliterating the former figures. Mr. Hooreman also adds that this country will later issue a commemorative stamp to remember the Monumment du Souvenir but further details are as yet lacking.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. Henry Hooreman informs us that a new set of Aero stamps has just been issued; also that a 15c value has been seen.

PALESTINE.—A further large consignment of the tri-lingual overprinted stamps having come to hand, Mr. Oswald Marsh gives the position on the sheet of the "PALESTINB" error. It occurs on the third stamp in the second row of the lower pane and is to be found on the 20 piastre value as well as on those already mentioned.—Stamp Collecting.

POLAND.—Mr. Frank Kocher has shown us a copy of a 10mk stamp of a new type. The stamp is of the usual shape and in the centre shows a man sowing seed. At the top in each corner are figures of value while at the base is "Poczta Polska". In the lower right corner is the Polish eagle in a frame. The color is gray blue.

The Economist Stamp Co. have submitted to us a copy of the 15mk of the same type, the color being pale brown.

RUSSIAN POST IN TURKEY.—Messrs. Bright & Son send us the following:

We have received an interesting letter from our correspondent in Constantinople who holds a high position in the British Administration there, referring to the General Wrangel issues, which we think will be of interest to many of your readers. We quote as follows:—

"As regards the stamps with the overprint on the Ukraine Trident, I cannot get official information at the moment as to the quantities printed, as the Director of Posts is away, but I understand the number of the commonest values is 4,100 stamps and of the least common values 1 or 2 sheets, or even less.

There was a population of 100,000 Russians in Constantinople at the time these stamps were issued. The need for an issue for the use of the Russian Post Office was very real and I can vouch for the fact that a minimum of 300 letters a day for 6 weeks was franked by this issue. These stamps in actual fact and actual use are Russian Levant issues and lineal successors to the Russian stamps surcharged in piastres.

The change to rouble currency was explained to me at the Russian Embassy, as all part (and that a very small part) of the General Wrangel policy to retain recognition of his government, if in exile here, as the only loyalist Russian Government, Constantinople being the Seat of such Government.

The issue was at first intended for the Army Corps only, but owing to need, its use became general. This Government here is treated by the Great Powers, as a power it still has, with England, France and Italy the right of the "Capitulations", which gives it its own Courts of Justice, its Embassy and its own post. If ever there was need for "Russian post in Turkey" it is now and the change from the piastre to the rouble value on the stamps is due purely to political consideration and the absurdity of "20,000 roubles" to depreciated currency. In point of actual use, these stamps should be classed as "Russian Post in Turkey" and as such they were used to fill a real need."

SAARGEBIET.—Mr. P. J. Kranz submits the following values of the last issued set with the surcharges, 20pf "3 cent", 25pf "5 cent", 30pf "10 cent", 40pf "15 cent", 50pf "20 cent", 60pf "25 cent" 80pf "30 cent", 1m "40 cent", 1.25 "50 cent", 2m "75 cent", 3m "1 fr", 5m "2fr", 10m "3fr", 25m "5 Franken". Mr. Kranz adds that the specially prepared stamps of this country became obsolete on May 1st. The new surcharge is centime instead of pfennig. Rumor has it the new stamps are in preparation and will be on sale in a few weeks. Since May 1st the population of Saargebiet must pay in French money at the Post Offices and at all railroad ticket offices. Merchants refuse the French money so it becomes necessary for every one to have currency of both countries on hand.

SWITZERLAND.—We have received from Edouard Locher and A. Koechlin specimens of the 25c blue surcharged "20". The original value is obliterated by three parallel red lines, while the "20" is in large red numerals in the lower center. It is a very striking overprint.

JUST COMMON COURTESY.

Whenever we write a letter asking for information we make it a practice to enclose an addressed stamped envelope for reply. It is simply a common everyday courtesy that should not be neglected. Why should we expect anyone to trouble themselves with a request we have made upon them when we do not even pay the postage upon the reply? The ethics of correspondence require that this little detail be given proper consideration.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

BELGIUM.—Complete sheets of the Olympian Games issue with surcharges show that specialists will have a lot of joy with minor varieties. The 20 on 5c green shows the stop under "C" at left, spaced below the level of the figures on Nos. 1, 7, 23, 29, 41, 43, 45, 47, 49, 61, 63, 81, 83, 87 and 89. As the period is more than a millimetre below its normal position, the difference is very noticeable. In the sheet of 20 on 10c carmine, the sixth stamp lacks the right-hand period beneath "C", and a number of the stamps have the bar composed of two spaced pieces of rule instead of one continuous piece. These are Nos. 44, 46, 54, 65, 69, 78, 88, 95. Most of them are probably due to mutilated rule, but the space on 65 amounts to 2mm. The 20 on 15c has lowered left stops on Nos. 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 21, 23, 25, 27, 29, 41, 43, 45, 47, 49, and similarly for rows seven and nine, thus in this imprint all odd stamps in odd rows have misplaced period at left, making 25 in the sheet. The regular arrangement certainly suggests design!

The 15 Fr. carmine, parcel post, has also arrived. These are perf. 14¼, comb machine.

FIUME.—All of the "Valore Globale" stamps have been converted into Dues by means of two varieties of surcharge, one, consisting of a fragment of an ornamental border, new value, and SEGNATASSE, being applied to the oblong stamps; the other, with a semi-circular, 7-segmented floreate ornament, etc., being applied to the rectangles. The combination of two surcharges on one stamp is strongly suggestive of Gorgonzola: the price is less, about 60c for the entire set of 12 varieties.

.02 on 15c; .04 on 10c; .05 on 25c; .06 on 20c; .10 on 20c; .20 on 45c; .30 on 1c; .40 on 80c; .50 on 60c; .60 on 45c; .80 on 45c; L. 1.00 on 2 Cor.

It always seems mysterious that it should be necessary to surcharge something to get a value already in stock, but they do it that way in Nicaragua, so why not in Fiume?

LUXEMBOURG.—A new provisional, 20c on 17½c brown, Adelaide type, has appeared. The old value is barred by three parallel, horizontal bars. Another provisional, 3c on 2c, has been reported, but I have not seen it. However, the new 1fr carmine has arrived, and instead of showing the portrait of the Grand Duchess Charlotte, as has been stated in a couple of European journals, it exhibits a fine picture of Vianden castle, one of the oldest, and certainly the finest, of the mediaeval Luxembourg chateaux. Vianden is situated on an eminence on the River Our, and must have been absolutely impregnable in its day. It was the residence of the Counts of Vianden, the founders of the Dutch Republic, and its prestige still persists.

The stamp is beautifully engraved, 1 GRAND DUCHE Fr. above, LUXEMBOURG below the picture. These inscriptions are in REAL Gothic letters, (Percy McG. M. please notice) while the insert inscription VIANDEN is in sans-serif caps, the so-called Gothic of American type-founders.

The picture is taken from the "land" side, though the view from the river side of the castle is much more striking and shows the building and site to better advantage.

The perforation gauges 11, and the stamps are evidently of Dutch production, the workmanship resembling that of the Enschede establishment.

SARRE.—The new pictorial set is a typographical atrocity of the worst variety, its "rank" in this respect being next to the recent Central Lithuanian kalsomine creations.

Several of the low values have two tête-bêche pairs in each sheet, and there is one alleged error, which is reminiscent of the "error" in the pictorial Roumania set of 1906.

Most of the subjects are coal-mining scenes, but it is rather difficult to decide just what the artist intended. An Italian contemporary affirms that these stamps are of rare beauty, but he will find few American collectors to agree with him.

*5pf olive and violet, Sarre valley and river.
10pf orange and blue.
*20pf blue-green and myrtle green, coal train and coal breaker.
*25pf brown and blue, coal barges.
*30pf grey-green and brown, Sarre valley.
*30pf olive and brown, error.
*40pf red, apparently an immense coal heap.
50pf grey-black, coal train.
60pf Mettlach tower, red and brown.
*80pf blue, Saar bridge, Saarbruck.
Mk. 1.00 red and black coal conveyor.
M. 1.25 coal mine, bistre and green.
M. 2.00 City Hall, Saarbruck, red and black.
M. 3.00 Mettlach pottery factory, brown and grey.
M. 5.00 Church of Louis XIV, yellow and violet.
M. 10.00 Palace of the Resident-General, green and red-brown.
M. 25.00 (Correspondent does not state clearly), ultra, black, and red.
* Tête-bêche.

The writer has seen about half the set, the other information having been received from two correspondents whose statements do not agree in all particulars. The stamps are perf. 12½, comb machine, and are not by any means spaced the same, so that many specimens are very badly centred. They are printed 100 to a sheet, with marginal imprint of value of rows at the top. All have SAARGEBIET above, and value below, the "picture".

This set is absolutely speculative, as the news has been made public that it is to be in use only a short time. Furthermore, of some values much used only a limited number have been printed, while of others, little in demand, enormous quantities have been produced, which indicates that we shall have another fine crop of surcharges in the near future.

SILESIA.—With one plebiscite over, it is not quite apparent why there should be another issue of plebiscite stamps, nevertheless the 1920 issue has been overprinted PLEBISCITE 20 mars 1921 in three lines on the stamps of 10, 15, 20, 25, 30, and 40pf, and in slightly different type, in two lines, on the 50, 60, 75, and 80pf and 1 Mk.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"I can answer a few of Mr. McArthur's questions. Guatemala Scott's No. 111, 6c on 25c, is listed in Champion's 1921 catalog as red and not rose. As regards Gwalior No. 114, the same catalog has this note concerning the stamp in question:—'The space between the two lines of the surcharge varies from 8 to 10 millimetres.' This peculiarity therefore is to be found in the whole series, and also Scott's No. 123 and No. 124. The Champion catalog lists the Philippines official seals, the illustration of this stamp being identical with the U. S. seal except for the inscription. Three varieties are noted, (1) brown, perf. 12, (2) yellow brown and bistre yellow, both rouletted, (3) saffron yellow, also rouletted. No. 1 is unwatermarked, while the last three varieties have P. I. P. P. S."—EDWARD BROWN.

—In the issue of May 7, was an advertisement of the Pilgrim Stamp Co., and in it blocks of Great Britain 1d 1840 were offered at from 50c to $1.50. This was some bargain certainly, but it turns out to be a mistake. The company has the advertisement in corrected form in this issue, and we regret any inconvenience we may have given the company in this typographical error.

—The Brooklyn (N. Y.) Stamp Club has organized a drive for new members. Two teams under Captains Patteck and Norli are contesting for the honors. The club has a membership of fifty and is out after two hundred.

—"Kindly advise your readers in your next issue, that orders for stamps for collectors can no longer be filled by the postmaster at Manhattan, Kansas."—L. ROY ENGLE.

—"Please to send me one or two copies of your paper. Enclosed you will find one set 'Red Cross' for revenge, but I have not unused U. S. A. Stamps for payment."—MARIE SIEGL.

BEHIND THE BAR IN A STAMP SHOP.

By BILL BLOSS.

One of the fascinations of stamp collecting seems to be stamp dealing, for almost every collector aspires to be a dealer, and most of them are. But, believe me, Charley, she ain't always what she's cracked up to be, as the old man said when he busted the 1918 model egg.

In the interest of the Weakly, I got me a job in a stamp shop for one day, to cop off the secrets of the profesh. A stamp dealer today needs more patients than Doc Hennan.

I made my way to Dearborn Street, with the aid of a crossing cop, and my eighteen years experience in Chicago, and entering the lift in the Blank Building, directed the pilot to let me off at the office of the unfortunate dealer I had selected for my experiment.

My heart beat rapidly as I opened the door of his one room suite; I presented my card to the ferocious office boy, and after mature deliberation, he permitted me to pass around the table to the private office of the great stamp magnet. In a low tone, such as Eddie Dodd uses when he tells the price of the rare boys, I asked the dealer if I could assist him for a short time.

He directed me to fill out an application blank, furnished by his employment manager. This included such questions as:—

What is a perforation?

What would you do when a customer threatens to leave the shop with $5.00 still in his possession?

What would you do if a customer offered you a collection of early U. S. at a tenth of catalog?

After filling out the card, he passed me to the psychological test, which was very interesting. It consisted of building a house out of building blocks, marking out the fourth word in ten sentences, timing me while I picked out the watermark on the 20c Phillipines, and suddenly thrusting in front of me, a pair of is Office Mauritius stamps, to show the reaction of my palms.

Having passed the psychological st with a rating of 100%, he had my fin prints taken, gave me a physical exa ination, and then questioned me.

"What would you do if a custo insisted on having all the high va Honduras postally cancelled?" he as

"I'd send him out in the hall whi cancelled them for him," I answere

"What would you do if he woul buy a straight edge stamp?"

"I would run down the street What's-his-name and borrow his perforator."

"Very good, young man. You seem know the business. I will now in you with the badge of your office," he presented me with a pair of st tongs. I was then a full-fledged st clerk. He left me in charge of the o while he and the office boy went ove shoot a game of Kelly pool.

No sooner had he left, than the d opened, and a gentleman entered. asked me to show him some stamp li ature. I produced a copy of "The T Tickets of Evanston, Highly Specializ by Rob Nickels, the celebrated Eng street car conductor. He bought it, I rang up the price in the cash regis Since the register only rings cents, the book sold for twelve dollars, it t me several minutes to ring it up. I made my first sale.

Soon an extinguished looking for gentleman entered the office. I kn him at once to be foreign from the that he addressed me with "Wie Geh gested that he take it to one of our rivals down the street, figuring that the more he bought, the quicker he would be out of business.

Business being quiet, I commenced to take the stamps out of an old collection. The man who made it was a condition crank, and had used great care to see that every stamp was badly damaged. In case any should have escaped that condition, he had glued them to the book with fish glue. They stuck tighter than a Pullman car window, and I wore out two sets of tongs trying to pry them loose.

The morning's mail arrived. The postman, assisted by his helper, dragged in a great basket filled with registered consignments from the dealers in Germany. I ran the registered receipts through the motor driven machine kept for signing them, then the postman handed me two more letters, being lots returned from customers.

With reckless abandon, I kicked the basket into the corner, and opened the letters, taking out the selections of A1's Azure Approvals and the 22 cents in remittances. One of the lots, from a high school boy, contained a want list for such stamps as Hawaiian Missionaries, U. S. Postmaster's Provisionals, as well as some twentieth century cheap stamps which he had no intention of buying, but wanted to see if we had them. The other was from a new customer, who returned the book without buying. He wrote: "Your stamps are fine, but as I am a Pullman conductor, I am only interested in the sleepers, of which there were none in this lot."

Then I tackled the consignments. They were mostly new issues, many being unused, and some both used and unused. Some of the stamps had never been any nearer a post office than when they went through the mail, either.

One set of Russian stamps impressed me greatly. It was made by surcharging blanks printed for marriage licenses, which have been cut out by the Bolshes. There were the Latvia map stamps printed on sausage wrappers, a new set of Hungarian charity stamps, for the benefit of impoverished stamp collectors, and another set designed to impoverish them if not already that way. Another new set bore a picture of a billiard ball, which I afterward discovered was a Fiume set picturing Gabriel himself. Danderine never grew his hair, and we can prove it. A new set was in the lot from Turkey, celebrating the first anniversary of the day that no stamps were surcharged.

While I was looking them over, the boss came in and suggested that I go to lunch. Wishing something to read while waiting for lunch, I grabbed up a sheet of old Siam surcharges, full of interesting errors.

ONE WAY OF COLLECTING.

THE HAWAIIAN AFFAIR.

Our readers are familiar with the fact that in December, 1919, John A. Klemann, President of the Nassua Stamp Co., New York, purchased of George H. Grinnell, a professor in the Los Angeles High School, and a member of the American Philatelic Society, 43 Hawaiian Missionary Postage Stamps, 11 being of the denomination of 2c, 9 of the denomination of 5c, and 15 being of the denomination of 13c, besides 8 of the same varieties which were in damaged condition, for which he paid $65,000.00.

After Klemann's return to New York on or about December 12th, 1919, he decided that the stamps that he had purchased were not genuine, and returning to California, filed a complaint in the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles against Grinnell and attached his funds in bank, as well as his personal property and real estate, for the recovery of the $65,000.00 paid and interest.

The above summary is practically an extract from the petition filed, which is entitled "Complaint for money paid by mistake and without consideration". Mr. George H. Grinnell, answering, filed in Court a document that denies that the Hawaiian Missionary Stamps were counterfeit and worthless. He declares that the stamps were submitted to Klemann, were carefully inspected, and he bought them on his own judgment, and that Mr. Grinnell then and now believes them to be genuine Hawaiian postage stamps. He further states that John A. Klemann being a dealer in used and unused postage stamps, supposed to be "learned and skilled in philately, and was and is, by reason of his knowledge thereof, and his experience in handling, classifying, appraising, purchasing, and dealing in and with postage stamps, skilled in discriminating between genuine postage stamps and forged or imitation postage stamps; that defendant at all times herein mentioned believed, and does now believe, that said chattels were and are genuine postage stamps, but defendant is not now, and never has been or professed to be, an expert philatelist, and so stated to plaintiff prior to the sale and delivery of said chattels as aforesaid; that defendant prior to said sale and delivery expressly stated to plaintiff that if plaintiff purchased said chattels he must do so upon plaintiff's own examination and inspection, and relying solely upon plaintiff's own knowledge and skill aforesaid, that in selling said chattels to plaintiff, and during all negotiations with plaintiff aforesaid, defendant at all times refrained from affirming or warranting that said chattels were genuine postage stamps and expressly refused to so affirm or warrant that in purchasing and accepting said chattels from defendant, plaintiff at all times relied solely upon his own examination and inspection of said chattels as aforesaid, and upon his own knowledge and skill aforesaid."

We have not space at our disposal to publish the complete Complaint and Answer to same, but the above synopsis gives a pretty fair idea of the situation for the benefit of our readers.

We have sent for certified copies of the Depositions which have been taken in the case, and in an early number, additional items of information connected therewith will be given for their benefit.

One of the curious things in regard to the Hawaiian affair is the connection with the Secret Service Department of the United States.

In Klemann's Complaint, the fifth paragraph reads as follows:

"The Secret Service department of the United States of America has demanded of plaintiff the possession of said pieces of paper delivered to him as aforesaid by defendant, for the reason that they and each of them are forgeries or imitations, and that the possession thereof by plaintiff is unlawful, and plaintiff, on December 24, 1919, surrendered said writings and each of them to said Secret Service Department, and for this reason, and for no other reason, plaintiff has not returned said pieces of paper to defendant."

PARIS 13 rue Drouot PARIS, FRANCE

In Grinnell's Answer, the fourth paragraph, he

"Denies that the Secret Service Department of the United States of America has demanded of plaintiff the possession of said pieces of paper delivered to him as alleged, by defendant; or any pieces of paper delivered to plaintiff by defendant, for the reason that they or each of them are forgeries or imitations, or that the possession thereof by plaintiff is unlawful, or for any other reason or at all; denies that on December 24, 1919, or at any other time, plaintiff surrendered said writings or pieces of paper or each of them, to said Secret Service Department because said Secret Service Department had demanded of plaintiff the possession of the same; denies that the reason that plaintiff has surrendered said writings or pieces of paper to said Secret Service Department plaintiff has not returned said pieces of paper to defendant; denies that plaintiff has not returned said pieces of paper to defendant for no other reason than that plaintiff has surrendered said pieces of paper to said Secret Service Department."

It is hard to understand what business the Secret Service of the United States has with a private affair, such as the sale of the early Hawaiian Missionary stamps whether they are good or bad, and that particular phase of the case has excited a good deal of interest and comment.

A very interesting observation made by an old collector who is also an attorney at law, suggests that if the Hawaiian Missionaries are really bad and the result of a gigantic fraud, the fact that the dice box variety (catalogue No. 4) being missing from the lot, is probably to be accounted for by the fact that the inscription on this variety (Scott's No. 4) was "H. I. & U. S. Postage," as he suggests that there might have been a possible liability for forging a stamp that bore an inscription including the letters "U. S. Postage."

It has already been observed that the Hawaiian bunch of Missionaries consisted altogther of Scott's Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and that No. 4, the 13c stamp bearing the compound inscription, was entirely missing.—Albemarle Stamp Collector.

We see that a man named Nickels is asking $8. for a French Colonial packet.

A man named Musick is also dispensing philatelic squares, and, of course, he wants "notes" in payment.

The wife asked us to look at the Sicily plates that Eugene Klein is advertising. She is just crazy for a new set of china!

While speaking of friend wife, we might state that she bears watching when she has a letter to post. A two cent stamp is a two cent stamp to her, even when it is a five cent red error!

We note with interest P. McG. Mann's new arrangement of U. S. stamps, but we won't change ours, not by a long shot. We had a Heligoland of a time arranging them, but they are beautiful now. A balled up combination of Gibbons and Scott!

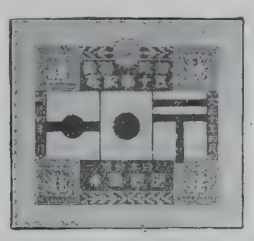
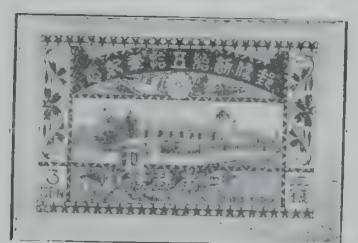
NEW JAPANESE STAMPS.

By R. YOKOHORI.

I am very glad to state that a set of commemorative stamps has just been issued which will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the inauguration of the postal service in Japan. The date was April 20th.

The set comprises four values, 1½, 3, 4 and 10 sen, 1½ and 4 sen being surface printed in two colors while the 3 and 10 sen are recess printed in one color. All are on white unwatermarked wove paper.





There are two designs, the 1½ and 4 sen being of the same design, while the 3 and 10 sen in another. The design for the former is rather unusual and shows in the center of the stamp in red three different flags. From left to right they are the old postal flag, the national flag of Japan, and the present postal flag. In the four corners of the frame in olive green may be found the designs of the four values of the first issue of Japan, all reproduced in miniature. In the upper center is the usual imperial crest with characters denoting "In Commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of the Inauguration of the Postal Service". Below there are characters which translated mean "Imperial Post 1½ sen" or "4 sen" respectively, with the dates "April in the 10th Year of Taisho (1921)", and "March in the 4th Year of Meiji (1871)", given in the tablets connecting the upper and the lower frames.

The stamps are printed in sheets of ten horizontal rows of ten stamps each and are perforated 12½ by comb machines.

The design for the 3 and 10 sen values shows no great deviation from the usual Japanese commemorative stamp but the framework is most strongly Japanese, including fifty stars representing fifty years. The large building in the center is that of the Department of Communications in Tokyo, with the statue of Baron M. Mayeshima the founder of the Japanese postal system in the foreground. The inscriptions described above are also found upon these two values. The 3 sen is in dark chestnut brown and the 10 sen is in blue, and each sheet contains fifty stamps in ten horizontal rows of five stamps each and they are perforated 13 by comb machines.

All the stamps were printed at the government printing bureau in Tokyo. The number issued is unknown as usual, but only small quantities of the 4 and 10 sen appear to have been printed. These stamps sold out early at all the post-offices not only in Tokyo but also in the whole country after having been placed on sale for an hour or less. I had been advised by Mr. Kimura and other friends that these two values were printed in small numbers. I could get for my own use a single copy of the 10 sen and twenty-five copies of the 4 sen. At a special meeting held upon Mr. Kimura's invitation to talk about our success and failure in getting these stamps on the day of issue we were told that about five hundred thousand of the 4 sen and fifty thousand of the 10 sen had been issued. Of the other two values great quantities were printed. Without doubt the 10 sen will soon be quite scarce and the stamp is selling today for 3 yen ($1.50).

A special cancellation stamp and a set of commemorative picture post cards were also used. The Department of Communications has also issued a set of picture post cards without value stamp to commemorate the occasion, consisting of two cards. One of them shows four values of the first postage stamp in their original colors, also an envelope and post card of the first issue. The other card shows the Postal Bureau in the center with a post-box and a postman on horseback, all belonging to the first period.

Mr. Collector, here is a chance to fill your vacant spaces.

H. F. COLMAN

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

The members of the Yuraku Kwai have also issued two handsome picture post cards to celebrate the event. One with the early postage stamps of Japan printed in three colors under special permission of the Department of Communications, while the other has the statue of Baron Mayeshima, with the building of the D. C. at back and with portrait of Mr. Noda, the present Minister of the Department. These cards, as well as the four new commemorative stamps, are all very artistic, rich in their designs and colorings, and a marked contribution to Japanese philately.

A LETTER FROM MR. HAWORTH.

(It was my privilege last August to make the acquaintance of Wilfred B. Haworth, editor of the "Philatelic Journal of Great Britain." I met him at Mr. Melville's early one afternoon, and we were together until late in the evening, so that we got well acquainted. I take the liberty of publishing a friendly communication just at hand, as it covers various philatelic matters of mutual interest. — W. O. W.)

Very many thanks indeed for your letter of April 15th. The books arrived quite safely in "mint" condition and I sat down right away to read Hill's, "Range Tales". They are the first philatelic stories I have come across that are true to life and worth reading. All the others from Crocketts "Me and Thyn" to "The Lady Forger" are rubbish or unnatural.

Moreover they are worth while handing over to a non-philatelic friend—in fact, I have already done so, with excellent results. I heartily congratulate you on the "Make up" (that is if a very small star in the Milky Way can dare to do this).

As to the other books, they are all of great value. I have not had time to read them over yet, since I had to trek to Harrogate for the Congress. By the way this was a real good do. I've been cudgelling my brains to find something to criticise in the arrangements but cannot rake up a solitary item. There are only two weak spots and these come in the reports of two subcommittees and consequently have nothing to do with Harrogate.

Mrs. Terry had a great reception when she invited the Congress to meet in London in 1923 under the auspices of the J. P. S. We are going to have a huge International Exhibition that year, on the same lines as the one we had in 1912 at the Horticultural Hall, and of course the Congress will be part of the show. You will have to save up your "bawbees" as they say up North, and come over for that.

I'm glad you found my article of interest. It struck me that it is not often one gets anything which is at the same time of value to the Philatelist, Autograph-collector and Historian.

Thank you for your very flattering remarks about P. J. of G. B. I try to do my best to keep it up to a decent standard, but it is rather uphill work. I have however the promise of a very important translation from the German which I hope may materialise soon.

"ISLE OF WOOD AND WATER."

By HERMAN FOCKE.

The 5 shillings value of the new pictorial set of Jamaica, issued to the public on or about the 15th of May, is so extraordinary a stamp that it deserves of a few words to explain its historical meaning.

In color it shows an orange-brown frame and an indigo centre or vignette with the following inscriptions: at top the name of the Colony in large caps, below the words "Isle of Wood and Water" in two lines, at the sides the words Postage at left and Revenue at right, and in the four corners the value 5/- in white round tablets.

The subject shown in the centre represents the principal characteristics of the Island, the Woods and the Waters, and symbolizes, so to speak, the name which history has given Jamaica precisely on account of its abundance of the two.

In the foreground at the right one perceives a waterfall rushing over a rock, and from a lake in the centre another fall runs towards the lower centre. Between these two falls one sees a small figure which is to represent the god Pan, playing his flute, being seated on the rock, presumably as an accompaniment to the music of the waters. At the right and left and around the lake are trees, presumably the Pimento and other hardwood trees of which the Island abounds, and through their branches one sees a ridge of mountains, apparently snow-capped, though this is not true as to Jamaica, but rather indicates the greyish-blue hue one perceives in the morning hours hovering over the tops of the Blue Mountains, and which has given them their name.

Above these mountains, and still surrounded by the tops of the tallest trees, one sees a number of stars, which may represent the constellation of Aquarius, the Waterman, the most appropriate one to harmonize with the scenery, that is, the water, while Pan is supposed to symbolize the spirit of the woods.

As to the historical part of the stamp, it is assumed that the name Jamaica originates from the Indian words "Chaubaan" for water and "Makia" for woods, later contracted into the single word "Chab-makia" and afterwards harmonized by the Spaniards into "Chamakia"; this version was given by the British historian Bridges at the beginning of the 19th Century, and though it varies from the version of other historians, it seems that it has been accepted as the best, and its meaning, reduced to a small picture, has found a place on a postage stamp.

The stamp, representing peace of nature and its joys, as expressed by god Pan, is certainly a pleasing deviation from the many warlike scenes which we have seen on the stamps of recent years, and it will no doubt take the place of one of the most interesting issues in stampdom.

AMERICAN PHILATELIC SOCIETY CONVENTION. AUG. 9 TO 12

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XXIII.—ST. ANTHONY AND FOGO AIR MAIL, 1921.

When the Air Bill was being considered in 1919, it was suggested that aeroplanes could be used to advantage in locating the seal herds in season, and reporting their whereabouts to the sealing fleet. It was humorously added that once the herds were located, gas bombs could be dropped in their midst, and the seals be removed by the steamers at leisure.

This season (1921) it was decided to experiment with a plane for this purpose, and advantage was taken of the opportunity to prepare a mail for St. Anthony, on the eastern coast of the northern peninsula. This town is Dr. W. T. Grenfell's base for his great work on nearby Labrador, and is ice-blocked and practically cut off from communication with the outer world during the winter months.

"GENERAL POST OFFICE,
Aerial Mail for St. Anthony.

"Letters addressed to St. Anthony and marked per 'Airship' will be accepted at the General Post Office at the usual postage rates, for dispatch to Botwood to connect with the Seal Fishing Patrol Ship, which will leave that place on or about 1st March.

"Persons desiring to avail of this special means of conveyance should hand their letters into the General Post Office not later than the 26th inst.

W. W. HALFYARD,
Minister, Posts & Telegraphs.
G. P. O., Feb. 22, 1921."

Botwood is a port for shipment of paper and pulp, on the Exploits river, where it empties into Notre Dame Bay. It is connected with St. John's by the railway, and the air distance from Botwood to St. Anthony is approximately 200 miles. The Post Office was prepared to take 26 lbs. of mail, but only half that quantity offered.

A special rubber stamp was provided for the marking of this mail, lettered "AIR POST St. Anthony", in one line. The mail left St. John's for Botwood on the 1st March, but the aeroplane met with accident, and was not ready to fly when the sealing fleet sailed on March 10th.

The Post Office later decided to prepare a mail for Fogo, off the northeastern coast—about 50 miles from Botwood—which was duly announced in the daily papers.

"GENERAL POST OFFICE,
Aerial Mail.

"It is probable that the Air Mail dispatched for St. Anthony may be delayed somewhat, but on the first trip it may be possible to land letters, specially addressed by Air Mail, at Fogo, and letters for Fogo posted before 11 a. m., Thursday, the 10th inst., will be forwarded by Thursday's Express.

"Letters intended to go by this means should be addressed 'Per Air Mail.'

W. W. HALFYARD,
Minister, Posts & Telegraphs.
G. P. O., March 8th, 1921."

The plane left Botwood on Monday, March 28th, and accomplished the flight of some 50 miles in a half hour. The mail was specially rubber stamped in purple "AIR POST FOGO" in one line of caps. The St. John's postmark is March 10th, and that of Fogo, March 28th, 1921.

The bag containing the aerial mail for St. Anthony was held at Botwood until early in May, and then returned to the G. P. O. at St. John's, via coastal steamer. Some of the letters were claimed by the senders, but the bulk will be forwarded to St. Anthony when navigation opens.

The aeroplane rendered little or no assistance to the sealing fleet, which located the seal herds as previously. The season's catch was only 100,000; the average is twice that figure.

XXIV.—OFFICIALLY SEALED STAMP, 1905.

In the summer of 1905 an officially sealed stamp, upright rectangular in form, and without value, was brought into use by the G. P. O. at St. John's, for use on returned letters. It was printed in black on blue paper, perforated 12, and engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Co. of New York, whose name in minute caps appears under the design. In a circle appears a finely engraved portrait of King Edward VII, three-quarters face to the left. Above the portrait is "OFFICIALLY SEALED" and "NEWFOUNDLAND", the latter conforming to the circle,—while below is "DEAD LETTER—OFFICE" in two lines. All lettering is in colorless caps on a ground of intricate engine work. Y. & T. price the stamp in their latest catalogue at 60 Fr.

But one printing of the label was made, and when this was exhausted none further were requisitioned. Letters so treated at the present time are resealed, and a rubber stamp, measuring 63x25mm applied, reading—

OFFICIALLY SEALED
DEAD LETTER OFFICE.
St. John's,—Nfld.

The same Department makes use of a special envelope for returning letters not deliverable and on which there is postage to collect. The envelope measures 140x114mm, lettered at the top "ON POSTAL SERVICE". In the upper left corner printed in heavy caps is—

RETURNED LETTER
CENTS DUE.

In the lower left corner is "Dead Letter Branch — General Post Office — Newfoundland", in three lines.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF DENMARK.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXX.

Reprints.

Reprints of most of the values in skilling currency, including the first three official stamps, were made in 1885. As all these reprints are on unwatermarked paper and imperforate they are very easily recognised for what they are.

The 2 r. b. s. of 1851 was printed from one of the plates of a hundred stamps in the possession of the Department. They are found with and without burelage and also printed on both sides but the absence of watermark precludes any possibility of their being mistaken for originals.

The reprints of the 4 r. b. s. of the same issue are of an entirely fancy nature and should properly be termed official imitations, for they were made from an essay of 1852, engraved by A. Buntzen in which the word "Post" is not followed by a hyphen. It was not possible to make use of the old plates as all the clichés composing them had been defaced and the original die had been destroyed long ago.

Of the 1853-7 series with dotted spandrels only the 2 and 16 skilling were reprinted. They were produced from the old plates of 100 but as they are unwatermarked no difficulty can be experienced in distinguishing them from originals.

Both values with wavy line spandrels—4 and 8 skilling—were reprinted from the original plates but again the absence of watermark makes their identification a simple matter.

In making the reprints of the 1864-8 issue it was impossible to make use of the original plates as none of them could be found. Single clichés were therefore employed—twelve each for the 2, 3, 8 and 16 skilling, arranged in two vertical rows placed tête-bêche, 12mm. apart; while for the 4sk there were thirty clichés arranged in three horizontal rows of ten each.

The paper is straw colored and always without watermark. Furthermore these reprints were all imperforate so that even the veriest tyro could hardly mistake them for originals.

According to Mr. Hanciau, the plates of the 1870-1 issue no longer existing "the reprinting was done from separate clichés arranged in two vertical rows, 9mm. apart horizontally and 5mm. apart vertically." With the exception of the 3sk the same writer finds there are differences between these stamps and the originals as follows:—

The 2 skilling has had the inscription in the lower part of the oval redrawn: recognizable especially in the small figure "2", the head of which ends in a ball.

The 4 skilling can be recognized by the figure in the centre, which is too large (it is the figure of the 4 öre of 1875), also by the inscription and the small figure below.

In the 8 skilling the small figure 8 is narrower than in the originals.

In the 16 skilling the central figures differ from those of the original; the top of the figure 6 is more curved inwards.

In the 48 skilling the small figure 4 is too wide and too close to the 8.

It would therefore appear that official imitations would be a more correct designation than reprints for all except the 3sk. Like the other reprints they have no watermark, no perforation and are ungummed. They cannot, obviously, possibly be mistaken for the originals.

The three skilling values of the official stamps were also reprinted in 1885, but, again, as none of the original plates or clichés were available and new clichés had to be made these stamps are best described as official imitations. Mr. Hanciau tells us the plates consisted of ten of these clichés arranged in two vertical rows of five each. In the 2sk the numeral is too large and the letters "SK" quite unlike those of the originals: while in the case of both the 4 and 16sk the small numerals and the letters "SK" differ from those of the regularly issued stamps.

CONCLUDING NOTE.

In connection with the earlier issues of Denmark numerous essays appeared—chiefly the work of the engravers who supplied the designs or engraved the dies for the designs actually accepted. A large number of essays, too, owe their origin to the competition of 1902. All these things are of the greatest interest to the advanced specialist but somewhat out of place in a general article of this character. The student desiring further information and full descriptions of these essays is referred to the valuable article by Mr. Hanciau in the Monthly Journal already alluded to in the foregoing notes.

Finally a large number of local stamps have been issued for Aalborg, Aarhus, Copenhagen, Holte, Horsens, Odense, Svendborg, Viborg, etc., for the conveyance of local letters and parcels. While many of these are of the highest degree of interest and certainly their place in a specialised co they hardly come within the ra the present article.

CATALOG OF CANADA REVENUES.

We have received from H. M. MacLean, Brockville, Ont., Can., a specimen copy of a standard catalog of the revenue stamps of Canada. The book is published by Mr. MacLean and compiled by E. W. and S. N. Oughtred, whose names have become very familiar to our readers through their dealings in these stamps. The catalog is handsomely illustrated with no fewer than sixty-one different designs. The book not only lists but prices all Dominion issues, and covers the special issues for New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Quebec, and Saskatchewan. In addition such issues as Dawson Mining Court, Yukon Territorial Court, Canada War Tax, telegraph and telephone franks, etc., are listed. The price of the book is 50c.

THE PHILATELIC PLEBISCITE.

Our readers will no doubt be glad to know the result of the plebiscite inaugurated a few weeks ago dealing with the listing of post cards in the new Scott catalog, and the omission of telegraph stamps. The vote on listing post cards stood 63 in favor and 23 opposed. We presume this may be taken as a fair estimate of philatelic opinion upon this matter.

Upon the exclusion of telegraph stamps 57 voted in favor and 22 against. This vote would seem to justify the decision of the publishers of the catalog to omit telegraph stamps in the future.

Several correspondents gave their opinions at length and there seemed to be a strong sentiment for what might be called a catalog of side-lines, including locals, telegraph stamps, etc. Such a book need not be issued annually.

We regret that the plebiscite was not more generally used, but take it for granted that many subscribers did not care to cut the ballot blank from their papers.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Eldon Warren sends us specimens of two precancelled Covington, Ky., stamps. One has a very fine closely printed surcharge, capital letters being used in both instances without serif. They are on 1c, perf. 10x11. Mr. Warren has a 1c double of the current type of Cincinnati, O., and an 11c Fort Atkinson, Wis.

—John C. Reid, secretary and treasurer of the Fennell Stamp Company, will sail from New York on June 11, to visit Great Britain and European countries in the interest of the trade. He expects to return September 1.

—" L. A. McArthur asks among other things information as to the military gentlemen of the French Colonials. What I know is at his disposal.

GEORGE K. SCHMIDT, CHICAGO.

Our pet politician is George K. Schmidt, president of the Board of Assessors of Cook County. We knew that he was a great collector when we first saw his political gonfalon, although we understood that Indian relics, curiosities, etc., shared his favor with stamps. Now, Mr. Schmidt is almost too busy to do anything with stamps or to engage in philatelic confabulation, as he is president of the Prudential Savings Bank, in addition to presiding officer of the Board of Assessors, but he still sticks to the albums. Mr. Schmidt says that he cannot be quoted too strongly as boosting stamp collecting as a pursuit, that because of its instructive features, is entitled to all consideration. He is for philately, and he'll tell the world so. We bespeak the philatelic vote for Mr. Schmidt, who happens to be a Republican. We must put philately above party; and hasten the day when such and such a candidate will be selected to corral the philatelic vote.

EDITORIAL.

Conventions—Further accounts of the recent Congress at Harrogate, England, confirm the impression that the meeting was productive of practical results which, however, do not need to be recounted here. It is enough to say that the reports of the British Congress are such as to whet anticipation for the coming conventions in this country. We are now in June and the call for the American Philatelic Society convention at Milwaukee names Tuesday, August 9, 1921, at 10 A. M. In the last number of the American Philatelist, the appointment of committees is made and nominations for officers appear. We regret to learn that Dr. L. D. Peaslee, the chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, cannot serve, as we have been informed that he has been called away from the city. The last twelve months have been crowded with stamp interest and we believe that in many respects there has never been a season like it before; and undoubtedly the high tide will be reflected to an extent in the convention proceedings. While the departments of the organization seem to be in smooth running order with a particularly good showing by the present sales superintendent, as his recent report showed, it is certain that what may be called the special workings of the body will be given much attention, at the meeting.

King—Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, has been writing copyrighted articles that are placed by a syndicate; and his twelfth one speaks of kings and how "war's lesson makes them eager to learn the peoples' will." Mr. C. F. Adams calls our attention to a paragraph in this article which says that "somebody said that as a king, George V. is a most successful stamp collector" but Mr. Daniels adds that as a fact, the British regard him with respect and affection. Collectors the world over owe a debt of gratitude to King George for his inspiring example of devotion to philately; he has never dissembled his interest in it but on the contrary he openly proclaimed his inclination for stamp study. It is most satisfactory to hear of stamp collectors of confirmed habit in high places and we are always regretful that Theodore Roosevelt did not continue to collect after he went out into the world. When Mr. C. J. Phillips was introduced to President Roosevelt, he told Mr. Phillips that he collected stamps when he was a boy.

Righted—We are pleased to have the following letter from Dr. Carroll Chase, president of the American Philatelic Society and dean of the students of the earlier U. S. general issues: "I can't resist the temptation to comment on your editorial in the May 21st issue. Regarding the ten dollar broken bank note of the Bank of Georgetown, you say, 'Including the portraits of Franklin and Washington in the same size and exactly as they appeared on the 1c and 3c stamps of 1851.' I have one of these bills and also die proofs of the two portraits used and a careful examination will show that these are merely copies of the heads used on the stamps. As far as I know, this firm never used any of the stamp heads on their bank notes but if the company did, I should like very much to know it. Perhaps you would not mind asking your readers if they know of any such bank notes and the name of the bank issuing them. This, of course, does not refer to the heads on the 5c and 10c 1847, which were printed by another company." Like a copy-cat, we said the heads were the same because our correspondent said that they were, but Dr. Chase knows. By-the-way, it is good to hear that the President of the American Philatelic Society will attend the Milwaukee convention.

Oxford—Those who have a penny red, Great Britain, surcharged "O. U. S." (Oxford Union Society) and have some knowledge of the peculiar privileges in a postal sense that were enjoyed by Oxford University, will be interested in the following bit of lore submitted by Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz: "Here is an excerpt from an indenture of agreement between the University and city of Oxford, made in 1458, which gives special privileges, among others, to mail carriers coming to or going from the University. I am giving it in its original spelling as modernization would spoil its charm: 'And al so, as to secunde poynte and article of travers bytwene the seyde partyys, it is a cordyde by the sayd partyys (that) fro hensforwarde that these, and no nother, enjouye the privyleges of the Universyte (note, especially the right of trial before University rather than city authorities); that is to say . . ; also all comyn caryars, bryngers of scolers to the Universyte, or other money, letter or eny especyall message to eny scholare or clerke, or fechere of eny scolere or clerke fro the Universyte for the tyme of swch fechyng or bryngyng or abydyng yn the Universyte for that entente.' Epistolae Academicae, edited by Henry Anstey, 2 vols., Oxford, 1898, Vol. II, pp. 344, 345."

Surprising—From Mr. R. Kenneth Milne, Grand Rapids, Michigan, comes the following commentary: "In Stanley B. Ashbrook's article on prisoners' letters, I find no mention made of the stockade at Meriden, Mississippi. It was quite important during the last year of the war and many Michigan men, including my grandfather, were confined there. In looking over a book published by the Sultana survivors, I notice in the account by Joseph Stevens of East Buffalo, the following: 'I then commenced to make a kind of beer which is good for dysentery. It was made of corn meal, molasses and water. I would let it ferment and sour over night in a barrel, and then deal it out to the boys, a cupful only to each. This was much better than the rebels' medicine. It was the means of saving the lives of a good many of the boys. I would trade this beer off for brass buttons and foreign postage stamps and then would take these and trade with the guards for sweet potatoes. For doing this I was taken before Wirz, the captain in command of the prison who would shoot down our men in cold blood." Here is an instance of early stamp trading of fascinating interest. Surely, the collecting instinct was well developed in some of the prisoners and the captors as well, else no value would have been attached to foreign postage stamps. Evidently, the particular episode was in the year, 1864, when outside of some of the cities, stamp collectors were few and far between. It is not readily to be imagined that foreign stamps would be among the possessions of the northern prisoners but here we have the quotation from the book.

Denmark—In a letter to us, Mr. M. Jorgensen says that it is reported that all of the three and seven öre of the issue of Denmark have been called in and will be overprinted 8 öre after the manner of the 12 öre. New 10 öre stamps without picture of king and changes of colors to meet the postal union recommendations are announced. Mr. Jorgensen sends the seven öre postal card with the additional impression of the one öre, an interesting combination.

CONCERNING THE CATALOGUE.

We have recently received several letters requesting—we might almost say demanding, in one or two instances—that a list of United States postal cards be incluided in the Standard Catalogue. We have seen the same or similar letters published in philatelic papers. We do not care to enter on a discussion of this subject, but will state that our catalogue is not conducted to suit our individual taste—otherwise many things we now list would be thrown in the discard—but to meet the wishes of the general run of collectors. For many years we have not listed postal cards, either United States or foreign, and we have had no complaints about the omission. Recently one dealer has interested himself in U. S. cards and has been very insistent that they be given a place in the catalogue. He seems to have induced a few others to follow his lead and echo his demands. So far as we can learn, the great majority of collectors are not interested in postal cards and would object to space being devoted to them in the catalogue. Furthermore, we question that an intelligible list could be given without illustrations, which, as everyone knows, are not permitted by law .

In this connection we desire to add that for some years we have given consideration to the possible elimination from the catalogue of certain lists of stamps that are of interest to only a limited number of collectors. Several years ago we discontinued listing United States local stamps and there has been practically no objection to this change. Fully six months ago we decided to make a further move in this direction and remove the lists of U. S. telegraph stamps and official seals from the general catalogue to a smaller work. We suppose now the individual to whom we have previously referred will claim that this was done at his instigation, but we assure him that it was decided on long before he started his clamor, though we did not choose to take him into our confidence and tell him our plans.

A suggestion that has been presented in this connection shows how little thought some people give to a matter before they rush into argument. This suggestion is that, to make room for postal cards, the listing of Match and Medicine stamps should be discontinued Many collectors hold that revenue stamps have no proper place in a catalogue of postage stamps. Likewise, some have argued that the catalogue should be restricted to adhesive stamps and should exclude envelopes, postal cards, and all forms of postal stationery. We do not propose to discuss here the merits of these ideas, but will merely say that were we to cease listing these things, our saving in paper and printing bills each year would be greater than our profits on the sale of the articles. However, many collectors are interested in these lines, and we retain them in the catalogue to meet their wishes. So long as we continue to list United States revenue stamps, we feel that consistency requires that we list all of them. The Match and Medicine stamps are as much revenue stamps as any others. They paid the same taxes as the stamps of the general issues, which they replaced for certain purposes. The fact that the Government permitted the use of stamps of special designs by certain people or firms did not make them private issues. The people for whom those special stamps were made did not own the dies or plates, nor did they have any right in the stamps beyond that of the exclusive use of them. They paid for the dies and plates, which remained the property of the Government, and they paid for the stamps the prices they would have had to pay for the same values of the general issues. To argue that the stamps of special designs are private issue shows a failure to understand the subject.

There are collectors who collect the general issues of revenue stamps and not the Match and Medicine stamps. That is their privilege. There are also collectors who specialize in the stamps of one issue of a country, but they do not demand that all other issues be omitted from the catalogue, simply because they are not interested in them. We would be very glad to drop from the catalogue many issues of stamps which we believe were made for the purpose of raising money rather than for legitimate postal needs. But they could be and have been used to pay postage, even though to a limited extent That makes them postage stamps and forces their inclusion in the catalogue.—Scott's Monthly Journal.

NEW SWISS PROVISIONALS.

A second batch of provisionals has just appeared from the Mountain Republic. The set consists of 20 on 25 Helvetia, 20 on 15 William Tell, and 5 on 2 Tell boy. As there was some danger that stocks of the 15c Tell at branch offices might be bought up and used for counterfeiting, the stamps were called in to the Controller's office and overprinted, but this time the surcharge is in deep blue instead of black. This second issue has no tete-beche pairs, nor are there any in the 5 on 2c Tell boy. But in the 20 on 25c Helvetia tete-beche sheets have been used.

We are indebted to A. Koechlin for the above information.

ATLAS STAMP CO., (P. C. Smith), W.Somerville,44,Mass.

SPEAKING OF HIGH PRICES:—

A certain early European postage stamp issued before 1850 which has been a standard rarity ever since there have been stamp collectors is selling abroad for the equivalent of one thousand American gold dollars—more than 50% higher than the American catalog price.

I offer two very good copies — about equally fine—for less than catalog.

First check for $333.33 received takes the first copy. Price of the other copy is $500. Whoever sends the second check will have first shot at the second copy—at $500.

Neither stamp is wonderfully superb, but both are in better condition than this rare stamp is usually found. I need not state that both are guaranteed genuine—absotively!

UNITED STATES—ROTARY PRINT

2c Carmine, Perf. 11

Made from the imperforated rotary coil waste. Issued in sheets of 170. Do not know if it is going to be a rarity or if it will be as common as dirt. Inquired of several New York dealers yesterday (May 24th) and they had not even heard of the variety. One dealer said he had a few, but would not sell them.

If you are a sport, send me 50c for a mint block and take a chance. In a year it may be worth $5 or it may be worth only 10c. Price not guaranteed. You are taking a chance. Pikers please keep their money. It is my opinion, however, that it is a good buy.

We have been having the compounds from the rotary waste for over two years and have never had any imperforated waste before. Will we ever have it again? A New York correspondent writes that he has tried to obtain them from most of the stations, but without success.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES. — In my last two Chronicles mention was made of the 2c perforated 11 from the rotary press made from the imperforate coil waste. Mr. J. J. Klemann, Jr., of the Nassau Stamp Co., now informs me that he has the 1c in a similar condition, that is the 1c green, unwatermarked, perforated 11, rotary print. Your editor has not seen the latter variety, however.

We learn from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing that the rotary print 1c stamps from the 400 subject plates, heretofore issued in post office panes of 100 stamps perforated 10x11, will in the future be perforated 10 on all sides. It seems that there was considerable complaint about the 10x11 stamps tearing apart vertically, too easily. Stamps from the rotary press, at best, are stiff and tend to curl and it is hoped that with this new perforation the stamps will hold together more readily.

This latter variety has already been widely distributed and we desire to thank Messrs. Geo. A. Albrecht, W. A. Langdon and L. G. Barrett for an early view of the variety. I also note the stamp coming precancelled on the last New England Stamp Co. Bulletin, as well as Drew's auction catalogue.

1921, 1c green, rotary print, unwatermarked.

(a) Perf. 11; (b) Perf. 10.

A few remarks were recently made concerning the Meredith find in Philadelphia. Mr. J. M. Bartels now informs me that the gems from this lot will be disposed of by his firm through their auctions.

Mr. G. G. Ryder, one of our well informed plate number collectors, wrote some time back to advise that plate No. 12430 of the 1c Pilgrim stamp had been cancelled by the Bureau before being certified, consequently the plate was not used. Mr. Ryder now informs us that the Bureau advises that the following plates were not used, although completed and certified: 1c plates Nos. 12449-50-51-56-57-58 and 59, as well as 2c plates Nos. 12460-61-62 and 63. If the Post Office Department does not call for a second printing of these Pilgrim stamps. these plates will never be used. It may interest our readers to know that the excess quantities of these stamps formerly held by the Bureau have been distributed, consequently the postmasters have now received instructions to only issue these stamps when they are especially asked for.

Mr. C. L. Douglass kindly calls attention to the fact that the mishap to the 2c die for overprinting 3c envelopes in Portland must have taken place in that city, for he has varieties surcharged in Portland showing the broken fourth and fifth vertical lines. It had been thought that this peculiarity was only to be found in those overprinted in Buffalo. where the die was sent from Portland, but we learn with interest this is not the case.

While speaking of envelopes, Mr. L. G. Barrett calls attention to the fact that there are three distinct watermarks to be found in the envelopes being made under the new 1921 contract. One type has the date "1921" vertical within the monogram "U. S.", the second has the date horizontal with the top tail of the "S" turned down and the bottom tail turned up, while the third variety has the top tail up and the bottom tail down. This little difference will possibly add several dozen varieties to our new list.

Mr. Barrett also favors us with a view of two blocks of the 1c perforated 11, showing a distinct crack in the plate. These are from plates Nos. 10645 and 10656.

The same gentleman has been fortunate in locating several blocks of different denominations showing the plate numbers doubly printed, caused by the sheet being wiped over the plate when lifted.

CAMEROONS.—On account of a temporary shortage of 5, 10 and 25 centimes stamps, we are told that for about one month the corresponding denominations of Gabon were recently used in this territory.—Stamp Collecting.

DENMARK.—Mr. I. W. Risdon has shown us a cover with a copy of the 5ö green of the 1913-15 issue and also a half of the 4ö of the 1917 issue, bisected diagonally and used as a 2ö, making a 7ö rate of postage. This is the first copy of the 4ö bisected that we have thus far seen. This has been noted in some of the foreign papers and catalogues and was used in Thorshaven, Faroe Islands.

INDIA. — Mr. Benj. Cadbury advises that a correspondent informs him that the 1½a stamp of this country is now issued with the "C.E.F." surcharge.

JAPAN.—We are indebted to Lowell J. Ragatz and John C. Morgan for copies of the new set of commemorative stamps issued to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Postage Stamp Service in Japan, 1871-1921. Extended description received from R. Yokohori, our Japan correspondent, with illustrations of the two designs of the new stamps appears elsewhere in this issue and therefore we will not give further details here.

JUGO-SLAVIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. and John T. Clemens submit to us copies of the new set of stamps of this country. In the centre is the profile of military officer and at top and bottom are native characters. The values above the 75f are of the same type, but show the likeness of another man. The values and colors are as follows: 2f bistre, 5f green, 10f red, 15f plum, 25f blue, 50f olive, 60f red orange, 75f purple, 1k orange, 2k olive, 4k dark green, 5k red and 10k brown.

LATVIJA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 25k blue and green stamp with the likeness of a man in act of slaying the dragon, with the print DIVI—2—RUBLI in three lin red.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. Frank C. Davi submitted to us a copy of the 10c s of the 1914 issue, Scott's No. 35 sected diagonally and used as 5c. postmark on the envelope is De 1920.

Mr. Davis also sends us a copy c fiscal stamp with the value "5 Cen de Cordoba 5" in two lines in bla the base used for postal purposes.

PALESTINE.—Messrs. R. W. Goss T. Ernest Murray have shown us distinct shades of the 5m orange c tri-lingual series (perf. 14).

Mr. Murray and Messrs. Brig Son both draw attention to the fac there are two sets of perforatio the tri-lingual series for Palestin also for the Trans-Jordan territ viz. perf. 15x14 and perf. 14. values reported to date comprise:—

TO MAKE OUR SUDDEN SERVICE SAFE!

We have just placed an order for another Safe-Cabinet. After careful investigation we chose the one which renders the greatest protection from fire and water—regardless of price. Almost every week we have valuable collections offered us for sale, and these must be guarded while in our possession.

This permanent fixture, so necessary to insure the continued success of our organization, is being delivered this month at a cost of $723.70, and we figure the investment cheap. The top section of eighteen sliding drawers will contain nothing but rare stamps mounted on Fennell's unique Class N cards. Only the richest and most perfect gems from every collection are placed on these cards.

LAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. advised us and submitted copies of ry set of stamps issued recently by country. The first three values, 2m, , 3m, blue and 4m, red show a e line wreath with "Konstyvcta" n and within the wreath is "17 a 1921". At the base is "Poctza a" with the values in four corners. e upper left side is a portion of ining sun. The 6m, dull red, and dark blue, show two reapers with s and grain at the top, "3/V1791", just below is "17/111 1921" with s and inscription as above below. ther two values are 25m grey lilac 0m blue and yellow, and show the r in a resting position with the inscriptions as mentioned in the values.

RT SAID (French P. O.)—Our es- d correspondent in Port Said, Mr. mes, informs us that on April 11th urrent postage stamps of the local h Consular series were surcharged gyptian currency. A large quantity ese was sold at the French Post on the two days, April 11th and Further details are awaited. — Collecting.

ARGEBIET.—New postage stamps is- by the French government for use e occupied Saar Valley are de- d by a correspondent in The Man- r Guardian. Scenes in and around amous Saar coalfield provide sub- for the pictorial designs, prepared rominent Parisian artist-philatelist, . Montader, and executed by the nment printing establishment on oulevard Brune.

iver scene with a watermill in the round is depicted on the 5pfg , printed in purple and olive, while ignette on the 10pfg orange and epresents a Saar miner at work in wels of the earth. The frame de- of this stamp is composed of a of safety-lamps. A mining shaft achinery forms the design of the blue and green and a view of a harf near Saarbrucken that of the brown and blue. A panorama of aar Valley appears on the 30pfg and black and a desolate vista of eaps at Hostenbach on the 40pfg ne. A glimpse of the historic Saar e is seen on the 80pfg blue. of the denominations 50 and 60pfg and from 1 to 25 marks, making a total of fifteen values. A peculiar feature in connection with the printing of these stamps is that on each sheet one stamp is printed up-side down, thus producing that elusive form or variety known to philatelists as tete-beche. The stamps are surface-printed and are somewhat inferior productions. It is reported that for this reason they will be withdrawn from circulation and replaced by a series with values in French currency.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHARLES S. THOMPSON.

CENTRAL LITHUANIA.—A series of 4 stamps, all in violet, has appeared. These are the 50pf, buildings, 2Mk., marine, 3Mk. building, 5 Mk., silhouette of buildings. All are of crude workmanship, and being inscribed DOPLATA are of course postage dues.

DANZIG.—Several values of the commemorative set have arrived which are perforated in the usual manner. The whole series may be expected thus. Another cheap and effective way of producing a "new" issue.

GERMANY.—In making stamp booklets, they have a weird way of putting several values in one sheet in Germany, and this practice, already familiar in the case of Bavaria, as well as the Empire, is generally aggravated by the presence of tête-bêche pairs. Now we have something newer and stronger, three different values, tête-bêche and se-tenant, appearing in one sheet. These are:

10pf orange, 30pf blue-green, 40pf red, tête-bêche.

10pf on 30pf, 30pf on 40pf, se-tenant. Two positions of each.

The writer strongly suspects that this is a shrewd scheme to induce the fans to buy a whole sheet of stamps instead of only one of each.

HUNGARY.—The use of religious subjects is evidently to become a regular thing with the countries of Central Europe, Bavaria and Liechtenstein having already used Madonna designs, and now Hungary provides some more, the 50 Korona brown and blue, and the 100 K., bistre and brown. The stamps are perf. 12, unwatermarked multiple crosses. MAGYAR KIR. POSTA above, 50 KORONA (or 100) below. Virgin and Child, and inscription PATRONA HUNGARIAE in circle, centre. The Virgin wears the Iron Crown of Hungary, while the Child holds the double-cross Hungarian orb. This is a quaint conceit, taking time and history into consideration. However, anachronisms are not for movie directors only!

LIECHTENSTEIN.— In a recent shipment received direct from Vaduz, the writer found two pairs of the 10 Kr. pictorial imperf. between horizontally. These stamps are from the first and second vertical rows, the remainder being normal. Consequently there must be eight more of these pairs, probably in Europe.

It may be of interest to identify the buildings of the pictorial set, which are as follows:—

25h olive, St. Mamerten.
40h claret, Guttenberg castle.
50h yellow-green, Courtyard of the castle of Vaduz.
60h brown, the "Red House" in Vaduz.
80h red, tower of the Schaan church.
1 Kr. violet, Castle of Vaduz.
2 Kr. blue, Bendern.

Two new pictorials have been issued, in Rappen currency. These are the 25r, carmine and black, Vaduz castle, and the 40r., blue and black, Schaan church. These stamps have a wide colored border around the sheet. They were issued late in March, as postmarked covers show.

Of the small "arms" type, the 13 rappen, dark brown, has been issued, also another provisional, this time the 10h orange, imperf., surcharged 2 rappen.

Collectors are advised to acquire all the stamps of Liechtenstein at once, as three or four dollars will buy them now, but not much longer, as some values are becoming very scarce and greatly in demand abroad.

Any doubt that the government of Liechtenstein is actively engaged in the stamp business is immediately dispelled when one sees the impression (rubber stamp).

VADUZ

meaning "Philatelic Sales Bureau of the Postage Stamps of the Principality of Liechtenstein." (Free translation). Furthermore, correspondence is on stationery bearing the above legend, and said Sales Bureau charges a little surtax of 25 per cent on the face value of the stamps.

POLAND.—More Red Cross stamps, via surcharge route. The cross is enclosed in a double-lined octagon and the surtax is 30 Mks. Polish exchange is now about $1.50 per thousand marks, so the set, with a face value of 161 Mks., should cost not to exceed 50c at retail.

30 on 5 Mks., lilac; 30 on 6 Mks., red; 30 on 10 Mks., red; 30 on 20 Mks., green.

RUSSIA.—Another army set has made its debut, but whether a real issue, or merely another fake, the writer does not know. These labels show a queer-looking doubleheaded bird, with the wings of a thrush, the feet of a falcon, the tail of a finch, and the heads those of geese! Stars in upper corners, ROSSIYA above, SYEV ARMIYA below, 50 KOP. 50 at foot. The inscriptions mean "Russia, Northern Army."

5kop yellow, 10kop green, 25kop violet, 50kop rose, 1 R. brown, 3½ R. grey.

The workmanship is sufficiently crude for the stamps to be genuine, but they remind the writer of the inscription on Mexico No. 14.

UKRAINE.—Considerable doubt is expressed in some quarters as to the bona fides of the recent pictorial set. It is claimed that the set was prepared for use, but never utilized for actual postal purposes, being merely a collection of pictures for philatelic consumption, thus differing in no way from many admittedly respectable stamps, duly cataloged, like Siam No. 5, Mauritius No. 7 and No. 8, Barbados No. 22 and No. 23, and so on. Why do catalogers try to kid the collecting public into collecting essays like these? The writer offers a set of Ukraine pictures for the best answer containing no cuss words.

THE EIGHTH CONGRESS.

By W. B. Haworth.

The Editor has asked me to give my impressions of Harrogate, and I do so with some trepidation, because I feel that many far more worthy pen than mine will be at work on the same topic. So I shall have to be very circumspect in what I write, lest a worse fate befall me, and in truth I am very nervous after the speech I heard at the banquet. Like Agag, then, I shall walk delicately, and so perhaps escape the wrath to come.

Before attempting any criticism, or even outlining events, I must pay the very heartiest of tributes to the splendid work of Dr. Solly and Mr. J. H. Chapman, the Secretary and Chairman respectively of the Congress. From the moment of arrival at Harrogate, where we were met at the station by Dr. Solly, to the time of our departure, "a great while before day" on Saturday, being sped upon our journey by both the Chairman and Secretary, everything that care and forethought could devise for our comfort was done. The various excursions all went smoothly, and we heard of no disappointments; the receptions were most pleasant, and far and away above any I have previously attended in the matter of easiness and general good humour. But, after all, it is only what one might have expected, for Yorkshire is the most hospitable of all the counties of England (I need not say that I am myself a Yorkshireman).

There is no necessity for me to enlarge on the "magnificent monastic ruin" of Fountain's Abbey, or the curious Brimham Rocks, neither do I feel called upon to dilate on the "drive across the Blubberhouse Moor at an elevation of 1,200 feet" to reach Bolton Abbey, the said drive being described in the guide books as one of the most charming and invigorating obtainable in the district. No, I feel that my duty is to consider the business done—and undone—and to let fall a friendly word of criticism wherever such may appear to be necessary.

There is one very important factor which must be borne in mind when dealing with the matter of the Congress. It is the important fact that, although it is the Eighth Congress that has been held, it is in reality the first which has had the advantage of an energetic and powerful Committee. There may be various opinions as to the suitability of individual members for their high position, and during my conversations with my co-delegates from up and down the British Isles, I heard many shrewd criticisms; but I feel myself that it is not so much to the individual that one must look, but rather to the body as a whole. If this is done conscientiously and seriously and in no spirit of carping critimitted that philately has now got a good firm basis on which to build up a fine cism, I think it must be honestly adedifice in the way of future Congresses.

Several reports are printed in the official programme, which, by the way, is a most useful compilation and one which every collector should have by him, and I think it may be well to note these as they occur.

First and foremost is the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists. It was naturally exceedingly gratifying to learn that HIS MAJESTY THE KING had been graciously pleased to sign his name at the head of the Roll, and this fact alone will make the Harrogate Congress forever memorable. The tremendous honour which is thereby conferred on our hobby is shown by a fact mentioned by Mr. Cochrane in his closing address, namely, that the last time the Sovereign's signature appeared on such a document was in the reign of King George III.

But the very magnitude of the honour must make the Executive Committee redouble their care to prevent any name being inscribed thereon which is not of the most superlative philatelic merit. We have to rely on them very largely for the final decision, since, quite rightly, in my opinion, no discussion is allowed on the list presented to Congress for approval. But the two rules, numbered 1 and 4 respectively, should be rigidly adhered to, and I think the second might be expanded to run as follows:—

"The Honorary Secretary to notify the Affiliated Societies and send a copy of the final list for their approval.

"No names may thereafter be added either previous to or at the Congress by the Permanent Congress Executive Committee or any Committee appointed by them, or the Affiliated Societies, but any name on such list to which three or more of the Societies object shall be removed, and shall not be included in the final list which is to be submitted to the Congress."

Furthermore, I think that the right of objection to any name should be specifically confined to the Affiliated Societies. I make this suggestion as much with a view to helping the Executive in a very onerous position, as with the idea of keeping the final choice entirely in the hands of the Societies. If they can see their way to incorporate these or similar words in their rules of administration they will thereby avoid any possibility of hearing remarks offensive, not only to the members of the Roll, but casting reflections on the integrity of the Executive.

Rule 10, as it stands, is of course quite indefensible, especially in these democratic days, and, moreover, I very much doubt whether the Committee could legally follow it without making themselves liable to proceedings. I once more make a suggestion, namely, that they adopt the rule of the Royal Philatelic Society which deals with the removal of Fellows and Associates. It would have to be adapted slightly, no doubt, but it would be far safer and more equitable if Rule 10 were revised.

And now let me speak about the Sub-Committee appointed to deal with the "Sectional Catalogues." This is disappointing, not altogether owing to the Sub-Committee itself, but largely due to the apathy and selfishness of collectors. From a debate which followed the reading of Mr. Hadlow's valuable paper on the question, "Is the Publication of Philatelic Discoveries Beneficial to all sides of Philately?" it appeared that there are persons who call themselves philatelists, who are so unutterably narrow-minded and selfish as to object to making public the results of their researches. Such a state of mind entirely passes the bounds of my comprehension. It ranks alongside of the spirit of the miser, and is quite foreign to the British spirit of fairness; in fact, it "isn't cricket." Some of the Societies and individual members have come forward magnificently, but there ought to have been a much wider and more general response to the letter sent out on the 30th November last year.

U. S. DOCUMENTARY $500 and $1000

We have a pair of these 1917 regular documentary stamps with cut cancellation. They are not badly cut, but have two small cuts. The stamps are very scarce, due to the fact that it takes a 2½ million dollar deal to use a $500 stamp and 5 million to use a $1000. We will be glad to submit this pair on approval to responsible collectors.

There is one point which doubtless has deterred many from offering their assistance, and I mention this only in the full knowledge of the difficulties with which it bristles like the "quills upon the fretful porcupine." It is the fact that up to the present no scheme has been published which will guide the catalogue-makers in their work. At the present time lists are being compiled, and whereas one will emphasize plate-flaws and practically ignore perforations, another will enlarge on the machines used, or perhaps the positions of the watermark and disregard the more important varieties which assist in the identification of plates. As a suggestion, I have made up the following outline:—

(1) A list of all essays, if possible with dates and particulars as to the designer, and so on.
(2) Each issue considered separately, commencing with a list of proofs and colour-trials, and giving the names of designer, engraver, printer, size of plate and arrangement, also watermark and perforation (if any).
(3) Every printing, where distinguishable, to be listed, with numbers printed and dates. This should solve the question as to the inclusion of shades, since only those which definitely marked off a certain printing would be included.
(4) Varieties of perforation, paper, or watermark only to be included where they have a definite value in elucidating the history of the issue.
(5) Plate varieties to be included in small type under the stamp to which they refer, as also errors of printing, paper, or perforation; and in each case only when they help to build up history. This might also be said of major errors of overprint and the like.
(6) Forgeries, reprints, and official imitations, with full particulars.

The above is only a very rough outline and has many shortcomings; I think, however, that a large number of collectors will agree with me that it is somewhere in the neighborhood of the "ideal" to which we are all told to strive.

One other Report must be dealt with before we close and this is the one dealing with the question of Philatelic Extension.

Here, again, astounding and suicidal apathy has been shown by some of the Societies. It seems almost unbelievable that bodies exist who are so careless of their own well-being as to ignore the suggestions which have been put before them for their own benefit. It is like a starving man neglecting to answer the letter of a friend showing him the way to wealth and happiness.

The last paragraphs of the Committee's Report are of such consequence that they must be reproduced here:—

"Your Sub-Committee would emphasize that it can do little of itself. It must have the support of the Societies as a whole, not only of the already overworked secretaries, but of each individual member. The members of the Societies know the local conditions, are in touch with the local authorities, the librarians and schoolmasters, and the local Press, and there is no substitute that any committee can give for the personal persuasion and penetration of the individual. Therefore it is urged that if you establish a Philatelic Extension Sub-Committee on a permanent basis, you should give it the means of obtaining the necessary funds for its work; you should give it a reasonably free hand in carrying on that work, and, above all, ensure for it the full and hearty support of all the Societies. Then undoubtedly, the Sub-Committee can do a great work for Philately, work of which the Societies themselves will be the first to feel the benefit, and which will eventually pave the way for those larger concerted schemes of Philatelic extension which have so often been talked of but towards which so little has yet been done.

It now only remains for me to mention briefly the various papers read before the delegates.

First and foremost must stand the Rev. James Mursell's paper on "The Scientific Interest of Surface-Printed Stamps." This was by far the most scholarly address of those given, and thoroughly deserved the award of the "Telfer" Cup. It was a magnificent plea for the scientific study of the modern and cheaper stamps, on the lines laid down by the Great Moguls, such as Mr. C. L. Pack, to mention only one name.

Mr. Charles Nissen's "Notes on the Plates of the Penny Black," was a most interesting and valuable paper. It was, however, of such importance that one felt it to be too much to be assimilated at a sitting. I think I am voicing the general opinion of the Congress, when I say that we all look forward to the time when we can read it in print and digest it.

Mr. W. J. Cochrane broke a lance with the watermark fiend and satisfactorily destroyed him, I hope, just as Mr. Goodfellow did the "perferomaniac" at Newcastle last year!

The Chairman's paper on "The Federation of Philatelic Societies" was a carefully evolved scheme, and it was a pity that it had so few champions. The delegates would have none of it, however.

Mr. W. Dorning-Beckton read Captain Crawford's "Reflections on Modern Philately"; Captain Oldfield's paper on "Different Methods of Collecting and Arranging Stamps" roused little comment, since it was so thoroughly sanely (if I may use the word) worked out. His reference collection of Persia was a model, indeed.

To sum up in a few words, Harrogate was an absolute and unqualified success; and our thanks are due to all those who have worked so hard during the past year for our pleasure and education.—Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly.

PAGE MR. ROESSLER!

Announcement is made from Jerusalem that, it is necessary to determine an emblem which shall figure on the Palestine flag and on the Palestine postage stamps and coins. The emblem should be of a simple character, should not be in use elsewhere, and should not be open to objection by any section of the population.

The following suggestions have been submitted:

(1) An olive branch.
(2) A dove and olive branch.
(3) A date palm.
(4) A flaming torch.

Sir Herbert Samuel, the High Commissioner desires to give the general public an opportunity of expressing their views on this question. He would, therefore, be glad to receive any new proposals, or observations on these already submitted, which should be sent in writing to the Civil Secretary, Government House, Jerusalem.—Press Clipping

DOCUMENTARY STATE REVENUES.

By FRANK L. APPLEGATE.

Louisiana Lottery.

"An Act to License the Vending of Lottery Tickets" was passed by the Louisiana Legislature on Feb. 17, 1866. It fixed a license fee of ten thousand dollars for anyone vending lottery tickets in the state. No local companies could be established, but outside companies paying the fee could have branches in the state up to ten. This Act also provided that every ticket sold should be signed or stamped by the Auditor, who was to receive a fee of five per cent. of the value of the ticket, and that all License and fee funds thus received should go to the Charity hospital up to fifty thousand dollars per annum, and above that to the general fund. On February 28 another Act was passed authorizing the auditor to have stamps prepared in different denominations and sold to venders of lottery tickets, each vender to give bonds in the amount of $20,000. Three weeks later (March 22, 1866), an amendatory act was passed providing that stamps must represent five per cent. of the value of each ticket and should be cancelled upon sale of the ticket.

All records in reference to the lottery stamps have been long since destroyed. We do not know who made them, nor how many were issued, nor how many there were to the sheet. Only a few stamps remain to tell the tale. Three denominations of what has always been accepted as the first issue are known, all lithographed in blue. Strangely, the name of the state does not appear, and, stranger still, the central oval is occupied by the Masonic emblems—square and compass surrounding the letter G. Nobody knows why such a device was used for stamps intended for circulation in a strong Catholic community. Quite likely this was their downfall, for they could not have remained in use more than a few days or weeks at the most. The design follows closely that of the First Issue United States revenues, 1 cent to 20 cents, which was a popular design among state issues about this time, California and Nevada also adopting it. On the top ribbon is the word AUDITOR, at the bottom LOTTERY STAMP, on each side CENTS, and numerals of value in the four corners in transverse ovals.

Which denominations would represent the tax on tickets selling for $1.00, $1.50 and $2.50, respectively. They are rare. Mr. Kenyon says only three copies of the 5c exist. Of the other two denominations the 12½ cent is rarer than the 7½.

These stamps were soon replaced by the green series, with a pelican feeding her young as the central feature. This series has always been listed as of 1867 issue, but I have a 7½c very plainly cancelled with a circular dating stamp April 6, 1866. This was only fifteen days after the passage of the Act requiring cancellations, and but thirty-seven days after the Auditor was authorized to procure stamps. Outside the central oval these stamps are of the same size and general design as the blue ones, although not identical in both denominations. All used copies that I have seen are on white wove paper.

The 7½ cent stamps commonly seen are unused with gum. Presumably these are remainders, but the color and general appearance, as well as the paper, differ from the set listed above. They would hardly be reprints, and yet I do not recall seeing any cancelled copies.

7½c yellowish green on yellowish paper.

The law was repealed in August, 1869 I would be very glad to hear details of any dated cancellations, either on the blue stamps or on the last green stamps mentioned.

About Cutting Out Perforation Differences

We have received literally hundreds of answers to Mr. Power's article in MEKEEL'S, and we think, probably, lots of collectors did not see that very important article entitled "Stamps Not Holes." We have therefore reprinted the article and will be glad to send it to any collector asking for it on a postcard. We want to get the opinion of as many as possible.

Kindly drop us your name and address.

UNDER MARKET PRICES

Do you wish to purchase United States stamps at before-the-war prices?

Would a postage issue prior to 1870 in good condition cataloging $4.00 at $1.00 or one cataloging $10.00 at $2.00 interest you?

ASK FOR "D" LINE APPROVALS.

This line was originated for the sale of "average" copies. Experiments deliberately conducted in the past three months show that many collectors who are particular as to condition find items they can use in this line. New sheets are made up weekly and include many good conditioned items bought advantageously, which may be sold likewise.

Reference (two stamp dealers preferred) from all not having had an approval account within the past two years.

a tax on cotton and authorized the issuing of two stamps of the value of 50c and $1.00. The stamps were lithographed in chocolate, and of the same design as the lottery stamps of that year, except that the center represented negroes hoeing cotton. The law authorizing their issue was declared unconstitutional before they were placed on sale, and the stamps all destroyed. Proofs are known on cardboard."

Louisiana Shoe Tax.

In Tuttle's 138th stamp auction sale catalogue of July, 1908, was described a lot (188) "Louisiana State Lottery stamp, 7½c green, also State shoe tax stamp, 2c and 4c, good condition and scarce." Some time after the sale, I noticed this item and wrote Mr. Tuttle for information, but the lot had passed out of his hands and he could not recall what the shoe tax stamps were.

If any reader of these notes has any knowledge of such a tax or stamp, I would like very much to have an opportunity to learn more about them.

FAR EASTERN REPUBLIC.

This month the above name makes its first appearance in our chronicle of new issues. For about a year we have been reading of the Far Eastern Republic in the daily press. We think portions of the clippings we have saved may interest our readers and supply information about the location, boundaries and politics of this new state.

"Moscow, May 16, 1920.—A note informing the Far Eastern democratic Republic of Siberia that it has been recognized by the Russian Soviet Government was sent today to M. Krasnosholkoff, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Siberian Republic at Krasnovarsk."

IRKUTSK, Siberia, June 20, 1920.—While west of Lake Baikal the whole country has joined Soviet Russia and Bolshevik rule is absolute, eastward of Lake Baikal, except in the Chita district, which Gen. Semenoff continues to dominate, there exists a so-called buffer State dominated by the picturesque figure of A. S. Tobelson, who until July 1918, was a Chicago lawyer. Tobelson now is known as A. T. Krasnotchekoff and is the Foreign Minister of the Far Eastern Republic.

Krasnotchekoff arrived in Vladivostok in 1918, and went to Khabarovsk. Here he headed the Far Eastern Soviet, which was known as a moderate body, and dominated it with his personality. Being driven out of Khabarovsk when the interventionists, including the Americans advanced in August, 1918, Krasnotchekoff wandered westward and ended up in prison under his assumed name in Irkutsk. He was freed in January, 1920 when the local social revolutionists ended the Kolchak rule.

Leaving prison, Krasnotchekoff planned a Far Eastern State, including Irkutsk but returning from a Bolshevik conference at Tomsk, where he had secured from Moscow the sanction of Premier Lenine, he found that the local Bolsheviki had seized the reins of power. Krasnotchekoff went to Verkne-Udinsk early in March after his partisans had taken that place, aided in the organization of a moderate Zemstvo Government and perfected the plans for the convention of April 6th, which declared the independence of the Far Eastern Republic to the western boundary of the Selenga River."

"TOKIO, March 28, 1921.—Communications expressing a desire to open diplomatic relations with Japan, the United States and China have been sent to the capitals of these nations by the Russian Far Eastern Republic, says a Vladivostok despatch to the Jiji Shimpo. The Chita Government also has demanded that foreign interference in its affairs cease, and that foreign troops evacuate Eastern Siberia. The declaration adds that the republic is composed of the territories of Trans-Baikalia, Pre-Baikalia, Amur, Pre-Amur, Maritime province and the Island of Saghalien."

"WASHINGTON, March 29, 1921.—Considerable doubt exists as to the status of the Republic of Chita, Japanese influence having been active in connection with this creation. It appears the Japanese, who have aimed to establish a buffer state between themselves and Russia proper, have not cemented their influence in Chita, for Kamchatka has been ceded by the Chita Government to the Russian Soviet Government of Moscow. In fact, the Chita Government is regarded in many quarters as merely an offshoot of the Soviet and Bolshevik in character and tendency."

This is the government which issued the stamps which we chronicle in this number. These stamps, by the way, are sold for gold, not paper money. The question now arises, should the stamps which we have previously chronicled under the heading "Siberia" be attributed to the Far Eastern Republic. The answer is that the three stamps chronicled in March as an issue of Siberia, undoubtedly should be attributed to the Far Eastern Republic, where they are included in our current chronicle. The stamps which we listed in July, 1920, under Siberia we believe were correctly placed—at least, we do not know any other name to give them—and were issued before the formation of the Far Eastern Republic. The best information we have about this group of stamps is that they were issued by a military post operating along the line of the Trans-Siberian railway from Omsk to Vladivostok. This post was originated and operated by the Czecho-Slovak forces, whose headquarters were at Irkutsk at that time. It was established late in 1919, probably about October or November. Its equipment and operations were described in the Journal de Pekin for December 3, 1919. The Czecho-Slovak and Anti-Bolshevist forces first retreated from Omsk to Irkutsk and, about January, 1920, were forced to evacuate the latter place and retreat to the region of Vladivostok. It is probable that their military post was abandoned about that time. The stamps they used resembled the issue for the Russian offices in China which was made at Harbin, Manchuria, in 1919. Both were made by a simple surcharge of numerals on R[ussian] stamps. They differ in that the R[ussian] issue has surcharges printed in a while those we call Siberia were stamped.—Scott's Monthly Journal

B. BENDEL & CO. (And Successors).

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

H. Bendel.

1c Brown.

The Boston Book has the following data:—

Die approved, May 2, 1877.
First issued, June, 1877.
Last issued, April 17, 1883.
37,315,198 issued on silk, pink and watermarked paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

This adhesive is exactly like its predecessor, excepting only that the die was altered by inserting in the narrow space near the top of the stamp, between the ribbon labeled "U. S. Internal Rev." and the top of the circular band surrounding the maltese cross, the phrase reading "H. Bendel Doing Business As" in tiny colored letters only ½ mm. (about 1/50 of an inch) tall. These letters are so small that unless the stamp is carefully examined they appear merely to be part of the shading and easily escape notice. This is why the very common H. Bendel 1c on watermarked paper is so often mistaken for the very rare B. Bendel 1c stamp on watermarked paper.

Probably there were three or four plates, the first of which was made by the National Bank Note Company. If a plate was made by the American Bank Note Company, the writer has found no trace of it, and he has not been able to identify any of the stamps as being American prints. Stamps bearing the first type of National Imprint may be either National prints or American prints, and quite possibly there are Bureau printings from one or more Bank Note plates. The Bureau made at least one plate for this stamp, and specimens on watermarked paper bearing the second type of Bureau imprint and continuous guide lines are found. The H. Bendel 1c stamps on silk paper were all printed by the National Bank Note Company; the stamps on watermarked paper were printed by the National Bank Note Company, by the American Bank Note Company, and lastly by the Bureau at Washington.

There are many shades, and some of the stamps on watermarked paper show evidence that the plate from which they were printed was considerably worn. One of the scarcest shades is a rich purplish brown, suggesting the color used on the H. Bendel 12c stamp.

None of the H. Bendel 1c stamps are at all scarce. In addition to being used singly to pay the tax on 100 matches, they were frequently used in multiple to pay tax on larger packages, and the writer has seen a block of twelve used on the original cover instead of the 12c adhesive. It is impossible to state whether blocks of four are parts of the 12c multiple stamp, or were so used as a 4c multiple stamp, but as the 4c rate was commonly employed on the Pacific coast and rarely employed elsewhere, it is more than likely the 1c stamp was frequently used in multiple to pay a 4c rate.

Both singles and multiples of this stamp are frequently found cancelled in magenta, probably with a rubber stamp. Specimens cancelled in black or blue are much scarcer. The cancellation is seldom legible, but apparently consists of the firm name and date in letters about ⅛ inch tall, and only part of it appears on any single stamp. Practically all the multiple stamps seen by the writer are on pink or watermarked paper, and it is doubtful if many of the H. Bendel 1c on silk paper, or of the B. Bendel 1c were used extensively in multiple. As the 12c H. Bendel stamp was still in use in 1879 the 1c H. Bendel on pink paper was probably used in multiple at a time when the firm's supply of 12c happened to be exhausted, whereas many of the 1c stamps on watermarked paper were used in multiple after the issue of the 12c denomination had entirely ceased.

Many of these stamps on watermarked paper, and perhaps all of them, were used during the period when Hofen & Co. were agents for the Empire factory, but whether the stamps were used on both Empire and Eureka matches in 1882 and 1883, or only on the Empire matches, it is impossible to state.

12c Brown.

The Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, May 2, 1877.
First issued, June, 1877.
Last issued, Dec., 1879.
100,826 stamps issued on silk paper.
32 stamps per sheet (4x8).

The design of this large and handsome adhesive differs from its predecessor only in the following particulars:—The torch in the upper part of the maltese cross in the center of the stamp has been removed and in its place are four small colorless panels inscribed in outline letters "H. Bendel—Doing—Business—As." The letters of this inscription are from ½ to 1 mm. tall and are a trifle more noticeable than the similar inscription on the 1c H. Bendel stamps—particularly if the observer knows where to look for them. The first Bendel 12c stamp is seldom offered by mistake for the much scarcer second variety, but the title H. Bendel & Co. on the cross is so much more prominent and noticeable on the second 12c Bendel stamp than the tiny letters just above it that the scarce H. Bendel stamp is occasionally mistaken for its commoner predecessor. The color, however, is quite distinct. The H. Bendel 12c stamps are all in practically the same shade, which is darker than any shades found on the B. Bendel 12c.

The plate of this stamp was engraved by the National Bank Note Company after altering the die from which the earlier 12c plate was made, and as the stamp is known to exist only on silk paper, all those issued must be National prints. The entire issue comprises less than 3200 sheets and as both the pink paper and the watermarked paper came into use before the final issue of the stamp and it is not known to exist on either of those papers, evidently the supply printed in 1877 was sufficient to last for about two and a half years, hence there was no further printing. From the little variation in shade, it is reasonable to suppose that only one printing was actually made.

In 1888 Sterling quoted the modest figure of $2.00 on the H. Bendel 12c. Seven years later the Scott price was $7.50, which was raised to $20.00 in 1896; to $25.00 in 1898, and reduced to $20.00 in 1900, where it has since remained. The stamp is not excessively rare, and is less rare than the 1c B. Bendel error. Few specimens are extremely fine, but many of the copies in existence are in better condition than one would expect from such a large stamp used as these match stamps were. Good copies usually bring from $12.50 to $18.00, and come into the market more frequently than several other match stamps upon which lower figures are quoted. This stamp seems to be about five or six times as scarce as its predecessor, and allowing for the fact that more collectors can afford to own a $4.00 stamp than a $20.00 stamp, it enjoys the same popularity.

FOR THE SUMMER STAY-AT-HOMES

"LITTLE GIANT" APPROVALS.

To those who intend to remain home this summer and who will derive a large part of their summer's pleasure from their stamp collections, I wish to state that I have an exceptionally fine line of approvals at moderate prices. If a collector, they are exactly what I would like another dealer to send me for my collection, both in regard to price and quality and range.

After all, it's up to you. I can't reach out into space, locate you and force a good thing on you, but if you like good stamps at fair prices, let me have your reference and I am sure I can make your summer more pleasant to endure as a stay-at-home.

THE UNSCRUPULOUS COLLECTOR.

By C. M. TYLER.

Some stamp collectors are born into the game with honesty aforethought and are so proud of their hobby that they will never allow a dishonest act be done toward another if they can help it. But, sad to say, all are not like that—they can be divided into several classes. There is what I would call the "pest-collector" the kind who answers ads. for the sake of getting a few cheap stamps free for doing so and a large mail thereafter, but who never intends to buy. They are principally boys who have the sense of possession but no money to spend for the stamps they crave. The "approval-bug" is one of the same kind and is the cause of that expression following all ads. of approval dealers, "references required." But what foolishness that is, when you stop to consider what the unscrupulous collector can do even if references are given and they appear genuine and satisfactory to the dealer. If the collector wants to be dishonest and keep the stamps sent to him on approval, look at all the excuses, alibis and lies he can make that will let him off. It is a part of the game that dealers will lose a certain amount each year to this kind, and the dealer marks his goods accordingly to take care of such possible losses. It is nothing new, for the same subject has been cussed and discussed for many years. In looking through several issues of the Philatelic Journal of America, I find reference to this same proposition as far back as 1888, and the collectors who practiced the art in those days are now grand-fathers and probably still at the same old army game.

When the collector gains his majority and becomes of a responsible age, such dishonesty in stamps is not generally looked for. It is rather excusable in the boy of irresponsible age, and temptation is sometimes too strong to resist and no one should be more blamed that the dealer who tempts. Still, we find in the grown-ups that they will find means to gain at the expense of others. He buys stamps on order from a large dealer who by mistake sends along something different with the order and of which there is considerable value. The collector terms this a "sleeper" and chuckles to himself at getting something for nothing. The mistake would probably never be found out and the unscrupulous collector has scored again. But all collectors do not look upon "sleepers" as legitimate property. A case came to my attention recently where a prominent New Jersey dealer sent to a collector a very nearly complete collection of Chili, which he offered for sale in its entirety and not to be broken. When the collector had examined the collection and had reached the bottom page he found under it a full sheet of 3 cents 1869 United States stamps. He at once felt that the dealer had through mistake picked this sheet up when arranging the collection for mailing and probably did not know of its whereabouts. Sooner or later he would probably accuse some poor unfortunate of stealing them. But here the honesty of the collector predominates. He is one of the kind that we all like to do business with as he pays as he buys and wants nothing for nothing. He immediately called the dealer's attention to the matter. Was the dealer pleased? He, himself, was so much so that he showed his appreciation in allowing the collection of Chili stamps to be broken. The collector was given the privilege of taking what stamps he wanted and at a very satisfactory price. This is an incident that is often repeated but very seldom brought to the attention of the collecting public. The unscrupulous collector is put on the black-list, but there is no white-list for the honest.

Again, we have the collector who is always thinking up tricks to "put over" on his brother collectors. I have heard of one collector who had a rubber cancellation stamp made, used it on a lot of Seebecks from which he had soaked the gum and then sent them in exchange to a foreign dealer as being genuinely used. He probably thought everything is fair in love or war but little did he care if those same stamps might some day find their way back here and be sold to his own friends as genuine. He is a collector but still a faker in the making.

When one good turn deserves another or as the Golden Rule says, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them" it is to be regretted when you find a collector of this type is not given the same treatment in return, but yet, two wrongs would not make a right. Another collector who specializes on United States stamps in blocks or sheets, found that the rubber-stamp collector had a complete sheet of two cents 1917, perforated 10, for sale. He bought them at face value but when he was ready to put them into his collection he discovered that the sheet contained the 5 cents error. This was not noticed at the time of sale and was a legitimate "sleeper", but he at once called the matter to the attention of the other collector and arranged a proper settlement with him. Another name for the white-list.

A large dealer recently told me that when he was Sales Manager of a large Philatelic Society he found collectors, who, acting as Secretary of Branch Societies, would not make returns for six to ten months on circuits sent to them, when the rules stated that two weeks was the limit that circuits could be kept.

This kind of a collector is very harmful as he injures his fellow members more than himself, and keeps them from getting new circuits frequently as well as preventing sales from the department. The sooner he is put out of office the better for all.

Then there is the auction sale bidder or "piker collector." This does not mean all mail bidders but the fellow who thinks it is smart to bid on a great many lots well knowing that he could not afford it if he should receive them all. His idea is that a "sleeper" might come along, something rare that missed the eagle eye of the auction manager. His motto is, "Look for sleepers, finders keepers," then return the rest as not being "according to description." A certain prominent auction sales manager recently advised me that one Canadian collector, secured lots from one of his sales amounting to $125. and returned several of them aggregating $101. net. This was not only dishonest to the sales manager but did some other collector an injustice who had bid for the same lots at a little less than the "piker" got them for. Such cases as this is the cause of certain dealers having to be on their guard at all times, and occasionally blaming the honest collector with something he is not entitled to. Collectors who do this thing have no right in the society of responsible collectors.

There is another class of unscrupulous collectors who ought to go to jail. That is the kind that deliberately will remove a stamp from a sales book and replace it with one of inferior quality. Classed with him is the fellow who removes stamps and signs the name of the member from whom the circuit was received in the space made blank. That is certainly passing the buck to perfection, but it generally happens but once and when discovered, as it will, the Sales Manager removes his name from the mailing list, reports him to the Secretary and then FINIS.

You, Mr. Collector, who reads this, ask yourself in what class you belong. What list should your name be on, black or white?

UNITED STAMP SOCIETIES MEETS.

By WM. LYCETT.

The third annual convention of the United Stamp Societies was held in the rooms of the Philadelphia Stamp Club, Philadelphia, May 31, 1921, Vice-President J. Weer Chew presiding. Wm. Lycett, of Brooklyn, acted as temporary Secretary, in the absence of M. D. Olmstead, Sec.-Treas. Philadelphia, Brooklyn, and Lynn were represented in person, and Boston, Concord, N. H., Portland, Me., Vermont, and Suburban, of Boston by proxy and letter.

The reports of the officers, particularly S. G. Bixby, President, showed that the organization was in good working order and that much interest was being taken in the stamp circuits being circulated.

A new constitution, subject to action by the member-societies, was adopted, and it is hoped will be the foundation of a large and growing society. It contains excellent rules for the conduct of circuits, and establishes a Recruiting Committee to secure new member-societies. The United Stamp Societies hopes eventually to unite all the local societies of the country into one compact organization.

The following officers were elected for 1921: J. Weer Chew, Philadelphia, President; R. M. Osborne, Brooklyn, Vice-President; M. D. Olmstead, Concord, Secretary, Treasurer, and Sales Manager. The Recruiting Committee appointed by president Chew is R. M. Osborne, J. W. Taylor, and C. W. Cowell. Applications for membership may be made to any of this committee or to any officer.

Exhibition—We are indebted to Dr. Emilio Diena, Rome, Italy, for particulars of the French Philatelic Congress and Exhibition, held at Mulhouse, France, on May 17th and 18th, 1921. A special postmark, mentioning the exhibition and congress was used at Mulhouse during the meeting. The Journal de Mulhouse that Dr. Diena sends us devotes over a column of its six pages to an account of the transactions and the entertainment features of the meeting which we learn was attended by two hundred persons or at least that number was present at the banquet, where some of the 'dames et jeunes filles", appeared in Alsatian costume. We gather that this was the first congress of the philatelic societies in France and there were delegates from Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, etc. The question of forgeries was discussed and it was advised that protective measures be adopted to discourage the malign influence; and a protest was voted against the imposition by France of the 10% ad valorem tax on "collections" entering that country. Dr. Diena invited the delegates to assist in the centenary of Dante, at Florence, who died in 1321. A Swiss delegate offered the committee a gold medal for the best collection of the stamps of Alsace. Mulhouse was en fete for the occasion and the local dignitaries assisted in creating a festival occasion. The program embraced an excursion, soiree at the Municipal Theatre and the grand banquet. The discourses at the banquet were most interesting and the speakers praised the postage stamp, its significance and its symbolism to the skies amidst the applause of the banqueters. We should say that in some respects the Mulhouse convention was akin to the annual convention of the American Philatelic Society in this country.

Ordered—The information comes that the department intends to enforce the regulation that precanceled postage stamps must be defaced before mail matter bearing them is returned to the sender and postmasters have been told to proceed according to the following section of the postal regulations.

"When mail of the transient second-class, or of the third or fourth-class, bearing precanceled postage stamps, is returned, under the provisions of section 637, Postal Laws and Regulations, or remailed, postmasters shall thoroughly deface such stamps with the canceling stamps of their respective offices at the time of canceling those affixed to the matter in payment of postage for its return or remailing. When such matter reaches the office of original mailing for return to sender, the postmaster at such office shall, if the precanceled stamps have not been defaced by the postmaster at the returning office, deface such stamps with the canceling stamp of his office before delivering the matter to the sender."

Gratitude—In Current History for May, 1921, pp. 222-224, there is an article by Dr. Imre Josika-Herczeg, entitled, "America's Ties With Hungary", which is illustrated by a picture of Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz. We quote: "I would mention here especially General Bandholtz of the United States Army, who until recently was head of the Military Mission to Hungary. I am confident that even the children in the Hungarian schools will be taught to revere his name. During the frightful days of the Rumanian invasion, the American Military Mission was the only place where the terrorized Hungarians could go to regain their civil rights. When the Rumanians tried to loot the picture galleries of the National Museum, they found the American, General Bandholtz, with his military aids, before the doors of that institution; and it was he who placed the official seal of the United States upon the Museum's doors and thus prevented the Rumanians from carrying out their designs." For twenty-five years, or from the day we first saw Gen. Bandholtz' superb special collection of U. S., from that time, we have followed the activities of the General with particular interest.

Booked—Mr. C. W. Kissinger of Reading, Pa., president of the Society of Philatelic Americans, is pricking up his ears so as to hear the song of the siren who from her throne on the "echoing rock" of Lorelei, where pilatelic journalistic wrecks abound, lures the hopeful philatelic publisher to his doom. However, Mr. Kissinger seems to have stopped one ear, at least, with cotton as he says that come what may, he guarantees to publish his monthly for a year. We suppose that the new paper which will appear soon after the close of the S. P. A. convention at Minneapolis the week of August 15th, will be chosen as the official journal of the Society of Philatelic Americans. Mr. Kissinger made a reputation as a philatelic publisher in the early '90's when his Pennsylvania Philatelist attracted a large number of readers, especially among the younger set of collectors.

Warrant—From Mr. J. H. Houston, we have received a warrant of the Confederate Post Office Department, Transportation of the Mails, drawn on the postmaster of Norfolk, Va., and dated February 3, 1862. The note is interesting by reason that it is signed by John H. Reagan, postmaster general, and the fact that the lithographers of it are Hoyer & Ludwig, Richmond, Va., who were the contractors for some of the Confederate stamps.

Album—From Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz, we have the following note: "In running through the British Museum Catalogue the other day, I came across the enclosed entry of some book, apparently an early combination album-catalogue. Are you familiar with it? 'The Postage Stamp Collectors' Pocket Album, with a complete table of all known stamps, London, 1862, 16°. 8247, a, 11.' (This number is the call-number.)" In trying to get a clue to this publication we find that we are getting in the early philatelic shallows. In September, 1862, the first number of the Monthly Intelligencer, Birmingham, England, appeared, and in December, 1862, the single number of the Monthly Advertiser came from Liverpool. In 1862, December, the first edition of Dr. J. E. Gray's "catalogue of postage stamps for the use of collectors," was published and late in 1862, Henry Stafford Smith's catalogue was printed in Bath. In the Earl of Crawford's catalogue, stamp albums are not listed and if the work referred to by Mr. Ragatz comes under the classification of album, as no doubt it does, one has some basis for claiming that it is the first "stamp-album" published.

Bunch—We thank Mr. E. L. Ring for a bundle of old philatelic clippings and papers. He asks if we remember McSqueal's Weakly published by clever Detroit collectors as a sort of avant courier of the Detroit A. P. S. convention, 1910, a sheet filled with all sorts of palpable hits principally at persons of local prominence. We may add that in March, 1885, the Philatelic Squeal was published in Boston. A copy of the Tag World of Cleveland, 1886, confronts us; and in this connection, it is to be recorded that four or five adventurers assumed that there was an affinity between tin tobacco tags and postage stamps, as they published in 1886 and 1887 papers devoted impartially to tags and to stamps.

FRANK E. HADLEY, BOX 73, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

A STRONG PROTEST.

By A. M. McFADDEN.

After reading the "Unscrupulous Dealer" in the May 28th issue of the WEEKLY—the novice in Philately must inevitably reach the following conclusions:

(1) Practically all dealers are dishonest—wear concealed horns and cloven hoofs.

(2) The ultimate in wasted effort would be the turning of Diogenes' lantern on the advertising columns of any stamp paper.

Now, with due respect to the author of "The Unscrupulous Dealer", I must insist that the following statements are more nearly correct and I belive thousands of collectors will agree with me. Had the "hero" of the story used just a little discretion and judgment, he could have purchased, from any one of a half dozen or more "ads" in the WEEKLY, a packet containing a variety of good, clean stamps at one-half or less than they could be bought from approval selections.

He could find scores of dealers, anxious for his trade, who would send him stamps on approval—with correct catalogue number, value and net prices plainly marked. Not until, thru carelessness or for other reasons, he failed to answer two or three courteous notices of delinquency, would he receive a letter threatening legal proceedings.

Having joined a Stamp Society he might in addition to benefits derived, find that conditions existed, which were, in his opinion, improper. Would it occur to him, that the large number of members who take no interest in the conduct of the Society's affairs—further than to sign a proxy for the annual meeting and pay dues,—are in great part responsible for these conditions? In buying at auction, he would find, that lots can be inspected prior to the sale and lots purchased are returnable if incorrectly described.

Also the average dealer in order to hold a good customer's trade, will go more than half-way to rectify mistakes. Referring to the text of "The Unscrupulous Dealer", our hero has managed to escape the forty thieves with his life and $2.75.

He is now set upon by no less a person than Captain Kidd "HIMSELF," in the guise of a well known "Collector Dealer."

He is cruelly separated from his $2.75, in exchange for a $2.00 stamp a "perhaps error." Finding later, that this stamp can be purchased at the Post Office for $2.00, our "hero" mourns his loss of seventy-five cents. He overlooks the amount saved when he purchased the 2c type I imperforate from the same "C.D." To stray from the story a little—Isn't it time to drop this "Collector Dealer" $2.00 error talk? Money spent by a dealer's competitors, in advertising the awful secret—namely—"Collector, Dealer-Editor" is money wasted. And what dealer, at some time, has not advertised a stamp at a higher figure than some other dealer? When the adjective unscrupulous is prefixed to the above titles, (as in the article under discussion) it seems time to call a halt.

Reverting to "our hero". I cannot explain why the stamp papers to which he subscribed, met with an untimely end. I know, however, that numerous Philatelic publications are like Kipling's "Young British Soldier", in that—"'E is frequent deceased ere 'e's fit to serve as a soldier". Advice—play it safe, "Subscribe to the WEEKLY."

In conclusion, any dealer conducting his business along the lines described in "The Unscrupulous Dealer" would be forced out of business, thru lack of patronage. The picture is overdrawn.

Tho, as in any other business, there are a few dishonest dealers, the great majority are honest and reputable business men.

This statement is confirmed by my own business relations with numerous dealers.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"McCann Can" seen elsewhere in this issue sounds familiar. It was Burt McCann's trademark and slogan when he was active in promoting the destinies of the Burt McCann Co. Under the new management the firm has obtained a very fine collection of unused Great Britain and Colonies. European countries and South America are also advertised as complete.

—We have received a vigorous protest from Maxwell Krause at the use of the C. M. Tyler article "The Unscrupulous Dealer". He claims that mail order dealers are not as a class deserving of the wholesale denunciation paid them.

—John G. Jewett sends us a clipping from the N. Y. Herald which states that the Ferrari collection is to be sold at auction by the French government in the very near future. We have no definite information that will confirm this newspaper report.

—We are informed by Geo. H. Jaeger that the postage rates in Lettland have again been raised. It costs 10r for an ordinary letter, 20r for a registered letter and 5r is the post-card rate. He sends us a copy of the latest novelty, a surcharge of ten rubles on 1r jubilee, made up of a two-line overprint "Desmit Rubli."

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to

UNITED STATES, SOMETHING NEW

You will recall that two years back the Bureau started to use its coil waste which was perforated 10 vertically by running it through the regular machines, where it received a perforation 11 horizontal. This gave us the well known compounds perforated 11x10. If you do not happen to have these, I can rurnish mint blocks of four of the complete issue 1c, 2c and 3c at ..... .75

Recently, however, the Bureau had some imperforate waste from these presses, the first we have seen in the two years the waste has been utilized, and this was run both ways through the regular perforator, hence is perf. 11 all around — in other words, 2c perf. 11, rotary print. Can be told from the regular 2c because the rotary print is easily distinguishable and besides, it is from a different die. It may be rare, it may be common. If you are willing to take a chance, send for a mint block of four at ..... .50

The Bureau also made plates of four hundred subjects for the rotary press and first sold these in perforated sheets of 100 perf. 10x11. Recently, this variety has been issued Perforated 10. I can furnish a mint block of four of each at ..... .20

In other words:—

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—If there has been any doubt in any one's mind regarding high class United States stamps holding their own they should have been present at the recent auction sale held by Eugene Klein in Philadelphia. Copies of the 5c 1847 on the cover, sold in excess of $20, one of them having a blue Troy cancellation, which by the way is not so unusual. Odd cancellations on the 3c 1851 issue ruled high, running from 80c to $11 and more each. An "Odd Fellows" cancellation from Canton, Miss., was knocked down at $12.50, a South Carolina Railroad at $10.50, a Boston & Albany $6.25, a New York & Philadelphia at $3.50.

Steamboat cancellations pretty generally brought $10 each while one or two went higher. A 10c 1851 with a bright red New York cancellation sold at $13.00 while one with blue Madison cancellation, many times as scarce, brought $3.20. The beauty of the red cancellation on the green stamp must be deciding factor, for the red cancellation is not near so scarce as the blue on this stamp. A perfection copy of the 30c 1857, as fresh as the day it was bought at the Post Office sold for $15.50, a fine 90c sold at the same figure. Odd cancellations on the 3c 1861 are not as much in demand although some varieties brought around $2 to $5.

A 15c black Lincoln on the cover sold at $18 while a 24c slate blue listing $12.50 sold at $61.00. Fine copies in the other shades on cover brought two and three times catalogue. The 1869 issue ruled strong, a copy of the 3c on cover with red cancellation bringing $7.75 while it was not unusual for stamps of this issue off cover bringing several times catalogue when they had cancellations other than the usual run.

The 1c 1870 with the entire bottom doubled brought a price of $5.25. Imperf. pairs of the 1895 sold around $5 while late issues generally held their own.

Confederates generally ruled high while good foreign brought good prices. Anyone comparing these prices with an auction catalogue of say five years ago will come pretty close to the conclusion that there are few better investments than the stamps of our country.

It really makes me smile when I glance at my own collection and find many copies of the 10c 1847 bought around $3.50 each, dozens of steamboat cancellations at 2c each, a block of eight used of the 3c 1851 at 30c and so on down the line. I maintain that many prices of today will be just as low when compared to quotations of ten years hence. Stick to fine condition, go after the thing that the other fellow is not strongly after and you will come out with a gilt edge investment.

The 1c rotary print, perforated 10 is now being pretty generally distributed and I have already seen two very distinct shades. The Bureau states that they turn out about 400,000 of these monthly. Even with the new perforations I am afraid they will not be very popular with the post office clerk for they seem to fall apart as readily as ever. The Bureau will have to experiment with the paper and gum rather than the perforations for the present combination makes them so brittle that they break apart of their own weight.

Mr. Percy M. Mann advises that he has located an entirely new type of the 1885 1c dark red brown Jefferson postal card. It appears to be from a recut die, the hair lines differing greatly. The normal variety is No. 9 in Mr. Mann's published list.

We note that Mr. A. C. Roessler, that wide awake Jerseyite, has endeavored to have the Postmaster General continue or rather reestablish the old practice of having the Washington office cater to the stamp collector. We might incidently mention that this is a matter more in the hands of the Postmaster at Washington and if we will all write a letter, when the new postmaster is finally appointed, it may have its effect. The present gentleman is more or less against it.

We wish to thank Messrs. W. L. Preston, E. K. Cone and George E. Virden for notes of interest.

AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH. — The current 4d stamp in the Georgian type is to hand in a new colour, viz., plum, to obviate confusion with the new 2d. As however, this colour closely resembles that of the 5d, further colour changes in the present commonwealth series may be looked for:

King's Head Type of 1913. New colour.
4d plum.
—Philatelic Magazine.

BARBADOS.—Mr. Pearson sends us two pieces of stamp-edging, taken from the 2s and 3s Victory stamps of Barbados. It seems that the perforation of the 3s value of this series gauges 13½, while the remainder of the set are normally perf. 14.

The exception cannot have been caused through shrinkage of the paper, and the only feasible explanation is that the paper became stretched.

Mr. T. Ernest Murray describes a variety of the ½d stamp of the same series, the letter "A" of the watermark being missing altogether just below the margin on the edging.—Stamp Collecting.

COLOMBIA.—Mr. R. H. Shisler advises that he recently received a letter from Barranquilla having two 2c, No. 341, and a 2c, No. 341, cut diagonally to make up the five cent rate.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—In connection with the annual "Sokal" or Workers' Olympiad to be held at Prague, from June 26th to 30th this year, the full series of current postage, postage due, air post, newspaper and express letter stamps will be issued from a special post office attached to the Stadium, bearing the commemorative overprint "Delnicka Olympiada ver. 1921."—Philatelic Magazine.

LETTONIA (LATVIA)

SPECIAL OFFER FOR PHILATELIC SOCIETIES AND COLLECTORS.

Lettonia is a favorite object of collection but the great number of expensive numbers for various items makes the medium collector hesitate. We have decided to offer all postage stamps which have appeared in Lettonia up to Mai 20th 1921, for only 250 marks 250.—$4.50 (postfree). We beg to notice that Senf. 1921 only lists 61 varieties of Lettonia for M489.81; and Yvert Catalogue 1921—46 var. for Frs. 118.25—M1583., whereas we supply Lettonia complete with more than 50% discount on the above prices. If 10 compl. series are ordered on one address, the 11th compl. series is sent gratis.

COMPLETE LETTONIA, 90 var., (guarant. complete)

REVUE LETTONIE, the quarterly ill. revue "The Lettonian Philatelist" is sent to every client ordering every ordered compl. set of 90 var., for one year (2nd annual course) (Subscription—M15.—).

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

DANZIG.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the 75pf Germania type surcharged "Danzig" diagonally in red with the added overprint at the top of "60" with three horizontal bars obliterating the former values. The last overprint is in black. At the same time the same correspondent sends copies of the new Air Post stamps mentioned above. The colors are as follows, 40pf bright green, 60pf purple, 1m red, 2m orange brown and 5m blue. The last value is nearly twice the size of the other four values.

EAST AFRICA & UGANDA.—Mr. J. William Cook calls our attention to the fact that he has recently found two copies of the surcharged stamp 4c on 6c with two short lines over the "ts" in cents.

GUATEMALA.—The Schweiger Briefmarken Zeitung is informed of the impending issue of new postage stamps for this state, a contract having been placed with Messrs. Waterlow and Sons, Ltd., London, for the following values and quantities:—

2c	2,000,000	60c	250,000
5c	500,000	75c	500,000
10c	500,000	90c	250,000
12½c	1,000,000	1p	500,000
20c	1,000,000	1.50p	1,000,000
30c	500,000	3p	500,000
50c	1,000,000	5p	250,000
	15 pesos, 250,000

The denomination 1.50 and 5 pesos will replace those shewing the portrait of ex-President Estrada Cabura. The vignette of the former, printed in yellow and blue will depict an ancient Monolith at Quirigua near the Atlantic coast, said to have been set up by Maya Indians. The design of the new 5 pesos stamps will show the national monument to Garcia Granados: colours coffee and green. The 15 pesos black and green, which is an entirely new denomination will represent a landscape with a bridge.—Philatelic Magazine.

JAMAICA.—Mr. Hugo Griebert and the Economist Stamp Co., submit to us for chronicle the 3d stamp of the new commemorative set. The colors are ultramarine and green and show a view of the discovery of that island by Columbus in 1494.

The Economist Stamp Co, and Mr. Hugo Griebert have submitted to us copies of the 1½d pictorial stamp on new watermarked paper.

Mr. Herman Focke sends us copies of the 2d, 2½d, 4d and 5sh, of the new pictorial set, on old multiple CA watermarked paper and calls attention to the rather thick paper and perf. 14.

NEW ZEALAND.—We learn that the 4½d and 7½d values of the King George series, as well as the entire Victory set, are to be withdrawn from issue as soon as the existing stocks are exhausted. —Stamp Collecting.

SAMOA.—Several of our contemporaries abroad say that there is an inverted variety ('V') on the 1½d value of the Samoan Victory stamps and that it occurs on the first stamp of the fourth row, but on examination of a complete sheet we fail to see any difference in this particular stamp, except that the centre of the letter is very much blurred, but it has a cross-bar, and is an 'A' right enough. The second stamp on the same row is more blurred still, while the third stamp on the fifth row is very indistinct; the second stamp on the seventh row is likewise; and the fourth stamp on the eighth row ditto ditto. The majority of these are, however, more indistinct than the first-mentioned, and, in our opinion, all these peculiarities are due to defective printings. Possibly some of these letters may have been cleaned out in subsequent printings, in the course of which the crosss-bar might disappear; but we are confident that they were all A's in the beginning, and therefore not entitled to rank as varieties.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

SWEDEN.—W. D. Scott writes "I have the 'Gustavus Vasa' 20 öre in booklet form, which may account for the stamp you mention being perforated all round. The booklet contains twenty stamps arranged in two separate blocks of ten. The stamps are in pairs in each block arranged perpendicularly. When the book is closed the four top stamps of each block fold over on top of the remaining six. The colour of the booklet is blue, with the usual postal information on inside of covers.

A pair of the stamps also show a portion of the words 'Kungl Postverket' as a watermark, which is generally found on the margin of the sheet."—Stamp Collecting.

"IT'S UP TO THE SCOTT CO.!"

By A. ATLAS LEVE.

We all are familiar with the fact that every corner grocery cracker box orator could run the war better than it was run. We also know that every subscriber to any publication could run it better than the men at the head of such publication. Does it not seem curious that the Scott Co. should not be able to say what kind of a catalog the Scott Co. should publish? There is no better trade journal, book or catalog published than Scott's Stamp Catalog. The white paper is almost worth the price, and we get a year's labor and all the contents for nothing. The writer would like to see a separate volume of U. S. only. It could be made very complete and would be more practical to work with for U. S. collectors than the one thick book of over 1000 pages.

But Scott's must know best and if they are going to cut the telegraphs, I say, "Go to it!" and let us hope they will cut out the "extra holes" next. Telegraph franks are no more U. S. stamps than yeast labels, trolley transfers, cigar coupons or laundry markers. These franks are no more stamps than they are theatre tickets. I would like to see the locals "come back."

But after all is said and written, Scott's will publish the 1922 catalog, according to their immense knowledge and painstaking methods, regardless of outside opinion. Sometimes, you know, the doctor gives us medicine that is good for us, tho we don't like it. I take my advance sheet, the first form or two, index it and make a nice little U. S. catalog, and I think if Scott's would issue the U. S. part in such form thousands of copies would be sold. However, it's all up to Scott's—and there you are.

WILLIAMS BOOKSTORES CO.

"UNDER THE OLD SOUTH CHURCH"

desires to announce the opening of a STAMP STORE at No. 6 Milk Street, in the heart of the shopping and financial district and the on in the city with ground-floor location. This move was not decided upon within the space of a few weeks or months—it represents the wo accumulation of stock during a period of over a year, and has reached such a point that we can safely and proudly state that we carry one of the most varied and valuable stocks in the city. We have not gone into this as an experiment, but because we believe that a operating on a common-sense basis, with courtesy, good service and good value as its aim, will be appreciated and patronized by Boston col We do not claim to be always the lowest in price, but we do claim that each sale represents no more than a fair and nominal profit to as the business is in the hands of a careful and competent buyer, the conclusion is obvious. Boston collectors and out-of-town visit cordially invited to come in and see for themselves!

NEW ISSUES, MEDIUM-PRICED SETS, ETC.

We can supply new issues from all countries within a few weeks of their actual appearance. Such stamps will be found in our SET BOOKS, which are attrac arranged by countries and contain several thousand varieties.

PANAMA CORRECTION.

Mr. Heyden informs us that an error occurs in his serial story on the "Stamps of Panama" as published in the WEEKLY of May 28. Since chapter 21 was written he has received satisfactory evidence of the genuineness of the Bocas del Toro registration stamps surcharged "PANAMA". Mr. Heydon has a cover addressed to a Chinese firm in San Francisco bearing the stamps referred to. When this serial is reprinted in booklet form the proper correction will be made.

ORIGINALS AND REPRINTS.

By D. E. EASTLAKE.

We wonder if Victor G. Loly of Ocean Park, California, has any children?

Uh, huh, that's what we want to know; is he a Loly-pop?

Myrtle says, "Now that the German mark is worth so little, I can't understand why the German government doesn't turn around and call their money dollars and cents instead of marks and pfennigs, because the dollar has depreciated hardly at all!"

We might mention the fact that Myrtle has her own collection of stamps—and her own ideas.

A stamp in your album is worth two in an auction sale.

We sent for a certain stamp, some time ago, and when it arrived we sent it right back on account of a "thin spot." Back came another copy with a very nice letter from the dealer suggesting that the "thin spot" might have been a watermark. The dealer was right; it was a watermark. The next time we are going to count to one hundred before we jump.

Johnnie had a little stamp,
But soaked it,
Oh, too long,
And though he paid
A dollar for it,
'Tisn't worth a song!

Johnnie had another stamp,
And glued it in his book,
And never could
He loosen it,
By hook or crook!

A BIT OF PUBLICITY.

(We publish the following letter as an example of good publicity. It was written by L. H. Brigham of Southbridge, Mass., as an invitation to local people to attend an open meeting at which philately would be presented. We consider it a fine production, and pass it on for the benefit of other stamp clubs.—W. O. W.)

"The time has come", the Walrus said,
"To talk of many things—
Of ships and shoes and sealing wax,
Of cabbages and kings"—

Considering its size, one might assume that there would not be much to say about a Postage Stamp. This is an erroneous assumption.

Even our libraries contain nothing that more truthfully and graphically depicts the march of history and the political evolution of the race than does the postage stamp. This knowledge is of importance to you and to me—something we want to know about.

Mr. Frank Coes of the Coes Wrench Company, Worcester, Mass., has kindly consented to give an illustrated talk on the subject of Postage Stamp Collecting, on Friday Evening, June 3rd, in the Recreation Room, second floor of the Main Plant of the AOCo., at 8.00 P. M.

Mr. Coes is extremely well qualified to speak on this subject, having been an enthusiastic collector for the last 38 years and is well versed in all of its many branches.

While this talk is primarily for those already interested in the subject, it will prove an extremely profitable evening's entertainment for any who care advantage of the open invitation.

You, personally, are invited, a friends you may care to bring wi

THE PONY EXPRESS.

By "UNCLE DAN" DRUMHELLER (Daniel M. Drumheller), Who Rode the Route.

PIONEER TRANSPORTATION AND THE PONY EXPRESS.

The main interest in travel was to overhaul the immense freight outfits of Major & Waddell. They were the pioneer transportation men of the great west, and they were credited with having hundreds of wagons in their employ. They moved government freight for the army posts from the Missouri river clear across the continent to Santa Fe and Salt Lake. The usual freight outfit consisted of 26 wagons, with 12 oxen to each, in charge of a wagon master, and sometimes they had guards of soldiers along through the more troublesome Indian country, although usually they depended on the teamsters standing guard at night.

This was long before the days of the overland stage. As I remember, the stage commenced running through the south first in 1857, via Texas and Arizona to San Francisco, and was moved to St. Joe, Mo., on through Laramie and Ogden to Sacramento in 1860, about the same time the pony express started.

The pony express could make short cuts on bridle paths where the cumbersome stages could not possibly follow. In a general way the stage route and the pony express followed the same route as the present line of the Union Pacific system from St. Joe through Cheyenne and Ogden on to Sacramento, but the pony express route, which started first, used some short cuts to the Carson valley over the Sierras. The stage road followed the Humboldt valley. Neither went through Virginia City, Nev., which was six or eight miles south. Sacramento was the western terminal because from there to San Francisco, 90 miles, the trip could be made by fast steamers. One boat, the New World, made the run in five hours.

The fare from the Missouri river to Carson City, Nev., in the early days, was $250 gold. These huge red coaches, which cost $1200 to $1500, were pretty expensive to operate, for they were frightfully heavy.

MY SHARE IN FOUNDING THE PONY EXPRESS.

While the overland stage was a wonderful institution, it never compared with the pony express. All things considered, the present travel of the limited trains that go from Omaha to Sacramento in three days is an easy exploit compared with the service of the pony riders who made that same run of 1950 miles from St. Joe to Sacramento in from 8 to 10 days. It happens that I had a little part in the founding of the express.

I was still working for Mr. Singletary in Colusa county in the winters of '59 and '60. I was always dickering and trading around on my own account, and I had a few horses that I had bought. About the first of February, 1860, a man named Finny came along in search of horses, and I sold him four or five head of nice saddlers. He liked the bunch and asked if I could get him 50 or 60 head like them—gentle, fairly well broke critters of good bottom. I told him I thought I could, if I could square matters with my boss, Mr. Singletary. He let me off and I picked the horses up.

Mr. Finny was so well pleased that he gave me $200 in gold, ten double eagles, as a present, and asked me to drive them with another man across the Sierras to Genoa in the Carson valley, 15 miles south of where Carson now stands. He was assembling a bunch of horses there for the pony express. Already they had men at work building stations and assembling feed and supplies for the pony service. We got the horses over the range, and I was ready to start back for the Sacramento when in came Finny.

"You stay with me and sort of look after things," he said. I was a youngster 20 years old, ready for any excitement, and it was all one with me whether I was working for Finny on the express run, or whether I was punching cattle for Singletary, so I stayed. He paid me, I remember, $150 a month, gold, which was more than the pony express riders were to get. They had $100 a month for their wages. The pony express service started about March 25, 1860. The overland stage route was started later in the same year.

JUMPS IN SADDLE TO KEEP PONY EXPRESS GOING.

It wasn't expected then that I would ride, for I was a little over weight—they did not like to take on riders who weighed more than 130 pounds and I weighed 150 pounds—but the second day after they got the service started a young rider came into the station nearly dead from loss of blood. He was carrying a six shooter tied around his thigh and it happened to explode, with the result that he got an awful wound in his leg. I happened to be there, and so I jumped into the saddle and started to ride the pony express route.

Our equipment was very simple. In the front of every station when the driver was due, the horse stood out at the rack, bridled and saddled and ready to go. The saddle was a very light tree with a single cinch. The mail was carried in a machero—two pieces of able harness leather each about two feet long and 18 inches wide, spliced together along the top with rawhide thongs. There were holes in the top of the machero to fit over the pommel and the cantel of the saddle tree, and a cinch around the horse's belly held the rigging fast. The rider used it as a covering for his saddle.

On each side of the machero, behind the rider's leg, was a big leather pocket 10 inches wide and 12 inches deep, with a smaller pocket of leather in front on each side of the pommel. Here the mail was tucked away. The through mail was padlocked in one set of pouches which could be opened only at terminals —St. Joe and Sacramento. Local mail was carried in the small pouches. As I remember, we carried about 30 pounds of mail and it consisted entirely of letters written on the thinnest of paper. I believe the special editions of some newspapers printed on tissue were also sent regularly through.

There was reason for economy of weight, for the rate of postage was $2.50 for a half ounce. Even then the rates were not exorbitant, for that little bundle had to provide the revenue for a string of stablemen, to say nothing of superintendents and horses and supply outfits, which were required to keep the service in operation. The stations were usually 18 or 20 miles apart. We aimed to make 100 miles in a day's trip of 10 hours with five relays of horses. Then we would lay off at the station for a little more than 36 hours before starting back with the opposite mail. We averaged about 10 miles an hour. Changing horses at the stations, we would unbuckle the machero, throw it onto the waiting animal and off we would go.

Rates And Heavy Expenses Of Pony Mail System.

The section that I rode was only 90 miles long, but it was in one of the roughest and most dangerous parts of the route from the Carson river ranch to the sink of the Carson river. It was infested with roving Piutes, including old Winnemucca's bunch of lazy pirates. One night, coming into a station, instead of my fresh horse tied up and waiting for me, there was neither horse nor camp-tender in sight. The cabin was a little affair, made out of quaking asp logs with a gunnysack door. I walked into it in the darkness, and there was the corpse of the station tender, dead and mutilated by the Piutes. I had to push on to the next station for a fresh horse. I was riding the pony express for a month, beginning with the second day that the service began out of Genoa, in the sink of the Carson.

Puncturing Some Claims To Pony Express Fame.

I got tired of the pony express and quit about the first of May, 1860, and struck out for Virginia City. The service was never profitable, and I believe that Major Waddell and Russell, who were behind the deal, lost half a million dollars on it. It only ran a little more than a year.

Every once in a while I read about the death of the last of the pony express riders. Buffalo Bill claimed to have been one of the early riders. Maybe he was on the east end, but I never knew anything about him. I remember reading of a rider named Appleby who died in Salt Lake about two years ago. I remember meeting a lad of that name at the east end of my run. Then there's a story of Pony Sam, who claims to have ridden out of Virginia City. He was a faker, a pieshop gambler. I knew him well, and I don't believe he ever rode the express.

The line, which was maintained by the Central-Overland-California & Pike's Peak Express company, only lasted about a year. It went out of business in 1861 upon the completion of the Pacific Telegraph company's line across the continent. As I recall, the fastest time ever made by the pony express was a trifle more than eight days in carrying the news of Lincoln's nomination—Spokesman-Review, Seattle, Wash.

Bargain Offers - Rare U. S. Stamps

The following is a list of rare stamps all priced VERY LOW and according to condition.

Do not send any money, but check the list or order any you wish to see and we will send them on approval. Of most of these we have only one copy in stock; quite a few of them are priced at much less than what the owners paid for them.

Some of these stamps which are priced very low at one-fourth and one-fifth of catalogue or less have either some minor defects such as slight thin spots, a few perforations nibbed, close margins, or are slightly repaired, but there are NO BADLY DAMAGED or BAD LOOKING copies in the entire list.

We think these prices are very attractive and if you wish to secure any of these at these exceptionally low prices, please let us hear from you soon.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XXV—STAMPED STATIONERY.

a.—Post Cards.

Post cards were first issued in Newfoundland in 1873. In that year the American Bank Note Co. furnished a 1c card, printed in green, the stamp being in the design of the contemporary 1c postage stamp—i. e., portrait of the Prince of Wales (afterwards King Edward VII), in the costume of a Highlander. Six years later, a 2c U. P. U. card, vermilion on white, made appearance, the stamp on which was in the design of the contemporary 3c postage stamp, Queen Victoria in widow's cap, facing the right.

In 1880, the postage stamp contract went to the British American Bank Note Co., of Montreal, and they furnished in that year 1c and 2c cards, the former being green on buff, and the latter, vermilion on buff. The stamp for the 1c card was in the design of the contemporary 1c postage stamp of this Company's manufacture, while that of the 2c was modeled after the Canadian postage stamp series of 1868—the head of Queen Victoria, facing the right, in a circle.

A provisional card made appearance in the same year, the 1c being overprinted for use as 2c. ONE CENT at the top of the stamp was barred out; the numerals in the lower corners overprinted with the figure "2", and "2 CENTS" printed across the center of the stamp.

In 1890 both denomination cards were issued on white, instead of buff card.

A 1c card issued in 1904, bore the portrait of King Edward VII, while in the following year the U. P. U. card, bright vermilion on buff, was changed to include a portrait of Queen Alexandra. Both cards were of American Bank Note Co. manufacture.

The Georgian reign brought about a change; in June, 1911, the 1c card appeared with a portrait of King George V., three-quarters face to the right; "Newfoundland" above, and "One Cent" below. The portrait somewhat resembles that used for the 2c postage stamp of the Coronation series, and the printers were probably the same, Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd. of London. The card measures 180x79 mm.

In May, 1913, a new 1c card appeared, green on cream, measuring 122x79 mm., with the head of King George V. in an oval, facing the left. Surmounting the oval is a crown, with conventional ornaments on either side. Tablets in the lower corners contain figures of value. The design of the stamp is the same as for the 2c letter card issued in the previous year. The U. P. U. card, carmine on cream, 131x84 mm., issued in the following year, embodied a portrait of Queen Mary.

Interesting Announcement

Our two handbooks on U. S. stamps, viz: the 1894 to 1900 book and the XX Century book are in such demand that hardly a day goes by but some one orders or calls for them. This shows us the crying need for useful works on U. S. Stamps—works written by people who know for people who don't know—and therefore it is with the greatest pleasure we announce the forthcoming appearance of another New Handbook harking backwards, as it were, from the Bureau prints to those of 1870 to 1893.

No series of stamps is more often misplaced in albums than this one and collectors seem to take particular delight in getting them all balled up, so we hope for better behavior from philatelists in future.

This work will be bound in red, be uniform in size with the other two books and will cost fifty cents post free. Cash orders will be received for delivery about Oct. 1 or sooner, but orders reading "Send when out with bill" and such like Kindergarten business will be ignored. This brings our U. S. Library up to date as follows:

1870-1893, Bank Note Companies, Red Covers - 50c
1894-1900, Bureau Printings, Grey Covers, - - - 50c
1901-1920, Twentieth Century Issues, Blue Covers, - 50c

AFGHANISTAN

Stamps are not to the taste of all Collectors, but to the real Philatelic Student they make a very strong appeal in view of their quaint appearance and inscriptions. They are specially interesting and desirable.

USED ON ENTIRE COVERS.

I have recently acquired a fine lot in this condition from the famous Collection of the late Sir D. P. Masson. Attractive approval selections are available at reasonable prices, and I shall be glad to hear from Collectors interested.

UNDER MARKET PRICES

Do you wish to purchase United States stamps at before-the-war prices?

Would a postage issue prior to 1870 in good condition cataloging $4.00 at $1.00 or one cataloging $10.00 at $2.00 interest you?

ASK FOR "D" LINE APPROVALS.

This line was originated for the sale of "average" copies. Experiments deliberately conducted in the past three months show that many collectors who are particular as to condition find items they can use in this line. New sheets are made up weekly and include many good conditioned items bought advantageously, which may be sold likewise.

Reference (two stamp dealers preferred) from all not having had an approval account within the past two years.

POLAND RARITIES

We have on hand what is perhaps the only genuine set of Austrian Dues with Poczta Polska surcharge in this country today. These stamps were obtained from a Polish post-office, bear the guarantee stamp of the most reliable dealers in Poland, are backed by a written guarantee from this same concern, and have further been approved by noted experts in Vienna and Paris. This set is of course sold with the understanding money will be returned at any time should this prove other than stated.

We therefore offer Poland, Nos. 408-10, of which only forty copies exist, together with No. 410 surcharged in black, the rarest of all new issues, of which only sixteen exist, for the sum of $425.00.

The entire set, postage, dues, newspapers, etc., we offer for $500.00.

Further particulars and information on application.

NEW BRITISH COLONIALS

All new issues have been received, including pictorial Tonga, Bermuda commemoratives, etc. Send us your want list early.

1905. 2c bright vermilion on buff, Queen Alexandra.

Printed by Whitehead, Morris & Co., Ltd., London.

1911. 1c green on white, King George V, 180x79 mm.

1913. 1c green on cream, King George V, 122x79 mm.

1914. 2c carmine on cream, Queen Mary, 131x84 mm.

b.—Envelopes.

Stamped envelopes were introduced in 1889, and so small was the demand that only one supply was sent out; they only recently became obsolete. The envelopes were furnished in two denominations—3c violet, and 5c ultramarine, and in two sizes, 120x94 mm., and 140x78 mm. The paper is cream laid, watermarked "ORIGINAL — TURKEY MILL — KENT" in three lines of outline caps.

The stamps are oval in form, with plain outer edge for the 3c and scalloped for the 5c. Encircling the head of Queen Victoria, embossed in colorless, is a band of engine work with "NEWFOUNDLAND" at the top, and "THREE CENTS" (or "FIVE CENTS") at the bottom.

1889. 3c violet on cream laid, Queen Victoria (2 sizes, 120x94 mm. and 140x78 mm.)
5c ultramarine, ditto.

c.—Wrappers.

Wrappers of three denominations (1c, 2c, and 3c) were also furnished in 1889, and are still current. The stamps are elongated rectangles, containing the head of Queen Victoria, in a circle. At the top of the stamp is "NEWFOUNDLAND," and at the bottom, the value, "ONE CENT", etc.

1889. 1c on manila, Queen Victoria.
2c carmine on ditto.
3c brown on ditto.

d.—Letter Card with Paid Reply.

In his report for 1910-1911, the Postmaster General wrote, under date of March 9, 1912:—

"There is now in course of preparation a reply post card for local use which has the advantage of being sealed, and it enables the addressee to reply without having to provide paper, envelope or postage stamp."

The card (2x2c carmine on bluish gray) was issued in the closing months of 1912, and but one printing was made. There are two parts to the card, each having a perforated gummed edge; the reply part, which is smaller than the message card, folds within the latter.

At the top of the card is "Newfoundland", with the Royal Arms to the left. On a ribbon below is "Letter Card—With Reply", followed by two lines of instructions, "The address only to be written on this side.—To open tear off the edge. Four dotted lines of equal length are provided for the address. In the upper right hand corner is the stamp,—an oval with the head of King George V, in profile, facing the left. "Newfoundland" conforms to the oval at the top, and "Two Cents" below. The whole is surmounted by a crown and conventional ornaments. Tablets in the lower corners contain figures of value. On the reverse of the card are the Arms of the Colony, with "Newfoundland" under, followed by "This card may be transmitted only within the Island."

The reply portion of the card has practically the same lettering as the message card, save that the ribbon inscription is changed to "Reply half of—letter card". On the back in addition to the printed matter of the message card, are three lines of instructions, viz.—"If anything be enclosed in this Letter Card it will be treated as an insufficiently paid letter, if not already prepaid at that rate."

1912. 2x2c carmine on bluish gray, King George V, 132x100 mm.

XXVI.—Mailing in Bulk.

Circulars, telephone bills, and the like are often taken to the G. P. O., in bulk, and postage paid in cash. No stamps are attached, but instead the matter is rubber stamped "Postage Paid—G. P. O.—St. John's—Newf'l'd."

EAGLE COLLECTION SOLD.

(We are indebted to A. S. Davenport for the following clipping taken from the N. Y. "Times" of Sunday, June 12. Mr. Eagle's collection of U. S. revenues had acquired a world-wide reputation and its purchase by the Economist Stamp Co. is one of the great stamp transactions of the year.—W. O. W.)

What has long been recognized among postage stamp collectors as the most complete collection of United States revenue stamps in the world, was recently purchased by a Nassau Street dealer. It was bought from Clarence H. Eagle, a New York City printer, who spent more than thirty years in making his collection. He succeeded so well that he managed to get an excellent specimen of every revenue stamp issued by the United States Government from the Civil War to 1902, and in addition, practically every known match and medicine stamp which all manufacturers of these essentials were obliged to use from 1864 to 1883.

More than 90 per cent. of the revenue stamps are uncancelled, and a large number have the original gum intact on the backs of the stamps, the presence of which, on a rare stamp, enchances its value. The collection contains about 2,500 stamps, and in many cases, Mr. Eagle possessed the only copy known to exist.

Edward Stern, who bought the collection, is the head of the Economist Stamp Company, at 87 Nassau Street. He is holding it for resale intact, and has refused many offers to sell some of the choicest specimens at high prices. It will be dispersed, however, in the near future if no buyer appears for the entire collection.

The Civil War issues of revenues contain every value from 1 cent to $500. Of the $500 denomination, issued in 1871, it has been ascertained that only forty-three copies were placed on sale. It is a magnificently engraved stamp, having the portrait of Washington, as all of the early issues did, and is printed in three colors, black, green and red. In size the stamp is 2½ by 4 inches. The copy in the collection is slightly cancelled, and it is valued at $500.

Among the first issues in the Eagle collection are three cancelled specimens of peculiar interest in that they bear a circular cancellation with the name of J. P. Morgan. They were cancelled in 1863.

TOPICAL NOTES.

A Field For Research.

In re-making our publishers' stock book of Czecho-Slovakia recently, we were struck by the possibilities which the Hradschin Fortress types hold out to the would-be specialist of moderate means. The issue is as non-speculative as the most gilt-edged of British Colonials. Its five types show interesting variations of shade, impression, perf., and paper, there are many unofficial perforations, flaws and minor varieties to look out for and we have more than a suspicion that several of the values have been redrawn or otherwise touched up, quite apart from the definitive changes of design. For quite a moderate sum a collector could make a wonderful display of this issue.

The "clean-up" of Austrian and Hungarian stamps and their surcharging "POSTA CESKOSLOVENSKA 1919" lengthened the catalogue list of Czecho-Slovakia without adding greatly to its interest, though there are a number of scarce varieties, due to the presence of small quantities of certain stamps in the stocks surcharged, which are well worth looking out for.

The Lord of Mis-rule seems to have had a hand in the preparation of the current issue. There were four main types originally, but of these, the "Hussite with chalice", which was the only one that did not hurt the eye, caused religious feeling and is said to have been withdrawn, though the stamps seem still to be obtainable. Then there must have been a sudden change in the postal rates, for, no sooner was the original set approaching completion than the signal was given for "General Post" and most of the values "swapped" colour or design, and some of them both. The result beggars description. The confusion was due to quite genuine causes and the stamps should not be neglected as there are very marked differences of impression and shade, some of which are not likely to be repeated. It is our own "Harrison and Somerset House" period over again, but we are surprised that our Bohemian friends are content with such travesties of art as these present designs. So "arty" are they that the figure "2" on the 25d (alleged "dove" type) could be confused with a "1" and has had to be re-drawn. Otherwise, we learn the present intention is to leave the set as it stands.

By the way, it is only recently that we discovered the birds on the "Hradschin" types (they look like squirrels on some stamps). These birds and the heart-shaped leaves recur on most of the stamps of this country and in the chicken-headed Red Cross surcharge recently chronicled. Perhaps one of our readers can explain their meaning.

The Congress—And After.

The Eighth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain will be the event of the immediate future by the time these lines appear. There is no doubt that anyone interested in stamps could not do better than attend this Congress, which holds out the promise of a thoroughly enjoyable time to all concerned. At the same time, we hope the more serious purposes of the Congress will not be overlooked and that the delegates and visitors will leave Harrogate determined that they will do all they can in the period which must elapse before they meet again to strengthen the bonds of good-fellowship between those who now collect stamps, and to bring home the pleasures of the hobby to those to whom they are at present unknown.

More About Esthonia.

Our Esthonian correspondent kindly sends us a detailed list, with notes and dates of issue, of the stamps issued there to date. In the first issue he adds a 15k, perf. 11½, of which not more than 20 sheets were officially perforated, and sold on the day of issue. There are a number of minor shades in this series, but there are distinct dull and bright shades of the 15k, while the 35k shows greyish and reddish tones. The Russian stamps hand-stamped "Eesti Post" he describes as "an official experiment in speculation", which confirms our suspicions. The overprint is very easily imitated, and no doubt the German fakers have turned this fact to good account. Altogether the issue is best left severely alone.

Our informant also describes a local issue for Wesenberg, consisting of cut-square 2k stamps from Russian wrappers and the 1k of the Romanov series, surcharged "Eesti (Rakwere)" and new value. These stamps were issued on November 15th, 1918, in quantities of from 26 to 200 by the local postmaster to supply a total lack of other stamps. Most of the stamps were used postally, the unused copies offered from Germany being mostly forgeries. This issue ranks with the numerous other local makeshifts which were so plentiful in the early days after the Armistice.

Stamps Worth Seeking.

Apart from the classic rarities, copies of which are continually being "discovered" and then turn out to be something else, there are certain stamps which are always worth looking for because they vary only slightly from others of which thousands are available. Such are the ½d and 1d first Georgian Great Britain, perf. 14 all round and the 1d red, Edwardian, Transvaal, with the Anchor watermark of the Cape. We remember spending hours looking through a parcel of the latter, without any result, but we still think that the collector who went through a few hundred thousand of the G. B. would have a sporting chance of finding the rare perf. 14. It usually pays to look out for the rarer varieties when handling common stamps, however unlikely it is that they will be found. The writer has only handled one small lot of the 1d. on 2d, bistre, Cape, No. 100, and yet by following the rule of always looking for varieties this one small lot yielded a very slightly damaged copy with double surcharge, then catalogued at about 30s while the whole lot cost less than 5s. Small profits, perhaps, but a quick return for five minutes' work. There are times when the rule would prove even more profitable, but life is too short to allow everyone time to apply it.

A Jamaica Variety.

A variety of the 3d. war stamp (1920 Cat. Nos. 111 and 113) which has not previously been remarked in the M. C. has come to our notice. In sorting some stock we found two control-blocks, the first having the control circle in the same colour as the bordering line, the second having the same coloured border, but a brighter and paler control. Closer inspection showed that in the second case the head was in the same colour as the control, the frame being in the colour of the border. Both blocks are of course from plate 1.

A Propaganda Exhibition.

Not only is Jamaica trying, by means of her new pictorial series, to bring her history to the notice of the rest of the world, but Jamaican philatelists are making a determined effort to interest their fellow-colonists in the King of Hobbies. We have before us the catalogue of an exhibition held at Kingston under the auspices of the Jamaica Philatelic Society, on March 7th-11th of this year. The catalogue, which contains interesting notes regarding the War and Armistice issues, which were apparently the main feature of the display, is an attractive little publication, and we feel sure that both the hobby and the Jamaica Society will benefit from this exhibition.

Library Gossip.

It is not surprising that, in view of the present high costs of production, there is more or less a lull in the stamp-publishing world. New philatelic works are few and far between, but there are still optimists who believe that there is room in the world for new stamp journals. We hear that London is to have a "Philatelic Magazine de Luxe" of its own and we trust that it will have a longer life than did The Philatelic Times, which seems to have gone under after its first number; at any rate we have seen no more of it since then. So long as philatelists in this country take so little interest in journals intended to cater for them, the launching of a new one is a venturesome and dangerous business. Even if a journal does "take on" it will never prove a royal road to fortune, and one is tempted to think that most of the publishers of new journals realize this and are philanthropically trying to "do their bit" for the hobby, regardless of cost.

From abroad comes No. 1 of El Filatelista of Buenos Aires which manages to get some useful philatelic information into its pages. Tabularium is a new bi-lingual, Magyar-German journal which deals for the most part with the stamps of Hungary. Le bulletin philatelique of Naples will have to grow before it can be regarded as a journal. At present it is only a four-page leaflet, but it is these small publications which the collector of philatelic literature finds so elusive unless they are noted at once.

South Africa is evidently still unable to support a monthly stamp journal for the Union Philatelist now becomes The Quarterly Review of Philately, the first number of which is attractive and interesting. In the U. S. A., the proprietors of The Albemarle Stamp Collector have purchased the publishing business of the Edgewood Stamp Co., one result being the disappearance of the Collectors' Journal, one of the best American stamp mags. We shall miss its chatty pages. A new Stamp News is to be born at Peekskill-on-the-Hudson on June 1st next. Suomi Postimerkkilehti, the leading Finnish journal, has now taken pity on our ignorance and gives a few paragraphs in English each month. We wish they were more as the journal is full of "meat".

Since writing the first paragraph of these notes we have received a new handbook, and from New Zealand at that! This deals with the stamps of The Oceanic Dependencies of New Zealand and is from the pen of Mr. R. J. G. Collins, Hon. Secretary of the Christchurch Philatelic Society. This little work gives much interesting information regarding the various islands themselves, while the stamps and cancellations are dealt with in compact and convenient form. The new book should be a useful guide to those who wish to specialize in the issues of the New Zealand dependencies. It is published by Messrs. Verne & Co., Christchurch, at 2s 6d. A further volume on The Stamps of Samoa and British Solomon Islands is promised shortly. — Stanley Gibbons Monthly Circular.

A REPLY TO MR. TYLER.

By PHILIP H. WARD, Jr.

I could not help from being amused at the recently published remarks of Mr. Tyler and I am afraid that when he ran off his remarks he must have just returned from one of his trips and found his insurance business very poor or it is possible his liver was out of order. The entire trouble with Mr. Tyler as well as a great many other collectors is the fact that if they do not get a sleeper in every purchase they make or if every item they buy does not advance in price they think the dealer is doing them.

Does he realise that the dealer must take his chances as well as the collector and that if a thing goes the wrong way it is not fair to ask the dealer to stand all the loss? Have you ever heard of a collector sending a dealer a check when an item that he has purchased has greatly increased in value?

I cannot check up a great many of Mr. Tyler's remarks for I am not acquainted with the circumstances, but of one deal I am well informed. He mentions the purchase of the $2 stamp in carmine and black and endeavors to draw the conclusion that he was stung. In the first place the dealer offering the stamp offered it at exactly the same price that he offered the regular variety. Then as to further details, when the variety was first found the Post Office Department was asked if they had authorized a change in color. They answered no change whatsoever had been authorized. What is more natural under the circumstances than that it be listed as an error. As a matter of record it is an error, Mr. Tyler's remarks to the contrary.

A certain collector will recall that he was much pleased with a transaction where he received a certain inverted center error Guatemala in exchange through a Mexican, who was not well posted as to its value. He was also gratified to buy a lot of error Guatemalas for $10, worth many times more, from a dealer not so well posted as to their rarity. I simply mention these little details to show that we are well pleased when we have gotten something at much less than its value.

The whole trouble with stamp dealing and collecting from beginning to end is the fact that every one is trying to work against the other. There is no spirit of co-operation and it is a wonder to me how one can do nothing else but deal in stamps and still keep sane. Thank goodness there are some dealers as well as collectors that can see the other fellow's point of view.

If you go into the stock market and buy and your purchases drop do you expect the broker to make good your losses? Well then why expect more in the case of a hobby. If you are not a sport and are afraid to take chances why then you should stick to the old issues where prices are settled. Sure there are some dishonest dealers and many more dishonest collectors but just because you do not always get a "heads-I-win, tails-you-lose" proposition do not jump at the conclusion that the dealer is trying to do you.

Human nature is the same throughout the world. The average man in all walks of life is honest and if you think otherwise of some one you have no doubt the wrong angle on the transaction. I have been collecting stamps for over twenty-five years and I can say that I have found the great majority of dealers honest. If Mr. Tyler's remarks were anywhere near the facts there would be no dealers today for their would be no collectors to sell to.

DANISH HELP WANTED.

In the WEEKLY of May 28 appeared Chapter 27 of our serial story on Denmark. Can any Danish stamp collector or any person interested in Danish stamps help Mr. Poole in connection with his treatment of the newspaper stamps? Please note the paragraph beginning "We must confess, etc.," and render the desired assistance if possible. We are paging up this serial for publication in booklet form and would like to clear up the doubt that exists in Mr. Poole's mind.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

DEATH OF C. H. McBRIDE.

Washington philately is mourning the death of one of its foremost leaders in the untimely taking away of Charles Henry McBride, an examiner for the U. S. Interstate Commerce Commission. He was drowned June 8 while surf bathing at Wilmington, N. C. The Washington Herald states that Mr. McBride was caught by an out-going wave with a companion, and they were unable to fight their way back. Life guards could not reach them in time to save them. The bodies were quickly recovered but a pulmoter failed to revive them.

We have known Mr. McBride for many years as an enthusiastic and painstaking philatelist. We quote from a letter at hand from Harry B. Mason of the Stamp Shoppe:—

"Mr. McBride was one of our enthusiastic workers for the building up of the Washington Philatelic Society. As chairman of the entertainment committee this past winter, he provided a variety of programs which drew the members to the meetings. Whatever line of philately he took up, he went at with enthusiam, his latest being old U. S. cancellations. I believe he was one of the promoters of the cancellation society recently organized in New York."

ONWARD

We wish to call the attention of all collectors to our new address, which is given below. Now, with our good line of stamps and splendid light, roomy and plenty-of-fresh-air office, we can help the collector fill most of those blank spaces. Give us an idea of what you wish or if general selections are wanted let us know. Do not forget a good reference if you want a good selection. Our prices are reasonable, and we have many fine stamps of all classes and surely some you will be glad to have in your collection at our moderate prices. We do not expect you to buy a hundred dollars' worth each time, but if you will buy a reasonable amount when we send what you want, we are satisfied. It don't set you back much to give us a trial, and after you see some of the fine stamps at our low prices, you will be one of our many satisfied customers. Now act.

EDITORIAL.

Four—Some weeks ago, the post office department issued an order to postmasters to report the number of four cent stamped envelopes, "bearing the old embossed stamps of square design, printed in brown with head of Grant and numbers 1882-1885." This order indicated that some disposition evidently would be made of these envelopes and now we learn that a special "2" overprint has been applied to the envelopes, thus converting them into the two cent envelope after the manner of the three cent purple. Mr. Wm. Jerrems, Jr., Kansas City, Mo., sends us a copy of the four cent thus treated and says: "The supply was small and the local collectors bought them all during the day. The clerk in charge of the overprinting said that Washington had ordered the overprint on all four cent, size seven, as that size was to be discontinued. I believe that this envelope will be scarce."

Straw—In a sense the Chicago Philatelic Society is the typical stamp organization of a large city; and several years ago, it adopted the custom of holding but one instead of two meetings during each of the summer months. This year the first June meeting was so well attended, despite the heat, that no meeting will be skipped. This trite little bit of news will not raise the roof of the world, we know, but it does give the chap who says that the summer slump is subsiding year by year a chance to chuckle. The warp and eke, the woof, of the fabric of philately combine to make an irresistible covering for all weathers.

Hear—Sometimes the thing is said so patly that we cannot see how it is to be improved upon. In one of his papers, Mr. A. Edward Newton says: "Horace Greeley once said: 'Young man, go West.' I give advice as valuable and more easily followed. I say, young man, get a hobby; preferably two, one for in-doors and one for out; get a pair of hobby-horses that can safely be ridden in opposite directions." One guess as to the most satisfying in-door hobby.

Crooked—Current History for June, 1921, contains an article by Frank A. Wallis, entitled "Treating Incoming Aliens as Human Beings", in the course of which a sinister side of the "stamp trade" is developed. We read: "We are presented with hundreds of passports whose visés are faked; our government revenue stamps upon them are also often counterfeited. Counterfeiters and producers of false visés are working over-time in Poland, Greece and Italy and many immigrants are heart-broken at the station to find that they are scheduled for immediate deportation because of the imperfect passports or visés. . . . . The passport thieves use counterfeit $10 fee stamps. These stamps are good imitations of the American revenue stamp, except that they are a shade off in color."

Ideas—A genial, if somewhat critical customer of the WEEKLY for many years seizes our ear in which he proceeds to inject a few living words. He says that he has before him a book of early U. S., the prices on which give him pause or palsy, or something such as that. He admits that the stamps are superb specimens but counters by saying that catalogue prices do not figure for one moment in the calculations of the enthusiastic owner of the stamps. Why, he interrogates, do U. S. prices advance so trippingly when conditions generally would argue that at least they should do no better than hold their own? While the continued increase in the prices of early U. S. in prime condition is a reversal of the rule, yet the reason for this exceptional condition is not hard to find. Years ago, it was the opinion that if ever there was a real demand for the stamps under notice, the limited supply of them would be inadequate and in consequence the competition on the part of buyers would boost prices to a dizzy height. The prediction has come true and there is a great demand for fine U. S., early issues, and the fact that a part of the absorption of the stamps is by new collectors (who are not haunted by the recollection of low prices within comparatively recent years on these self-same stamps) reduces the visible supply and shoots the prices upwards. Natural causes and not a boom are responsible for the high prices.

Explained—From Mr. D. W. Kensington, we have received a letter asking why in thunderation we are so keen about advertising philately; and he intimates that the "thread-bare prattle about increasing the value of our collections by increasing the demand for stamps by more collectors" scarcely justifies our insistence upon shouting the praises of stamp collecting from the house-tops. Mr. Kensington adds that he "is not in the advertising business" and he assumes that laissez-faire attitude that irritates the one who works for the up-building of collecting. Too, he "thinks that professionalism has something to do with all the shouting " which after all may be something of a pose. We shall take Mr. Kensington seriously, ignore the covert or open insinuations of his remarks and try to answer him. Mr. Kensington may be very self-sufficient but he is very selfish in remaining seated while the others stand. Then he aggravates his offense by sneering at those who say, "Let's go." Personally, Mr. Kensington may do as he pleases but let him keep his peace. Others have a wish to share their pleasures with their fellows; and there are some collectors who have no axe to grind but who take the time and effort to advance philately because they believe in pushing a good thing along. The thought of material return does not enter their minds, either. Suppose that professionals do agree that philately should be introduced into the big world. They would be ingrates or idiots, if they did not. The collectors who want to advertise collecting because they think that it deserves to be and because in their good feeling for it, they want philately and its followers to prosper out-number the type represented by our correspondent, we are glad to articulate.

Gummed—Here is an old newspaper clipping that we have rescued that had currency nearly fifty years ago. We say that it deserves a place of honor in the memorabilia of "stamps." "On a recent trial in South Wales to test the validity of a will, it was proved that in 1867, the testator became impaired in intellect to such an extent that he went to the post office with a postage stamp stuck on his forehead, and requested to be sent by mail to a place he mentioned."

TWO VIRILE ADVERTISERS.

Our advertising columns this week include as a patron a new firm to be known as Vahan Mozian Inc. A. E. Landvatter of Passaic, N. J., has become an active member in the new firm as secretary and treasurer. The firm will be located at 1358 Broadway, N. Y. City, and Mr. Mozian considers it one of the best locations in the city.

The large half-page adv. of the Williams Bookstores Co., indicates a strong bid for business upon the part of this old concern. The firm has used adlet space for some months but will hereafter be heard from through our displayed columns in an effective manner.

Some of our readers will be interested in knowing that this firm occupies the basement of the Old South Church, one of Boston's historic edifices.

THE CHAPMAN SALE.

(The following article is taken from the Philadelphia "Inquirer" of Sunday, June 12. It will be interesting to our readers as an indication of auction prices. From the occasional mention of defects in connection with prices realized, it will readily be seen that condition has much to do with cash value.—W. O. W.)

Many remarkable rarities were snapped up at bargain prices when the collection of United States and foreign postage stamps belonging to A. Hudson Chapman, of this city, was sold at auction at the offices of S. T. Freeman & Co., 1519 Chestnut Street.

It was in the very early days of the collecting of postage stamps that Mr. Chapman, then a boy of ten, started his collection in 1867. During a tour of Europe in 1870, as well as during subsequent tours, he added much to his albums, with the result that he came into possession of a great variety of the highest class specimens which since have increased two, three, five, ten times in value.

The gems of the sale, five copies of the famous Hawaii "missionary" stamps, sold for much less than half their recognized catalogue value. A one-cent black copy on grayish paper sold for $10.25; a two-cent blue on bluish white sold for $23; a two-cent black on grayish sold for $18; a two-cent black on white sold for $19.50, and a five-cent specimen brought only $10. Although the Chapman "missionaries" were not in the pink of condition, such is the rarity of the issue that philatelists generally are willing to pay prices well in advance of the catalogue quotations.

The highest price paid for a single stamp in the sale was $103 for a two-cent red specimen in unused condition, issued by Spain in 1851. In perfect condition this unusual rarity is priced at $400 or more, but tiny defects, scarcely larger than the point of a pin, reduced its value about 75 per cent.

The next highest price paid for one stamp was $56 for a 1-3g. Oldenburg specimen colored a beautiful moss-green, lightly canceled and in perfect condition. Under more favorable conditions, this stamp would have brought close to $80, the catalogue value.

A Tuscany stamp of the denomination of 60c, issued in 1852, brought only $45, because the infinitesimal fraction of an inch had been clipped from the left and bottom. In this instance the slip of the scissors was quite expensive, in view of the fact that it reduced the value of the stamp from $275, the selling value of a perfect specimen.

The first stamp issued by Sweden, in 1855, catalogued at $115 in unused condition, brought only $42, because some one of its previous possessors had permitted some liquid to stain the face. Another costly bit of carelessness!

Another old stamp of considerable rarity, a 9c Tuscany specimen, sold for exactly $100 under catalogue quotations of $130, because the vertical pair in which it was offered had been slightly clipped at one side. A copy of the one lira, issue of 1852, of Modena, splendidly preserved on the original cover, brought only $19, $31 less than the official philatelic quotations.

As for the old United States stamps in the sale, they went for exceedingly low prices, considering the interest among collectors for this particular branch of stamp collecting. A Philadelphia letter, hand-stamped with a little blue oval, containing the letters U. S. P. O.—Pre-Paid. One Cent Dispatch, was sold for only $3. Another letter, bearing two of the little blue hand-stamped ovals and used long before the advent of the first official government postage stamp issued, is expected to be the sensation of the forthcoming sale of the Meredith correspondence recently rescued from destruction in an old garret in this city.

Two fairly good copies of the New York postmaster's stamp, issued in that city before the government entered the stamp business, sold for $37, which figure is at least $70 below the value fixed by the official appraisers. These stamps were affixed to the original cover and unmarred, except for a slight clipping of one of the two.

THE OTHER AND BRIGHTER SIDE.

By FRED N. CHARNI.

Mr. C. M. Tyler, assuming that he speaks from personal experience, has had the misfortune evidently of meeting up with every disreputable trick known to stamp dealers, philatelic publisher, society sale manager, and auction dealer. However, the oasis in this desert of philatelic corruption is the "reliable dealer of the larger city, who do very little advertising and care more for permanent customers than the catch-penny kind.", Well and good. I am glad that Mr. Tyler found something good to aid him in that increasing longing and pursuit of the postage stamp, which all collectors experience and never satisfy.

Mr. Tyler has presented his side. As one who has had other experiences and found other and lighter paths thru the maze of philately. I also wish to say a few words in the hope that any of the younger generation of stamp collectors who read the above mentioned article can see something of the other and brighter side of the question.

I have been a collector for twenty years, rising step by step to a position attained in that period where I can look about me and wisely say that I know very little about philately. This knowledge comes after twenty years of hard labor at stamp collecting. During that period I have had business relations with very many of America's stamp dealers. I wish to very emphatically state that during this period I have never had the least trouble with any of them, or have they ever slipped anything over, or cheated me in any way. I have always received what I ordered or if not, a satisfactory arrangement has been concluded between us.

In regard to approvals I have found one large North American firm who gave 50% discount after boosting Scott's prices. I quit them cold which anybody else could do with no damage to themselves. I belong to a large American Philatelic society and buy stamps thru its sales department with the utmost satisfaction to myself and have had nothing but cordial relations with its sales managers. I have bought at auction and find it always a satisfactory way of acquiring stamps. I have never been stung here. I subscribe to a number of stamp papers, and have always considered that I got my money's worth from them. I have bought stamps "over the counter" in New York, Paris and other large cities of the world. I have also bought stamps "advertised" in Philatelic Journals by small town dealers and I could see no difference in the thrill obtained in purchasing a stamp in Paris, over the counter, than the one I experienced in going to my box at the post office and taking out a letter containing stamps ordered from some stamp dealer in Podunk. I have bought stamps advertised in MEKEEL'S, from many small town dealers and I have yet to experience any trouble occasioned by these little dealers of catch penny fame.

I feel that twenty years is a long time and certainly one can learn a great many things in that period, and it is with this claim that I set down these facts as they have occurred to me. There are many things I would give up before I would my stamp collection and the memories and associations it has helped me to form. Sometimes when things go wrong the fault's with us.

ATLAS STAMP CO., (P. C. Smith), W.Somerville,44,Mass.

BRATTLEBORO

The adhesive stamp issued in this pretty Vermont town 75 years ago by Postmaster Frederick N. Palmer and bearing his facsimile initials has commanded the admiration of philatelists for half a century or more.

The genuinely used specimen which I hereby offer—subject to previous sale—is perfection in every sense of the word. It is as bright and fresh as the day it was printed and the engraving is so sharp and clear that in all probability it was a very early impression. The lines of the design stand out on the bright buff paper like icing on a chocolate cake, and although the ten subjects that were separately engraved on the little copper visiting card plate were placed very close together, this wonderful specimen has margins on all four sides.

Yet the price is less than copies inferior to this one have brought at auction in recent years.

If interested, write at once, or, better still, telegraph.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Some weeks back mention was made of the redrawing of certain letters on one of the 2c surface printed stamps from plate 11,950. Mr. H. A. Opallo the finder of this variety as well as Mr. F. B. McGown now show me another bottom plate strip of this stamp from the same plate wherein one stamp has a white spot in the upper part of the stamp over the "O" of "POSTAGE". This variety does not compare in interest with the redrawn variety but it is odd that a defect should occur about the same place on two panes. This plate No. 11,950 however is a 1,600 subject plate so that means eight different bottom plate strips.

Quite a few new Provisional 2c on 3c envelopes have come to hand but your editor has been busy moving and their listing will be held over until next week. Some few, however, have been classified and these are herewith chronicled. The two new varieties from New Orleans are sent through the courtesy of Mr. Cassius L. Clay while Mr. R. H. Mason sends a new window variety from Boston and a normal from Milwaukee. Both have return cards.

We wish to thank Messrs. B. C. Wear, Frank Kohn, Leslie A. Boone, H. F. Metz and R. Samuels for information of interest.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us a copy of a new 50c blue stamp with the likeness of the King in the centre and at the top "Belgique" and at the base "Belgie" with the figure of value at the left and "C" in the other corner. The stamps are printed in sheets of twenty-five and we note that in the upper corner is a new type of cancellation as follows: "Exp. Philatelique Postzegeltentoonst Bruxelles-Brussel 14-15 26 V 1921." The postmark is in circular form.

BERMUDA.—The Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. Frank M. Mason have shown us a new and beautiful set of stamps recently placed on sale in this colony. They are oblong in shape and in the upper left corner shows an old type sailing vessel while in the upper right corner is the coat of arms. Between is the name of the colony and in the centre a profile of the King with the words "Tercentenary of Establishment of Representative Institutions" around in a double line circle. At each side is printed the dates "1620" "1920" while at the base is "Postage" with the figure of value at each side. In the lower left corner is the sword and the lower right the gavel. The colors and values are as follows: ¼d brown, ½d green, 1d red, 2d grey, 2½d ultramarine, 3d brown on yellow, 4d red on yellow, 6d claret and 1sh green. The ¼d and ½d are on the new watermarked paper.

CONGO.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has submitted to us the following values of the 1910 set surcharged "1921": 1fr carmine and black, 3fr red and black, 5fr carmine and black and 10fr green and black. The overprint on the first three values is black but on the 10fr it is red. The following values of the same issue has been overprinted as follows: 5c surcharged "10c", 10c overprinted "30c", 15c is "25c", 25c is "50c", 40c is "5c", 50c is "15c". All the overprints are red except the 30c on 10c and the former values are obliterated by three lines.

GERMANY.—Mr. H. W. Boers has shown us a postal card containing three values of stamps of a new type. At the top is "Deutsches Reich" and in the centre the figures of value. The colors are 5pf magenta, 10pf olive and 30pf bright green.

GRENADA.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit for chronicle the ½d, 1d, 2½d and 6d of the current set printed on the new watermarked paper They also report the 2d on the same paper.

HONG KONG.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 1c brown, 4c red, 8c grey and 10c blue, King George type, stamps printed on the new watermarked paper.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman advises that the following new values will appear (June 1st), 2fr blue, with a view of a "Works" (factory) of the country and 5fr mauve, with a view of the new Adolphe bridge. Also new postal cards 15, 20 and 30c values.

MOZAMBIQUE CO.—The Bulletin Mensuel chronicles the following: 4c green and brown and 6c lilac and blue.

MALTA.—Mr. Hugo Griebert has shown us the 1sh value printed on the emerald paper.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. Edwin W. Fuss sends us a copy of the 2c official stamp, No. 1034, surcharged in red "Vale medio centavo de cordoba" in three lines. Two horizontal bars obliterate the word "Official".

Mr. Fuss also adds that in issue No. 1586 the copy he submitted was to show the type of the surcharge which was applied to the 20c official of the same issue. The stamp to be listed was 10c on 20c (Diez instead of un).

PAPUA.—Mr. Cedric W. Lemont has submitted to us two covers from this colony one showing the surcharged "One Penny" on ½d stamped "TAX" used for postage due and he informs us that this is being done pending the issue of the postage due stamps.

PORTUGAL.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the new colors in the current set: 12c green, 30c pale brown and 50c yellow.

THE CONGRESS AT HARROGATE.

By F. J. MELVILLE.

Railway travelling at the present time is none too enticing a recreation, but the 10.10 a. m. train which left King's Cross on Monday, May 2nd, bore a cheerful group of stamp collectors bound for Harrogate to attend the Eighth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain. There were more than thirty of us, and our carriages had been reserved so we were able to travel in comfort and in excellent company. Most of the London delegates were on the 10.10 train. Our President, Mr. Herbert F. Johnson and Mr. W. B. Haworth were there, the official representatives of the J. P. S.; the Hon. Secretary, Mrs. Terry, had travelled north a few days earlier to take part in the Ladies' Golf Union Silver Medallists' Competition which, by a happy chance, almost coincided with the Congress dates.

MR. TELFER'S "INFERNAL MACHINE."

Some of the luggage was formidable. Mr. Telfer was carrying a kind of "infernal machine" which was the source of endless speculation en route. It looked as if it might be a small machine gun, which the chairman of the Executive, Capt. H. R. Oldfield, might turn upon the delegates in the event of any disturbing "liveliness" during the meetings. It was also conjectured that it contained contraband spirits, in anticipation of a certain dryness after 10 p. m. We were still puzzling the matter out when we reached Leeds and adjourned for tea to the Queen's Hotel. Telfer, it was noticed, would not leave the mysterious engine of burnished iron throughout the journey.

HARROGATE WEEPS.

Harrogate received us in tears; as if the Queen of England spas had not sufficient moisture in her 87 natural springs, she must needs weep at the onslaught of a regiment of philatelists who were to enter into occupation of her pleasant hills and lawns for the duration of a week. Dr. Solly, the local organising secretary, met us with an umbrella, but as we couldn't all get under it we scrambled for taxis and cabs and speedily found ourselves in our appointed quarters at the "George."

IT'S NICE TO GET UP IN THE MORNING.

At seven a. m. the air of Harrogate has a keen nip in it. I mention this for the benefit of the delegates who remained in bed until breakfast time, and also to claim such credit as is rarely due me for early rising. Strangely enough, I only met one philatelist in the Pump Room all week. Perhaps they were afraid of that distressful philatelic disease of sulphurisation—which used to be wrongly called oxidisation, and which turns our red stamps black. As I said to my friend H——after drinking 2 oz. in the Pump Room, if sulphur can do that to stamps what will it do to our insides? Perhaps Dr. Solly in the intervals of his therapeutic labours will study the atmospheric influences of Harrogate on stamps.

THE EXECUTIVE REPORTS PROGRESS.

The "George" is a most central and convenient hostelry, besides having many other claims to our grateful remembrance. It lies in a wide piazza in the midst of all the chief places in the town to which our congress meetings and functions took us. Right opposite are the Royal Spa Rooms, where at 10.30 on Tuesday, May 3rd, Mr. and Miss Chapman held a reception to the delegates, and where shortly after 11 o'clock the first session of the Congress was held. The first session was in the main a business one, the chief item being the adoption of the lengthy and detailed report of the Executive Committee. Mr. Telfer, the hon. secretary of that committee, came triumphantly through the task of presenting it, and the delegates were agreeably impressed with the activities and the achievements of the Executive during the twelve months the Committee has been in existence. Capt. Oldfield successfully steered the report through the various stages of its adoption in sections, and finally as an "entire."

THE KING AND THE CONGRESS.

The most agreeable surprise of the report was the announcement that His Majesty King George had been graciously pleased to associate himself with the newly-inaugurated Roll of Distinguished Philatelists, and had himself signed the Roll. In the words of the report: "This most exceptional expression of his Majesty's interest in philately will be received by his loyal philatelic subjects with the deepest thanks and appreciation"; and a telegram in the following terms was sent to the Right Hon. Lord Stamfordham:

The delegates assembled at the eighth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain desire to present their humble duty to his Majesty the King, and to express their grateful thanks and appreciation of the honour he has been good enough to confer upon philately and the Congress by allowing his name to appear at the head of the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists.

J. H. CHAPMAN, Chairman of the Congress.

To which in due course came the following gracious reply:

J. H. CHAPMAN, Chairman, Philatelic Congress of Great Britain, Harrogate.

I am commanded to thank the delegates of the Philatelic Congress of Great Britain for the kind message transmitted by you on their behalf and to assure them of the King's satisfaction to be associated with the leaders of philately.

STAMFORDHAM.

THE J. P. S. INVITATION FOR 1923.

Before the close of the first session the President, Mr. J. H. Chapman, called upon Mrs. H. P. Terry, the Hon. Secretary of the Junior Philatelic Society. Mrs. Terry, who was warmly greeted by the delegates assembled, stated that before she left London the Council of the J. P. S. had by an unanimous vote desired to extend an invitation to the Congress to meet in London in 1923, and had instructed the J. P. S. delegates to convey the invitation. The Society was arranging to hold a great exhibition in that year, and it would give the J. P. S. great pleasure and satisfaction if the Congress would accept this invitation to meet in the Metropolis during the period the Exhibition is to be held.

LOTS ON VIEW DAILY AT MY OFFICE, 313 WEST FRONT ST., PLAINFIELD, N. J. The N. Y. Philatelic Soc., Inc., 20 E. 125th St., meets every Monday at 7.45. Club rooms open evenings, Sundays, Mondays and Holidays at 2 P. M. Visitors welcome.

The announcement was greeted with loud applause, and the President, Mr. Chapman, proposed, and Mr. J. L. Green, one of the delegates of the Royal Philatelic Society, seconded, that the invitation be accepted, and the motion was carried with unanimity and enthusiasm.

Tilting at Bloaters.

At the second session, on Wednesday morning, Captain Oldfield read a paper on "Different Methods of Collecting and Arranging Stamps", which led to a brisk discussion. Incidentally, Capt. Oldfield had tilted at the "bloating" in modern specialist collections, which led the Rev. James Mursell to give us one of the bon mots of the morning. "I am a bloater", he said, "because I believe in bloating. My only trouble is that my pocket is the least bloated part of me." Dr. Solly's prescription for the enjoyment of collecting was that everyone should go as he or she pleases. A fellow must collect something—that is a universal tendency, and unless we feel we have a mission to humanity we should collect just what we fancy, and in whatever manner we like.

A G. O. M. of Philately.

To many of us the most memorable feature of the Eighth Congress will be the privilege of having met the venerable Rev. R. B. Earée in the flesh. To Mr. Earée the whole of the philatelic world owes a profound and ineffaceable debt for his great labours in the description of forged stamps. His "Album Weeds" is perhaps the most valuable philatelic work on our bookshelves. It is not surprising that it has passed through three editions, but it is sad to think that Mr. Earée has sacrificed the sight of one eye in the exacting task of producing the third and last edition. Mr. Earée has been writing about stamps since the days of the Stamp Collectors' Magazine and the Philatelist, and for many years he was the philatelic editor of the Bazaar. Everyone at the Congress delighted to do him honour, and everyone was proud to meet and greet one of the grand old men of philately.

Mr. Hadlow's Conundrum.

Mr. W. Hadlow's paper, "Is Publication of Philatelic Discoveries beneficial to all sides of Philately?" proved a delightful surprise. In the main Mr. Hadlow answered his question in the affirmative, but the special interest in the paper was the disclosure of a number of extremely interesting discoveries and minor varieties which this very able philatelist has made and of w presented the delegates with matic photographs. The paper a full of valuable matter to diges reading, and it is to be hoped t telic world will give it full and consideration when it is avai printed form.

The Folly of Federation

The third session was held i room in the George Hotel; the f being a very interesting survey circumstances of modern philat some critical suggestions, in entitled "Reflections on Modern ely", by Capt. C. W. G. Craw N., C. B. E. The paper was Mr. W. Dorning Beckton in the able absence of Capt. Crawford. followed a paper by Mr. J. H. C on the "Federation of Philatel eties", concerning which, and a ciated motion to form a "Nationa telic Organisation", the discuss the first time developed a certa liness. Mr. Telfer's small mach was not available, and indeed scarcely necessary, as everyon the sweetest of tempers. But o was made quite clear; the voic meeting was altogether against ation, other than the agreeable inter-independent association wi constitution of the Philatelic C of Great Britain provides.

Congress Oratory.

The debate on federation ga chance of estimating the orator debating powers of the delega members of the Congress. So oratory and well-reasoned deb concerned the honours nearly to the lawyers. We missed th interludes of Mr. E. R. Woodwal was unfortunately kept at hom somewhat serious accident, but t legal gentlemen present in succeeded in carrying the Congr them whenever they took th Capt. Another legal gentlema Neil A. Maclean (Scottish P Society) made an effective first ance in debate at Congress on t question of the next day. Oth proved their debating powers w Rev. James Mursell (Royal), Milne Marsden (Derby), A. (Herts), Mrs. M. Greevz (Leeds), Capt. A. E. Hopkins and F. H. Oliver (Stamp Trade tion Association).

Penny Blacks and Waterm.

At the Thursday morning ses Charles Nissen's paper, "Some N the 1d Black," was read by M J. Melville. It was a most in contribution to scientific philat it must have been difficult if n impossible to follow in one However, the numerous delegat were particularly interested plating of penny blacks had the of seeing a most interesting dis the varieties dealt with, which had been specially arranged Nissen for the occasion. Mr. Cochrane then read a paper on marks, in a pleasantly facetiou but I am afraid I shall have t for the verbatim report of it, lecturer was rather difficult to times. by Rev. James Mursell. This was an effective plea for the widening of the scope of philatelic research, which has been confined of late too much in the direction of the early intaglio-printed stamps, and Mr. Mursell's arguments for the extension of enquiry into the field of surface-printed issues made a powerful impression on the Congress. The paper was the best missionary or propaganda paper put before the Congress, and it is to be hoped that the Executive Committee will see that it is printed for widespread distribution, as an educational work for collectors, and an enlightenment for the philistines. The paper was voted the best delivered at the Harrogate Congress, and Mr. Mursell was awarded the beautiful "Telfer Cup" for his interesting contribution to the deliberations of the Congress.

The Ceremony of the Roll.

The closing session was marked by an impressive ceremony in the signing of the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists. The secret of Mr. Telfer's "infernal machine" was now disclosed. From the iron case was extracted the great vellum roll, on which had been engrossed a beautiful design, with a space in the centre for the signatures of the distinguished philatelists whom the Congress is pleased to honour. Already at the top was the autograph "George R. I.," his Majesty having signed the Roll before the Congress, and there was also the name of Edward Denny Bacon, M. V. O., President of the Royal Philatelic Society, who had signed the Roll in his Majesty's presence.

The President of the Congress, Mr. J. H. Chapman, read out the names of the first forty philatelists who form the nucleus of the Roll, and those who were present were called upon to sign the Roll and to receive a replica of its design inscribed with the message of thanks from the Congress. There were seven present on whom the distinction had been conferred, namely: W. Dorning Beckton, Rev. R. B. Earée, Hugo Griebert, H. L. Hayman, Fred. J. Melville, H. W. Westcott, and A. de Worms.

The Pathos of Parting.

Mr. W. J. Cochrane was then called upon to deliver the closing address always a pathetic sort of task, for by the third or fourth day of a delightful conference one is just beginning to feel that another few days wouldn't do us any harm. Mr. Cochrane took a cheerful line, however, and we broke up with great expectations for the next term and Congress.

The Social Side.

Of the social side of the Congress I have left myself little space to write. Suffice it to say everyone had a right merry time, and the courteous hospitality of the Mayor and Mayoress of Harrogate (Alderman and Mrs. J. Houfe) and of the President and members of the Leeds Philatelic Society was greatly appreciated. The Juniors who had a common table at the George had the privilege of entertaining Mr. Chapman and Dr. Solly to a farewell lunch, and their invitation was also accepted by Captain Oldfield and Mr. J. S. Telfer of the Executive Committee, and Mr. B. D. Pope and Miss Sheile Heywood, of the Bath and Bristol Societies, which are undertaking the Congress for next year in Bath. Mrs. H. P. Terry also entertained a large party of J. P. S. members to tea at Marshall & Snelgrove's on Friday afternoon.—Stamp Lover.

THE CART-WHEEL ONCE MORE.

Hail, ye Bryanites of 1896! Greetings, ye sons of Colorado, Montana and other states who have witnessed the extinction, if not the crucifixion, of the silver dollar as representative of the coined metal which formed the famous talking point that won the Boy Orator of the Platte his first nomination for the presidency! The shiny simeleon, the cartwheel, the round iron man, Uncle Sam's stamped equivalent of 100 cents, is coming back!

To bankers and business men in this practical if not effete east the tidings will bring little joy. They have almost gotten away from the idea there is any such coin as a silver dollar. Likewise the man and woman who toil, for the bright, shiny, heavy coins have been rare in pay envelopes and everywhere else these 15 years past, or most of them.

There have been a few, a very few, of them in limited circulation here, a local banker said last night. Certain concerns have been compelled to have them because change-making machines used in making up payrolls will not operate unless the silver fellows are in the rack. But invariably these coins have found their way back to the banks immediately, until it has become a joke among tellers that they knew every silver dollar in Syracuse by name.

But it won't be so for long. There has been none coined since 1904, in which year a few last "proofs" were struck off, burnished and polished and these latter now command a premium. Now the San Francisco mint is at it again, turning out cartwheels of 1921 date, with the smallest letter ever seen on a coin of that denomination indicating the particular coin foundry in which it is made.

The Pacific Coast Numismatic society of San Francisco has secured a number of the first of these coins and distributed them to members throughout the country. A. A. Leve of this city has one of them, the first to make its appearance here. But the government is going to turn out millions of them, it is said, and after all these years local bank tellers have got to get acquainted with more coins of that denomination than some of them have ever seen.

The east has never had much use for the silver dollar. In the west they like them. The west can have the east's share, or at least the share of Syracuse, according to sentiment here, but it probably won't be so.—Syracuse Post Standard.

KNOCKIN' AROUND THE WORLD.

By FRANKLIN H. CHASE.

(This article, sent us by A. A. Leve, is taken from the Syracuse, N. Y., "Journal." Mr. Leve expresses the opinion that the article makes good reading for the stamp collector, and we second the motion. There is a combination of philately with travel that should make the article interesting mid-summer reading.—W. O. W.)

NICE, THE RIVIERA.

When I say that everybody collects stamps in France, I do not mean that everybody is a philatelist, although there are more shops devoted to the sale of stamps for collections than in any other country, with the possible exception of Egypt. I mean that people are stamp collectors in spite of themselves. They have to get stamps on their bills; they have stamps put on the things they buy, and they even get stamps as small change, because the country has run out of silver, nickel and copper. The stamp is one method of collecting taxes, and you pay taxes on everything * * *

There is a tax on the bath you take on arising for the day; a tax on the substitute that you get for breakfast, for the French never eat breakfast, just have a roll and something to drink, and their first meal is the dejeuner at noon, also taxed; they tax the clothes you wear and the walking stick you go out on the promenade with; you are taxed for the promenade; for the chaise longue on which you take your afternoon nap; for the tram ride, or the cinema, theater or opera you attend; then there is a tax for your dinner; for the music that goes with the dinner, and you cannot escape the tax even if you should die before sunset, for you will go to rest in a taxed casket, and there is a tax upon the funeral. * * *

In Nice you get a double tax—one from the government and the other from the city. If you live 28 days and can stand the taxing that long, Nice lets up on you, and you only have the government tax on being alive in France from that time onward.

The argument before the United States Supreme Court that a tax could not be put on a tax never got any farther than Washington, for in Nice it is insisted that the city tax shall be paid not only upon the whole bill for bathing, eating and sleeping, but also upon the tax that was paid the French government.

Nice collects three per cent, on whatever you spend in the hotel and pay the government. Inquiry resulted in the answer that that paid for the wear and tear on the pavement, the keeping of the city in order, the use of the sunshine that belonged to Nice and the chance of meeting all the stylish taxpayers on the promenade. When one considers that Nice frequently has 125,000 visitors, each paying an average of two francs a day, or 250,000 francs daily income, it must be remarked that there is a city that certainly has some graft upon its visitors. There are a lot of towns in America that are missing tricks. After looking over the hotel bills there is the idea that only the multi-millionaires last the 28 days. I was told that Nice borrowed the idea from German and Swiss cities, but only borrowed part of it for those cities made it a law that visitors who had paid the tax in their hotel bills would not have to pay individual taxes on other municipal affairs, like trams, casinos and so on. But Nice doesn't neglect these and grabs taxes on all of them, especially the opera, where the total tax comes to three francs on each ticket.

Nice is built upon rocks; it takes rocks to live there, and if you don't put up your rocks in taxes, they will send you to jail, where you will have to break rocks.

But you must admit that Nice is a beautiful place; that the streets are kept picked up; that one of the beauties is the number of trees in business streets (Syracuse always cuts down its handsome old trees in business streets), and that nobody seems to work but the waiters. After a man has spent the night at the Casino, you cannot tell whether he is a gentleman going home or a waiter coming to work, for the waiters are the only ones who wear full dress in the daytime, and a man cannot get anywhere at night unless he has it on. One has to be so careful whom he calls "garcon."

Without any idea of increasing the interest in philately the government on April 1 doubled the postage to America and other countries abroad.

The French deputies and senators, having heard that a great many Americans were coming over this year, and knowing that Americans have the souvenir card habit to the point of its coming into the class of diseases then thought up the cute idea of bolstering the exchequer by tripling the number of stamps to put upon cards, and so the law was made, effective on April 1, that each card to America should have 30 centimes upon it instead of 10. Great April 1 joke that.

What France really needs is some kind of a washable stamp. As so many of them are used for change the stickum on the back of the goddess on their stamps gets so thick that she looks as if she had slipped in the mud.

If a bill announcing a play, or a poster, is put up in a window or upon a billboard, it must bear a stamp, and the same is true if you put an announcement in the window of something for sale, or even a room to rent. Some of the hotels charge high enough prices so that they include all the taxes, and in that case the guests are never troubled with them and may not even hear of the taxes. Other hotels do not, and the bump comes with the first bill. The wise thing for a traveler is to inquire when the tariff rate is given whether that includes the taxes.

All through the East and in Europe, however, the postage stamp collecting fad has the symptoms of a disease.

It is almost impossible to land from a boat, anywhere in the East without being besieged by people trying to sell used postage stamps for collections. The natives seem to imagine that every white man is a collector of stamps. Coming from Syracuse, where the local club of philatelists numbers only about 30 in all, this interest in postage stamps is to say the least quite striking. Tobacco and stationery stores unite the business of selling stamps for collections along with their regular lines. The feature just now seems to be getting together the series of Fiume stamps, and one collection that I saw was quite interesting. Then the war brought into use many surcharged stamps, and the mere keeping up with the issues is a task in itself.

In Colombo I saw upon the hotel billboard and in the newspapers a notice of a collection of 27,000 stamps for sale. It attracted me, but I did not know enough about modern issues to take a chance. Then a curious thing happened. I had met an English lawyer in the south of India, and happened to be upon the same boat with him to Port Said. We drifted into talking about philately, and I told him of the notice I had seen of the big collection to sell in Colombo. "Well," he remarked, "it isn't for l any longer, for I bought it. I thou it would naturally be long on Ce issues, and it was, and so I too chance." I was interested for the s of the Syracuse stamp collectors to out what such a collection was wo He said that it was valued at 3 pounds, but gave me to understand he paid only 900 pounds for it.

ALABAMA TAX ON SEALS.

By Frank L. Applegate.

The act requiring adhesive stamps to be used in Alabama was passed by the Legislature of that state on Feb. 22, 1866, and was approved by the governor becoming a law on the same date. So reported Mr. Thos. M. Owen then Director of the Department of Archives and History in a letter to the author dated March 6, 1916, and confirmed by him in 1919. The dates formerly quoted for the use of these stamps being 1867 or 1868. The important items of the law were the following:

Section 121 says, "It shall be the duty of the Auditor to furnish the Treasurer with a supply of adhesive stamps of the denominations of one dollar and two dollars each to be printed in separate colors similar to those used by the United States, and to bear an appropriate device and the words, 'State of Alabama,' 'Tax on Seals', 'One Dollar', or 'Two Dollars' as the case may be."

Section 122 provides, "That it shall be the duty of each Notary Public, Probate Judge, Commissioner for the State, Clerk of Circuit Court, Clerk of City Courts, Register in Chancery or other public officer, that may be required to employ a seal by the laws of the state, officiating within the limits of the State, to affix one adhesive stamp of the value of one dollar upon each official impress of such seal of such notary, etc., and shall proceed to cancel the same by writing or stamping his signature and date across the face of said stamp, provided that stamps shall not be required on claims of discharged soldiers, or pensions or arrangements of pay or bounty from the United States."

Section 123 provides, "That the Clerk of the Supreme Court of the State of Alabama, Auditor and Secretary of State, shall affix one adhesive stamp of the value of two dollars upon each official impress of the seal of such offices; and to cancel the same as above provided."

The repeal of this law was effected by an act passed and approved Dec. 3, 1884, thus making the active life of these stamps almost nineteen years. Mr. Owen also says that 50,000 $1 stamps and $10,000 $2 stamps were issued, but I am inclined to think that he means that this was the original order to or delivery by the American Bank Note Co. who furnished the series as he says in another letter that about $87,000 was raised from this source altogether but was unable to state what denominations comprised the difference between this amount and the original $70,000.

The stamps are line engraved both clean cut and roughly perforated 12 on medium white wove paper. The design is irregular and rather odd. In the centre of a shield covering the lower two-thirds of the stamp is an ornamental upright oval leaning somewhat obliquely to the right upon which is depicted a tree from whose branches hangs an open scroll, presumably a map, for such was the arms of Alabama at that time. Above the oval filling the corners of the shield are the numerals of value and between them in an arched line the word "Dollar" or "Dollars" in outline capital letters. Immediately above the shield on a fluttering ribbon are the words "State of Alabama" in solid colored letters; and still above this on an arched panel are the words "One Dollar" or "Two Dollars" in colorless letters on colored ground. The upper and greater part of the stamp is surrounded by a frame roughly oval in shape, composed of foliated ornamentation. The lower portion is surrounded by a fine outer colored line some distance from the rest of the design except at the middle of the sides where it joins the foliations. In the two dollar stamp the space between this outer line and the shield is filled in with diagonal shading. At the extreme top of the one dollar stamp is a small circle two millimeters in diameter within which is enclosed a small numeral.

Engraved. Perf. 12, 24x31 mm.
$1 vermilion.
$2 dark greenish blue, 24x30 mm.

Nothing is known of the sheet arrangement but the one dollar designs are one and one half millimeters apart in horizontal pairs and the two dollar two millimeters apart while vertical pairs would be still closer. The colors are quite uniform; centering generally poor.

ASK FOR "D" LINE APPROVALS.
This line was originated for the sale of "average" copies. Experiments deliberately conducted in the past three months show that many collectors who are particular as to condition find items they can use in this line. New sheets are made up weekly and include many good conditioned items bought advantageously, which may be sold likewise.

CAPITOL LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

Just received a new supply of these albums from England. This is by far the finest album made, bound in green, blue or red, half morocco, containing fifty hand-made ivory card leaves, double linen hinged, size 9¾ by 10⅜ inches, with faint grey quadrille ruling, gilt edges, with Japanese tissue paper mounted on back of each leaf. Peg or patented fastening. Contained in a lamb's wool box, same color as binder.
Special Price, $12.50 Extra Leaves 15c each

H. F. COLMAN
SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

it was probably so listed from a proof which are known. An Alabama collector claims to have a block of four part perforate (he doesn't say which way), but I have not had the privilege of inspecting it.

A one dollar stamp has long been known to exist rouletted. Until recently it was presumed to be of the first issue and so catalogued. Mr. Kenyon says he has never seen one cancelled prior to 1880. As all the used copies I have seen or had described are cancelled during 1884. From this fact and their scarcity I am of the opinion that they were introduced about January, 1884. I have had the privilege of examining the part sheet of these stamps discovered in the State Archives by the Curator, Mr. Peter A. Brannon, which was described in the WEEKLY of Nov. 13, 1920. This sheet was ten stamps wide and five deep, originally more no doubt, probably 10x10 and rouletted clear around, but all margins have been removed down to the line of roulette so that conclusive evidence as to just how large the sheet really was originally is lost. I am satisfied that this sheet is from the original plate as the spacing is the same as in the perforated stamps but am equally sure that they are of another printing as the paper is different, the "grain" being horizontal rather than vertical, as in the first issue. The color, however, is the same as the perforated one dollar stamp.

Mr. Brannon concluded from irregular spacing that they were rouletted by hand but I cannot agree with him as I find the lines of rouletting, which, by the way, hardly cut through the paper, very straight and spaced quite uniformly except in one vertical line which is off centered sufficiently to make one vertical row wider and one row narrower by about two millimeters than the other stamps on the sheet. This amount of irregularity is not uncommon among rouletted stamps. They are rouletted 8, or to be more exact, 64 cuts to 158 mm., or 8.1.

Section 2 of the Act of 1884 provided, "That any person who has purchased and paid for any of the Revenue Stamps as provided in said sections, and has them on hand not used and canceled may within one year from the passage of this Act deliver such stamps to the Auditor who shall give to such person an order or warrant on the State Treasurer for the amount which was paid into the Treasury for such stamps and the Treasurer shall pay such warrants." The sheet found by Mr. Brannon was pinned to a voucher dated Mar. 24, 1885, certifying them for redemption under this provision, but there are no records showing that any other stamps were redeemed, although no doubt many were, or showing what disposition was made of them.

India proofs of the $1.00 stamp in two shades of vermilion and of the $2.00 stamp in blue also in green are known. They have a one line inscription "American Bank Note Co., New-York" in very small letters, the whole inscription the width of one stamp, three millimeters above one stamp design.

Moens general revenue catalogue lists as an essay a $3.00 green. No one knows anything about this but it seems possible that such an essay may have existed when we come to consider that the stamps must have been provided for and ordered engraved some time before the passage of the law, and possibly before the exact text and rates were established. How else could have the law been made effective upon the day of its passage? On the other hand if the Auditor did not provide the stamps until after the act was passed how was the law enforced? Records are silent and there are many obscure points about the history of the state issues that may never be satisfactorily explained.

THE GREAT BROTHERHOOD.

By C. M. TYLER.

Philately is one great brotherhood and all members of the great family must work in accord for the greatest benefit of all. He who endeavors to create factions should be expelled without ceremony. The Great Brotherhood may be sub-divided into three branches, each depending on the others. Without collectors there would be no dealers, and without dealers the collectors would be greatly handicapped. The publisher is a necessity to both the collector and the dealer and they are necessities to him. The attempt to make it appear that dealers and collectors are natural enemies is worthy of attention only because of the frequency with which it occurs.

Collectors, who think dealers allow them to make their own prices on stamps offered for sale, the price already being made and the market not guaranteed, do not play fair; and dealers, likewise, who cannot correctly describe their goods or trust a collector unless he buys heavily from him of stamps he does not want and makes payment "within three days", do not show fair play. Each member of the Great Brotherhood must always keep in mind that the other two branches are indispensable to him.

The publisher, or go-between, is most essential to the cause of the brotherhood and must be upheld and supported by both dealers and collectors. He gathers all that is worth while for their benefit and disseminates all news of interest as well as carrying to the collector what the dealer has to sell. Some publishers do this a little better than others and have a larger clientele by reason of their desire to purge the brotherhood of the unscrupulous members. Their advertisers are picked and only the reliable dealer is allowed space to place before the collector his goods. Every now and then one of the wrong kind gets in but he is soon found out and that is the last heard of him. The information of new and old issues makes the publisher desirable as one in the brotherhood. When properly edited and managed, the price of subscription is secondary consideration to the collector. The editor or publisher who is too serious does not have the best paper. Old and dried stuff does not count so much for success as the peppery or humorous. It would appear from some philatelic journals that there are many collectors who like a little pepper sauce at times and love a funny stamp story, either in prose or poor rhyme.

The dealer has thought of every conceivable way to put before the collector, in printer's ink, what he has to sell and what price he wants for his s... If this does not suit there is the ... sale at which the collector can ... his own prices.

The influence of stamp auctio... philately is tremendous. AMERICAN PHILATELIC SOCIETY CONVENTION, AUG. 9-12

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XXVII—PARCEL POST.

a—Foreign.

The exchange of parcel post packages with the United Kingdom was inaugurated in September, 1886, and in the following year 1311 parcels were received and 239 dispatched. A similar exchange was effected with Canada in 1889, and in the early 90's a special convention was entered into with the United States. Parcel post exchanges with other countries are via the United Kingdom, at the special rates prevailing between the United Kingdom and those countries, plus the rate between the island and the United Kingdom.

The British and Canadian administrations share with Newfoundland the postage paid by the senders of parcels to Newfoundland, and Newfoundland does likewise on parcels dispatched, but there are more parcels received than dispatched, so that the island benefits by this arrangement.

With the United States, however, the service is conducted under a special convention between the two countries, and each country retains the postage collected. As the articles dispatchd from the United States far exceed those received 10,518 as against 3457 in 1919), the arrangement is not so favorable, and the matter of a more equitable arrangement has been taken up with Washington. The convention specially provides that the exchanges may only be made by a direct sea route; i. e., from a seaport in the States and vice versa. For this reason, the transmission of parcels is confined to the Red Cross Line, to and from New York, and the Allan Line, to and from Philadelphia, once a fortnight. Likewise, parcels from the States for Newfoundland must go to New York or Philadelphia, and be dispatched from there. Efforts are being made to effect an arrangement for transmission of parcels via Canada to the States, and vice versa, but the United States administration has so far refused to consider an overland exchange, due to the expense.

Parcels from Canada for Newfoundland must go to Toronto or Halifax, first, and for the same reason, those dispatched from Newfoundland must go first to St. John's G. P. O. There is of course, an exception in the case of small parcels which are permitted to come by letter mail, by paying the full letter rate of postage.

In 1889 the rate was 25 cents per pound to and from all parts of Canada, except British Columbia, which was 30 cents per pound; the limit was 5 lbs. Now, with Canada and the States, the rate is 12 cents per pound, with a limit of 11 lbs. while to the United Kingdom the rate is 24 cents for parcels up to 3 lbs.; 48c up to 7 lbs., and 72 cents up to 11 lbs.

In 1895-96 the number of parcels dispatched to and received from the United Kingdom, Canada, and the States was 1102 and 4223 respectively; for the year ending June 30, 1919, the figures were 21331 and 33735 respectively.

The Stephano of the Red Cross Line was torpedoed off the New England coast in the autumn of 1917, and in the following February, the other steamer of the line, the Florizel, was wrecked off the coast of Newfoundland, between Cape Race and St. John's. Until another steamer could be secured, the parcel post service with the States was practically suspended. The str. Rosalind now performs passenger and freight service between the two ports.

During the war special rates were in effect on parcels sent abroad to soldiers and sailors serving under the flags of the Empire and the United States.

"POST OFFICE NOTICE.

Parcels to members of the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, Royal Naval Reserve, and to sailors and soldiers and non-combatants serving abroad under flags of the Empire and the United States of America will be forwarded at the following reduced rates:

For parcels weighing not over 3 lbs. 16c

For parcels weighing over 3 lbs. but not over 7 lbs. 32c

For parcels weighing over 7 lbs. but not over 11 lbs. .....48c.

Parcels to members serving with United States Regiments must contain such articles only as are being sent with the written consent of the addressee.

The approved request referred to must be enclosed in the parcel, otherwise parcel will be returned to senders by the United States Militia Department.

Sgd. J. ALEX. ROBINSON,
Postmaster-General."

b.—Local and Inland.

Previous to 1903 there was no inland or local parcel post service, although parcels of merchandise were accepted for delivery at the rate of 8 cents a pound, or 2 cents a quarter pound, to ports of call of mail steamers and trains, but there was no obligation to deliver parcels to all Post Offices.

The growth of the local service has been phenomenal, as the following figures, compiled by G. P. O., St. John's, will show—

1909-10	101,844 articles
1914-15	134,467 articles
1915-16	160,078 articles
1916-17	177,334 articles
1917-18	185,942 articles
1918-19	193,037 articles

There are, of course, thousands of parcels handled by the Traveling Post Offices, and the steamers, between towns outside of St. John's, which do not necessarily pass through the G. P. O.

In St. John's the mail order business with the outports has reached large proportions, and the extension of their trade by this means on the part of the larger firms is growing every year.

From May to December parcels of merchandise are delivered to any destination in Newfoundland and at the rate of 1 cent for the first two ounces, and so on up to 1 pound, for which the charge is 8 cents. Over 1 pound the rate is 3 cents for each pound up to and including 11 lbs., which is the limit, and for which the charge is 35 cents. From December to May delivery is subject to delay, and the service to partial discontinuance owing to unfavorable weather conditions. Postage on parcels is paid by means of ordinary adhesive postage stamps, and may be registered for 5 cents additional

THE LONDON POSTAL SERVICE.

By J. A.

Variety being one of the novelties and charms of stamp-collecting, perhaps the usual routine of articles can be embellished by a short discourse on the internal workings of the London Postal Service. Its value can be appreciated as only those actually engaged on Post Office duties can ever get an insight, or are allowed access to the various P. O. buildings.

London, England, is divided into a number of large districts, designated by their position with the points, or reading of the compass.

These districts, however, are too large to effectively serve their purpose. One in the immediate vicinity of the Strand is composed principally of large hotels and newspaper offices, and is known as W. C. 1, while the greater portion consists of business premises, and residential properties known as W. C. 2.

Two other districts cover such an extensive area towards the W. and S. W. that they are divided into two, and are ever extending their boundries, so as to embrace the very outskirts of the ever growing metropolis.

These districts, or zones, are further sub-divided. The more centralized are known by names appertaining to local usage.

When the London Postal system was first organised, it was realised that if the venture was to give satisfactory service, some of the oldest and largest divisions would have to be divided too. At the present day, some of titles postally used, even the residents themselves would look askance at. For instance, Brixton is known as Brixton, proper, and Stockwell; nevertheless, all correspondence is addressed to Brixton. Stockwell was no doubt well known in the days of the old penny blacks, as its name was derived from a famous old-time hostelry of that time, or as some of our readers may have already discovered from a breed of horse of that name.

It is from these small local offices, or sorting offices, as they are called, that the public is served direct. Little can be said of the final methods of disposal. Each locality is sub-divided into what is known as "Walks", which vary in size, throughout the day, according to the pressure of work, when assistance is rendered by extra postmen, as the letter carriers are called, known as auxiliaries.

In the United States and Canada the citizens can point out with pride some imposing building as their General Post Office. In London they are dwarfed into insignificance by their obscurity from public gaze.

The Post Office, with the Inland Revenue, Excise, and Customs is a pronounced revenue-earning concern with this object ever in view. They are built solidly of stone, brick, concrete and steel, devoid of all architectural features, and concealed a block or two away from the principal thoroughfare, yet accessible to some important railroad terminal.

The basements are usually devoted to the Parcel post and the ground floor to the public Post Office, and the general sorting office. The first floor is given over to the railroad sorting office allotted to the district, and it is here, contrary to the prevailing belief, that the bulk of railroad sorting is done. The mail trains are only used to facilitate despatch caused by pressure, or late posting.

The uppermost floor is utilised as a P. O. telephone exchange, which the government absorbed, and extended some years ago.

Between these large offices there is a continuous system of inter-exchanging of mail bags for the London districts and railroad divisions. Each large office has its own particular section of the country to cater for, and it becomes a part of a most complex system. An elaborate and complicated arrangement of crossposts and bye-bags is worked out, which extends its network over the entire British Isles.

The foreign and colonial mail is disposed of by an office maintained for the purpose.

If a casual visit to two large sorting offices in the U. S. A. is any criterion, everything is much in common with the method used in London, Eng.

The stamp cancelling machines used in the London Postal Service were made in Battle Creek, Mich., and if gossip is authentic, they are only rented, and not sold outright. Perhaps this is why their installation was delayed when they were being used almost universally in every other country. Another type of cancelling machine of Swedish manufacture was set up, tried out, and discarded. It worked on a similar principle to the American model—air-suction, and electric power.

The large sorting offices are roughly divided into three parts. The part most accessible to the main entrance is used for general sorting, technically known as "G.P." Here the correspondence is "faced up" on tables with a shallow trough-like top, so that the stamps lie in one direction either upper right, etc. Extending along the further side of the table is a continuous broad canvas belt, moving slowly to the right, where letters are placed; the belt returns at a higher, yet convenient level to convey packages, newspapers to be hand stamped at the other end. In this respect, it is different from the U. S. method where the belt is in front of the table and feeds the machine itself. In London, the letters have to be fed by hand. The correspondence is afterwards sorted, checked by respective sorters, and conveyed by a belt under the floor to the outside loading platform.

The British Parcel Post system freed from competition by express companies has enjoyed popularity since its inception. For transportation, both the railroad and motor lorries are utilised. The latter are now being used to an unappreciated extent, the bulk of matter being of a like kind, the roads favorable for haulage and the destination always consistent. Its value to the P. O. was realised long ago. The old Brighton coach immortalized by various writers and engravers alike has long been replaced by a huge motor lorry. Swinging past Kensington Gate at night with its brilliant lights, it cannot be said to posses that majestic pride, or impart the thrill of the old stage coach with its pleasing accompaniment of music from the French horn. For a time it found a worthy successor in the Vanderbilt coach and four.

To operate such an elaborate system, a large number of men must be employed. The Postmaster General is the largest employer of labor in the British Isles today. The majority are either sorters or postmen. The letter carrier is without a doubt the most popular servant of public opinion. Amongst themselves they have a vocabulary of their own. The public is familiar with one "The dead letter".

Occasionally the monotony of regular duties, day after day, over the same ground, and the routine of duti relieved by the humorous. The recalls a butler in a select pa Belgravia returning a letter throug post, the addressee having gone endorsed on the back "Gone away before Nelson lost his eye". To o any possible error in delivery, all so described are delivered twice his original epitaph he added, Napoleon crossed the Alps". Th the mighty recalled to mind.

Quite a few postmen are philat Many of our friends would chi with a glint in their eyes, as t ability to annex choice specime our collection. It may be well mark it is not so. At the India near Whitehall, Messrs. Grindla well known Indian bankers, Parli St., Cox and Co., Army banker agents, the writer has seen letter mediately they have been del keenly scrutinized by lynx-eyed o for any apparent omissions, an quiries would speedily follow th appearance of a stamp.

The duties of a London postma very responsible and onerous. It's be remembered that the brightest in the British Crown, not India, b Culliman diamond, was sent from Africa and delivered in London, ordinary registered letter post.

The arrival of the various mails overseas affects certain localiti London more than others.

Charing Cross (S.W. portion), market, and the vicinity receive th of London's share in the American which is the heaviest mail to expe The local P.O. authorities are noti to when its arrival is to be expecte vision is made by summoning the men off duty, who are familiar the peculiar knowledge that is nat every "Walk". Above is a picture of our special correspondent in the Baltic States, George H. Jaeger, Libau, Latvia. He is the editor of the Baltic Philatelist and is a talented stamp collector. He is a frequent contributor to the philatelic press and various of his articles have appeared in the WEEKLY.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are informed by Herman W. Boers that George Fuller of the Rubber City Stamp Club, Akron, O., recently spent several days in Detroit, looking up stamp collectors.

—After serving three years as editor of the stamp column in the Baltimore American C. Lat. Wilhelm announces his resignation. The work has been a labor of love upon the part of Mr. Wilhelm but he has now reached the point where he is unable to give the work the time that it requires.

—George Prechowsky submits two new postal cancellations. One, Chicago in four lines:—"Pageant of Progress—Exposition—Chicago—July 30—August 14, 1921" and the other from Eureka, Cal., in three lines "Save—the—Redwoods".

—Sometime ago we reported Julius Piller of Vienna as guilty of dishonest transactions. Hugh Dougherty of Philadelphia, Pa., having a claim against this party placed the facts with the Mission of the U.S. at Vienna and received the following reply:—"Efforts were made by this Mission to cause Julius Piller to hand over the postage stamps which had been ordered and paid for. As all efforts to get in touch with him were unsuccssful it was found necessary to turn the matter over to the Vienna police, who inform me that your complaint will be used as a basis for taking legal action against Piller on the charge of swindling. You will be informed of the progress of the case as soon as a police report is received."

—Philip H. Ward, Jr., informs us that fakes of the 5, 10 and 20 peso Argentine are coming from Honduras. These values in punched condition (used for revenue purposes) have had the holes filled in expertly and been re-gummed. A close inspection of the stamps will show the work done, but putting the stamps in benzine will cause the punched holes to show up very plainly.

—Rochester Branch, No. 41, A.P.S. Meetings held fourth Thursday of each month at the Municipal Museum, Exposition Park, Rochester, N.Y. All collectors will be given a cordial welcome at any of our meetings. Officers, W. H. Amberg, pres.; W. Cassebeer, vice pres.; P. C. Wild, treas. and H. J. Haddleton, sec., 87 Shelter St.

EDITORIAL.

Michael—The death of Fred Michael, a stamp dealer of Chicago for so many years, on June 17th, at the age of forty-seven years, while foreshadowed for some time past came as a shock to those who did not fully realize that his indomitable spirit would soon have to leave its tenement, so frail had it become. For many months, though a sufferer from diabetes, he attended to his business after a fashion. His work was interrupted by hospital and other treatment but he doggedly kept on and insisted upon going to his office almost up to the day of death. Though he had help, it was Mr. Michael's tendency to keep all details under his eye as in a sense his was peculiarly a one man's business. For almost thirty years Fred Michael has been a factor in the ranks of dealers; and for more than twenty years, his announcement has appeared week in and week out on our front page. Since 1894 we have known Mr. Michael well, as it was in that year that we went together to the national stamp conventions at Niagara Falls. After a collecting period extending from early boyhood, Fred Michael, while working in his father's shop later, naturally began a business in stamps and coins. For a few years he was content to employ his spare time to advantage in this way but it was not long before he was actively engaged in loaning money on stamps; auction sales and stamp importations. From a small beginning his new issue service developed into one of a magnitude sufficient to cover the world, almost, through its connections. Several years ago Mr. Michael took a down-town office in the Hartford Building and his undivided attention to business was rewarded. Unfortunately, his health began to fail, but he continued unremittingly at his work. He lost ground physically and try as he could, he could not keep a mastery over all the details of his business. As a result of his declining powers, some confusion in his business has resulted but proper methods will be taken to remedy the condition. Fred Michael, who was born in England, was first of all a philatelist, the depth of whose affection for stamps was usually unsuspected. His business was based on an appreciation for and belief in stamps. His methods were conservative and typical of the man. He was keen in a business sense but equitable; and his judgment in a philatelic sense was apt to be good. His friends, who were in communion with him, discovered qualities of idealism, refinement and sincerity. He was not demonstrative but thoughtful and collected; and on occasion, determined. Other attributes, so elusive that it is almost impossible to describe them, were his. Combining sterling traditions of the past with the more enterprising business developments of the day, Mr. Michael brought honesty of service and good intent to bear on the routine of the day. As an old-time member of the American Philatelic Society, and an ex-vice-president, Mr. Michael attended many conventions during past decades; and he has served as president of the Chicago Philatelic Society. Mr. Michael is survived by his widow and two daughters; a venerable father, two brothers and two sisters. With them we deplore the quenching of a kindly light that leaves a little shadow in our philatelic world.

Comment—We have received the following communication from Mr. Stanley B. Ashbrook of Cincinnati: "The numerous letters that I have received as a consequence of my recent article on Prisoner of War envelopes have been gratifying as they betoken an interest in these historical items that they richly deserve. I was glad to note Mr. Kenneth Milne's interesting comment in the issue of June 11th, although I must differ from him somewhat. He speaks of Meriden, Miss., and I think that this must be a typographical error for Meridian, where there was a concentration camp for the transfer of federal prisoners that were exchanged. It really was not a prison of either side but merely a transfer station. All of Mississippi practically was in the hands of the federals in 1864-65 and I think that the camp Mr. Milne probably refers to was 'Camp Fisk' which was established near Vicksburg at the close of the war. This camp was established for the exchange of prisoners captured during the operations of the armies in the west. The 'Sultana' that Mr. Milne mentions was used in carrying exchanged prisoners to the north and in April, 1865, while transporting 2134 paroled Union soldiers was shattered by a boiler explosion with a loss of over 1900 lives. The Joseph Stevens of East Buffalo who is mentioned must have been a prisoner at 'Andersonville' where Captain Wirz was stationed. I hope that Mr. Milne will look further into this matter and that other interested collectors will let us have their notes. I certainly will appreciate the loan of any Prisoners' letters and will return them promptly." Mr. Ashbrook's address is: 720 Union Trust Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Why—We have spoken so often of the obligations that some of us willingly assume to advertise philately that our words may be an old story, as a correspondent somewhat ungraciously said recently. Perhaps we have not dwelled upon the sentimental advantages of missionary work to the extent we should have done. The material benefits that are to be derived through a numerical increase of collectors may have been exploited as more important than the more elusive qualities of sentiment. We have just found in The Amenities of Book Collecting, by A. Edward Newton and published by the Atlantic Monthly Press, Boston, one of the best apologies for proselyting, based on the doctrine of pure delight that we have ever read, as follows: "We collectors strive to make converts; we want others to enjoy what we enjoy; and I may as well confess that this envy shown by our fellow collectors when we display out treasures is not annoying to us. But speaking generally, we are a bearable lot; our hobbies are usually harmless and if we loathe the subject of automobiles, and especially, discussion relative to parts thereof, we try to show an intelligent interest in another hobby, even if it happens to be a collection of postage stamps. Our own hobby may be, probably is, ridiculous to some one else but in all the wide range of human interest, from postage stamps to paintings,—the sport of the millionaire,—there is nothing that begins so easily and takes us so far as the collecting of books." Aside from the essayist's evident unfamilarity with stamps and their advantages of portability, we echo his words, as there is philosophy in them.

Wanted—There may be safety in a multitude of councillors but it would be more in line with modern business precepts if the titulary heads of the post office department, through their subordinates, would dispense information on postal information that was non-conflicting. We realize that the post office department is a large business institution that has not achieved perfection by any means, although the present administration is striving to remedy conditions that have prevailed to the detriment of the department for some years past. What is needed is a real "information department" at Washington where those who are interested in stamp issues may learn news concerning them and where the general public, for that matter, may be informed about details that may not be answered authoritatively elsewhere. When the source of information would be undefiled, the seeker after knowledge would not be led astray, either through indefinite or ambiguous opinions. The postal department is near to all the people, especially stamp collectors and the maintenance of a bureau where interrogatories would receive proper attention would create a most favorable impression. We know that some questions asked on stamp subjects are not easily answered but it helps the inquirer if he is told so in "a competent manner."

FRANK E. HADLEY, BOX 73, PLAINFIELD, N. J.

SAN FRANCISCO PERCUSSION MATCH COMPANY.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

12c Blue.

This Company appears in the San Francisco Directories as early as 1868, and in that year was located on the east side of Ritch Street, near Townsend. The proprietors were J. F. Atwill and C. K. Clark. In 1875 the factory was located on Ritch Street near Brannan, the office was 408 Market Street and Charles K. Clark was proprietor. The following year the address of the factory appears to have been corner of Lincoln and Banks Streets, Bernal Heights, and Henry Watson was then proprietor. The later Directories contain no reference to any concern of this name. What became of the business is not known. Possibly it was succeeded by one of the firms given below, none of which are known to have used private die stamps, and there is no information regarding them to directly connect them with the San Francisco Percussion Match Company.

The Boston Book contains the following data regarding the stamp used by the San Francisco Percussion Match Company:

Die approved, July 30, 1872.
First issued, August, 1872.
Last issued, December, 1874.
2,055,291 issued on silk paper.
30 stamps per sheet (5x6).

The stamp was engraved by Joseph R. Carpenter and all were printed in Philadelphia. Probably there were not more than two plates, possibly there was only one plate.

This gorgeous sticker is a horizontal rectangle measuring a little over 2¾x1¾ inches, and is just a trifle larger than the 12c Bendel Match stamps, the first of which latter adhesives came into use just before the San Francisco Percussion Match stamp went out of use, and there is so much similarity between the dies of these stamps that there is no doubt about the Bendels having been copied from the earlier 12c stamp.

The stamp was evidently designed by a bill-poster possessing more than ordinary artistic talent, for although it contains almost everything but a receipt for home-brew, the various dinguses, dooflickers and thing-a-ma-jigs portrayed on it are arranged so cleverly that the whole effect, while somewhat startling, is unusually attractive and one does not become tired of admiring it. The lathe work background of diagonally crossed lines is like that found on the Bendel 12c stamps, and like the latter, on the San Francisco, the figures 12 appear in ornamental panels in the upper corners, and the words Twelve Cents respectively in the same style in the lower corners. Midway between the top and bottom at either end of the stamp is a large circular disk, the one at the left bearing a shaded five-pointed star similar to the star found on the Rag Hollow match stamps, and the circle at the right containing a cluster of twenty-two lighted matches, arranged head outwards from a common center. Between these two circular disks in the center of the stamp is a hand holding what appears to be a large fire-cracker lighted at both ends, but which is probably intended to represent a candle, or taper. Above and below this are two curved ribbons, the upper inscribed "San Francisco" and the lower inscribed "Match Company," all in large colored capitals. On the background just below the upper of these ribbons the word "Percussion" is found. Near the top of the stamp is a colorless label inscribed "1200 Matches" and in a curved line near the bottom of this miniature illustrated encyclopedia the words "U. S. Internal Revenue," arranged in a curved line, appear. He who seeks diligently may also find on the stamp panels inscribed "San Francisco" and "California," the initials U and S, the same initials combined twice to form monograms, and other monograms composed of the letters S F and M C. So far the writer has failed to find the Eighteenth Amendment, or any important part of it, on this stamp, and if it is not there, the only reason apparent would be that it did not become effective until some forty-four years after the stamp was designed.

The color is a magnificent bright blue, varying little, and is a close match in shade for the rare 5c New York Match stamp that was issued a few months earlier in the same year the San Francisco 12c first appeared. The writer has never seen a block, but within a few years a fine pair was sold in the city of the stamp's nativity.

The San Francisco 12c stamp was quoted at $1.50 in the late '80s which indicates that it was fairly plentiful at that time. 1895 the price had reached $3.00. During the ensuing five years, it appreciated in value rapidly; in 1896, the price being $5.00 and in 1898 $7.00, and in 1900 the little red book which slashed the prices of so many other stamps raised the valuation on the San Francisco to $8.00. About that time a supply came into the market, or else the demand fell off, for in 1903 the price was reduced to $6.00, and that quotation was still in effect in the 1920 catalog.

The real scarcity of the stamp in proportion to other private die issues is somewhat over-rated. The number issued was more than four times as great as of the first 12c Bendel stamp, and in the writer's opinion the 12c San Francisco is certainly no scarcer to-day, and quite probably is not quite so scarce as the 12c B. Bendel. However, it often commands 10 per cent to 50 per cent higher prices, because it is even more popular than the commoner of the large Bendel stamps.

Many of the copies in existence are in surprisingly good condition for such a large stamp, and although absolute perfection is rarely to be expected, specimens in condition that is nearly perfection are not especially difficult to obtain.

Among those collectors who are acquainted with it and love all U. S. revenues, this splendid jumbo of a stamp has a popularity second to none. One does not greatly exaggerate in prophesying that the 12c San Francisco stamp will cease to be popular only when the last surviving member of the world-wide fraternity of stamp collectors lays aside his album for the last time and prepares to leave this imperfect world for that other world where everything is perfect, and the condition crank cometh into his own.

THERE IS MORE KICK

in a handful of dynamite than in a carload of sand and you can make a big mistake trying to judge the importance of these little ads by the space they occupy.

Whenever another good scout wakes up to the fact that many a stiff jolt may ride under a josh and that there's more behind these efforts of mine to add something to the joy of life than one might think he profits—and so do I.

FINE UNITED STATES WANTED

I especially desire several items for one of my clients and would be pleased to receive any one or all of the following.—

1847, 5c block, mint or used.
1857, 90c Mint block.
1869, Inverts, 15, 24 and 30c.
1869, 10c Mint block.
1888, 90c Mint block.
1894, $1, $2, $5 Mint blocks.
1895, Same, Mint blocks.

Can also use a great many of the lesser lights of all issues in blocks. What can you offer? All must be fine.

My last several advertisements, offering mint blocks, rare envelopes, etc., still hold good, and practically everything can still be furnished.

General business is dull, but I am unable to get enough fine items in U. S. postage to meet the demand. If you are thinking of selling your collection or if you have any unusual items, write me. If they are United States and are fine, I do not care if they are valued at $100 or $100,000.00, if they are worth it, I am in the market for them.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. Emile Jost has sent a block, and the Scott Stamp & Coin Company have advised as to the finding of the current 50c lavender, unwatermarked, perforated 11 with a shifted double impression. This variety is similar to the 11c chronicled some weeks back. The doubling is without doubt caused by the sheet being smeared over the plate as it was being lifted. Again we repeat, watch your post office for all kinds of odd things are coming along.

Mr. J. A. Smith sends for inspection a copy of the eleventh stamp of the southwest pane from sheet No. 12347 of the 2c offset print, perforated 11 wherein the tail of the left figure "2" is so formed that it gives a different appearance to the shape of the figure.

The Third Assistant Postmaster General has just issued an order instructing the several post offices to send to New Orleans their stock of 4c Grant envelopes to have them overprinted at that point, and then returned to their original office for distribution. It is of course quite obvious that they are being sent to this point to be overprinted, to endeavor to stop the speculation in those issued sometime back by the New Orleans Postmaster. They will have a merry time however in getting the same size envelope in the same shade of brown and giving it the same impression of overprint.

The 4c envelope is still on the official list of the department's issues and depleting this stock means that the new contractors will have to furnish additional supplies. The several offices will be put to some expense in boxing these up and sending them South, and just as much trouble must be taken in New Orleans to send them back. Taking freight in consideration means that the Government is going to a great deal of expense in this connection.

It is interesting at this time to mention that some months back the New Orleans Office, finding the stock of size 8 envelopes short, took it upon themselves to overprint a quantity of the old 4c brown envelopes which they had on hand for about fifteen years. They wrote to Washington for permission, which was not granted, but in the meantime had overprinted a number and these were sold over the counter. A clerk in the office, it seems, put aside less than a hundred and very foolishly offered these promiscuously to a number of people at $200.00 for the lot. Mr. J. M. Bartels the well known envelope specialist, tells me that he wrote Washington about the subject and it seems that as a result the affair was turned over to the post office inspectors.

The inspectors made every effort to obtain the return of those distributed, but met with little success. The Department then called for information from the several offices, as to their stock of this exact stamped envelope on hand, and after receiving this information authorized their overprinting in New Orleans.

In a recent Chronicle we gave Mr. Clay full credit for some overprinted envelopes from Montgomery, Ala. Mention should have been made of the fact that several similar envelopes from the same city were received through the courtesy of our valued correspondent, Mr. Peter A. Brannon.

Mr. E. H. Draper calls our attention to the fact, that the 1c documentary stamp has recently received a new overprint for use on cigarette tubes. The same gentleman informs us that he has located copies of the current series $30.00 documentary with serial number in blue as well as in green. We have not followed these high denomination revenue stamps very closely, and it is quite likely that many of the higher values are to be found in this shape.

We wish to thank Messrs. F. R. Demmerly, Eugene DeMent and F. L. Belanger for information of interest.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. L. Meister advises that he has received the 2d George design color the same as the 4d, No. 24, but with watermark narrow crown and narrow "A." Mr. Meister also adds that it almost seems as though it was an error.

AUSTRIA.—(Italian Occupation)— Mr. M. Loewy calls our attention to the 10c Italian stamp surcharged '10 centesimi di corona" appearing in a new overprint with the 10 without the serifs.

Prof. Loewy also adds that he has a pair of 25c, Scott's No. 946, which reads "Centesimi di orona," the "c" being omitted.

CHINA.—The Chinese P. O. Department has prepared an issue of Special airplane stamps, 15, 30 and 45c, in anticipation of the air transmission of mail for the near future between Peking and distant points.

DENMARK.—The Albermarle Stamp Collector announces:—

On the 1st of May regular postal issues of Denmark were surcharged "PORTO" in black, across the top, to serve as postage dues. Lauritz Petersen has very kindly sent us the first specimens that were issued, informing us that the value of 1 kronen will shortly follow. He also sends us the 20 ore pictorial of the 1920 issue, in pale blue.

SUDDEN SERVICE LEADS!

MEKEEL'S report ending May, shows that we have secured 183 new subscribers, and hold first place in the campaign contest. Our total is more than the combined totals of our three next highest competitors. Were we dealing in Grape-Nuts we might add, "There's a reason."

We also hold first place in another direction. And that is in the esteem of several hundred serious collectors who find doing business the Fennell way is more pleasure than business.

It seems though, thank goodness, that very few stamp collectors are dishonest. A certain dealer recently told us that only one collector out of myriads had tried to cheat him. Friend dealer also said that he was going to get that one. Here's wishing him success in helping to keep clean the finest hobby in the world.

But don't have an apoplectic fit over that—you see it happened just 74 years ago.

THEY DO COME BACK.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

It was at the big exposition staged by one of the great universities in the American mid-west. For some days thousands upon thousands of visitors had come, had wandered for hours through the countless booths and corridors in the several buildings given over to the mammoth show, and had gone with a new appreciation of the institution's service to the commonwealth. And yet, here on closing day, the attendance was bidding fair to surpass that of any two previous days.

There was a moment's lull in the rush of people surging through the history department exhibit, and the guide in charge heaved a sigh of relief. Explaining the Assyrian and Babylonian tablets with their cuneiform inscriptions, the Creto-Mycenean remains and Parthenon frieze reproductions, the ancient coins, the Egyptian papyri, the medieval manuscripts and what not was interesting for a time, but did become a trifle wearying after it had been done for the *n*th time.

Now there was only a lone visitor in the booth, looking over the little display of commemorative and Neurope stamps with great care and evident interest. He seemed vaguely familiar;—yes, it was the same man he had noticed at the same case several times before during the course of the afternoon.

That had been quite an idea, displaying a few sheets of interesting stamps, labelling them to show their historical value, and following the course of the late war with its invasions, occupations, cessions of territory, and plebiscites, all by means of a little assortment of postal adhesives mounted in chronological order. It had attracted as much attention as had the neighboring display of clay tablets running back over 4500 years. And some of the exposition committee members had begrudged the space, since "no one would want to look at ordinary postage stamps"; indeed, it was only because one prospective exhibit had failed to materialize and that there was consequently some vacant space that the mere bits of paper had been presented to the gaze of the great philatelic unwashed at all!

The man at the case turned and seeing the guide unoccupied, spoke to him.

"Perhaps you can tell me something about these?"

He listened closely to the explanation of how postage stamps are documents of the course of civilization, mute witnessess of the rise and passing of empire, how the collecting of them is the king of hobbies, how it gives the person collecting them a wide knowledge of geography and history and national development in general. He followed carefully the account of the stories which the specimens before them told.

Then, when the guide had finished, he told him how, many years before, in the 80's, he had himself formed a little collection and had spent many an hour and many a dime, which was "a heap of money" to him in those days, on stamps, but how with the passing of time and the coming in of other interests he had neglected them, had lost track of the collection, and had not thought of stamps again for almost forty years. It was the few sheets he had run across here in the history exhibit which had brought back a host of pleasant memories of those days of long ago. There must be around ten thousand kinds by this time. Were there still people who sold them?

By strange good fortune, the guide had a copy of the WEEKLY with him, it having arrived in the morning mail and he having thought that he might snatch a few moments to look it over when "trade" was dull. So he showed it to the man, told him that there were many times ten thousand varieties of stamps, told him of Scott's catalogue, showed him the advertisements offering everything from thousand variety packets to single copies high in the dollars. He would have told him more, but the visitors were again beginning to arrive and his services were required elsewhere. So he pressed the WEEKLY upon the man who thanked him, but not until he had asked his name.

A few days later, the exposition was already a thing of the past. The booths had been wrecked, the history exhibit tablets, charts, books, maps and all had been removed, and the stamps were once more resting in their places in their owner's albums. The guide of a short time before was again back on the prosaic job of holding quiz sections and grading papers.

At the close of a busy day he peeped into his mail-box before going to dinner. There he found a letter.

"You may remember me as the man to whom you explained the charm of stamp collecting, the one who told you that he had had a collection long ago", it said. "The WEEKLY you gave me was very interesting. I have subscribed and I have sent for several of the packets I found advertised. The first of the latter arrived last night, and if I had had any lingering doubt about the advisability of again taking up stamp collecting, it left me before I had looked over a dozen of the stamps. I think I have a great deal to thank you for. I'd not regret having gone to the exposition if I hadn't seen another thing besides those stamps you showed."

Yes, it's true, they do come back after all!

Good Old Postage and Revenue Stamps
MY SPECIALTY

If you haven't been getting just what you need, or everything you need, just shoot a want list out this way in any of the following stamps—U. S. Postage, Revenues, Departments, cut square Envelopes or Match and Medicine, in British North American (very fine line of these popular stamps), British Colonials, European, South American of the 19th century, or rarities. I pay little attention to new issues, but, believing in the soundness of old issues, I have invested my money where I think it will net me something. New issues are all right, but I can't handle everything, so am willing for the other fellow to have the trade on recent specimens.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

OUR SYSTEM AIN'T SO BAD.

By J. J. MONTAGUE.

When old King Cheop's P. M. G.
Was handling Egypt's mail,
It did not speed from sea to sea
In five days' time, by rail,
But very seldom did folks hear
From relative or friend,
For every letter took a year
To reach its journey's end.
Yet it cannot be ascertained
From tablet, shaft or wall,
That Memphis business men complained
Or groused or grouched at all.

A correspondent took a stick
And wrote a postal card
Or letter on a soft clay brick,
And baked it, later, hard.
Each letter weighed five pounds or so
(They charged for them by weight)
And generally mails were slow
And postmen often late,
And yet we search the records which
Are handed down to us,
In vain to find that poor or rich
So much as made a fuss.

When old King Cheop's P. M. G.
Grew weary and resigned,
Another martyr such as he
The country could not find.
They advertised, but none could hear
The helpless nation's call,
And so for many a long, long year
They had no mail at all.
Remembering those ancient chaps,
And what a time they had,
Sometimes we're prone to think, perhaps
Our system ain't so bad.

WAR-TIME ISSUES OF TURKEY.

By Col. O. K. TANCOCK, C. M. G.

I forget the name of the eminent statesman who said, "Never Apologise." But, though I mean to follow his precept, perhaps I should explain why I came to take me a country so unpopular morally, physically, and philatelically as Turkey.

I happened to have Johnny Turk as my opposite number for the last two years of the war. An intelligent interest in his habits and characteristics extended after a while, to a puzzled curiosity as to what had happened to his stamps—especially the early issues, which appeared to have been mobilised in large numbers, and effectively treated by a camouflage expert. After the Turkish debacle of September—October, 1918, quantities of these enemy stamps were offered for sale, and some were won, in the districts from which we had evicted the Ottoman armies. So the zest of stamp-hunting was added to the other attractions of Nazareth and Nablous, Beirut and Baalbek, Damascus and Aleppo, and the many other towns of Palestine and Syria, which offered a home from home to the British exiles. Yielding to the lure, I began to collect. Truthfully I should say began again, for I was "a have been collector". Turkey re-awakened my slumbering love of stamps, and to that perplexing and much-abused country I owe my return, like a prodigal son, to the philatelic fold.

And what a fascinating country it is historically and philatelically. Is not its history written and overprinted on its multitudinous stamps, with an eloquence and elegance that no other country can equal? The Toughras tell the tale of the Sultans. Gratitude for Abdul Hamid's mockery of a constitution is expressed in the quaint commemorative issue of 1908; and, in the following year, a new Toughra announces that Abdul the Ahem has departed and Mohammed V. reigns in his stead. In the fateful year 1914, an overprint, which is almost tantamount to a declaration of war, proclaims that the Foreign Capitulations are abolished and the Consular post offices closed.

The development in design is also most interesting to trace. From 1863 to 1912, a stern puritanism, which forbade portrait or picture, restricted the designers to the monograms (Toughras), showing title and name of the Sultans, combined with the Crescent and Star devices. In 1913 came the first break with Mussulman prejudice and tradition; but the resultant design, a view of the old Post Office of Stamboul, was a sorry effort. However, an improvement followed in the Adrianople series, commemorating the re-capture of that fortress; and full atonement was made, at the close of the same year, by the issue of the artistic series of views of the Bosphorus and Constantinople, also engraved and printed by Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co.

This series marks a further Westernisation of the Ottoman mind. On the 200 piastre stamp appears an excellent portrait of Sultan Mohammed V. (Raschid). A collector, who has lived many years in Turkey, told me that the devout among the Moslems, although slightly shocked at this innovation, excused it by pointing out that the portrait, being only of the head and shoulders, which could not have a separate existence from the remainder of His Majesty's person, was not a representation of the living Sultan and therefore not contrary to Islamic law. But in the 1917 Vienna issue, the Turk abandoned this subterfuge and went the whole hog, admitting full length figures, even one of an unveiled woman.

Unfortunately Turkey's good sense, in selecting a British firm to print her stamps, deserted her in the crisis of 1914, when she had to choose between Briton and Boche as an ally. She took the wrong turning and the result was trouble, philatelically and otherwise. The stocks of London stamps soon ran low. So the old issues were trotted out, overprinted with a nice new Crescent and Star and date, and issued as provisionals. A stop-gap issue, commemorative of the Jubilee of the Post, was obtained from Vienna, baptised with the inevitable overprint and dedicated to Charity. Another new issue ordered from Vienna was delayed. So more dug-outs were called up and dressed in new overprints. For the P. T. T. or "Bull" issue over 125 stamps of previous series were utilised. The six-pointed star of the earlier provisionals offended strict Moslems, who recognised it as a Christian emblem; so an orthodox Star of Islam with only five points was substituted.

The 1917 Vienna issue practically consists of two series, both pictorial, one with ordinary views and the other with military designs; and most of the values appear in each set—some occurring in three different colours. There are three different types of 10 paras stamp, one of which and the 5 paras (Artillery type) were mounted on thin cardboard and used as money. The Viennese series did not escape the overprint epidemic. The Armistice caused a fresh outbreak, in which most of the pretty pictures were submerged beneath inscription and date. The eruption continued through 1918-19, blotting out poor Mohammed V.'s face and Toughra and substituting the Cypher of his successor, Mohammed VI (Wahed ed Din). Happily the Turk has now repented and returned to the pre-war pictorial series of Bradbury, Wilkinson & Co., though the colours seem more sombre than of yore—possibly to signify a chastened spirit.

I have left but little space or time to say how I arrange my collection. I use two loose-leaf blank albums, one for the old-fashioned issues up to 1913 and the other for the later series. I arrange series according to Stanley Gibbons, as far as he goes; but since he parted brass rags with the Turk, I have followed Locher and Yvert and, best of all, Lt. Colonel H. Wood's check list in the Postage Stamp (Sept., 1919) for "war and after" stamps. I print my own headings and write up series on the lines of Stanley C. Johnson's suggestion in The Stamp Collector. I collect mint or used, singles, blocks or strips, as they come my way; but I like "used" to confirm mint copies of such suspicious-looking birds as the locals—"Enterprise Lianos", or specials "à Kustendje et Czernawoda." I do not include Baghdads, Iraqs, Mosuls, or Cilicie, which no longer owe allegiance to the Sublime Porte.—Stamp Collectors' Monthly Circular.

We herewith the introduction to the offici log, a copy of which has recently c hand.—W. O. W.)

Just eighty-one years ago, in the of May, 1840, the earliest of the which form the contents of the p Exhibition first saw the light. is the celebrated "penny black lish," and their use commenced on 6; they were issued to the public ever, on the first of the month, in to enable everyone who applied for to lay in supplies beforehand.

The interest, therefore, of thes bits of paper really lies not sol the fact that they bear curious d printed upon them, that many of th lustrate the course of recent hi or that most of them present prin study of one kind or another rather in the fact that they are the s sign of a great Postal Reform.

It is difficult for people at the p day to fully understand the cond under which the Postal Ser the ordinary collection and delive letters—was carried on prior to Postage was very seldom prepaid, a the sender wished to do so, the had to be taken to a post office a postage, at a very high rate, had paid in cash and an account ke the postmaster. As a rule, p had to be collected on delivery letter and it can easily be imagine even with the comparatively small ber of letters sent in those day postman was greatly delayed up rounds. Thus, a vast amount of was performed by the Post Offic no payment at all, as considerable bers of letters were refused by to whom they were addressed.

The leading features of the refor posed by Mr. (afterwards Sir) Ro Hill, and introduced in 1840, m said to have been, firstly, a un rate of postage for letters throu the United Kingdom, irrespective distance that they were conveyed (i ing been shown that the actual c transmission of a letter from on of the country to another was in imally small); and, secondly, the payment of the postage by some means that did not involve the keep complicated accounts, thus doing with a large proportion of the labor and consequent expense incurred by the system then in force.

By these means it became possible to effect an enormous reduction in the postal rates, which, in 1839, for a letter consisting of a single sheet of paper weighing less than one ounce, varied from 4d for a distance of 15 miles to 12d for a distance not exceeding 300 miles, with an increase of 1d for each additional distance of 100 miles; whilst, in 1840, the rate became a uniform one of one penny per half-ounce for all distances within the British Isles.

The system of prepayment of postage by means of stamps, introduced in the United Kingdom in 1840, was gradually adopted in other parts of the world. The Empire of Brazil and some of the Cantons of the Republic of Switzerland were the first to follow. They issued stamps in 1843. Then came Finland and Russia in 1845; the United States in 1847, in which year also the first of the British Colonies— Mauritius— issued stamps that have since become celebrated as the most valuable that are known to collectors.

In 1849 the use of stamps was adopted in France, and in some other countries in Europe. In 1850 the first adhesive postage stamps made their appearance in Australasia, New South Wales, issuing the stamps known to all philatelists as the celebrated "Sydney Views," the design of which was a representation of the great seal of the colony; and Victoria appearing on the scene with the well known stamps showing a half-length portrait of the Queen.

Next in order came Tasmania in 1853, Western Australia in 1854, South Australia in 1855, New Zealand in 1855. Queensland was the last to enter the ranks, owing to the fact that this part of Australia was not elevated to the status of a separate colony until 1859; its first stamps were issued in 1860.

It is not known how early stamp collecting began in Australia or New Zealand. Stamp collecting, as we now know it, of course became possible only after the use of stamps had extended to other countries, and, when the stamps of foreign countries began to arrive upon letters, collections of "foreign stamps," as they were generally termed in those days, were probably first made in the early fifties.

Between 1860 and 1870, stamp collecting became quite a fashionable mania, and stamp literature arose in the form of catalogues and periodicals. During that period commenced the careful (may we say, scientific?) study of stamps, and all connected with them; and the word "Philately" was coined to denote that study.

As the use of stamps has spread to every part of the globe, so also has the practice of collecting and studying them. There are stamp collectors in every country, and in every rank of society.

Prior to 1890, exhibitions of stamps were almost unknown. In that year the first public exhibition of stamps was held in London to celebrate the Jubilee of Uniform Penny Postage.

The second Philatelic Exhibition was held in 1897, and was opened by his Majesty the King, then Duke of York and President of the Royal Philatelic Society, London. An international Philatelic Exhibition was again held in London in 1906, which was under the patronage of his Majesty, who was then Prince of Wales.

The great interest that his Majesty takes in Philately is a matter of common knowledge. A portion of the contents of his magnificent collection was shown at the 1906 Exhibition. Amongst other great treasures was a splendid specimen of the Mauritius 1847 2d. blue, which was purchased for the then record price of £1400 at public auction.

The trade in stamps is of vast extent, and affords a means of livelihood to no inconsiderable number of persons in the principal cities of the world. Enormous prices have been given for specimens of the great rarities; allusion has already been made to the price given for one of the first stamps of Mauritius, which could have been purchased for 2d. at the post office. A good collection of stamps is worth a small fortune; as much as £30,000 was paid fifteen years ago for a unique collection of the stamps of Europe. If the same collection were placed on the market to-day it would easily realize £130,000.

It may be added that the stamps in this Exhibition are valued at nearly £100,000, and that, if they were destroyed, the collections could not be completely replaced for that sum.

The present Exhibition is the first of a competitive nature held in Melbourne, and the second in Australasia, and all efforts have been directed towards making it a success. A large amount of money has been necessary to carry out this project, but, through the liberal support of philatelists and philatelic societies throughout the Commonwealth and New Zealand, ample funds have been provided. The Committee are highly pleased at the large number of entries, and they take this opportunity of thanking collectors and dealers for their whole-hearted support and co-operation.

Special Summer Clearance Sale

Following a time honored custom, I am offering certain lines at bargain prices that will move the goods. A * indicates an unused stamp; figures in ( ) are catalogue numbers. Catalogue price is given in first column and my SPECIAL NET PRICE is in the last column of figures.

TERMS, CASH WITH ORDER; first come, first served. I will accord 3% discount on orders over $20.00; 5% over $50.00; and 10% over $100.00, if made all at one time and accompanied by check. All prices are in U. S. money. I will fill orders as received, and return money if I am sold out previously. I shall run no ledger accounts, and issue no credit slips. Of many items I have only one copy, so it is well to send supplementary lists.

I say nothing about condition, because if you do not think any lot is worth the price I ask, you can return it and get your money back. So you run no risk whatever, no matter where you live. Remit by Money or Express order, or by check payable to Bertrand L. Drew, 7 Water St., Boston, Mass.

COLLECTIONS BY COUNTRIES

Only one lot of a kind advertised. These may contain either used or unused stamps or both. 19th century issues only as a rule, though an occasional early XXth will creep in. The quality is the best I've ever offered this way, which explains the prices.

I have many others which I shall offer to interested parties. I shall publish no general list, but will make special list (outside of those below) say of ten lots more for each applicant, which lots will be held until he has a chance to send for them; thus I think disappointment and confusion can be avoided. All lots are sold at value and offer a fine opportunity to fill up an old country, to start a new one, or to put away as an investment for your old age. First come, first served. No duplicates as a rule.

IF YOU HAPPEN to have any unused U. S. postage stamps from 1890 to 1917 I will take any quantity, and if in fine condition, will allow you a substantial premium on certain kinds.

I AM ANXIOUS to acquire U. S. revenues from 1898 to date, especially the high values—i. e., above $5.00. Would like a nice collection of them, but will take single specimens, and none will be refused at any reasonable price.

I HOLD AUCTION SALES OCCASIONALLY and have several wonderful surprises in that line to come next fall. Would you like a catalogue or two? Send address, please.

I HAVE recently acquired several collections and I now have a wonderfully complete line of NINETEENTH CENTURY FOREIGN, listing $10.00 or less. These are on sale at my office daily, or will be sent on approval from WANT LISTS if you'll send me yours. References, please, the first time. I do not handle XXth Century except by force of circumstances. Just at present I have a large collection of the issues 1890 I had to buy it to get the 19th, and this, too, is on sale at my office. Very moderate NET prices.

L'ANNIVERSAIRE DU TIMBRE-POSTE BELGE

VERJAARING VAN DE BELGISCHE POSTZEGEL.

(The Anniversary of the Belgian Postage Stamp.)

By JOSEPH WARD.

(Copyright 1921, by Joseph Ward.)

Les citoyens belges ont celebre hier le soixantedouzieme anniversaire du timbre-poste de leur patrie.

Le premier timbre poste de Belgique, de la valeur de dix centimes, fut authorise par l'Arrete Royal du 22 avril 1849, et fut mis en vente pour la premiere fois le Ier juillet, 1849.

Ce timbre fut emis en deux couleurs; brun gris et brun rouge; le dessin representait, au centre, la tete de Leopold Premier, Roi des Belges, avec au haut la legende "10 POSTES 10", et au bas les mots "DIX CENT".

Dans la primiere emission belge, le mot BELGIQUE ne se pas sur le timbre-poste.

July first, witnessed the seventy-second anniversary of the Belgian postage stamp, authorized by the Royal Decree of April 22nd, 1849, and placed on sale sixty-nine days later.

It is of interest to note that Belgium was the fourth European nation to adopt the system of postal prepayment by means of the adhesive label. Leopold I displayed from the first a keen interest in the postal reform movement of 1837-40. An interview between the King of the Belgians and the great postal reformer is duly recorded in "The Life of Sir Rowland Hill". In 1841, a Belgian official was sent to Britain to report on the operations of the new system.

The fact that it was not until 1849, that the Royal Decree was given to create a printing office, shows the caution and care which Leopold I exercised in national affairs. He waited to see how the new idea worked out. This was a characteristic of the King of the Belgians.

As mentioned before, it was on the 22nd of April that the Royal Decree was given and a contract concluded with Messrs. Jacques and Leopold Wiener, of Brussels, to organise a printing office and engrave and print national postage stamps. The honour (and the task as well) of making the matrix for the copper plate, fell to Jacques Wiener, an engraver of high merit.

The first stamps were two in denomination, but the same in design. The first, ten centimes, was of two shades of brown, a greyish and a reddish. The centre feature of design is the head and shoulders of the King of the Belgians. It is believed that the portrait of Leopold I, executed by Lievin de Winne, displayed in the Brussels Art Gallery, was the model used by the engraver. The legend over His Majesty's head reads: "10 POSTES 10", while the lower one reads "DIX CENT". One thing that catches the Philatelists' eye, or rather the absence of it, is the word BELGIQUE, which does not appear on these stamps. Leopold I is here pictured in the military uniform of the period.

The stamps were recess printed on handmade paper which was supplied by Messrs. Olin Freres, watermarked with two "L"s interlaced within an oblong frame. Of course they were issued imperforate. Indeed, we might say here that it was not until 1863 that the first perforated ones made their debut.

The dix (ten) centimes stamps was intended for single internal postage charges while the vingt (twenty) centimes label was for foreign or overweight internal letters. Over thirty kilometres was considered a long distance. The vingt centime value is known in both light and dark shades of blue.

Of Leopold I, we wish to say a word. He was the fourth son of Duke of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld, and Uncle of the late Queen Victoria. He was born at Coburg, December 18th, 1792. At an early age, he entered the Russian army. At the time of his marriage (1816) to Princess Charlotte, only child of George VI, Leopold was made Duke of Kendall. The Duchess died the next year.

CAPITOL LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

Just received a new supply of these albums from England. This is by far the finest album made, bound in green, blue or red, half morocco, containing fifty hand-made ivory card leaves, double linen hinged, size 9¾ by 10⅜ inches, with faint grey quadrille ruling, gilt edges, with Japanese tissue paper mounted on back of each leaf. Peg or patented fastening. Contained in a lamb's wool box, same color as binder.
Special Price, $12.50 Extra Leaves 15c each
I have other loose leaf albums from $3.00 up.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

On the 4th of June 1831, he was elected King of the Belgians, took oath of office and made his entry into Brussels July 12th of the same year.

His second marriage took place in the year 1832. The Queen was Princess Louise of Orleans, daughter of Louis Philippe I, King of the French.

During the time of his reign, nearly every country and state of Europe experienced some sort of turmoil, but his wise judgment and discretion not only guided the newly formed kingdom unshaken, but gave encouragement for the Belgians to exhibit proofs of their initiative, enterprise, and economic strength. It must be remembered that the first railway to exist on the Continent was constructed between Brussels and Malines. Fortifications were placed around Antwerp, and the internal commercial custom dues, "octrois" as they were called, were abolished in 1860. The Dutch tax on ships entering Antwerp were also abolished in 1863.

This anniversary of the introduction of the postage stamp finds, and we take great pleasure in saying it, Belgium slowly but surely recuperating from the war, but of course it will take years for her to attain the prosperous condition of eight years ago.

It is possible today for one to travel from Antwerp, across Belgium, to the French border, and see but few reminders of the advance of kultur. It was only a short time after the cessation of hostilities that Belgium started to rebuild their devastated country. Farms, lands, homes, industry, life, and everything that made Belgium an ideal country were wiped away in the destruction perfected by the Prussians. Yet these plucky people came back to their country and immediately started to rebuild. As a result of their efforts, we find today, for instance, the transportation facilities nearly what they were in the early days of 1914, despite the destruction of hundreds of miles of track, the dynamiting of bridges, and the confiscation of locomotives by the Huns. In a given week in the past year the repair shops handled forty locomotives, as compared with nineteen in 1913. The Department of Agriculture has been very active in stimulating the food supply, and its efforts are being felt. The industries thruout the country were running on full time in 1920, tho the strikes were not unfrequent and the cost of new material high. The unemployment is decreasing steadily as shown by the reduction in the public allowance for the unemployed. The H. C. L. is still a large item in the public eye: clothing, food, and articles of all kinds are high.

Belgium has been a good little friend to Philately: from the year 1849, when their stamps were first issued, and we say here that these stamps are known to have few equals for simplicity and beauty, and are valued by philatelists of early line engraved stamps, until the present day, the issues of the Kingdom have been well planned and the choosing of designs together with the workmanship employed has turned out philatelic gems.

The present rulers of Belgium, their Majesties King Albert I, and Queen Elizabeth, are enthusiastic stamp collectors and are deeply interested in the stamps of their country.

COMMUNICATIONS.

To The Editor:—

I notice with pleasure in your issue of May 14th, a letter from Mr. Steinmetz, suggesting that you publish a series of articles on U. S. Locals. I hope you will see your way to do this, as I am sure that there are a great many collectors, both in the States and Europe who would welcome them. Personally, I cannot understand why collectors have so long ignored these stamps, which are much more worthy of a place in the catalogues than many of the recent war issues. To start with, I suggest that you print week by week, a rehash of all the news and articles re the above stamps, which have appeared in the Weekly from the first number of its issue up to the present time. These would be sure to interest your more recent subscribers and could afterwards be issued in book form.

Perhaps you are not aware that at various times we have had some of the original plates or blocks, (or parts of same), from which various U. S. locals were printed, in this locality. Years ago, the late Stafford Smith told me that when he visited the States, somewhere in the seventies I believe, S. Allan Taylor gave him the plate, or part of same from which Floyd's local (Scott's L129) was printed. He said that he never had any reprints made and lost or mislaid the plate, so there is a chance of it turning up again over here even now. About 12 or 15 years ago, there was a man in this town who had a block of the Westervelt's local (L270), and also a woodblock like the Boyd's local, Scott's type L64. He had reprints made from these on pink, yellow, and various surface-coloured papers. I believe these blocks afterwards returned to the States. A local dealer still has a block from which Boyd's type L61 was printed.

It would be very interesting if you were to publish a list of the blocks and plates known to exist, and their present owners, also a list of those known to have been destroyed or defaced.

Hoping that the above information will prove of interest to you, and wishing your paper every success,

I remain,
Yours truly,
J. Curtis.

Hove, Sussex, England.

To The Editor:—

Enclosed is a clipping from the N. Y. Tribune that suggests the artist was once a collector. Mr. Hall's work has been appearing in the Tribune every Sunday for some time past but this is the first time he has mentioned stamps to my knowledge.

It would be interesting to get your readers' opinions as to whether or not it is ethical to take wholesale advertising from a firm that is offering stamps at a retail price but offering them in quantity. Not long ago a firm in the Weekly offered some stamps per ten sets at a price of more than double the retail price that I paid for the same stamps the same day. It seems to me and several others that this is done to catch young collectors who think they will become dealers.

Of course there is no objection to a firm offering stamps per one, per ten and per hundred as a few do, as it gives everyone a chance to see just what one is investing in.

I think a few remarks in the Weekly on this subject would do a lot of good, also a repetition of your remarks on the catalogue prices, being quoted when the price has been cut in Scott's Monthly Journal which has the same authority as the Standard Catalogue.

FERDINAND, THE BALKAN FOX.

By IVAN MATINCHEFF.

On June 2nd, five new stamps were issued which in significance, subjects, values and workmanship are a supplement to the war issue of 1917 (Yvert NN 109-116, 121, 124). The set, when completed in this manner, is one of the most handsome war sets that has come to light.

There are 4 varieties of 10st value. The stamps are as follows:—

(1.) The 1st 10 stotinki is claret in color and represents the "Ancient Bridge" near "Skopje" (a town in Macedonia). At the top is written "Kingdom of Bulgaria"; at the bottom are the figures "10" in each corner, with "stotinki" under it and "1915-1916" between them.

(2.) The 2nd 10 stotinki is also claret in color and is an upright view representing "Schar Mountain" (Macedonia). At the top is written "Bulgaria" and beneath the view—"War of Independence 1915-16", beneath it "stotinki" and at the corners "10".

(3.) The 3rd 10 stotinki is claret. It represents the map of Greater Bulgaria with the Portrait of Ex-Tzar Ferdinand in the centre. On the top is written "United" and at the bottom "Bulgaria". In the upper right hand corner is "1915-1916". Just above the map is inscribed Dobrudja (Bulgarian territory lost to Roumania), and in the lower "Macedonia" (Bulg. territory ceded by the Treaty of Neuieey to Servia and Greece). Under "United" in the upper left hand corner is "10st".

These values are a part of the War Set of 1917 which were printed in Germany, and having been held there by the armistice, and subsequent events were kept there until some time ago when they were forwarded to Bulgaria. The size, paper, gum, perforations and workmanship is the same as the rest of the set referred to. They are printed in single colours in sheets of 100 stamps of separate fifties with five horizontal rows of ten stamps each.

Philatelic papers have already chronicled that since a few months the 10st stamp in Bulgaria is sold out. On June 2nd, the National Bank issued the New 10st stamps, and 10,000 of each kind or 40,000 in all were sold out that day. A parcel of 10,000 stamps "Ferdinand Debar" was sold to the Central Post Office for sale to the public. The other 30,000, i.e., 10,000 each kind, were sold wholesale to tobacconists and others. Later in the day, an order was issued prohibiting the sale of the stamps with the Portrait of Ex-Tzar Ferdinand. Whether that was on account of the omission of official duties on the part of a state employe or the result of a diplomatic intervention, nobody can tell. Up to the time of writing this, the sale of "Ferdinand Dobrudja" and "Ferdinand Debar" has not been re-established. On the contrary, on the fourth day when tobacconists, etc., bought stamps, only 1000 of a (kind) value from the other varieties were allowed to each dealer. That was the cause for their going up in price. The same day the papers wrote that the stamps with the Portrait of Ex-Tzar Ferdinand will be surcharged with the Lion (like Servia 1903-4 the head of King Alexander). It is rumoured also that the Entente will prohibit the use of this set, some of the stamps bearing views from Macedonia, thus reminding the last War of Independence and the other—the Portrait of Ex-Tzar Ferdinand, the Balkan Fox, as the London Graphic called him on the eve of the war. The two varieties with the portrait of Ex-Tzar Ferdinand even now are considered as rare and have reached pretty high prices. And in case these varieties are surcharged, the ones without it will be a rarity.

NEWBAUER & Co.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST

This concern had been engaged in the match business in San Francisco for more than five years before its first order for a private die stamp was filled. The San Francisco directory for 1868-69 lists Newbauer & Co. as proprietors of the Metropolitan Match factory, which was located on the south side of Folsom, between 11th and 12th Streets. Mr. Herman W. Newbauer, who appears that year as a coal dealer, was the principal member of the firm of Newbauer & Co., and had his office at No. 121 Sansom, between Pine and Bush Streets, where his coal business and the office work of the match factory was conducted. In 1875 and later, Mr. Newbauer is not listed as in the coal business and the address of the Metropolitan Match factory is given as north side of Tennessee Street near Santa Clara in Potrero, his office then being at 206 Bush Street, San Francisco.

The firm of Newbauer & Co. is listed continuously up to 1886, although in 1882 to 1884 Mr. Newbauer himself does not appear. He does appear again in 1885 and 1886, and in that year the office of the Metropolitan Match factory was 205 Front Street. In 1887, the business appears under the title Metropolitan Match & Commercial Co., 205 Front Street, Herman W. Newbauer, President, S. Newbauer, Secretary.

A peculiar fact about the Newbauer stamps is noticed in what appears to have been a change in the size of the containers used by them after they commenced to employ the private die stamp. This occurs only as a 4c denomination and was used singly on boxes of more than 300 and not over 400 matches, and as a multiple stamp in strips of three on packages of 1200 matches.

We would expect to find the 4c general issue proprietary stamp of the first series used to pay the match tax by Newbauer and, although the writer does not recall having seen a specimen, quite possibly it exists. The 1c and 2c (blue) general issue proprietary stamps of the first series are well known with the Newbauer cancellation, which consists of the firm name and address in two lines of capitals and lower case letters, reading vertically—either upwards or downwards. The dates of November 15, 1866, February 14, 1867, April 15, 1867, and May 25, 1867, have been noted and probably there are many other dates of this printed cancellation. The 1c stamp, so overprinted, has not been seen by the writer in pair or larger multiple, and probably was used on a package of 100 matches, or less. The 2c stamp, so overprinted, may have been employed on a package of 200 matches, but this size package was so rarely put on the market that it would appear more likely the 2c stamp was used doubly on a 400 match package. However, if the latter supposition were true, we would expect to find this 2c stamp used in pairs; whereas, of the many specimens seen, in every case, they were single copies.

Regarding the private die stamps, the Boston book states:

Die approved, November 17, 1871.
First issued, February, 1872.
Last issued, April 25, 1883.
6,254,764 issued on silk paper.
14,672,829 issued on pink and watermarked paper.
170 stamps per sheet (17x10).

The design forms an upright rectangle measuring 20x26 mm.—the standard 4c size. A square in the center encloses a colorless circular band inscribed "U. S. Internal Revenue" above and N. & C. below with a simple scroll at either side of the latter initials. The spandrels are occupied by shaded trefoils. Within the circular band is a horizontally shaded disk bearing a diamond shaped panel inscribed "Metropolitan—Matches" in two curved lines above and below a central ornament. There are two small circles on the central disk, one resting on the upper point of the diamond panel and one touching its lower corner, each of them bearing a colorless numeral 4. At either side of these numerals, along the four sides of the diamond panel are acanthus scrolls. Outside the central square, across the top and bottom of the stamp are two straight marginal labels, the upper one being inscribed "Four Cents" and the lower one bearing the initials S. F., which stand, of course, for San Francisco.

Probably there were two or three plates, the first of which was engraved by Joseph R. Carpenter in Philadelphia, and the second and last of which quite possibly was a Bureau production. All the Newbauer stamps printed in Philadelphia were on silk paper. The next printing was by the National Bank Note Company, also on silk paper, and this was followed by National prints on pink and watermarked paper. Quite likely there was next an American print on watermarked paper, but stamps from it—if there were any—cannot now be identified. The last printing was made by the Bureau on watermarked paper. The Boston Book lists the stamp in both yellow, green and blue green on all three papers, and at the present time there is not sufficient information available to state which shades belong to which printings, except on the pink paper, as this paper was used only by the National Bank Note Company. The yellowish hue seems to be the commoner on silk paper and the bluish hue seems to be the commoner on the watermarked paper. The only specimens which the writer has been able to identify as being unquestionably Bureau prints are in the blue green color.

The stamp is well known to exist in strips of three—nearly always horizontal—and undoubtedly was so used as a 12c stamp. These strips are not particularly common. Both single specimens and those used in multiple are frequently found cancelled, apparently with a rubber stamp. The cancellation is seldom legible, but seems to consist of two lines, one of which is the firm name in capital and lower case letters, and the other is the word CANCELLED in capitals about 3/16 inch high. The cancellation is somewhat larger than the stamp and one stamp usually shows only part of one cancellation, or parts of several cancellations.

The Newbauer on pink paper has been a scarce stamp for twenty-five years and fine copies are not easy to obtain for much less than the catalog quotation. Fortunately for collectors many of the specimens in existence are unused and in a nice condition, quite frequently having gum. Sterling valued the pink paper at 50c in 1888, the silk and watermarked varieties at 15c each, but the Scott quotations give better indication of the relative scarcity of the pink paper. Scott quoted $2.50 in 1895, $3.00 in 1896, $5.00 in 1903 and is still quoting $5.00. The Scott figures on the silk and watermarked papers are unreasonable, unjust and worthless. They reduced the price of the silk paper variety from 10c to 5c in 1900, and have quoted it at 5c for twenty years. The raised the price of the watermarke variety from 10c to 20c in 1903, an jumped it to 50c in 1906, and 50c still remains. Instead of being te times as scarce as the silk paper, a their quotations indicate, the wate marked paper is not scarcer than th silk paper, and probably is not as scarc The watermarked paper was in us just as long on the Newbauer stam as the silk paper and the figures in th Boston Book indicate that the issue watermarked stamps was just abou twice as great as those on silk pape The silk paper was a better bargain double catalog from 1906 to 1920 tha the watermarked was at half catal during that period.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XXVIII.—NEWSPAPERS AND BOOK POST.

Newspapers, local and foreign, as well as magazines and books, are forwarded to all places in Newfoundland and the United Kingdom, at a special rate of 2 cents per pound; under four ounces, however, they pass free of postage within the colony. To Canada, the United States, France, etc., the rate is 1 cent for each 2 ounces.

Circulars, i.e., printed communications, when posted in lots of not less than ten, wholly alike and left open for inspection, are accepted for 1 cent for each 2 ounces.

The daily newspapers, allowing a joint daily circulation of 25,000 of which about a third pass through the mails, aggregate about 2,500,000 in a year. Adding to this, the weekly papers, official reports and pamphlets, all of which are handled free, as well as books and newspapers from abroad for which postage is paid, and those posted locally and re-posted locally, it is estimated that 5 million newspapers, pamphlets, and books pass through the G. P. O. yearly.

XXIX.—OFFICIAL (FRANKED) MAIL.

Letters on official business from, as well as to the Governor, the Members of the Executive Council, House of Assembly and Legislative Council, as well as Department heads in the Government service, are all carried free. The Post Office Department receives no credit for transporting this mail, and it has so increased during late years that the earnings of the Department have been considerably reduced to relieve other Government Departments, and outside associations.

XXX.—MONEY ORDERS AND POSTAL ORDERS.

The rate for Money Orders drawn in Newfoundland for payment in the Colony, Canada, and the United States, is 5 cents for each $10.00 up to $100.00, for which the charge is 50 cents. To the United Kingdom, for the first £2 the rate is 12 cents, the limit being £40, and the charge $1.95.

Within the island, much money is transmitted by telegraph. With the payment of the cost of two messages, and the usual Money Order commission, money may be telegraphed from St. John's to any outport Telegraph Money Order office, and vice versa. This is particularly helpful to the inhabitants of isolated settlements when trains and steamers are unusually delayed.

The following figures show the volume of Money Order business transacted by the island's post offices:—

	Amount Issued.	Amount Paid
1884	$ 124,631.99	$ 53,959.08
1889	225,843.95	118,469.13
1898	168,227.44	93,761.13
1909	543,684.40	531,891.59
1910	661,893.57	712,562.10
1911	765,209.71	817,817.37
1914	923,613.90	938,732.44
1915	871,344.28	921,295.95
1916	1,000,985.29	1,120,545.17
1917	1,172,420.24	1,384,459.34
1918	1,449,159.09	1,605,974.59
1919	1,921,038.26	1,909,444.32

Of the 213,296 orders issued and paid in 1919, the amount was apportioned as follows:—

	Amount Issued.	Amount Paid
United Kingdom,	$ 39,626.97	$ 16,287.70
Canda,	264,116.99	279,661.98
United States,	185,546.01	198,765.94
Newfoundland,	1,431,748.29	1,414,728.70
	$1,921,038.26	$1,909,444.32

British postal orders payable in the United Kingdom, may also be obtained at seven Post Offices in Newfoundland, varying in amounts from 1s to £1, the cost, including commission, being 27 cents and $4.93 respectively. During 1919, the postal orders issued amounted to $6,696.93.

(To be continued.)

SIX "DONT'S" FOR ADVERTISERS.

Don't build up the catalog value of a packet with such trash as punched Philippines stamps or Ecuador revenues. A satisfied customer is better than a single sale.

Don't offer any premiums for a certain number of "first" replies to your advertisements. There is an element of chance there that the postal authorities dislike. If the premium goes to every patron, "chance" disappears.

Don't reflect in any way upon the advertising of your competitor. Every tub should stand upon its own bottom, and your prices will speak for themselves. Buyers are cautious of dealers who seek to rise by riding rough shod over their neighbors.

Don't advertise a stamp with fiscal cancellation and quote catalog price for a postally used copy. Let alone the moral aspect, from a business standpoint, honesty is the best policy.

Don't advertise a stamp at the catalog quotation when the revised prices mark it down to a fraction of the original amount.

Don't wait until Wednesday to mail ad copy. Have it in our office Wednesdays.

These "don'ts" MUST be heeded.

EDITORIAL.

Four—The following letter has been received from the third assistant postmaster-general on the subject of the four cent stamped envelope overprinted 2c: "My dear Sir: On receipt of your letter, I directed that special attention be given your request for full information concerning the revaluation of 4c stamped envelopes. I find that 4c envelopes were inadvertently revalued and sold in the New Orleans post office. Investigation was made and it was found that such revalued envelopes were on hand in various post offices. It was then decided to revalue all the envelopes with New Orleans dies, and postmasters have been authorized to send their envelopes to that office for revaluing and return to be placed on sale." Attention is called to the statement in the foregoing letter "that such revalued envelopes were on hand in various post offices" but it may be that the plain four cent envelopes are the ones to which allusion properly should have been made. It is shown that the overprint on the four cent envelopes was applied at the New Orleans office and the officer who wrote us says nothing about the revaluing having been restricted to one size of the four cent envelopes, now retired, as we had it last week on the authority of the clerk at the Kansas City post office.

Prime—A dealer who called at our Chicago office recently showed us two impressive pieces: a block of six (3 horizontally by 2 vertically) of the 180 reis, italic issue of Brazil; and a block of fifteen (5 rows vertically by 3 horizontally) of the 600 reis, italic or second issue of Brazil. The block of 600 reis is pen-marked and the other block is postally canceled; and both pieces are in superb shape.

Wedding—The announcement of the marriage of Miss Marion Metcalfe to Mr. Harry L. Lindquist on June 25th, at New York, has been received. Until recently, Mr. Lindquist was a resident of Chicago where he labored with success in the philatelic vineyard. As publisher of the Collectors' Journal and of several philatelic hand-books, he enjoyed much esteem. If anyone deserves happiness, it is the man who ran a stamp paper for several moons; and we pelt Mr. and Mrs. Lindquist with good wishes.

Important—One of the questions that is asked us occasionally is that of the legal propriety of removing the revenue stamps from documents of the civil war period. While we have understood that there is no serious objection to taking the stamps off the documents yet we did not feel that we could definitely dispose of the subject without having the support of counsel, as it were. Recently, the inquiry has been made again and wishing to obtain information to the point, we submitted the question to Mr. H. W. Wolseley, certainly a competent judge. He was kind enough to allow us to trespass on his time and he has given the following opinion, which we have much satisfaction in publishing. "There is no doubt in my mind that there is no law forbidding the removal of the revenue stamps of the civil war period from documents by the owner of the documents, or with his consent. If a person not the owner, and not with his consent, removed such stamps, he could be prosecuted for injuring another's property, as in other cases. There being no such law, I do not think that you could find any law book discussing what does not exist. The only effect the removal of such stamps has, is to render the document inadmissible in evidence in the Federal Courts. The revenue law made them inadmissible in all courts. But some or all of the State Courts, including Illinois, held that Congress had no power to declare what was or was not admissible in evidence in the State Courts. I remember reading a decision to that effect by the Supreme Court of Illinois, admitting in evidence a deed from which the revenue stamps had been removed. I have no books here so I cannot refer you to the case but any lawyer in Chicago could look it up. If it had been a crime or misdemeanor to remove the stamps, I think that would have been argued against the admission of the deed. The only thing urged was that Congress had enacted that such a deed was inadmissible in all Courts; and that point the Court decided as I have before stated." We may add that Mr. Wolseley is now at his summer home in St. Joseph, Michigan.

It is only fair to say that Mr. Wolseley bases his observation solely on his memory of what he found some years ago and not from any special examination of works of reference. His letter was not intended for publication but in view of its interest, he has been persuaded to allow us to make public use of it.

Vacation—One of our famous collectors writes: "Some years ago I saw a picture showing the late lamented Harry Wesley Legg and Eustace Bertram Power fooling with a sheet of stamps under the broad canopy of heaven, as the political orator would say. The sylvan scene was impressed on my mind and now you say that a reader has written you 'from his lodge in the north woods' to impart a bit of news. I decided to try 'vacationing' with my stamps this year and my hearties, I find that it is the life. Did you ever try philately al fresco? A table, a chair, the album with the necessary appurtenances under a clean oak, where the zephyrs are not strong enough to disorder stamps or sheets; 'tis enow for pure delight. Most of my stamps I had never really seen before as it takes the strong light of day to bring out hidden detail. It is a treat to pursue philately in the open air and when the day is favorable I count it lost if its low descending sun sees no worthy stamp work done. (Fix up this last line, please)." There is a point brought out by our correspondent that sticks. It is decidedly advantageous to see one's stamps in the open where the details of design show forth pronouncedly.

First—In the year 1870, on the evening of the 28th day of May, the first auction sale of stamps ever held in the world took place in New York, under the auspices of J. W. Scott & Co., "dealers in foreign postage stamps." We quote from a journal of the time: "The sale was held in the elegant rooms of Messrs. Leavill, Strebeigh & Co., the well-known auctioneers, and in spite of the drizzling rain, which commenced falling quite heavily towards six o'clock, there was a very full attendance. The collections were on view throughout the day and were visited by a large number of people, who were busily engaged in making notes and marking their catalogues. Every prominent collector in New York and vicinity called during some part of the day, some taking a hack on foot between the showers; but the disagreeable weather compelled the greater part to use their carriages." The highest price realized for a single specimen was $11 for a 5c Hawaiian missionary, a stamp that the auctioneer "had received orders for as high as $9 and had eleven commissions to purchase it." A "set uncanceled, 1851, U. S. Revenue hesives brought $1.12." The 2r. green 1854, "Luzon" brought $5.00. Now we wonder what they will say of present-day auction prices fifty years hence.

THE MILWAUKEE CONVENTION.

By A. B. Rosenthal, Pub. Sec.

Milwaukee stamp collectors, fortified with an adequate treasury; are preparing to give the American Philatelic Society a memorable convention when the National gathering is held here from August 9th to 11th, 1921. The committees in charge of the affair have perfected their plans to such a degree that it is now possible to outline with pretty fair accuracy the program of the convention.

The convention will open Tuesday, morning, August 9th, at 10 A. M., in the club room of the Hotel Pfister, with an address of welcome by Mayor Daniel W. Hoan. His address will be followed by a business session which will last until noon. In the afternoon we shall have on display at our Public Museum (a building which is in itself a beautiful structure) a display of stamps which we feel will prove a genuine treat to visitors. Milwaukee has some famous collections and their owners have promised to use their choicest specimens for the exhibit. The place of the display is within easy reach of the Hotel Pfister, which will be the convention headquarters. For the evening of August 9th, 1921, it is hoped to have a stamp auction by one of the well known specialists in this undertaking.

On Wednesday, August 10th, the entire convention will be transferred from Milwaukee to Waukesha Beach, a famous summer resort on Pewaukee Lake, about 20 miles away from Milwaukee. It is planned to leave Milwaukee early enough so that when we arrive at Waukesha Beach there will be time for a morning business session. This will be followed by a chicken dinner and in the afternoon there will be games, contests, swimming and a boat trip around Pewaukee Lake. After our return to Milwaukee in the evening we hope to have a Stamp Bourse at the convention headquarters.

Wednesday, August 11th, will open with the business session which is expected to last through the morning. In the afternoon there will be an auto ride around Milwaukee and its beautiful environs, and in the evening there will be a banquet at some suitable place. This will close the convention.

The Hotel Pfister, the headquarters of the convention, is a fine hotel, centrally located with reference to railroad, interurban and steamship terminals, and only a few blocks away from Lake Michigan, whose cool winds make Milwaukee delightful during the summer time. The hotel rates are reasonable. Reservations should be made as far in advance as possible. They may be sent directly to the hotel or to A. B. Rosenthal, 1012 First National Bank Bldg., Milwaukee, Wis., who will see that they reach the hotel.

Milwaukee is famous the country over as a convention city. For example, the 1922 convention of the Associated Ad Clubs of the World will be held here. In recent years we have housed the National Educational Association conventions and the National convention of the American Bar Association, to mention only a few notable gatherings. In fact, for its size, Milwaukee has more conventions than any other city in the country. We have been assured the co-operation of the Association of Commerce and related organizations with convention facilities so that nothing which good will and earnest efforts can accomplish will be left undone.

Milwaukee itself is an extremely beautiful city—an unusual combination of a mighty industrial center and a place of beautiful homes. It has a population of 500,000. It is situated on Lake Michigan, on a bay of singular beauty. It is also in the midst of a region of small lakes all of which are easily accessible, and some of them are famous watering places. It is the home of more varied industries than any other city in the country and some of its plants are among the largest in the world. It has beautiful parks and fine public buildings. We are sure that you will enjoy us.

You may come to Milwaukee by rail or if you wish, you may break the journey at Chicago and come by boat or by electric railway. There will be daily boat service between Chicago and Milwaukee during the convention time, and the electric railway is one of the finest in this country.

THE FERRARY SALE.

Cable despatches state that $100,000 was realized in the first day's sale of the Ferrary collection. Thursday, June 23, was the day, and many prominent collectors and dealers representing England, America and Italy were present.

The highest price realized was $12,000 paid for a vertical pair of 2c black on pink British Guiana 1850. The next highest price was paid for a 2c Hawaiian missionary, which brought $9,000.

THE COLLECTOR.

I cannot see the sky so blue,
But it reminds me of the hue
Of some stamp I have seen somewhere
In some collection, quaint and rare.
I cannot see the grass so green,
But I'm reminded of the sheen
Of some stamp I have stored away—
And thus it goes from day to day.
The birds, the flowers, the humming bees,
The leaves that flutter in the trees,
The sunset's gold, the purple haze,
The moss-green trunks on woodland ways,
The twilight's rosy afterglow,
The moonlight white on drifted snow.
Such things as these will bring a hint
Of some strange stamp with gleam and glint;
And so I love old Nature more
For all the pleasures held in store,
For all things hold a glad surprise
When viewed through a collector's eyes.

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to

A FEW SUGGESTIONS.

Inclose return postage on all orders of less than 50c, or letters of inquiry. Ordinary courtesy demands it.

Don't wait a month before answering ads and expect the dealer to have the goods wanted.

Don't send unused stamps for remittances of over 50c. The dealer loses at least 5% in cashing, say nothing of bother. They are not legal tender.

Don't expect (unless specifically stated) you are to get picked copies at ordinary "as they run" prices and the other fellow take the "left overs".

Remember if you send for approval goods, every day you retain them in your possession may lose a sale to someone else. Be prompt with returns. You expect the dealer to fill orders promptly.

Please consider the stamp business today as a real business, calling for business ability and capital, and like all businesses deserves a fair return. Co-operation between dealer and collector is absolutely necessary, neither can do without the other. [eow2

UNITED STATES.—In my Chronicle for last week mention was made of the fact that the department had instructed certain postmasters to send their stock of the 4c Grant envelopes to New Orleans to be overprinted. These instructions were promptly complied with and a great many of the offices have received their overprinted stock from New Orleans. Mr. W. S. Fishel is among the first to send a copy for inspection, his copy having been purchased at Harrisburg. We would appreciate copies from any of the other offices having them on sale.

Mr. A. W. Filstrup writes to inform us that the little town of St. Joseph, Mich., recently had on sale a package of the 2c engraved stamps containing the 5c errors. This stock had been in a bank vault for some months and the error was not discovered until a lady turned an error back saying she had asked for a 2c stamp, not a 5c. Sad to relate, the stock was gone by this time.

The main items in the well advertised Meredith correspondence were sold by the J. M. Bartels Co. on June 18th and a few of the prices realised may prove of interest. The choice piece of the lot, a buff cover with the Philadelphia carrier (Scott's C31) in one corner in blue and (C32) in red in the other sold for $127.00. A copy of the rose Philadelphia carrier No. 1857 with a broken "H" resembling "II" sold for $66. Dr. Woodhouse, the finder of this correspondence, purchased for $75.00 what is probably the most unusual item in the sale, namely a heretofore unknown local, a "Morton's Post 5 Cts." on cover from Port Penn to Philadelphia. The three 5c black New York covers sold for $25.50, $20.25 and $18.50 respectively. The 5c 1847 on covers changed hands at from $3.40 to $13.40. The 1c 1851 on cover from the cracked plate sold at $11.50, Eagle carriers averaged around $2. A blue Baltimore of the eye type sold for $48.00, while a black horseman cancelled in blue used in connection with a 3c 1851 brought the record price of $21.50. Philadelphia gold on black No. 1863 used on cover, although not cancelled, in connection with the 3c 1851 orange brown brought from $7.50 to $29.00 each.

In a Philadelphia sale held about the same time 379 lots each consisting of one 3c 1851 cover sold at prices averaging about $1 per cover. A Phila. & Balt. R.R. sold for $3, a Richmond R.R. at $5, a U.S. Express, New York at $2, a Covington Te., in gray green at $2.75, a Northbridge Center in orange at $5.10, and so on down the line. Of the specimens off cover a superb mint 24c 1869 sold at $15.25, while a pair of the 2c imperforate coil from the rotary press, Scott's No. 370i sold for $13.00, the first auction price that we have recorded on this rare variety.

Mr. W. A. Langdon sends for inspection some very interesting freaks of the current 1c and 2c stamps caused by the sheets being partly folded before being printed or before being perforated. In the former class we note a block wherein an entire corner of the sheet has been folded over so that one entire stamp appears on the back. Of the latter we find the 2c Pilgrim from the end of the sheet imperf. at the left, others shown the perforations diagonal, double, etc. It has been some little time since we have had the pleasure of seeing such a lot.

The same gentleman informs me that he found, and has sent one for inspection, 27 copies of the 2c circular die envelope in red with the 1c circular die in green embossed over it. The envelope is a size 3 white, watermarked 20 with a low back, and the green and red impression is most attractive. Such a variety as this in my humble opinion is worthy of catalogue rank.

We wish to thank Messrs. Leslie A. Boone, H. A. Thatcher and H. W. Porter for notes of interest.

ALEXANDRIA, (French P. O.).—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us the following French Alexandrian stamps surcharged for use as above: "2 Mill." on 5c, "3 Mill." on 3c, "4 Mill." on 10c, "5 Mill." on 1c, the same on 4c, "6 Mill." on 15c, "8 Mill." on 20c, "10 Mill." on 25c, "12 Mill." on 30c, "15 Mill." on 2c, "15 Mill." on 40c and the same on 50c. All surcharges are in black and a recent issue of Stamp Collecting also adds to the list 30m on 1fr, 60m on 2fr and 150m on 5fr.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman has sent us a copy of the 20c parcel post stamp in a bright green shade. Regarding the 50c stamp issued in commemoration of the Philatelic Exposition at Brussels, Mr. Hooreman advises that this was printed on strong fine paper especially for the Exposition, and sheets exist with the following numbers: 1, 2, 3, 4 and 6.5 never was issued. This stamp will be re-issued later along with the entire new set on ordinary paper and in sheets of 400, and it is expected it will be far less beautiful than the first printing. This first issue was 10,000 sheets of 25 each, a total of 250,000, and was almost entirely bought by eager visitors who received one sheet each the first day, which was later increased to 10 and then reduced to 5. Prices on these sheets have rapidly increased from 40 and 60 francs until they are now bringing 100 francs per sheet. On one of the sheets the second stamp shows a crooked "C" but other than this very few varieties exist.

CHINA.—We learn from official sources that the Commemorative stamps to be issued towards the end of the year will be the same size as the Commemorative stamps of 1912 and that the main feature of the designs will consist of the portraits of the President of the Republic (H. E. Hsu Shih-chang), the Premier (H. E. Chin Yun-peng) and the M of Communications (H. E. Yeh cho), in addition to which there ears of corn with a conventional No information as to colours is ye able.

We have seen several differe sions published of the Chinese insc on the Famine Relief stamps, we fore addressed an enquiry to the Postal Commissioner, who infor that the correct translation is "Or for Famine Relief Fund is herew lected."—Whitfield King's Month

DENMARK.—Mr. W. T. Wils shown us the 10ö of the commem set mentioned in issue No. 1558 color is green and shows the vie castle in the centre with "1920" j low. The name of the country is the top and the figures of value lower corner with "ore" in thin type between. Mr. Wilson also s a copy of the current Official sta in green color.

GERMANY.—Mr. J. L. Riedel h mitted to us copies of the 10pf an of the recently mentioned set. colors are olive and bright green tively.

GUATEMALA.—A contract ha placed with Messrs. Waterlow & Ltd., London, for the supply of series of postage stamps for this lic, ranging from 2 centavos to 1 and including an entirely new den tion—viz., 15 pesos black and Some of these will be pictorial and portraits.—Whitfield King's List.

MEMEL.—Mr. J. L. Riedel advis three new provisionals have ap 3m on 60cts lilac, 20m on 45cts gre 10m on 5frs blue. On these three "Mark" is written with a capital stead of "m" as before.

NEW HEBRIDES.—The Economist Co. have shown us the followi visionals of this colony. The 5 green stamp of 1911 issue has bee printed "1d" and also "10c." violet on yellow has the su "20c," while the 40c red on yellow "05c" and "2d" respectively. Th have five new provisionals to li surcharges are in black.

NYASSA.—The "fine new set" shadowed in our February 19th is now been received at the Centr reau of the Postal Union. It co eighteen values, and it transpir only five have a new subject—i. portrait of Vasco da Gama—the having camels, zebra, and giraffe the 1911 series.—Stamp Collectin

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

BERMUDA.—The second Tercentenary set has been issued, and is a decided improvement over the first more or less crude attempt. The new set is beautifully engraved, the design about a millimetre smaller than the first set. The King's portrait appears in the centre, so that the stamps do not have the unbalanced appearance of the first set. Surrounding the medallion, in a circular band are the words "Tercentenary of Establishment of Representative Institutions"; above, "Bermuda"; below, "½d Postage ½d"; at left, "1620"; right, "1920". The spandrels contain the distinguishing decorations: upper left, the "Sea Venture"; upper right, coat-of-arms; lower left, the sword; lower right, the gavel.

The writer has received the ¼d, ½d, 2d, 3d and 1sh, which are colored as are the same values of the preceding set; and the 4d red on yellow, 6d violet-red. The 1d and 2½d were not included in the consignment, but have probably been issued by this time. The ¼ and ½d are on the new paper, but the other values are on the regular CAC. The 1d and 2½ of the 1910-19 set have been issued on very thick paper.

CARINTHIA.—Another plebiscite set ascribed to this region has arrived, twenty values in all, tete-beche, se-tenant, bicolors, surcharges, 'n everything. I do not know anything of the bona-fides of the set, and am frank to say that they look peculiar, but they exist, and may be as good as the rest of the plebiscite issues

The lower values are 19½x28½ mm., perf. 12. There are two designs, that of the 5, 15, 30, and 50 heller being a human hand, palm outward, with the thumb, index, and second fingers upright, the other two fingers touching the palm. This is an utterly impossible feat unless the second finger slants forward at an angle of about 35°! The hand is enclosed in a solid oval, with the date 1920. Outside the oval is the inscription "Volksabstimmung Karnten Heller 5 Heller". The second design exhibits the arms of Carinithia, three lions passant per pale dexter; sinister chief and base, bars gules; sinister flank, argent. The figures of value in this design are placed in the spandrels, except in the two surcharged varieties, in which the figures are obliterated by floreate ornaments, and the figures appear above and below the oval. The 10, 20, 25 on 20, and 40 on 20h have this design. Furthermore, the 40/20, 25/20, 5, 30, 20, and 50, are printed se-tenant in a block of six, two horizontal rows of three, with 5mm. gutters between the vertical pairs.

The higher values are pictorials, and such values as I have received in complete sheets are mostly in tete-beche sheets of four. The 80h and 90h are oblongs, 33½x22½ design a landscape of lake and mountains. The krone values are a trifle larger, 36x24 mm.

The 10K, 15K, and 20K are upright rectangles, 23½x36½ mm. The first two of these are printed se-tenant. The picture is that of a church in a mountain valley, with high Alps in the distance. The frame is a cone and pine needle motif.

5h purple and blue-green. (Hand.)

A FINE PICTURE OF LINCOLN.

Henry C. Kendall sends us a picture of President Lincoln which he affirms is unusually true to life. It was made by one Alex Hesler and the date of it is 1860. It was taken when Mr. Lincoln was in his prime and as Mr. Kendall writes us "before his face showed the care and anxiety caused by the war". Mr. Kendall also adds:— "It seems to be the least known and the least used of all the Lincoln pictures".

We need a 14c stamp for special delivery and registration upon a double rate letter. Suppose we write the Department at Washington and ask for a 14c Lincoln stamp with portrait of Lincoln by Hesler.

15h carmine and chocolate. (Hand.)
20h brown-orange and ultra. (Arms.)
25 on 20 h blue and dk. violet-red, black schg. (Arms.)
40 on 20 h violet-red and carmine, black schg. (Arms.)
30h yellow-green and brown-orange. (Hand.)
50h blue-green and yellow-green. (Hand.)
80h chocolate and carmine. Tete-beche foot to foot.
90h orange and olive.
1K violet-brown. Landscape. Frame design of wild roses. Tete-beche foot to foot.
1½K blue-green and yellow-orange. Design same as the 80h and 90h, but larger. Frame as in the 1K.
2K ultramarine. Tete-beche foot to foot. Design as in the 1K.
2½K yellow-green. This is the 2K printed in changed color, and surcharged 2½Kr. Tete-beche as the 2K.
3K brown-red and bistre, another lake scene. Ivy frame.
4K violet and carmine. Church and castle. Laurel frame.
5K red-brown and blue-grey. Design of 4K.
7½K vermilion. The 2Kr. in changed color, surcharged.
10K blue and green-blue. Church and mountains. Pinecone frame. Se-tenant with the 15K, the 10K at left, the 15K right.
15K brown-carmine and light grey.
20K red-brown and violet. Tete-beche head to head.

The color of the frame is given last. All values appear to be typographed, at least in part, though the frames of the higher values may be lithographed. The six values which appear se-tenant must have gone through the press no less than eight times, yet the register is perfect, showing conclusively that much care has been taken in their production. The eight low values have a small rectangle beneath the frame which contains the initials K H, apparently, but these are very indistinct. The remaining values show no engraver's marks.

SARRE.—The writer's predictions regarding Sarre surcharges on the pictorial set have become only too true. The whole array, except the two lower values, has received this treatment, the new values being in centimes and francs. It is expected that the pictorials will appear shortly with the French values an integral part of the design.

3c on 20pf, red schg.; 5c on 25pf, red schg.; 10c on 30pf, blue schg.; 15c on 40pf; 20c on 50pf, red schg.; 25c on 60pf; 30c on 80pf; 40c on Mk. 1; 50c on Mk. 1.25; 75c on Mk. 2; 1 Fr. on Mk. 3; 2 Fr. on Mk. 5; 3 Fr. on Mk. 10; 5 Fr. on Mk. 25. Where not otherwise mentioned, the schg. is blue.

The entire set has now arrived, and the localities pictured are those named in the issue of June 4. The design of the 25 Mk. is a night view of a blast furnace and open-hearth establishment. It is much larger than the other stamps of the set, being 32x38 mm.

To Start New Customers on the Right Track

I offer any one of following U. S. postage stamps, average copies, not superb, but good enough for anyone not too critical—at $5 per stamp or the 5 for $24.00.

5c 1847; 24c, 30c 1857; 90c 1861; 24c 1869

These are not common stamps, and are missing in a great many collections, as only limited number of each to offer; better get your order in today.

I am selling slightly damaged, rare U. S. such as 10c 1847, 90c 1857, 90c 1868 (grilled), 90c 1869, good lookers, but have defects, at considerably less than perfect copies come at. If interested, tell me which ones you require and will be glad to submit copies at best net prices.

Have 2 or 3 copies of 1851, 5c perfect, at $20.00 each. This is a hard stamp to find.

Also have few sets U. S. Columbian dollar values, used or unused, which will be glad to send on approval.

BRUSSELS STAMP EXHIBITION.

By Albert H. Harris.

Arriving in Brussels, I repaired, after a hurried dinner, to the Hotel Scheers, to attend the Exhibition meeting of L'Amicale Philatelique, the most important philatelic society in Belgium. About sixty were present, and the President, M. Pulinckx, very kindly introduced me in a little speech of welcome. The chief attraction of the evening was a brisk auction conducted by M. D'Hollander, who knocked down 120 lots in about an hour with great good humor.

To-day, May 26, after great preparations, everyone hastened to the Palais d'Egmont for the opening of the Exhibition at 2.30 p.m. Before that hour a large crowd had gathered in the spacious courtyard of this famous palace. Meanwhile, in an adjoining café I made the acquaintance of M. Bigwood, President of the Federated Belgian Philatelic Societies and of the Exhibition, who very kindly facilitated my entrance and invited me to be present at all the functions of the week.

Opening Ceremony.

At 2.45 the opening ceremony was performed by M. Xavier Narjean, Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, who expressed his pleasure at the excellence and thoroughness of the exhibits. It was sometimes suggested, he said, that stamp collecting was merely a craze, but to his mind it had become a science, and was certainly a hobby which not only gave much pleasure, but from which one could learn a good deal. With the Minister of Posts were Mme. la Comtesse d'Oultremart, General Tombeur (of Congo fame), M. Hooreman, president d'Honnour, and M. M. Adolphe Max, the gallant Burgomaster of Brusselles, and now Minister of State. M. Max, be it noted, is himself a stamp collector—I had it from his own lips.

The Exhibits.

This is a National Exhibition, and pride of place is given to Belgian stamps. The most notable collection is undoubtedly that of M. Paul de Smeth, a well-known Belgian philatelist with whom I had the pleasure of discussing his own exhibit. All plate varieties, retouches, etc., are clearly classified and shown by enlargements, including the new discovered "jabot blanc" of the first issue, of which only the one copy shown is yet known. In this variety, the tie or ruffle of King Leopold is almost entirely white and unshaded. Blocks and strips of all issues abound.

M. Pierre Malou has a fine collection also, but not so specialised. He has shaded the early issues extremely well. Of 1866-7 an imperf. block of ten of the 1c black is here shown.

M. Bank has a particularly nice collection of early German and Dutch in pairs on entires. Luxemburg first issue strips on entire are also notable pieces.

Entires used during the German occupation are shown in great profusion by several exhibitors, and while interesting, can only be regarded as on a par with British War covers, which are not sought after outside Great Britain.

M. Maingay, the indefatigable secretary, shows a collection of Holland which, on a first visit, strikes one as being the most thoroughly philatelic exhibit, inasmuch as it is fully and beautifully written up by himself. To-morrow I promise myself the treat of going over this more thoroughly. As all the notes are in English, we may hope to see this is London in 1923. I am told it is the best in the country.

Another notable collection is that of Belgian Congo belonging to M. Kuck. M. de Smeth informed me that it is the most complete in the world, including all known errors, arranged philatelically and without "bloating." M. Kuck also shows Belgian imperf. 1849 to 1866, 210 singles and pairs, of which 58 are "Epaulettes," and a collection of Belgian obliterations (on the stamps) with full attention to the Railway stamps, of which I counted over 60 sheets.

M. Lafontaine is to be congratulated upon his fine showing of French, including all the tete-beches in pairs. He has 31 frames and hardly a stamp that is not a perfect copy.

British stamps are represented only by M. Heller (Brussels), who shows quite a good reconstructed sheet of used "Penny Blacks," and the same in imperf .Penny Reds. Comte Philippe de Renesses shows Sicily, a fine lot, with many entires, pairs and blocks, although no larger ones. Retouches have been given some recognition, but not a great deal. M. Stuyek has gone in wholesale for Holland and shows the six different plates for the first issues 5c., the ten plates of the 10c., and the plate of 15c., a total of nearly 3,000 stamps. A block of 25 of an essay for the 5c., engraved by Weiner in 1851, adds interest to this exhibit.

Space does not permit full allusion to the many other interesting articles, but mention must be made of M. de Beer's frames of rare stamps of Belgium, France, and Holland. Epaulettes with double impression, tete-beches, and rare shades in blocks here abound.

Special Post Office.

The special Post Office was besieged on opening and people were still standing ten deep when I left to write this report. The stamps on sale were the new 50c in sheets of 25 (see our last issue) and the Belgian Congo stamps lately returned by the Germans, which have been overprinted with new values in red. To place them on sale first at the Stamp Exhibition is a form of compliment better appreciated on the Continent than in England. The three postal officials were most courteous and obliging, but the man with the special obliteration had to rest for sheer fatigue.

Nearly 1,000 people have paid 5 francs (or 6 francs for a season ticket) to-day —a fine tribute to the manner in which the Exhibition has been made known.—Philatelic Magazine.

ORIGINALS AND REPRINTS.

By DONALD E. EASTLAKE.

Did we get any contributions after the first rendition of the "Colyum"? Uh, huh, we did, and the very first one was from friend wife!

She was just "crazy" over that "Colyum", so we are afraid that maybe we said too much about her—anyway, she hates to be referred to as "friend wife."

* * *

After she read it over, she said, "I thought this was to be a Philatelic Column, but you have put in more matrimony than stamps!"

* * *

"We made a mistake then", we scintillated "because a 'Colyum' is always supposed to be humorous."

* * *

How was that for a corrugating reply? She did not have another thing to say.

* * *

But she wrote several words and opinions into a poem and dared me not to publish it. So here is the poem by friend wife.

BAH!

My Hubby sits
Up all night long
With paper bits
From far Hong Kong;
I know these stamps,
I know them well,
They're worse than vamps
That come from—well,
All I can say is
Bah!

His pay all goes
For blocks of four,
His Album grows
But he wants more!
Mint stamps, war stamps,
Space fillers, too,
Old stamps, rare stamps,
Stamps that are new!
All I can say is
Bah!

He does not send
A reference,
The dealers bend
With reverence
To catch his coin,
They're quick, oh my,
He's tenderloin
And apple pie,
All I can say is
Bah!

Some stamps are grilled,
Some perf. machine,
The air is filled
With strong benzine,
A lithograph,
Flat plate or coil,
It makes me laugh,
Such needless toil.
All I can say is
Bah!

Torn hinges here
Torn hinges there,
I shed a tear,
They're ev'rywhere;
Stock book, gauges,
Magnifiers,
Extra pages,
Silly pliers,
All I can say is,
Bah!

He should retire
Up to his bed,
But thoughts so dire
Aren't in his head;
Watermarks or Perforation,
Curses dark, sir,
Aggravation,
All I can say is
Bah!

K. Lindsay of Chester, Penna., advertises that he wants to exchange stamps for 5c U. S. Pilgrims, and he failed to state whether or not the Pilgrim was to be unused. We were tempted to send him a cancelled copy, but were afraid it would be carrying a joke too far. We have mean thoughts sometimes!

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

J. M. Bartels Co., 116 Nassau St. (note new address), N. Y. City, has sent us a review copy of the auction catalog of the July sale of the Marken und Ganzachenhaus. It is a mammoth book of 300 pages with illustrations of 2000 rare stamps including blocks and covers. The price is 75c and the book is obtainable from the Bartels Co. It is a credit to the trade and will be worth the price asked.

EXTRA QUALITY.

All postmasters are directed to request clerks at stamp windows to invite the special attention of purchasers to the fact that the department provides stamped envelopes in a fine grade of white paper to meet the needs of patrons who desire to use them. The high tensile strength of the paper used in "Extra quality" envelopes also makes them adaptable for use in transmitting bulky correspondence consisting of valuable papers, or any other matter which seems to require greater protection than is afforded by the envelopes of ordinary strength. "Extra quality" envelopes are especially recommended as a cover for registered mail..—Department Order.

THE LOUISIANA LAW STAMPS.

By FRANK L. APPLEGATE.

The legal history of Louisiana is peculiar in that she has had eight constitutions since the adoption of the first one in 1812. The constitution of 1879 contained the following articles:

Article 145.—"The General Assembly, at its first session after the adoption of this constitution shall enact a fee-bill for clerks of the various courts, including the city courts sitting in New Orleans, and for the civil and criminal sheriffs, constables, register of conveyances and recorder of mortgages of said parish. In the same act provision shall be made for a system of stamps or stamped paper for the collection by the State, and not by said officers, of such fees and charges, so far as clerks of courts, register of conveyances and recorder of mortgages are concerned."

Article 146.—All fees and charges fixed by law for the various courts of the Parish of Orleans, and for the register of conveyances and the recorder of mortgages of said parish shall enure to the State, and all sums realized therefrom shall be set aside, and held as a special fund out of which shall be paid by preference the judicial expenses of the Parish of Orleans; provided that the State shall never make any payment to any sheriff, clerk, register of conveyances, or recorder of mortgages of the Parish of Orleans, or any of their deputies, for salary or other expenses of their respective offices, except from the special fund provided for by this article, and any appropriation made contrary to this provision shall be null and void."

Under the previous constitution all the officers enumerated in these articles were allowed to charge certain fees. These fees were high and the receipts of the offices were large. For instance, the office of civil sheriff was at one time estimated to be worth one hundred thousand dollars, as all delinquent taxes were collected and all sales of property delinguent for taxes were made by the sheriff. In order to divert the major part of these fees to the State treasury these provisions were inserted in the constitution of 1879.

As required, the General Assembly (Legislature), passed an act April 10, 1880 (Act No. 136), part of which reads, "It shall be the duty of the Governor, and Auditor of Public Accounts of this State immediately after the passage of this act to prepare or cause to be prepared suitable stamps corresponding in amount with the fees as provided by this act and to cause such number as may be necessary to be engraved or lithographed, to carry out the provisions of this act."

Hence, although the use of the stamps was limited to the Parish of Orleans, they are what they purport to be, Louisiana Law Stamps, and not New Orleans law stamps as has been claimed by some. They were issued under State authority, the money going directly into the State treasury, hence, are as much state issues as they would be had their use extended to the whole State.

Before the next Constitutional Convention was called in 1898, the fees collected by stamps had shrunk to such an extent that they were not sufficient to cover the salaries required to be paid by them; consequently, the whole system of collecting fees was again revised and the stamps abolished.

The stamps which are in seven denominations and in two designs were engraved and printed by the American Bank Note Company. The cent values bear the portrait of Louis A. Wiltz, first governor of Louisiana under the constitution of 1879, and president of the convention which framed it. Above the portrait on an arched label is the word "Louisiana"; below it are the words "Law Stamp," at the sides the denomination in words, all in colorless Roman capitals. The figures of value are in circles just below the upper corners. At the base of the stamp is a trefoil outline enclosing a pelican and young. Ornamental work fills in the design. The dollar values contain the portrait of Chief Justice Edward Bermudaz, who assumed office as such on the first Monday of April, 1880. Hanging suspended over the head of the chief justice is the trefoil, much as the crown hangs over King Edward in some of the postage stamps of Great Britain. Above on a Gothic arched label are the words "Louisiana Law Stamp" in colorless Roman capitals. The values appear in all

WHO WANTS A SIDE-LINE

1 That was printed by the United States Government sixty years ago and contains hundreds of varieties.
2 That in variety of color and shape cannot be equalled by any country or issue.
3 That is listed by Scott and has not advanced in catalogue price since way before the war and the coming of the "High cost of stamp collecting".
4 That is more nearly possible to complete than any other United States line—cost per variety compared.

Next week, I will tell you what that line is, if you cannot guess, and I will recommend it as the most fascinating line that can be taken up.

CAPITOL LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

Just received a new supply of these albums from England. This is by far the finest album made, bound in green, blue or red, half morocco, containing fifty hand-made ivory card leaves, double linen hinged, size 9¾ by 10⅝ inches, with faint grey quadrille ruling, gilt edges, with Japanese tissue paper mounted on back of each leaf. Peg or patented fastening. Contained in a lamb's wool box, same color as binder.

four corners of the stamps in figures and in words at the extreme base.

Although these stamps were used in large quantities over a period of eighteen years, the colors are quite constant, except in the case of the browns of the 10c and $1.00 stamps which run to shades. The texture of the paper and the color of the gum vary considerably.

1880. Engraved, white wove paper. Perforated 12. 24x30 mm.

5 cent vermilion.
10 cent dark brown.
25 cent bluish green.
50 cent dark blue.
$1.00 yellow brown.
$2.50 maroon.
$5.00 black.

No information is at hand as to the number of stamps to the sheet, but the sheets bore the imprint "American Bank Note Company, New York" in very small Roman capitals, one mm. high, the entire inscription being but 32 mm. long, and but two mm. from the stamps, so close that it sometimes shows on the margin of single stamps. I have seen it on the top and right hand margins.

Many of the stamps still remain on court files, but the majority of specimens are disfigured by a punch cancellation. Unused they are exceedingly scarce, as the Legislature of 1898, by resolution, instructed a committee to destroy by burning, all stamps remaining on hand which was carried out to the letter.

Proofs of all values exist on India paper, all in the stamp colors with the exception of the 50 cent proof, which is a rather light ultramarine, unknown in the issued stamp.

In looking up the legal aspects of both the lottery and the law stamps, I have been helped materially by Mr. W. O. Hart of New Orleans, who was a member of both the constitutional convention of 1898 and of 1913, and the author of a book dealing with the constitutional history of Louisiana.

A POST OFFICE WAR.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

Nineteen hundred and twenty-one marks the seventieth anniversary of a colorful episode of frontier life in Wisconsin which aroused such animosities and hatreds in the two communities concerned that for years, even two and three generations removed from the event itself, it was thrashed over in heated dispute and still bids fair to be a subject for discussion in the winter afternoon gatherings of those who are now "the old timers" in the regions in question, for many a year to come.

In 1851, Prairie du Sac and Sauk City, now prosperous villages grown together, were straggly little river towns built somewhat over a mile apart on the right bank of the Wisconsin River, a little over a day's distance by boat from where it joins the Mississippi.

Both had grown up on Indian village sites. A trading post had been erected in their vicinity in the early French days. The sites being excellent, it was only natural that with the coming in of home-seekers, settlements should grow up on them. In some way, Sauk City was settled almost exclusively by Germans, chiefly revolutionists of '48, while Prairie du Sac, notwithstanding its French name, was almost to a man peopled by New Englanders. The two elements got on together none too well.

The first post-office was established at Prairie du Sac and was already in operation when the revolutionists appeared bag and baggage and took up their residence at Sauk City. They were obliged to use the neighboring post-office, a fact which annoyed them exceedingly, for they did not mix well with their Yankee neighbors. So the matter stood for about two years.

In 1851, however, a Sauk City merchant received the appointment as postmaster at Prairie du Sac, Washington apparently failing to recognize the fact that there were two distinct settlements and that the new appointee was not a resident of Prairie du Sac at all. The wily Germans saw a chance in this to even up the score with their neighbors and decided to move the post-office itself rather than to have the new postmaster move to the other town.

Accordingly, some two dozen of them marched on the Yankee settlement of an afternoon, forcibly seized the office paraphernalia, and returned in triumph to Sauk City, where they proceeded to establish the new postmaster. Not much had been accomplished, however, when word was brought that the "Yangkeez" were coming and that if the post-office were to be retained, it would have to be by force, as it had been secured. A crowd assembled in no time and the march to meet the "enemy" was begun.

The forces met in the woods which lay between the two towns, and there, in the gathering darkness, the long-famed post-office battle was fought. Tradition has it that some of the combatants were armed with guns, and one ponderous German is said to have brandished a wicked-looking axe. Be that as it may, the affair was rather a fistic encounter than a deadly battle. Knouts and clubs played a good part in the affair, and resulted in many a man on both sides being laid low, though fortunately no one was killed.

The victory at length lay with the "Saukers", and the "Prairie people" left the field carrying their injured with them. The decision of battle was allowed to stand, and the Yankees were thenceforth obliged to get their mail in "the Dutchmen's town" down the river. For safety's sake, however, considerable groups would go together, and disturbances whenever a mail was in came to be the customary thing.

Complaint of the actions of the Germans was made, and after a long delay, the post-office department authorized the opening of another office at Prairie du Sac, while Sauk City was allowed to retain the one which had been "stolen." Instead of settling the matter, however, question was now raised of who had really won out after all. This was the subject of heated controversy for years, and did much to keep alive strained relations between the two towns. And though the Yankees of Prairie du Sac long since gave way to a Swiss colony, and this in turn, and the German one at Sauk City, have disappeared through the process of Americanization, the residents of the two towns have by no means lost memory of the early struggle, and still at times, while winds howl outside and the crackling flames leap high, fight over once more a post-office war of old.

EARLY U. S. CANCELLATIONS.

By H. P. Atherton, 318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

(It is needless to say that the WEEKLY is interested in the project concerning which Mr. Atherton has written so enthusiastically. It has been a matter of regret to us as well as all our readers that Mr. Ritchie was compelled temporarily at least to rest from his labors in connection with his great work on U. S. cancellations. For some months a cancellation society has been talked of, and its development will mean a continuance of the work begun. In the meantime we hope that our readers who so desire will communicate with Mr. Atherton and temporarily at least use him as a clearing-house for early U. S. cancellations.—W. O. W.)

This word is prompted by my "Wrasslin" with an admirable book written in French, by Georges Brunel, on the Postal History of Paris. It is a wonderful book, not too statistical to be "dry", yet containing what I presume to be "everything" relating to its title, "La Poste a Paris".

We, of these United States, have no principal city (objections from New York City overruled) which has the interest that that one city of France has, for the chapter on the "Ballon Montés" is worth the cost of the book alone. The cuts taken from three of the best illustrated French journals, are selected with care, and depict just what the text requires, and are most interesting to us foreigners, so that they must be greatly appreciated by those living among the scenes pictured.

The book on "Rates of the U. S." by Mr. Sampson is an admirable beginning; but this work is a mere "sketch" along the lines that would go to make up a postal history of the United States. There is an ocean of material to be gathered about early postal history here, and who is there in this collecting pastime who does not show you a few "covers" that antedated stamps? If you ask pleasantly "Might these be for sale?" the answer is invariably to effect that they have no value; but they are not for sale, "being in a little collection of these things that I 'sorter' like!"

As I understand, there is to be, or is, an American Cancellation Society, or group, which is to continue the portraying of the unusual cancellations of the different towns on our early stamps. This postal history in our case is no one man job, the facts are as wide cast as the land, each section having its own peculiar facts, as each town had its own form of cancellation. For example, I now am living in Holyoke, Mass. It, in '51, was called "Ireland", or Ireland parish, on the Springfield pike. Chicopee was called "Cabotville", and each had their outlying postal (suburban) stations, like Ashleyville, etc. The double triangle, forming the open double lined "star", was used in both Chicopee and Ashleyville, the latter being somewhat larger, tho to the casual observer, exactly the same. There are doubtless a lot of "stars" similar to this, tho have never seen its type elsewhere.

Would really like to see a series of "hot-weather" articles on early postal doings of the U. S.— for it is most too hot in the July and August months for actual "gummy", Neurope stamps.

There is a very fine lot of cancellations applied by ships bringing foreign mail into the U. S. The mail just now has brought me a lot of "dandies" on covers mailed in France to U. S. in the early days. A series of disconnected bits of this sort would tend to create interest, and perhaps it would work into very interesting articles in your paper, without in any way encroaching on the cancellation society—how about it?

Am enclosing a newspaper dated June 13th, 1806, asking for bids on carrying mail from Richmond to Fredericksburg by post road, also Norfolk. You will note the contractor had to leave Fredericksburg every day at 4 a.m. and "make" Washington at 6½ P.M. Also that for every 30 minutes delay (except thro break-down) he forfeited one dollar.

A number of us here in Springfield think this early postal history very interesting, and if you could see your way clear to get in a few facts pertaining to the beginnings, and the rates during the gold strike, etc., we think a widespread interest would soon follow.

You have probably seen the mass of material that Mr. J. A. Ritchie accumulated on his cancellation work. I think this could be eliminated in this work, for everything could be noted as it came to light, and "entered" as received—then returned at once, if return was necessary. If the idea appears wholly impractical in your office, why not just publish a few of these things, and let them come as they will, for there are all kinds of things thro the South, such as the letters which were "run" thro the Federal lines—there are tales of "Old Mammies" selling vegetables and delivering letters to go North, written by prisoners, and then others taken by "Blockade Runners"—all of which are interesting tho not quite up to the letters carried by the Balloon Post in '71 from Paris. I regret that there is little in my possession of historical interest; but I have quite a good lot of covers with various hand-stamped values, remarks, etc., that I would be very pleased to allow you to go thro for such as you would be able to put to use.

THE STAMP DEALER.

By C. Gordon Fennell.

(This little dissertation on the stamp dealer is enclosed in the office correspondence of the Fennell Stamp Co. We think it of sufficient interest to pass on to our readers.—W. O. W.)

The stamp dealer—who is a stamp dealer—bears a relation to you different from that assumed by any tradesman or professional man who waits upon you.

He is a good fellow to know personally.

He may or may not be your equal socially and mentally.

Whether he possesses the grace and culture of a college graduate, or whether he has dirty finger nails and wears his hat in the office—

Nevertheless he knows more about stamp values than most collectors.

Usually he is in the game because he has a fascination—or love, if you please—for the hobby. He performs a more lasting service to humanity than the butcher or the baker. He educates and trains the mind of the younger generation to orderliness, neatness, and to a pleasant knowledge of several studies. To the advanced collector he is the means of furnishing relaxation, appreciation of the beautiful, and financial gain.

The stamp dealer has many customers. Most of them are shoppers. He is proud of those collectors who prefer to do business exclusively with him. He strives to justify their faith and thus increase his own clientele.

The dealer often has tips, advice, helpful suggestions for those who are steady customers. Not necessarily large buyers.

The summer months are "lean pickings" for the dealer.

He will appreciate your business now!

SOME NATIVE STATES.

By DEREK INGRAM.

CHARKARI.

A journey eastwards brings us to Charkari, which has an area of 880 square miles and a population of 133,000 ruled over by a Maharaja who succeeded in 1914. There is practically nothing to detain us here, although two features of the very plain design of the postage stamps of this State call for explanation. The more prominent of these features is the dagger on the first type and the crossed swords on the issue of 1909-11. As to what the precise significance—if there is such—of these weapons on the stamps constitutes there appears to be no record, but the fact is worth noting that the designs, such as they are, were sketched by the Maharaja himself and the steel die from which the early stamps were printed was kept in his own custody.

The letters "B.C." on Type 1 signify "Bundelkhund, Central" (India); "C.I." on Type 2 means, of course, "Central India." The Province of Bundelkhind was for ages one of the most turbulent and difficult to manage in all India, and it is strikingly appropriate that we should have a sword in the design of the stamps of territory forming part of that province.

JHALAWAR.

This is a small State in Rajputana, and a nice little country in which to specialize philatelically. The stamps have been obsolete since November 1, 1900, and although many shade and other varieties are to be had, it is not too much to hope for completeness. To reach its capital, Jhalrapatan, we have had to make a journey of some 350 miles westward from our last stopping place in the stamp album. Jhalrapatan is on the new railway running from Nagra to Bhurtpore, being about 100 miles from the former place. The State is ruled by the Maharaja Rana, who became its Chief in 1899, and who is entitled to a salute of eleven guns.

The total area of Jhalawar is 810 square miles, the inhabitants—Hindus and Mohammedans—numbering 97,000.

The design of the stamps is intended to represent an Aspara—"Rhemba," as the catalogue tells us—a dancing Nymph of the Paradise of India, though a stranger would be pardoned for dubbing it a picture of a dancing Dervish. The inscriptions are partly in Devanagari and partly in Persi-Arabic, the former, at left, reading "Raj Jhalawar."

WADHWAN.

Now we come to a State which is famous among philatelists as the ideal country for a specialist—it has only issued one postage stamp. Wadhwan is 150 miles southwest of Jhalawar, and is a station on the railway running through the Gujerat Province. The design of its one stamp, at any rate as regards its "supporters," is very reminiscent of that of the labels of Orcha. The inscriptions in the centre of the Wadhwan "Arms" and on the scroll beneath them are in Devanagari characters and are stated to mean "The Almighty" (in the centre)—"May He augment our future Glory and Success."

The civil Station of Wadhwan, on which the railway station is built, is land rented by Government in perpetuity from the Wadhwan State, for the location of the establishments necessary for the administration of the N.E. portion of Kathiawar. A small town has sprung up close to the railway station. The Civil Station is connected with Wadhwan city by a horse tramway and by the Bhaunagar Railway.

Towards the centre of Wadhwan City is the ancient temple of Ranik Devi, who was a beautiful girl, born in the Junagarh territory when Sidh Raja was reigning at Patan, and was betrothed to him. But Ra Khengar, who then ruled Junagarh, carried her off and married her, which caused a deadly feud between him and Sidh Raja, whose troops marched to Junagarh. Khengar was betrayed by two of his kinsmen and was slain by Sidh Raja, whose fortress was taken. The conqueror wanted to marry Ranik Devi, but she performed "sati" and Sidh Raja raised this temple to her memory. It bears marks of extreme old age, the stone being much worn; all but the tower is gone.

The Palace is in the centre of the city, standing in a court facing the entrance, on the right of which is a building called the Mandwa, where assemblies take place at marriages. There is a new Palace called the Balchandra Vilas, built by the late Thakore Sahib Balsinhji and having displayed over its portico the same "Arms" that we see on the postage stamp of Wadhwan.

But here "all is vanity"! Wadhwan is a State in name only, being one of 188, into which the peninsula of Kathiawar is divided.

NOWANUGGUR.

And now for the famous cricketer-prince, Kumar Shri Ranjitsinhji, who since 1907 has been Maharaja of Nowanuggur. To reach this place we travel to the south shore of the Gulf of Kutch, Nowanuggur Station being the terminus of the railway by which we travel from Wadhwan. The name of this State, and of its capital, is also spelt "Nawanuggur" and "Nawanagar." The name of its present ruler will surely captivate the attention of even the most cynical antiphilatelist, so that it would be a splendid piece of propaganda to bring the renowned "Ranji's" name well before the philistine when endeavoring to interest him in the stamps of this Native State.

To this end, collectors ought to include a short biographical sketch of Prince Ranjitsinhji in their "write-up" of these issues, noting that he was born at Sarnoar, in the province of Kathiawar, on September 10, 1872, and that his recreations include, besides the cricket which made him famous, tennis, racquets, cycling, angling, skating, shooting, racing and stamp collecting. He is usually called the "Jam," the alternative name of his State being Jamnagar.

What the sword on the first postage stamps of this State is intended to represent—if anything—has not been recorded, but we observe that its point is turned to the right, whereas that on the first type of stamps of Charkari is turned to the left. The inscriptions are in Gujerati, meaning "Nawanagar" and denomination in docra.

The curious "Arms" of Nowanuggur, which was introduced on the stamps of 1893, has as "supporters" a pair of antelopes, thus showing the influence of the man who holds such an animal in one of each four hands. The fish, also shown, reminds us of the first incarnation of Vishnu. They also serve as an illustration of the fact that there is a pearl fishery off the coast of this State. The inscriptions on these particular stamps read "Sasta Nawanagar" (Government of Nowanuggur) above and "Halar Post Stamps" below, with the value in words in the centre at foot of the stamp.

The new Palace, constructed by "Ranji," is very picturesque.

Nowanuggur has a total area of 700 square miles and a population of 350

SORUTH.

From Nowanuggur we proceed southwards to Junagarh, a journey by rail of about 100 miles. Junagarh, or Junagarh, is the chief town in the small State which our stamp catalogues call "Soruth," but which is now officially known under the name of the chief town itself. The State is ruled by a Nawab, who succeeded to the title in 1911 as, however he is a minor he is at present merely the nominal chief, the administration being in the hands of the Imperial government.

Soruth, as we will call it, has given us some very quaint stamps, the inscriptions on which are in Devanagari and Gujerati, reading "sau-ra-stra" ("post Soruth") and denomination (on the early issues) and in Devanagari and Arabic on the current types. On the latter the Arabic characters are those in the centre, meaning "Kingdom (or "State") of Soruth"; the Devanagari characters, in the oval band, represent "Postage of Soruth" and value.

It is quite likely that the four-petalled rosettes on the stamps of 1868 are symbolic of something of special import in the history of Soruth. In the absence of any previous reference to this theory it is difficult to say what that thing, or event is, but one may be pardoned for assuming that the rosette is meant to represent the mountain of Girnar, under which Junagarh is situated, or one of the many rosette-like Jain temples on that mountain. The mountain is 3,66 feet high and the temples upon it are among the most ancient in the country. Just outside the town is the famous Asoka Stone, a round boulder of granite measuring roughly twenty by thirty feet and covered with inscriptions, which prove on examination to be four Edicts of Asoka (250 B.C.). Transparent Pockets for Single Stamps
The Paper Used for These Envelopes is as CLEAR AS GLASS.
In order to preserve the freshness of many unused modern stamps, especially those printed in fugitive inks or on coated papers, it is imperative that these pockets should be used in mounting such stamps for sale or in a collection, otherwise they quickly deteriorate. We are now able to offer, as a commencement, these pockets in three sizes—No. 1, to take the small size British and Colonial stamps; No. 2, the 5sh, etc., value size; and No. 3, to take blocks of four of No. 1. Other sizes will be added in due course. Prices, postage extra:—

No. 1.	50cts	per 100;	$4.50	per 1000	Postage 7cts extra per each 100.
No. 2.	60cts	per 100;	$5.50	per 1000
No. 3.	$1.00	per 100;	$8.00	per 1000

We can now supply INTERLEAVING ALBUM SHEETS (size 10¼x8¼) made from the same clear transparent paper as used for the pockets. These are quite the finest thing ever offered for this purpose. Price $1.70 per 100 (postage 30cts extra for quantities up to 300).

Henry J. Holm

Principal of Gregg School

HENRY J. HOLM, CHICAGO.

We are much gratified to show the portrait of Henry J. Holm, President of the Gregg School, Chicago, whose reputation as a preparatory school for the business world is known to the uttermost corners of the country, as withal, Mr. Gregg is an interested philatelist. For a long time, Mr. Holm has been an adherent of general collecting but latterly, he realizes that it is necessary that he specialize to some extent; or at least confine his activities to a hemisphere. Naturally, Mr. Holm appreciates the value of stamp collecting as an aid to general learning and he is not loth to express his belief in the merits of collecting when occasion permits. Mr. Holm is identified with various of his city's activities and we are glad indeed that he is aligned on our side.

ejapala and Vastupala, on Mount r, which was built in 1177, is in ur almost exactly like the rosette estion.

y we hope that some specialist d in the legend-lore of the Indian e States stamps will come forward an authenticated explanation of rosettes?

1904 some alleged postage stamps reported to have a full-face por- of the then Nawab. These, how- proved to be nothing more than , which were never adopted, the agari-Arabic types of 1877 being urrent in Soruth.

s State has a total area of 3,284 miles and a population of 0, mostly Mohammedans. It should e confused with Surat, or Sorat, is at the mouth of the River Tap- the eastern shore of the Gulf of ay. In this connection it may be erest to note that the name Surat ived by Sir Henry Elliott and from Surastra, which, as we have y observed, is inscribed in agari characters on the postage s of Soruth State, and which is a occurring in the "Mahabharata." is also a legend of a man named i, who ceded the land on which stle of Surat was built, but the would hardly be relevant to our tour.

HOLKAR (Indore).

reach our next stopping-place we o make a journey of some 400 by railway due eastward from rh. Stamp collectors are peculiar ; they are the only class of the nity who recognize the State of under its alternative appellation lkar." However, they have every ation, for all the postage stamps ore down to the ¼-anna of 1904 scribed "Holkar State Postage."

present chief of this important is H. H. Maharaja Tukaji Rao - III., Bahadur, who was born in nd became ruler in 1903. He is ign over one million Hindus and a -mileage of 9,469, being entitled to e of 19 guns anywhere in India in his own territory. His Hol- Highness is portrayed on the stamps of 1904. He is also ary Patel of Chandor, a town d about 160 miles northeast of y.

first stamps of Indore, those of ave the portrait of the then Ma- Tikaji Rao Holkar, who only led to the title during that year, and those of 1889—92 portray the short-lived Maharaja Shiwaji Rao.

The native characters on these stamps are Devanagari. On the purely native design of the ½-anna stamp, black on pink, of 1889, these characters mean "Holkar Sarkar" (State of Holkar) (at top), "Dak Karkhama" (Post Office, or Postage) below, and the value, Half Anna, across the centre.

DHAR.

From Indore we make a very short journey—only two stations along the railway running southward—to Mhow, whence we continue southwest to the ruined city of Mandu, the ancient capital of the kingdom of Malwa. This place is in the territory of the Maharaja of Dhar, whose postage stamps were first issued in 1897 and became obsolete after only four years of currency. Dhar itself, the capital of the Native State of that name, is an old town of some historical and archaeological interest, containing several fine half-ruined mosques. In front of one of these mosques is an iron pillar, which the Emperor Jahangir had ordered to be removed to Agra, and in front of which is a tablet bearing the curious "Arms" of Dhar—the exact counterpart of the design of Type 2 of the postage stamps of this State. The illustration of this design in the current edition of Gibbons' Catalogue is hardly legible, the block apparently being worn out, but a study of the stamp itself reveals a small Spread Eagle in the lower part of the shield, the Crest being a pair of wings with a Crown between them—presumably the Crown of the Emperor Jahangir. The supporters are two elephants rampant. The eagle represents Garuda, the attendant of Vishnu, and the elephant is the accredited attendant of Indra. The presence of these on the stamps of Dhar leads us to assume that that State is entirely Hindu in religion, which, indeed, it is; the population comprises 155,000, the total area of the State being 1,783 square miles.

Apropos of the elephants, it may be mentioned that when Sir Thomas Roe, the Ambassador of James I. of England entered Mandu in the train of Jahangir part of the triumphal procession of the Great Mogul was a line of 500 elephants.

This ancient city of old Malwa is indeed full of interest, but we dare not prolong our visit, for we still have seven States to see.—Australian Stamp Journal.

INVITATION.

If it is possible for any of the A. P. S. members to call on me during the convention in August, I shall be very glad to see them. Mukwonago is a little over twenty miles west of Milwaukee, with electric cars running every two hours. Auto roads are very good, most of the way being concrete. Wish I might be with you at the convention and I hope you will all like our state and have a very enjoyable time.

EDITORIAL.

Odd—The following letter has been received from Mr. Henry Perlish of New York: "Mr. H. C. Needham has suggested that I submit to you the following stamps. Mr. Needham states that he has never seen copies of these items before and that you would probably be interested in seeing them for possible comment in your paper. They purport to be 'U. S. Postage' for wrappers and newspapers and it would be judged from their appearance that they were printed before 1850. I came across these labels in a collection that I got some years ago." We hope to have a cut made of one of these "specimens" but we shall mention now that they are typeset examples on what may be a die-cut buff paper. The legend on one value is: "United States Postage. Wrapper. Newspaper. 6 times a week. 19½ cts. a quarter." The rate on the "tri-weekly" copy is 9¾ cents a quarter and on the weekly, 3¼ cents. An experience covering a good many years does not allow us to comment with authority on the subject of these impressions, and another collector with a greater number of years in the philatelic service likewise finds himself unable to recognize them. Having had occasion to become a bit acquainted with early printing in this country, we may say that the labels show details favorable to their genuineness in so far as the time of the printing of the stamps. Too, there is support of the postal charges as designated on the prints. While we are pursuing the reason for the issue or existence of these quaint varieties, we shall submit the question of their being to our readers, among whom are some who have delved deeply into the postal lore of the earlier days.

Hear—It is not our intention to take any credit for a suggestion that we are told has received favorable attention at Washington until something definite develops, but we present the following paragraph from a letter that came from a friend at Washington: "Your suggestion that an information bureau be established by the post office department . . . . . was made to an officer who seemed to think it feasible to institute something of the kind, as it is in line with the friendly and progressive measures recommended by Mr Hay. I shall see Mr. ——— and advise you later if there is a likelihood of a bureau of the kind."

Roll—From T. Close, Esq., London, the Honorary Secretary of the Sub-Committee to Administer the Roll of Distinguished Philatelists, we have received the following notice: "Roll of Distinguished Philatelists. Further to my letter of 21 March, 1921 in which you were informed that the affiliated British Philatelic Societies desired to enter your name upon the Roll, I have now the honour of enclosing the letter of Thanks which would have been presented to you had you fortunately been able to be present at the inauguration ceremony. Enclosed is also a verbatim note of the proceedings of that ceremony. Further I enclose a small square of paper with a ruled space within it; this ruled space corresponds exactly to the space allotted upon the Roll for your signature. Would you be good enough to sign your name within the ruled space and return to me at the earliest possible moment, so that your signature may be transcribed therefrom onto the Roll itself." The Letter of Thanks is: "The Philatelic Congress of Great Britain Roll of Distinquished Philatelists Instituted at the Congress of Newcastle-on-Tyne, 1920. Harrogate May 1921. The Delegates, representing all the Affiliated Philatelic Societies of Great Britain, in Congress assembled, hereby place on record the unanimous resolution to include the name of Charles Esterly Severn upon the Congress Roll of Distinguished Philatelists in grateful recognition of services rendered and work done for the advancement of Philately. J. H. Chapman, Chairman of the Congress, Herbert R. Oldfield, Chairman of the Permanent Congress Executive Committee." At the top of the decoration is the crown watermark in red and at the bottom an unused one penny black Great Britain, overprinted in this instance, with circle in red. The names of forty-two of the great philatelists of the past are entablatured on pillars at right and left. Among the names are those of three Americans, Henry J. Crocker, H. J. Duveen and J. K. Tiffany.

Help—We are indebted to Mr. Henry A. Meyer, Evansville, Indiana, for occasional notes of philatelic interest. He writes: "In the WEEKLY for May 14th, Mr. L. A. McArthur wants to know the reason for the issue of the high values of 50 and 100 lira of postage due stamps of Italy. I cannot quote the source of the statement, but I read somewhere that these stamps are issued for the same purpose as the Danish avisporto and that is, paying lump charges on a large number of newspapers."

* * *

Flies—The receipt of an auction catalogue from Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer leads us to moralize on the flight of the years in our serene little world. "O time too swift! O swiftness never ceasing!" we sigh upon scanning the back page of this catalogue of a sale in July, 1921, as on the back page of the book is a reproduction of an advertisement that appeared on a Wolsieffer catalogue just twenty-one years ago, in which the advantages of attending the 1900 convention of the A. P. S. were emphasized. Messrs. Oesch, Severn and Wolsieffer were mentioned as wishing to serve their fellows as proxy-holders and with great cordiality, it was promised. "Milwaukee will be a 'wide open town' to the stamp collectors the last week in August. So will Chicago be on your way to the convention." Mr. Wolsieffer may say with truth that he "is still a booster for philatelic societies, the A. P. S. in particular."

Burned—In the July number of Sudden Service Surcle, published by the Fennell Stamp Company, we find an appropriately conceived study, "The Burning Question Is—." In effect, the leader is a market letter which commends itself to the experiencd collector by reason of its fair comment and reasonable deductions. The opinion that many stamps may be bought more cheaply this year than at the same time last year is not a radical one by any means; and the demoralizing influence of the falling prices of the Neurope stuff is recognized. However, the classic issues in fine condition are cited as proving an exception to the rule of softer prices; and this analysis of present day conditions proves advantageous to the stamps of strong character. We believe that what may be called the characterless stamps are those that suffer in price when there is any disorganization of the stamp market; and that the collector who is sapient enough to cling to the time-tried issues will have occasi... chortle with glee as he sits on his ... at his ease, in the desert of dwi... prices.

A WONDERFUL BLOCK OF THE CRACKED PLATE

ATHERTON

This is a block of the 3c 1857 in perfect condition, full o. g., a bit of Imprint adhering. Did you ever see this stamp? It's a great rarity—showing a wide horizontal break across the stamp, just like in your Geography,—"Mouth of Mississippi in the Springtime."

PRICE UPON APPLICATION.

WM. BOND & CO.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

Black—4c—Green

The stamps used by this manufacturer are believed to have come from a single plate made by the National Bank Note Company in 1877. Probably there was only one printing in the first color, black, as the entire issue of this stamp was only about 320 sheets. The reason for changing the color to green is not known, and from the early part of 1878 until the match tax was abolished in 1883, the green color continued to be used.

Neither the factory nor Mr. Bond are listed in the Portland City and Oregon State Business Directories for 1873, but the Portland Directory for 1881 lists Wm. Bond as a match manufacturer on East Park Street, between A and B Streets.

In regard to the stamps used by him the Boston Book states:

4c Black
Die approved, August 6, 1877.
First issued, September, 1877.
Last issued, February, 1878.
67,500 issued on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

4c Green
First issued, 1878.
Last issued, April 16, 1883.
400,000 issued on silk, pink and watermarked paper.

The design is beautifully conceived and well executed, and the American Bank Note Company showed good artistic sense in copying it so closely when they engraved the die of the Union Match Company of Detroit in 1880.

Bond's Anchor Match stamp forms an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size. A colorless oval in the center bears a cabled anchor with the inscription "Wm. Bond & Co." following the inner curve of the oval above the anchor and "Anchor Match" arranged similarly below the anchor. Near the four corners of the stamp and touching the central oval are four circular disks, each of which bears a colorless numeral 4. These small circles are connected at the side by straight panels, the left one inscribed "Four" and the right one reading "Cents." At the top of the stamp a straight marginal label with beveled ends bears the words "U. S. Inter. Rev." and a curved space at the bottom of the stamp, between the lower numerals, is inscribed in two lines of tiny colorless capitals "Portland — Oregon." Delicate acanthus ornamentation upon a background of fine lines completes the design. In the lower corners the ornamentation encloses a tiny five-pointed colorless star at either side. The scroll work is almost identical with that found on the Union Match Company stamp, and strongly resembles similar ornamentation on the Gardner, Beer & Co. adhesive of Chicago, and other private die stamps of the period.

The black stamp and the green stamp on pink paper were fairly common before 1890, Sterling pricing them at only 50c in 1888. So many of them are evidently unused specimens, often having original gum, probably they came from supply obtained by dealers when they were current. Both of these two stamps are so rare in undoubted used condition that if it had not been for the enterprise exercised by someone in the early days, the black Anchor match and the green Anchor on pink paper probably would be among the great rarities to-day, and entirely beyond the reach of all but a few wealthy collectors. Quite evidently all that ever has happened to most of these two varieties happened to them in the albums of collectors, or the stock books of dealers, or while they were being transferred from one to the other.

The black stamp may have been used in multiple, but no such multiple stamp is known to the writer. One pair has been seen, but there is no evidence of its having ever been used. The green stamp on silk paper is not a great deal easier to find than the black stamp. At most, it could have been in use but a few months, and many specimens seen do not appear to have been used at all. It runs so uniform in color that but one printing of it is indicated. The variety of the Anchor Match usually found is on watermarked paper. Early printings on this paper may have been made either by the National Bank Note Company or by the American Bank Note Company, or by both of them. Later printings were made by the Bureau, and some of these can be identified.

There are indications that the Bureau made a plate for the Anchor Match stamp, but the entire issue in both colors and all papers is so small that unless something happened to the original plate, a second plate would have been quite unnecessary.

The watermarked variety is well known used in horizontal strips of three as a 12c stamp, and is commoner in the blue green shade than in the scarcer yellowish green color. Some of these multiple stamps are undoubtedly Bureau prints. The green Anchor match stamps on watermarked paper are often found pre-cancelled. The cancellation is very light and is seldom legible. It consists of firm name and date, and usually falls one on each stamp. The writer has seen a fair sized block bearing this cancellation.

The catalog quotations for the past twenty-five years have tended toward a just appreciation of the relative scarcity of the Anchor Match stamps, as will be seen by the table below:

		4c Black Silk.	4c Green Silk.	4c Green Pink.	4c Green Wmkd.
1888	Sterling	.50	.40	.50	.30
1895	Scott	1.50	1.00	1.50	.50
1896	"	2.50	1.00	2.00	.50
1898	"	3.00	1.00	2.00	.50
1900	"	2.50	1.50	3.50	1.00
1903-20	"	5.00	2.00	5.00	1.00

The present quotations on the two scarcer varieties are well within reason. The quotation on the watermarked paper is somewhat high except for extraordinarily fine specimens, and the figure on the silk paper is fair for copies in fairly good condition, but rather low for really fine specimens.

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to

United States Variety

"2 CRNTS" SURFACE PRINT.

I have obtained 25 mint plate number blocks of six showing the variety "2 CRNTS" as described in the chronicle some time back. This variety is due to an imperfection in the master plate negative, thus giving the "E" the appearance of an "R". A similar block in an auction this month sold at $2.50. While these last they are offered at $1.50 per block, each block showing one error.

I can also furnish a mint block of four of the same 2c surface printed stamp, with margins attached, showing the right half of two arrows. Price per block, 25c. Interesting from the 1600 subject plate.

Did you get a block of the 2c perf. 11 from the rotary press? Made from the imperforate coil waste. It is likely to be somewhat scarce, for I offered this some weeks back and no one else has offered it since. The 1c in similar condition was offered to me this week at $9 per block, so the 2c certainly must be worth the small price of 50c. If you want a block at 50c, better write now.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—The 4c envelopes which have been re-valued and which we described in great detail in our last issue, are coming to hand from several cities, but all that I have seen so far, are of size 7 on either amber or white. The New York stock seem to be mostly amber, and most of the smaller cities seem to have white. The Department advises me that they sent these all to New Orleans to be overprinted so that there would be but one variety. It will indeed be odd if none of the size 8 are sent from the other cities for this will mean that the few of this size surcharged in New Orleans some months back will be the entire available supply. I have looked over a great many of these revalued 4c envelopes and find that the work is most carefully done, for there are no double prints or similar oddities. Of course some few of them may have slipped through, and if this is the case, they will be of more than usual interest, because of the carefulness of the New Orleans Post Office. There is a little story behind the overprinting of this value, which will make very good reading later on.

A few months back, it was mentioned in the Chronicle that in overprinting the current series of documentary stamps that the Bureau was not particular as to how the surcharge was placed, and consequently, they had no record as to which of the stock transfer overprints were vertical and which were horizontal. All of the $1.00 and $2.00 values that I have seen have either had a vertical surcharge reading up, or a horizontal surcharge in different type reading in two lines across the stamp. Rev. E. M. Gearhart has now shown me a copy of the $2.00 with surcharge reading down. If this is an error, it is likely to be somewhat scarce, and we would like to be advised by our readers if they have found this variety for we would like to know if a whole printing was surcharged in this manner.

1921, Stock Transfer Overprint.
$2.00 red, surcharge reading down.

I had an occasion to submit to one of our foremost collectors quite recently, a stamp from my reference collection, namely a 1c blue issue of 1895 which was fully a 3 mm. smaller then the normal stamp. The collector could not account for this, and as we knew that there was but one die of this stamp, we thought it advisable to mention this to our readers to prevent collectors paying high prices for similar varieties. These stamps were shrunken through some chemical means, which in no way effects the color, the intensity of the impression or the paper.

While speaking of such things coming upon the market, it might be well to inform our readers that there is being offered in fair quantities at less than face, the $5.00 green, perforated 10 regummed. I cannot state as to how these stamps are obtained in an uncancelled condition without gum, nor do I know as to whether they had been cleaned or not. The re-gumming has been expertly done, but a comparison with a copy purchased from the Post Office will show the gum to be different in color and thickness. If the stamp is examined closely on the face with a glass, small particles of gum may be seen on the perforations, and the edges of the perforations are slightly darkened due to the gum being applied at the thin places where the stamps have been broken apart. From a circular that I have seen I imagine the $2.00 stamp is being offered in similar condition.

We wish to thank Messrs. H. S. Dickey, J. O. Butt and F. L. Belanger for notes of interest.

CAPE VERDE.—The Bulletin Mensuel chronicles the 100r stamp of the 1898-1901 issue surcharged "6 c. Republica" in two lines with horizontal bars obliterating the former value. Also the 15c on 150r and the 10c on 100r of the 1913 issue overprinted "2 c." and "4 c." respectively.

DENMARK.—Postage Due stamps have now been for the first time introduced into this country, and a provisional issue has been made by overprinting the ordinary postage stamps at the top with the word "Porto." The values at present issued are 1, 5, 7, 10, 20, 25 and 50 öre.—Whitfield King's Monthly List.

FRENCH OCEANICA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the 15c stamp of the 1913-15 issue surcharged "25—1921" in black in two lines.

GUATEMALA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has submitted to us for chronicle the 75c of the 1902 issue with the overprint "1921—Cincuenta—centavos" in three lines in black.

ITALY.—Mr. J. Saulnier sends us a set of three stamps issued by this country on the formal annexing of the liberated parts of Italy. The values are 15c grey and rose; 25c blue and rose and 40c brown and rose. At the top are the words "Poste Italiane", at the base the value, while in the centre is the seal with an inscription in a circle. The stamps bear the postmark "Treste Centro".

JAMAICA.—Mr. William Hoffman advises that the 6d value of the pictorial set has been issued and shows a view in the centre entitled "The Abolition of Slavery 1st August, 1838". The color is blue green and carmine.

LOURENZO MARQUES.—The Bulletin Mensuel announces the 115r on 10r with the surcharge "Um quarto de centavo" in three lines. Also the 2½c violet overprinted "1 Centavos" in two lines and the same value with the surcharge "1½ Centavos".

HAVE YOU A VALUABLE COLLECTION FOR SALE ?

Our Mr. C. Gordon Fennell will attend the A. P. S. Convention, and can also be seen by appointment in Chicago August 6th, 7th, or 8th. If you are going to be in or about Milwaukee and have some rare stamps or a valuable collection to sell, please write us immediately.

We have bought practically everything of value which has come on the St. Louis market during the last year-and-a-half. When local collectors prefer to sell to us, there's a reason for other collectors, also, to look toward the Sudden Service City for payment consistent with the scarcity of rare stamps in superb condition.

NEW ISSUE NOTES.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

LUXEMBURG.—The new pictorial 2fr stamps have arrived, and both are decidedly handsome stamps, in the same size as the 1fr, but picturing other subjects. The 2fr deep blue shows the "Terre Rouge", an immense iron-steel establishment at Esch. Several furnaces are shown in operation. The violet depicts the "Grand Pont" (bridge) in the city of Luxemburg. The coat-of-arms of the duchy forms the frame, and is inserted in the lower left spandrel. Neither of these stamps bears the name of the engraver, does the 1fr, Chateau de Vianden.

POLAND.—The 1910 set, of which large quantities were confiscated by the invading Germans, has appeared with various surcharges. The explanation is as follows: These stamps were sold by the Russian government, but at high prices, and the market was not deluged with them, as was the case with the 1918 parcel post sets. As the greater portion of the Congos still remained in the hands of the German government after the armistice, one of the articles of that important document, the treaty of Versailles, provided that they should be returned to Belgium. The stamps were surcharged some months ago, and it was announced that they should be used to meet the supply of needed values, but should be surcharged in some way to prevent those in the hands of unscrupulous persons could not be used to defraud the government. To the writer the denominations selected will hardly be adequate in the case of the high values, which are surcharged "1921" in very ordinary type, and forgery is invited rather than prevented. The comparatively small number of sets without surcharge that will exist the collecting public will be willing to enhanced in value as a result of the surcharges:—

On 5c, green and black, red schg.
On 50c, olive and black, red schg.
On 5c, ochre and black, red schg.
On 10c, carmine and black, blk.

On 25c, blue and black, red schg.
On 1, 3fr, 5fr and 10fr are overprinted 1921 only, black in the first two and red in the last. The 40c value does not appear in the set, which is reported very hard to obtain.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received from George H. Jaeger, our Latvia Correspondent, a specimen set of the Red Cross stamps with the overprint "2 Rub". The overprint is uniform on all four stamps and is in black in each instance. The overprint reads:—"Rub. 2 Rub." It is very evident that the Red Cross stamps became a drug on the market and the supply has been treated with this overprint in order to hasten their sale.

—In addition to permitting an A. P. S. advertisement to be run directly under the advertisement of the Philadelphia Stamp Co., the manager, P. M. Wolsieffer, also has a striking entire page of the Milwaukee convention in their auction catalog, sale of July 27. It is a reproduction of a similar advertisement given upon the occasion of his twentieth auction sale, held in Chicago twenty-one years ago.

—In our issue of July 2 appeared a hinge advertisement of the Economist Stamp Co. It is a standing advertisement and unintentionally prices remained unchanged where recently an advance had been made necessary. The firm advises us that all orders received were filled at the old prices.

—It may be well for us to indicate the order of precedence of the applications we now have in hand for first page squares:—Allen, Poole, Voorhees, Prohaska, Argenbright, Fennell. Does anyone else want to go upon the list?

—Max Beck, 438 E. 70 St., New York City, sends out a bargain list of more than ordinary interest. Its price is 5 cents.

—From indications it is apparent that a drive is on for an increase in the letter rate from 2c to 3c and postcards from 1c to 2c. The impression prevails that a stamp tax on checks may again be imposed.

—A large wholesale pricelist of postage stamps has just been issued by the C. S. Watson Co. of East Dedham, Mass. It covers a very wide range of offerings and stamps are priced per ten, per one hundred and per one thousand. The list is a pretentious one of twenty pages and dealers will do well to send for the same.

TWENTY YEARS LATER.

By C. H. HOLLISTER.

(Conversation between two collectors who took the ridiculous advice of C. M. Tyler printed in the May 28 number of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.)

"Say, Joe, did you receive a copy of the paper Mr. Get-Rich is publishing?"

"You bet I did, Jack, and it's the first stamp paper I have seen in years. Ever since the dealers stopped advertising and the price went to twenty-five iron men a year I have been wishing that some rich guy would endow a free stamp paper so I could see what is going on."

"Was there any news in it, Joe, to speak of? I have not read my copy through yet."

"Bet your life there is. But say, old man, do you know, most everyone quit collecting and sold out when MEKEEL'S stopped. The paper told of a man who had papered a room with the issue of 1869 and said that it produced a very artistic effect?

"Well, Joe, to change the subject, I saw a chance to pick up some Standard Oil stock the other day at $900."

"Well, even if you did, don't buy any of that stuff. True, they advertise in the papers, but you don't want any catch-penny stuff. Go to Stick-Em and Soak-Em for they sell over the counter only and their stock is brand new, just off the press each day. You never see their advs. They quit advertising when the postal department got after them for using the mails to defraud."

"Did you see about that man arrested for trying to pass a counterfeit bill? It seems it was 'passed over the counter' to a dealer who had not seen any bills since he quit advertising. He did not know what it was and it was slipped over on this poor fish, who tried to pass it along."

"One thing more, I found a new stamp store yesterday. Where was it? On Lower Yet St. How did I happen to find it? Well, it was this way. I was walking along thinking of different things and I happened to smell a musty odor, like something long since dead. I thought it must be either a stamp store or a newspaper shop that had stopped taking advertising, so I followed my nose and found a stamp store. Did I buy anything? No, I wanted to buy some stuff but the dealer couldn't change a nickel and I had to come away. Well, that is a poor place to get stamps anyway and the only place that you are sure of is the post office, where they sell over the counter only and never advertise."

ORIGINALS AND REPRINTS.

By D. E. EASTLAKE

A man by the name of Egge has recently been appointed head of the U. S. Air Mail service. Let us hope that he gives a thought to the tale of Humpty-Dumpty and remains safely on the ground.

* * *

We note that C. G. Gardner of Jackson, Michigan, fittingly lives in Orchard Place. Pairs are doubtless his specialty.

Although the town of Alice, Texas, has a most quiet and peaceful name, it is there that F. Noyes resides.

* * *

We have lost quite a bit of sleep over this $65,000 Hawaiian missionary stamp case. The point that worries us is how anybody could get $65,000 together in these days.

* * *

J. Arthur Wainwright, of Morgantown, No'th Ca'lina, calls our attention to a recent article in our 'Bread and Butter', i.e., MEKEEL'S, in which reference was made to notable historical happenings as portrayed on stamps. It mentioned the 5 cent Jamestown Exposition stamp, showing the picture of Pocahontas, and stated that she objected, successfully, to the parting of Capt. Jack Smith's head from the rest, and that he subsequently married her. J. Arthur is worried over the fact that this was a bigamous statement.

Well, J. Arthur, she did not marry Capt. Jack Smith at all! Can you sleep better now?

* * *

As we understand it, Capt.—or was it Mr.?—Jack Rolfe was the unlucky one.

* * *

But why worry over Pocahontas. Why she never even heard of a postage stamp!

OH, THESE AUCTION CATALOGUES!
Superb, but to our indignation,
With a revenue cancellation;
A lovely copy, is it not,
'Though it has a small thin spot;
A splendid copy, and so forth,
Although it's centered to the North;
A beauty, as they always come,
But hasn't got original gum;
Truly, this is a wonderful piece,
Were it not for a tiny crease;
An unusual Penny Black,
With a very short gum crack;
The finest that we've seen of late,
'Though it has an edge that's straight;
The best that we have apprehended,
And very, very neatly mended!

L'ENVOI
Ther're superfine and very fine,
Perfect and perfection,
Or superb and superior,
But never are inferior!

The New Brunswick Shilling Stamp is a rare bird. I have three, all slightly damaged, all look good; one, $45; one, $55; one, $60, imperfections hardly noticeable, speak quick, some one will beat you to it if you procrastinate.

I have been hammering away for 3 years trying to convince collectors that old U. S., B. N. A. and early issues of all countries are the ones to invest in. You like to see your stamps increase in value, then get in on the good things while you have the chance, a few years more and no one knows where prices may go to on these scarce old varieties. Sheets of rare old classics, value from $10 to $150 each, always ready to send to live buyers.

WENTY RAREST GEORGIANS.

By "SINGLE CA."

Th changes now taking place in the current stage stamps of the British Empire are cu ed to have an important effect upon the lat ic values of many recently-issued va ie Below we present some interesting es upon some potential rarities amongst onial stamps of the present reign.)

Str tly speaking there are, as yet, no l rarities amongst the Georgian m. of the British Empire—with two a e exceptions, the ½d and 1d Great Bri , perf. 14. But there are, on the e nand, a fair number of specimens ic through one cause or another are ea on the upward grade and may in r of time take their place alongside e Twentieth Century rarities. As e t of the introduction of the new ig CA watermark, and more par- li y of the new coloured papers, re re likely to be many additions to l of Georgian "rarities" in the not d ant future. Almost all stamps on o and green dyed papers issued in 1920 and early 1921 with the Multiple CA watermark should offer go investment at present prices, and s e applies to any prominent shades cl immediately preceded the change w ermark, as for instance the 2d rl rey of Gibraltar. The so-called q ise blue (or azure) paper used l 50c Brunei, 1s Malta, is likeworth watching, since it was appary e balance of this "making" which l ilized for the emerald-coated pro- or printings. Some of the inter- li "war time" shades of the yellow dyed paper are already proving hard to find.

As regards the watermark changes pure and simple the influence upon values will be, in most cases, more gradual, since the vast majority of stamps affected by the change have been current for a considerable period. It is significant, however, that as the new Script CA varieties appear, the prices of the same stamps on Mult. CA paper are being consistently, if slightly, increased by the stamp trade. Few dealers troubled to stock up with Georgians prior to the announcement of the coming change in the watermark, and consequently some people found themselves "short" of a number of varieties.

Let us now consider, separately, those stamps of the Georgian era, which are even now entitled to be designated "scarce" and in a few cases even "rare".

GREAT BRITAIN.

½d and 1d, perf. 14. Here we have the two outstanding rarities in Georgian stamps. Neither is priced in the current catalogues, but a mint copy of the ½d has sold at auction for £41 and a used pair for £21. So far as is known, no price has ever been quoted for the 1d.

Another elusive variety of this series is the 1d aniline scarlet, wmk. Crown, catalogued at £4.

The attraction of these varieties is enhanced by the sporting chance that they may be discovered by the diligent searcher in an unsorted lot of common stamps.

WESTERN STAMP CO. 308 Leflang Bldg. OMAHA, NEBR.

tinuance of the highest value of the current British series, early in 1916, caught the stamp collecting public napping. An anxious raid on post offices throughout the country brought little result, although one lucky speculator managed to secure a few sheets at a Scottish post office, some weeks after the fiat had gone forth. Even at the full catalogue price of 80s, this stamp is hard to come by nowadays.

BAHAMAS.

1s War Tax.—Only 20 sheets of this denomination received the local "War Tax" overprint in February, 1918, and at anything under £2 it is undoubtedly a cheap stamp. The errors with "double overprint" and "Tax" omitted are extremely rare.

BARBADOS.

2s and 3s, 1912.—These two values, although required for revenue purposes, were little used for postage. In accordance with the usual practice of the Barbados Post Office they were withdrawn from circulation on the advent of the line-engraved issue in June, 1916, and the remainders destroyed; hence the present catalogue quotations of 20s and 30s respectively.

CAYMAN ISLANDS.

10s, 1913.—The surface coloured 10s stamp of this colony is one of the scarcest of the so-called "White back" series. A few sheets only were issued in November, 1913, and early in 1915 it was replaced by a printing on green paper coloured right through. The total number printed of the "White back" variety is said to have been 2350, of which a considerable proportion was used fiscally. Its price in the latest catalogue is 30s.

CEYLON.

5 Rupees, 1914. —Another scarce "White back" variety. Issued late in 1914 and chiefly used on telegrams. It is very little scarcer than the coloured through variety, which it replaced.

FALKLAND ISLANDS.

5s, 1912.—Originally printed in red-brown, the colour of this stamp was changed to purple on December 30th, 1914, to avoid posssible confusion with the companion 10s printed in red on green. Postally used it is a scarce stamp.

GOLD COAST

5s and 10s, 1914.—A considerable proportion of the first printing of the 5s Georgian series, on surface tinted yellow paper, was used for producing the locally overprinted Togo on Gold Coast issue of May, 1915, thus accounting for its present quotation in the catalogue. Early in 1916 a fresh printing on dyed paper was received in the colony. For the same reason the 10s in its original blue-green shade is a scarce stamp.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.

3d and 1s, 1913.—Restricted printings of these two stamps were made on surface tinted yellow and green papers, and placed on sale in March, 1914. Within a few months they were replaced by new printings on dyed papers and in consequence are numbered amongst the more elusive "White back" varieties. In the current Gibbons, Part I, they are priced at 15s and 25s respectively.

MONTSERRAT.

5s, 1914.—The high value stamps of the B. W. I., although occasionally met with on parcels, are chiefly used for revenue purposes. Even then they are not required in large quantities. This particular stamp was rendered obsolete after a currency of only two years by the adoption of a new design for the Montserrat series in 1916.

MOROCCO AGENCIES.

12p on 10s De La Rue.—This is the outstanding rarity of the Georgian series of the British P. O. in Morocco, despite the fact that it was only issued to the public in March, 1920. The shade is grey-blue and only 800 copies are said to exist. It fetches at least double the price against it in S.G., viz. 20s.

NORTHERN NIGERIA.

5s, 10s and £1, 1912.—The comparative scarcity of the high values of this series is accounted for by the fact that following on the amalgamation of Northern and Southern Nigeria in a single colony in 1914, their separate stamp issues were replaced by a single series inscribed "Nigeria."

NAURU.

5s and 10s, Waterlow printing.—These stamps are unpriced by Gibbons, but in Field's War Stamp Catalogue they figure at £10 and £50 respectively. In "War Stamps of the Allies" it is stated that they formed part of the first supply of overprinted British stamps sent to Pleasant Island and that only 120 of the 5s and 6o of the 10s were printed, They are without doubt extremely rare.

TOGO.

1s emerald green.—Finally we come to a rather "dark horse" in the last printing of the 1s Togo on Gold Coast. This formed part of a consignment sent out to the colony during the period, April-June, 1920. It was issued at Lome within a few weeks of the transfer of the territory to the French administration. It does not figure in any of the parcels of high value London overprints that are being offered in the market just now, and as the remainders are stated to have been destroyed, may turn out to be a high rarity. All sorts of fancy prices are being asked for it just now, but no definite information as to the numbers in existence seems to be available.—Stamp Collectors' Monthly Circular.

THE "5" MSS. HAWAII.

By BRUCE CARTWRIGHT.

(This article is a valuable contribution to philatelic history and we take pleasure in printing it. It establishes the authenticity of a Hawaiian stamp that has been more or less under fire in past years. We take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to the facts as stated by Mr. Cartwright.—W. O. W.)

The question as to the status of the "5" Mss. Hawaii (Scott No. 7) has been discussed by eminent authorities for many years. The late Henry S. Crocker, author of "Hawaiian Numerals" believed it to be a bona fide provisional issued in 1857, on account of the shortage of the 5 cts. blue on thick white paper (Scott No. 5).

I have come to the conclusion that he was right, as far as he went. There is no question but that this "provisional" was used, at least between the dates of May 20, 1857, and June 27, 1857, as the following covers, which are genuine without a doubt, will prove:

Cover No. 1—described by Henry S. Crocker, in an article entitled "Notes on Hawaiian Stamps" and sold as a leaflet by MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

In the upper right hand corner of the envelope a "5" on 13 cts., Hawaii, and a 12 cts. U. S. 1851-6 issue, both beautifully cancelled "San Francisco, July 16, 1857." In the upper left hand corner is "Honolulu, June 27th., U. S. Postage Paid", and in the lower left hand is the postmark "New Haven, Sept. 4th, 1857."

This shows that the Provisional was used in Honolulu on June 27, 1857.

Cover No. 2—a cover in the collection of Dr. Sanford of New Haven, Ct., a photograph of which is in the possession of the writer, who also examined the original in 1904, when a student at Yale.

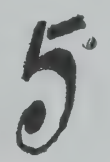
The cover was of orange colored paper. In the upper left hand corner is a "5" Mss. Hawaii, adjoining it on the right is a 12 cts. U. S. 1851-6 issue, both covered with the cancellation "San Francisco, Cal. Jul 20, 1857." In the right hand corner appears the following cancellation "Honolulu, U. S. Postage Paid, June 27th," in red, and a pen memo along the left edge reads "June 11, 1857."

This proves that on June 27, 1857 this letter was accepted at the Honolulu P. O. and the "5" provisional was attached.

Please note that the date June 27th appears on both these covers.

Single off the Cover—Now in the collection of the writer, has a part of the San Francisco cancellation in black, but of a different type from that mentioned in regard to Cover No. 2, and bears a part of the date May 20.

The Mss. "5" on cover No. 2, and on the single in the collection of the writer, are exactly the same, showing that they were written by the same person. Reference to the letter press copy books of the P. O. at Honolulu for 1857, shows that they agree exactly with the "5" that Postmaster Joseph Jackson wrote in dating his correspondence. We can therefore refer to this type of Mss. "5" as the "Jackson Mss." It is a very regular "5" similar to the following illustration.



The Jackson Mss. (1857)

The Clark Mss. (1861)

Recently I have come into possession of extracts from some of the correspondence of the Postmasters of this period, at Honolulu. Two of these letters are exceedingly interesting, and while they may have been published before, I have never seen them, and think that many collectors will be interested in their contents.

THE FIRST LETTER.

"GENERAL POST OFFICE.
HONOLULU, March 16, 1861.

To C. S. BARTOW, P. M.,
Lahaina, Maui.

Yours of the 13th is at hand. I herewith send the Two Cent stamps ordered. I also send Twenty-Four Dollars worth of 13 cent stamps which I have rated at 12 cents, and you can sell them at that rate until a supply of 12 cent stamps is received from San Francisco.

A. K. CLARK,
Postmaster General."

U. S. Overprinted "Shanghai"

Collectors do not seem to be aware of the fact that this issue has been out of use for more than a year and as very few were issued this series—the only Colonial issue of the United States—is likely to become exceedingly hard to find.

Centering is a long way from perfect—you must take them as the Gov't supplied them to us—and take them quickly, too, if you intend to get them at or near this price. Page 33 in Scott—Nos. 3280 to 3297 inclusive.

Match and Medicine

Most of you probably guess the answer to last week's announcement. But it is no guess on my part that the four points therein set out are true or that this line is the most fascinating that can be taken up. Find some collector who has a collection, examine the collection and ask him and then judge for yourself.

I have some fairly priced approval books of Match and Medicine to send to those interested. Please include reference (your bank and a stamp dealer preferred) if you have not had an approval account with me within two years. Also please state how much of a collection you already have.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

To thoroughly understand the importance of this letter it must be remembered that a supply of United States stamps was kept on hand at the Honolulu Postoffice as a convenience to the public. The postage rate on letters to the United States was 17 cts. 5 cts. being for Hawaiian postage and 12 cts. for ship's postage and U. S. Postage. Letters to be mailed to the United States were sent to the postoffice at Honolulu bearing a 5ct. Hawaiian stamp, if available. The letter would be accepted by the postal agents on the other islands, away from Honolulu. The sender would pay 17 cts. The postal agent would forward the unstamped letter to the Post Office at Honolulu if no stamps were on hand, either Hawaiian or U. S. The Honolulu Post Office would affix the proper stamps, and charge the amount to the sender, in account. The post office in Honolulu would attach a 5 ct. Hawaiian and a 12 ct. U. S. stamp, if none were available in the other islands, but would not cancel same. The cancellation placed on the envelope was simply a memo. to the San Francisco Post Office that "U. S. Postage was paid."

Now the above letter shows that on March 16, 1861, the Honolulu Post Office and the postal agent at Lahaina, were out of U. S. 12 ct. stamps, so the Honolulu Postmaster authorized him to use 13 ct. Hawaii (Scott No. 6) as a 12 ct. U. S. Stamp. It being understood that if a letter arrived at Honolulu from Lahaina bearing a 5 ct. Hawaiian stamp and a 13 ct. Hawaiian stamp, that the U. S. Postage of 12 cts. had been paid to the Lahaina Postal Clerk. Now the question arises as to the method of procedure adopted after the letter was received bearing these stamps at Honolulu. Did the Honolulu Postmaster hold the letter until a supply of 12 ct. U. S. stamps arrived and then place one on the envelope, near these other stamps or over the 13 ct. stamp, or did he forward the letter to San Francisco, upon an understanding with the San Francisco postmaster that the letter would go to its destination, without further U. S. stamps being placed thereon if it bore the 5 ct. Hawaiian stamp, and the 13 ct. Hawaiian stamp which was really a memo. to the effect that 12 ct. U. S. Postage had been paid in Hawaii, and would be accounted for by the Hawaiian postmaster? This is a very interesting question that may be solved by someone getting access to the Letter press copy books of the San Francisco postoffice, covering this period. However, the fact remains that the 13 ct. dark red, Hawaii (Scott No. 6) was used provisionally, upon the authority of the Honolulu Postmaster General, as a 12 ct. U. S. Stamp.

THE SECOND LETTER.

"GENERAL POST OFFICE,
HONOLULU, March 21, 1861.

To C. S. BARTOW, P. M.,
Lahaina.

Yours of the 20th came to hand this morning. I was much surprised that you did not receive my letter relative to the 13 cent stamps, but find that the letter was left in the press after writing, and was not forwarded with the stamps as written. The 13 cent stamps sold as Five Cents are all crossed with the figure "5" and consequently cannot interfere with the sale of these at 12 cents.

A. K. CLARK,
Postmaster General."

Here we have absolute proof that the "5" Mss. was an authorized provisional.

It is a well known fact that there are two types of the "5". The first type, which I have called the "Jackson Mss." and the second type which I have called the "Clark Mss." because the "5", of the second type, is similar to the "5" used by Mr. Clark in his correspondence of this period.

With this data, there should be a distinction made between these provisionals. The "Jackson Mss." should be listed as the issue of 1857, and the "Clark Mss." as the issue of 1861.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The fact that so many people were stung by this Julius Piller of Vienna causes us to say a word about his dealings or rather swindlings. Fortunately, we were not caught in the trap as we believed his offers were too good to be true and asked one of our representatives in Vienna to look this party up for us. With this report:—He is a single man living with his mother in a very poor section of Vienna. He is not a stamp dealer, or at least our representative could not find anything that looked like stamps in the cottage in which he lives. He is not a member of any club there. It has been known that he makes offers in foreign lands demanding payment in advance and never sends stamps. We were advised that perhaps the best way to take the matters up would be thru the Osterreichschen-Briefmarken-handler-Verein, who, in the interest of philately would soon put this party where he belongs.—HAWKEYE STAMP CO.

HENRY STANTON.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

The firm of H. Stanton & Co. is listed in the New York State Directory for 1859 at German Flats (Mohawk) which is in the vicinity of the present City of Amsterdam.

Henry Stanton first appears in the Syracuse Directory for 1864-5, his factory being on East Water Street between Chestnut and Walnut Streets, close to the Erie Canal. He is listed continuously until 1881, but after that year his occupation is not given, so presumably he was out of the match business. From 1866 his son, Henry Stanton, Jr., was associated with him in the business, but the latter does not appear in the Directory for 1881-2, or later. From 1876 to 1881 the Novelty Match Works, H. Stanton, Prop., is listed at 222 & 224 East Water Street, Syracuse, which was very near the other factory. This factory is not listed after 1880, and for about a year there appears to have been no match factory in Syracuse. Quite likely the Stanton business was acquired by the Diamond Match Co. along with many other match factories at that time.

Regarding the stamp used by Mr. Stanton the Boston Book gives the following data:—

Die approved, May 5, 1866.
First issued, July, 1866.
Last issued, December 8, 1880.
16,496,020 issued on old paper.
24,433,172 issued on silk paper.
10,791,281 issued on pink and watermarked paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The design forms an upright rectangle of the standard 1c size, having slightly waved edges and much resembles the design of the Orono match stamp which was engraved and first issued at the same period. A central oval contains a three-quarter portrait of Mr. Henry Stanton, Sr., which is enclosed by two sets of curved panels, one within the other. The outer panels are inscribed in colorless capitals "H. STANTON—SYRACUSE" above and "U. S. INTER REVENUE" below. The inner panels read "New York—Matches" above and "One Cent—One Cent" below, all in colored letters. A colorless numeral of value resting upon a horizontally lined ground is placed diagonally in each of the four corners. The stamp is almost devoid of ornamentation and is not particularly attractive. The stern features of Mr. Stanton sort of keep one at a distance.

Probably there were not less than five plates used for printing this stamp, which was one of the earlier Carpenter productions. All of the Stanton stamps on old paper and many of those on silk paper were printed in Philadelphia. The remainder of the silk paper stamps and all of the pink papers were printed by the National Bank Note Company of New York, and it appears that that Company also printed some of the watermarked stamps. Probably there was a printing of the watermarked stamps by the American Bank Note Co., although no specimens from such a printing have ever been identified by the writer. There may also have been a printing on watermarked paper by the Bureau but as the records quoted show that the last issue of Stanton stamps was made within two months after the Bureau began to print private die revenues, a printing by the Bureau is doubtful. Usually it was customary to keep a considerable supply—enough to last three months or more—on hand so that orders for stamps from manufacturers could be filled immediately.

The black ink always used on the stamp varies little in depth, and the slight variation in shade seems due to the different papers used rather than to the ink itself. Early printings on the thin old paper are usually a more intense black than the later printings on waterwarked paper. The stamp quite possibly exists on experimental silk paper, as it was current when that paper was in use, and it is found on other varieties of the old paper. A few blocks and other multiples on silk paper have been seen, but these appear to be unused and proof that the stamp was ever used in multiple is lacking.

The old paper has been quoted at 50c continuously since 1888, except for a few years between 1895-99 when it was 75c. This quotation seems out of line as the old paper is relatively scarce and fine copies are seldom obtainable. The silk paper is plentiful and no doubt always will be. The pink and watermarked papers are easier to obtain than the old paper, but the watermarked paper is somewhat over-rated. It was priced 5c in 1898, 25c from 1900 to 1904, and 50c, since 1906. The 1898 quotation was certainly too low but the present figure is liberal for as good specimens as can be found.

PORTUGUESE COLONIALS

Few collections have a good showing of these stamps, and few dealers can show a good stock or variety of them. The majority of them are "hard-to-get" and desirable. We have for years been filling up at every opportunity and have today a very fine stock of all Portuguese Colonials, three quarters complete at least. Send us your list of wants, or we can submit approvals if your collection is not too large. These are stamps you cannot buy any time you feel like it, but should grab when the chance offers. Of three-quarters of these colonials there is no quantity supply anywhere.

FRENCH COLONIALS

Our remarks about Port. Col. apply to the various French Colonies as well, and we hold a very nice stock of both 19th and 20th. Not complete, but there is no such thing as a complete stock of these. Tell us what you want. Prices run about half list to sixty per cent. of cat. Sometimes a bit less than half, but in all cases reasonable for this class of goods.

WANT LISTS

suit us as well as any way of buying. Why not let us have yours? We have the stock at a "fair price to you and us," it's up to you to send us your list, 19th or 20th, any country on the map. No use in our making offers here, but tell us what you want and get list of our approval books and details of our approval dept. It offers you a service only possible at an enormous outlay.

EDITORIAL.

History—We have received an inquiry asking where "a history of American Philately" could be had; and when we wrote our correspondent that he would be under the necessity of gleaning his history of stamps in this country from the philatelic publications, first to last, and diversified and scattered sources of information, we realized that the answer was inadequate and unsatisfactory. Over a score of years ago, we voiced the hope that some philatelic historian would arise to encompass a work for which there were many demands, actual and sentimental. We suggested then, we remember, that the stamp societies in the philatelic centers make it a special order of business to compile the stamp records of their cities from the beginning. The task of coalescing these accounts if done with a sense of proportion would yield a history that could be accepted as standard. In 1898, when we discussed the question, we said that there were men alive who had assisted at the birth of philately and who had lived in the world of stamps all their lives; and it was they who could qualify as historians. Now, however, another generation has come and few collectors there are who from say, 1860, have unremittingly trimmed the philatelic lamps. There are invaluable memoirs of a few of the European deans of philately but there has not been an authoritative compilation of the origin, rise and development of stamp collecting in this country. The plain, unvarnished tale of philately in America would make a book that would have a value as a work of reference, and both please and profit the reader.

Meetings—The annual conventions of the national stamp societies are now within striking distance. First in August comes the convention of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association at Chicago. As all members know, the American Philatelic Society convention will be held at Milwaukee beginning August 9; and the succeeding week, the Society of Philatelic Americans will foregather in Minneapolis. There are indications that the convention of the American Philatelic Society will be well attended and that work of general benefit to philately will be accomplished there.

Pert—The following bit of column fodder from the Cleveland News was relayed to us by Mr. Alvin Good who observes: "They do keep knocking us a little." "Secret of Spending. And if you ask how a man could squander $1,000,000 on a lady friend, the answer is the same as if he had spent it on a stamp collection or a model farm—he had it." Not unclever and not exactly waspy at that. Stamp collecting and model farming in happy juxtaposition certainly do not offend the most fastidious; and we shall leave the lady friends out of the discussion. One thing that we are willing to guarantee is that the man who "had it" finds that the million that he spent on stamps has a salvage value of a better part of a million, with "model farm" a slow second and "lady friend" a weak third.

High—While we are having a hot time juggling with a cool million, we may as well tell the tale of some of the recent spenders, as it was lilted into our ear. Strike up the lyre, Sulyman. A dealer who has the reputation of working quickly eased $30,000 out of an avid buyer in about six months. Another wealthy new collector put $12,000 into U. S. in jig time through one of the most reputable dealers and on several fancy pieces, the seller offers the collector a premium. Another thing is no myth. The number of collectors who are ready to spend a few thousand dollors for a desirable stamp has increased manyfold during the last twelve-month or two.

Lincoln—Mr. Paul M. Mulford of Buffalo, is a collector of Lincolniana and he includes the pictures of Honest Abe on stamps, in his collection. Mr. Mulford sends us the following contribution: "Abraham Lincoln is twice remotely connected with philately, you might say. In 1833, he was appointed as the postmaster of New Salem, Illinois. He liked the office as it afforded him an opportunity to read from the newspapers that were received. He carried the office in his hat and when he met a citizen who asked for his mail, Lincoln removed his hat and looked in it for a letter. By having his office "in his hat," Lincoln was able to go where he wanted. He kept the office until it was discontinued or consolidated. I have in my possession two letters as follows: Mr. Spears. At your request I send you a receipt for the postage on your paper. I am somewhat surprised at your request—I will, however, comply with it. The law requires newspaper postage to be paid in advance and now that I have waited a full year you choose to wound my feelings by insinuating that unless you get a receipt I will probably make you pay again—Respectfully, A. Lincoln. Received of George Spears in full for postage on the Langams Journal up to the first of July 1839. A. Lincoln." The second letter is a model of brevity that we could well pattern after: "Messrs. Your subscriber at this place, John C. Vance is dead, and no person takes the paper from the office. Respectfully, A. Lincoln. (Dated New Salem, Ill., Nov. 3, 1835.)" Mr. Mulford continues: "I have also in my possession, a picture of Samuel Hill, in whose store Lincoln housed his post office." We think that Mr. Mulford's data is very interesting and we are pleased to publish these postalic side-lights on the Great Emancipator.

Change—In the Jacksonville, Ill., Daily Journal for July 6, 1921, the "Old Jacksonville" feature by Ensley Moore, member of the Illinois State Historical Society, tells of "Mail Facilities." In speaking of stamps in the early days, he says that they "cost as much as ten cents when they were first issued." He adds that small offices were not well supplied with them "and the local officials were apt to be incompetent and independent, if not insulting to patrons of the office."

Further: "By 1849, Jacksonville had a daily mail. A letter from Philadelphia cost 25 cents and one from Quincy called for 12 cents. Sometimes the persons to whom letters were addressed would not have the cash to bail them out and they might lay in the office for several months. One reason was because the government required cash and would not take coon skins or bee's-wax." In his article, Mr. Moore slips a cog, if he is speaking of the early U. S. when he mentions that our stamps "were crude in design and they had no paste on the back." We know that there was complaint about the non-adhesiveness of the gum on the 1847 and 1851 issue but the gum was there.

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

XXXI.—COMMUNICATIONS.

a.—Overseas Steam.

The first steamer to visit the island was H. M. S. transport "Spitfire", on November 4th, 1840, bringing a detachment of the Royal Veterans from Halifax. Her appearance in the Narrows at St. John's caused great consternation among the inhabitants, few ever having seen such a vessel. As the result of negotiations with the Lieut.-Governor of Nova Scotia, a regular steam packet service was inaugurated between Halifax and St. John's, by the steamer "North American", which arrived at St. John's on April 2nd, 1844, a run of 60 hours.

Two steamers of the Furness-Withy line, the Digby and the Sachem, now provide a fortnightly passenger, freight and mail service between Liverpool and Halifax, calling at St. John's en route. The Allan Line steamers also call at St John's, en route to Philadelphia from Glasgow. Direct mails are received and dispatched by these steamers, though the majority is sent out via Canada.

The Red Cross steamer Rosalind maintains a fortnightly service between St. John's and New York, and carries the parcel post mails, and some general letter mail.

b.—Bay and Coastal Steam.

With a coastline of over 4000 miles, and numberless fiords, steamers play an important role in the conveyance of island mails. Even at this date, the population of a quarter million is confined to settlements along the coast, and at last census, only a score of towns had a population in excess of a thousand. The chief towns outside of St. John's, the capital, (34414), are Harbour Grace (4279), Carbonear (3540), Twillingate (3348), and Bonavista (3911). Grand Falls (1643), the locale of the great paper mills of the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co., is the largest inland town.

Sailing packets for many years conveyed passengers, freights and mails along the coast, and on the great bays of the island, and not until 1852 was a grant of £500 made by the local legislature for steam service on Conception Bay. But even at the opening of the 20th century sailing packets still served on the larger bays to connect up the smaller settlements with the steamer port of call.

For eight months in the year there is a fortnightly coastal steamer service. The western route steamer "Portia" serves the southern coast, and the western coast as far north as Bonne Bay, while the northern route steamer "Prospero" cares for the eastern and northern bays, and the coastal settlements of the northern peninsula as far north as Quirpon.

The coastal steamer on the northern route usually cares for the Labrador coast during the open season from June to November, connecting at Battle Harbour, with a smaller steamer making the settlements to the north.

For many years the western route steamer called at St. Pierre in the French islands to the south of Newfoundland, but this service was discontinued in 1889, as the French contributed nothing to the expense of the service. Mails for St. Pierre and Miquelon are now received and dispatched through Halifax.

On the coastal steamers as well as those on the larger bays, there are traveling post office clerks, who assort and distribute mails at the different ports of call.

c.—Trans-insular Railway.

The trans-insular railway was built at the close of the 19th century, from St. John's northward to the Lower Exploits river, west to the Bay of Islands, and thence south to St. George's Bay and Port-aux-Basques, near Cape Ray. Branches are in operation to Heart's Content, Bay de Verde, Placentia, Trepassey, and Bonavista, and others are proposed to Fortune on the south coast, and Bonne Bay on the west coast. The railway keeps to the coast, skirting the heads of the great bays, instead of connecting St. John's and Port-aux-Basques directly, which would require it to pass through unsettled regions and be of little service to the population.

The road is narrow gauge, 546 miles long, and the trip from Port-aux-Basques to St. John's consumes 28 hours. The express train leaves Port-aux-Basques at 8.30 a.m., and arrives at St. John's at noon the following day. The railway is operated by the Reid Newfoundland Co. under a 50 year contract with the Government. Recently a loan of some millions of dollars was made by the Government to the Company, and a Commission was appointed by the Government to supervise the expenditure of this money for equipment and improvements.

Since the opening of the railway practically all mails from the United States and Canada have come in by this route, except in severe weather when the railway is out of commission. There is steamer service between Port-aux-Basques, the western terminus of the trans-insular railway and North Sydney, N. S., the terminus of the Intercolonial railway. This service is daily, except Sundays, save when the cross-country train service is interrupted. At such times, the steamers come direct to St. John's. During the winter of 1921, this steamer service was weekly. When St. John's and North Sydney are ice blocked, the steamers come from Louisburg, N. S., to Placentia on the south coast, where the mails are transferred to the railway and continue to St. John's.

Previous to 1902 the inland mail service was practically non-existent, but with the completion of the railway new towns and settlements sprung up, and it was necessary to provide postal facilities for these people. The opening of branch lines at later dates increased the railway mail service, so that most of the settlements along the railway now enjoy a daily service.

At North Sydney, N. S., the Newfoundland Post Office Dept. maintains an office for the assorting of mails received from abroad for Newfoundland. They transact no business with the public. On the steamers between North Sydney and Port-aux-Basques, as well as the cross-country and branch line trains, there are mail clerks who assort, receive and deliver mails en route.

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to

FOREIGN STAMPS

In purchasing collections of stamps in order to obtain the United States portion in which I am especially interested, it is often necessary to buy the foreign. As I do very little dealing in these, a quantity has accumulated such as are found in most general collections. I offer fine specimens assorted, either used or unused, at big discount from Scott's 1920 quotations. Every stamp is in fine condition, and at my prices are excellent buys for dealers or collectors. Send me any amount from $1.00 on, and if you are not thoroughly satisfied, they may be returned for a full refund. There are no great rarities on such a basis, but are fine stamps cataloguing from 25c to $5.00 each.

In ordering, express a preference as to countries and the selection will be made up accordingly. These stamps positively could not be mounted and sold separately on such a basis, for they are the kind that readily bring 50 to 75% of catalogue and include many fine British Colonials as well as Old Issues. No late European will be included unless especially asked for.

Can also furnish the blocks in envelopes, which I have recently offered.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mention has been made from time to time of early uses of the First Class Printed Permits. In the far distant future, when this method of prepaying postage is likely to take the place of the general use of postage stamps, it will be interesting to learn as to the early days of the machines for turning out these permit covers.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Charles C. Dargue, we are in a position to give information as to the earliest uses of these permits. From a letter received from the Columbia Postal Supply Company, of Silver Creek, N. Y., we are informed that "the first postmarking machine used for first class permit work, was used by ourselves here in Silver Creek; in fact, it was the only regular postmarking machine making first class permit postmarks during 1920."

"The second machine was used by the American Wholesale Corp., of Baltimore, Md., the first postmark being made on January 3rd 1921."

"Probably the first permit postmark made on any kind of a machine or device to be transmitted through the mails, were sent out by Lansburgh Bros., of Washington, D. C. They had an electrotype made for their multigraph machine and sent out a few pieces of mail in this manner."

It will be recalled that the Silver Creek permit as well as the one issued in Baltimore were chronicled at the time of issue. We however, have not had the pleasure of viewing one of the Washington varieties and would like to be privileged to examine such a cover if any are in existence.

Mr. George E. Virden, sends for inspection, a copy of the current 10c documentary, overprinted in two lines by means of a rubber stamp in rose "Stock Transfer". He informs us that the Dallas, Texas, revenue office ran out of the reguar overprinted stamps and made these to meet the immediate demands. He writes that he has seen the 4c, 10c, $1.00 and $2.00 with a similar surcharge. When this tax law first went into effect, we recall that the New Orleans office overprinted these documentary stamps "F. D." by means of a rubber stamp for use as Future Delivery stamps. The New York office surcharged them in manuscript but these are the first provisional Stock Transfer stamps that have come to our attention.

While speaking of revenues, it will be of interest to Tax Paid collectors to learn that the State of Iowa now charges a special State tax on cigarettes, in addition to the usual Federal Tax. This is collected by means of adhesive stamps similar in size to our current postage stamps, perforated 11 on unwatermarked paper. Horizontally across the top of the stamp we find "State of Iowa" immediately underneath in large capitals in two lines "Cigarette Tax", large figures in the lower corners with the word "Cent" across the bottom. In the background we see a portion of a building, evidently the State Capitol. Early copies of these stamps have been shown us by Mr. H. A. Thatcher and Mrs. Edward T. Carter. Two denominations have been issued, namely, the 1c in light green and the 2c in a rose.

Mr. Joseph A. Hyde, has sent for inspection a copy of the 2c 1898 in the red orange shade, showing a very distinct shift. Nearly the entire stamp is doubled. This will rank among the best shifts that we have in the issues of our country.

Quite a few new provisional 2c on 3c envelopes have recently come to hand and we are chronicling a number of them at this time. Most of these have been received direct from the people using them with the exception of three new varieties kindly sent us by Mr. R. F. Molitor from Cleveland. We list the first from Manchester, N. H., and with the listing of these, we have chronicled at least one or more impressions from every die distributed by the Department.

BOLIVIA.—Mr. Frank C. Davis submits to us a cover with half of the 1b of the 1913 issue. The stamp is bisected diagonally and is postmarked "San Cristobal".

BULGARIA.—Mr. W. T. Wilson has submitted to us six stamps which they are advised is a "Bulgaria temporary issue of stamps prepared for Bulgarian Victory set 1915-16". They are of different types and the following values; 10 and 20s; 10c, two kinds; 10g. All have the date "1915-16" except the 20s and while three of stamps show different native views the other two have the likeness of the King. Three of the stamps are in dull red shade, the 10c red lilac and the 25s blue.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC.—Mr. Frank C. Davis has sent to us a cover with the large 50c airplane stamp with the values in the two lower corners changed from "50c" to "30c" by a hand stamp in red. The stamp has at the top the words "Sociedad — Colombo — Alemana" and at the base between the figures of value de "Transportes Aereos".

NICARAGUA.—Mr. Frank C. Davis has shown us the 3c official stamp of the 1915 issue with the overprint "Vale un centavo de cordoba" in three lines and in red. The word "Oficial" is obliterated by two horizontal lines.

NEW ZEALAND.—We learn that a new denomination—viz. 8d,—is to be added to the current King George series almost immediately.

Messrs. Verne & Co., writing from Christchurch in this connexion, under date April 14th, 1921, mention that, so far, there is no news of a 5d value, but they would not be surprised if such a one made its appearance shortly.

The same correspondents report that the Victory stamps are no longer obtainable at the Christchurch post offices, and that no more of them are to be supplied. —Stamp Collecting.

PARAGUAY.—Mr. Frank C. Davis has shown us the 1p 50c postage due stamp of the 1914 issue with the surcharge "Habilitado en 1.00 1920" in three lines in black.

PERU.—It will be a hundred years on July 28th since Peru separated from Spain and became an independent Republic. To commemorate this important event there are to be held in Lima several celebrations, and among the most important of which will be the International Centenary Exhibition. Manufacturers' goods, including machinery, &c., intended for exhibition purposes will be admitted free of Customs duties and Consular fees. A commemorative series of postage stamps is also on the programme.—Stamp Collecting.

TURKEY.—Mr. M. Dicranian sends us the following: "It seems that Moustapha Pasha's National 'Bashi-Bozouk' government has no time nor money to order an European firm to prepare a set of stamps for their own use. I have just obtained two envelopes one from Kerrassound, a port on the Black Sea, has eight Turkish stamps Scott's No. 1,227 and one revenue, red brown, stamp on which is surcharged with five lines of Arabic characters as follows: 'Osmanli Posts 2 Piastres 1337 (Turkish calendar)' and the value of 2 pi described by ornamental letters. The other envelope mailed from Kharpoot (an American missionary centre before the war) on which was three yellow revenue stamps of one piastre surcharged in two lines 'Osmanli Postes 1337'. I think it is interesting if I say that most of the letters mailed from the territory of the Nationalists passes through Constantinople proved by a special post office dated cancellation."

A WORD ABOUT FERRARI.

So much attention has been aroused in all parts of the world by the impending sale at Paris at Twelve successive auctions of the most unique and unrivaled collection of postage stamps in existence—valued by experts, according to market prices, at $20,000,000.00—that it may be of interest to explain just who the mysterious individual is by whom the collection was formed.

He has been alternately described as "De la Renautiere," as "La Renetiere" and as "Phillippe Ferrari." True, his patronymic was Ferrari, but he was by right of inheritance the Duke of Galliera, a title which, however, he refused to accept owing to a bitter quarrel with his father. What that quarrel was always remained shrouded in mystery. It probably had something or other to do with business transactions of the old duke and the methods by means of which he as well as his own father, a famous miser, had amassed an altogether colossal fortune as contractors and bankers. So acute were the dissensions between father and son that the latter would not even touch a cent of the paternal wealth. He insisted that everything should go to his mother and that she should provide for its distribution after her death.

It may be recalled that she bequeathed the superb Galliera palace, in Paris, on the Rue de Varennes, in the Faubourg St. Germain, to the late Emperor Francis Joseph and that it was used as the Austrian embassy until the outbreak of the war.

The duchess' own ancestral palace, on the Place de la Concorde, which had come to her from her De Brignole-Salle forbears, she left to the papacy for use as an embassy for the pontifical nuncio to France.

Her superb collection of jewels as well as a considerable sum of money were left to the widowed Empress Frederick of Germany, sister of Edward VII, who on her demise divided the gems between her favorite daughters, Queen Sophia of Greece and princess Frederick of Hesse. All her extensive Italian property and that of her husband went to Prince Anthony of Bourbon, husband of the Infanta Eulalie, on the condition that he should assume the name and title of Duke of Galliera.

He accompanied the infanta on the occasion of her visit to the United States in 1893, but has long since been separated from her and has broken with most of his relatives. The late duchess also left all her art collections and treasures to the city of Paris, along with a sum of money sufficiently large to build a museum, bearing the name of the Galliera museum, and for its endowment.

The duchess' son, born as an Italian of Genoa, was educated in France at the Sorbonne, where he became a professor of mathematics after securing French naturalization. Later on he transferred his allegiance to Austria, and made his home when in the French capital at the Austrian embassy—that is to say, in a small apartment which he had retained for his own use in the palace bequeathed by his mother to the late Emperor Francis Joseph.

At the time when the international conflagration started, in 1914, his stamp collection was in Paris, while he himself happened to be in Serbia, whence he fled to Switzerland, where, in 1917, he died at Lausanne at the age of 68, unmarried and so unknown that there were all kinds of difficulties about establishing his identity and his nationality. When his will was eventually produced—it had been made in 1912—it was found that he had bequeathed his entire stamp collection (which included the wonderful collection of the late Baron Ferdinand Rothschild, purchased at an enormous sum) to the Imperial Postal museum at Berlin. A German syndicate also put forward claims to the collection on the plea that they had partly completed negotiations for its purchase at the time of the outbreak of the war. But the French government has taken the ground that it was distinctly hostile alien property, and it is by the direction of the state custodian of alien property that it is now coming under the hammer of the auctioneer.—Washington Post.

RETURN OF F. W. REID.

We welcome back to the U. S. and the columns of the WEEKLY F. W. Reid, who has just returned from Australia where he has been in the stamp business for several years. Our older readers will remember Mr. Reid as a former advertiser and he is now located in the Tabor Opera House Block, Denver, Colo. He writes that he has a good stock on hand with something for everybody, "ranging from 5c New Yorks to 18kr Wurtemberg."

CARTER SAYS
Buy Old U. S. and B. N. A.
I have been pounding away for two years in my ads trying to convince collectors that old U. S. and B. N. A. stamps of rarer varieties are a real investment.
Note the ads "WANTED TO BUY" appearing every week. You don't see many of them anxious to sell, because they have so few they don't need to offer them, the approval trade takes all that come in. Why, almost any "piece of cheese" in 1847, 10c; 1851, 5c; 1857, 5c brick red; 1857, 90c; 1868, 90c; 1869, 90c, bring $10 to $12 each and good copies sell over cat. I should have named the 5c buff, this is a good one, too, and very hard to keep in stock. All the early ones of B. N. A. are in great demand, and on the rise. I have confined my money and attention to these issues instead of trying to spread out, that is why I have plenty of these rare varieties all the time. Every stamp priced according to condition; state which you wish to inspect, fine, ordinary or slightly imperfect. There are not enough perfect copies to go around, so many collectors who have not unlimited wealth, must content themselves with inferior specimens or go without, and a blank space doesn't interest anyone.
Write today, telling me what you need, and let me show you one of Carter's selections, which have become very popular.

A. P. S. MEMBERS, THANKS

To the many letters, notes and cards of commendation received from old time as well as new members of the A.P.S. referring to the "Convention Ad" on back cover page of my Auction Sale Catalog No. 235, I can only say "Thank You", and I trust it will result in a greater Convention attendance and a more complete vote and proxy representation. I hope to meet you all at Milwaukee Aug. 7th to 11th.

or more pictures, it seems; and the book becomes interesting as a work of reference for the philatelic library. It would be impossible to attempt to cite the pieces that ordinarily would call for comment, without ignoring the greater number of them, because of space limitations. From Afghanistan to Zululand, the best stamps are shown and one cannot examine the book without being convinced that the sale marked an epoch in auctions of the kind. The firm announces that it will hold an auction sale in New York this year and one in Milan in November. The German cataloguers well name their lists "luxury catalogues."

GOOD-BYE, LITTLE LAD.

By K. E. PARKER.

I read recently that the special delivery fee had been raised from a dime to a quarter, and immediately realized that this would mean the passing of our present special delivery stamp. It is highly likely that there will be no more special delivery stamps, anyway, as the regular ten-cent stamp is used more easily and more frequently than the s. d. As there is no 25 cent stamp in our issue, one will probably be forthcoming, and perhaps a 27 cent to cover postage and the special fee. Let us hope that at last we may see our beloved martyr president on our stamps if these denominations are issued.

At first I was glad to see this useless blue label pass into the discard, but then a revulsion of feeling came over me as I thought of the passing of an old friend, and I was inspired to write the following poem:—

Good-bye, little lad on your fast-pedalled bike,
Who succeeded the boy whom the artist made hike,
Whom they tried to displace with that hideous green
Thing with Mercury's hat, who have stayed for nineteen
Hectic years and in all of that time have not tired;
But now you must go; you've been ruthlessly fired.

Good-bye, paper bit. You are in your last days,
For the rates have been boosted by Postmaster Hays.
You've had three diff'rent watermarks, had your perfs. changed,
And from milky to deep has your bluish shade ranged.
You've speeded the letter and made it less late,
But now you must go, for a quarter's the rate.

You've worked, lad, and pedalled for year upon year;
Cease pedalling, coast, for the finish is near;
It is true you were useless and might have been done
Away with, but then you'd have lost all your fun,
So the gods let you pedal, the P. M. G.'s, too;
But now you must go. Good-bye, boy in blue.

New values will come: twenty-five, twenty-seven,
Perhaps regular series, but your life so riven
Gives way to another—let's hope it shows Lincoln,
Or T. R.'d be fine, I'm given to thinkin'.
Tho they'd be more sensible, still, I must sigh,
"Good-bye, little lad on your bike. Good-bye!"

SZEKULA VINDICATED.

Mr. Bela Szekula desires that we call the attention of our readers to the fact that La Philatelie Francaise has retracted the statements made derogatory to his character. This retraction is couched in the following terms:

"After the insertion of two articles in La Philatelie Francaise, the first dated October 15th, 1920, the second November 15th, 1920, both of an insinuating character calculated to injure Mr. Bela Szekula's honor and reputation, the latter and some of his friends sent us protests and insisted on the facts alleged against him being proved or refuted.

We have considered it our duty to proceed to a most careful consideration with the following result:

(1) The first article published is the work of an occasional correspondent who remained anonymous and merely signed, "Un patriot francais". The second is but the literal reproduction of an English article published under the name of "W. Ward."

(2) No proof emanating from competent departments has been found to support the serious accusations brought against Mr. Bela Szekula.

Considering the above and regarding the Philatelie Francaise as an official report strictly limited to the study of purely professional questions pertaining to philately, and not to be used as a sort of public rostrum where anyone may make charges of similar nature as the ones above impeached, we loyally inform our friends and readers that we disclaim the first article published on October 15th, as well as that published on November 15th, which was but the confirmation of the first."

PORTUGUESE COLONIALS

Few collections have a good showing of these stamps, and few dealers can show a good stock or variety of them. The majority of them are "hard-to-get" and desirable. We have for years been filling up at every opportunity and have today a very fine stock of all Portuguese Colonials, three quarters complete at least. Send us your list of wants, or we can submit approvals if your collection is not too large. These are stamps you cannot buy any time you feel like it, but should grab when the chance offers. Of three-quarters of these colonials there is no quantity supply anywhere.

FRENCH COLONIALS

Our remarks about Port. Col. apply to the various French Colonies as well, and we hold a very nice stock of both 19th and 20th. Not complete, but there is no such thing as a complete stock of these. Tell us what you want. Prices run about half list to sixty per cent. of cat. Sometimes a bit less than half, but in all cases reasonable for this class of goods.

WANT LISTS

suit us as well as any way of buying. Why not let us have yours? We have the stock at a "fair price to you and us," it's up to you to send us your list, 19th or 20th, any country on the map. No use in our making offers here, but tell us what you want and get list of our approval books and details of our approval dept. It offers you a service only possible at an enormous outlay.

EDITORIAL.

Ready—We always view with interest the preliminary arrangements of the cities at which the national philatelic conventions are to be held; and we follow with understanding the fruition of the plans which are approved after due discussion and deliberation. Philatelic human nature at its best has play at the conferences that decide upon the form of the entertainment of guests. Hospitality is the key-note of the collectors in the cities chosen as the convention seats and nothing pleases the hosts better than a large attendance. The conventions are no closed corporations but are meetings at which all members are welcome and the newcomer is assured of consideration equally as well as the member who attends the conventions with some degree of regularity. At the American Philatelic Society meeting at Milwaukee, beginning August 9th, 1921, it is especially desirable that a representative attendance be present, as the indications are that the sessions will be lively and that much legislation affecting the society itself and philately in its larger sense will come up for consideration.

Afar—From Mr. Arthur E. Wellington we have received the following quotation from "Intimate Journals of Paul Ganguins," published by Boni and Liveright, New York: "Across a great ocean, a ship has just touched land, an islet unmarked on the map. There are three inhabitants, however, a governor, a sheriff's officer and a dealer in tobacco and postage stamps." Schopenhouer said that the average man has so circumscribed a vista that he does not escape boredom but not so with the philatelist. The stamp man on the islet visits in imagination all the peoples to whom he sends stamps and to some degree he enters in the lives of all the nations of the world.

Again—While we are quoting, we must find place for the following clipping from the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which has been relayed to us by Mr. Hugh C. Barr, of Vogue: "Lord Curzon, accepting the Washington statue for Trafalgar Square, said that the features of G. W. were better known than those of any great man of past generations. And all due to the two-cent postage stamp."

Music—We have long had a brimming cup of admiration for the stamp collector who, many years ago, suggested that a philatelic brass band be organized for enlivening proceedings at conventions and other great meetings of those who followed philately. Now, our list of private heroes is augmented by Howard Starr Dickey of Newton, Kansas, whose musical compositions have been referred to at different times, in our columns. "Starr Dickey" has sent us an autographed copy of his latest inspiration, his master-piece, he calls it which, cannily, we shall keep until Mr. Dickey's fame is such as to make the signed copy very valuable, when we shall sell it, slyly. Mr. Dickey writes: "I'd like to have the stamp fellows sing it at Milwaukee and I may be there to help put it over. I'll be glad to give all of them a copy." Mr. Dickey's latest song is "Back Home." At the Boston convention of the American Philatelic Society convention, held in 1906, the president, Henry N. Mudge, lead the delegates in a song of his own composition but the words of philatelic inspiration were set to an old tune. Then, at one time, the Chicago Philatelic Society had a song which it sang at meetings until some of the late workers in the office building in which the society met complained at the "disorder." No wonder they say that Chicago's soul is not artistic.

Need—Many of the letters sent by northern soldiers campaigning in the south during the civil war mentioned the scarcity of stamps; and one of the requests usually made was that unused stamps be sent them in the letters from home. Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz sends extracts from letters from Wisconsin soldiers as published in the Wisconsin Magazine of History. "From Haines Bluff, Miss., June, 15, 1863. Written in the vicinity of Vicksburg, as the siege was drawing to a close.) ' . . . . . A letter of May 23rd from home today. I am glad as ever a boy could be, who is in love with his home. I had wondered why no letter came. I wish father had sent me some stamps. Money won't buy them here. They seem to forget my request for stamps. . . . . ' From Cypress Bend, Arkansas, July 2, 1863. ' . . . I loaned all my stamps and I must hunt one to send this letter.' From Snyder Bluff, Miss., July 19, 1863. '. . . . If you had not sent me stamps, I could not send you this letter.'" Mr. Ragatz adds: "You may have heard from some of your soldier friends how difficult it was in the early days of the later war for men in camp to get stamps, government envelopes and postal cards. The Y. M. C. A. finally solved the problem by carrying stocks."

Special—The plan to issue a 25c special delivery stamp to replace the ten cent stamp now in use probably will be welcomed, provided it is found that an improved service results. According to a Washington correspondent, Mr. Hays has ascertained that the advanced rate will allow of "the establishment and maintenance of an express-delivery that ought, he thinks, to increase the popularity of the service, rather than decrease it on account of the added cost." We remember that soon after the special delivery service was established in 1885, there were complaints that it did not in many instances live up to its promise of celerity. When in 1888, the service was extended to include all offices, an improvement was expected but criticisms of the system persisted. It is not unfair to say that the possibilities of special delivery service have not been as successfully developed as they might have been and if the 25c special delivery stamp will ensure prompt and careful treatment, the additional charge will not be begrudged.

Fund—The Fiftieth Anniversary Fund of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, has reached the sum of 1,944 pounds, 140 members out of a total of 389, having subscribed this amount. The prospects seem favorable for the realization of a fund of 5,000 pounds; and when this amount is contributed, there is a likelihood that a building will be bought, in which ample accommodations for the society are offered. The room which could be used for the library and council meetings also could be available for the use of members during the day. We hope that ample support will be given this worthy movement and that in time there will be in London a club that not alone will serve as a conve for members but also as a monum the substantial aspects of philate

EXCELSIOR MATCH CO., Watertown, N. Y.

By CHRISTOPHER WEST.

If it were not for the match stamp which was undoubtedly used in Watertown, New York, it would be difficult to prove that a concern calling itself The Excelsior Match Co. had ever been in existence there. The stamp itself has always been difficult to find and it is far from an easy matter to ascertain the true history of the concern to which it is credited. Up to the time of writing there has come to the writer no evidence that any such concern as The Excelsior Match Co. ever existed or that it was more than a trade name under which the matches were manufactured or sold

The Boston Book states, "All of the correspondence relative to this stamp was carried on in the name of Chas. W. Moffett, who succeeded Earl & Jacobs as proprietor of the Co."

The New York State Business Directory of 1859 lists the firm of S. & E. G. Laflin as match manufacturers at Watertown. In the edition for 1864 the Laflin concern does not appear, but A. L. Gleason is listed in Watertown and the firm of Gleason & Earl is listed at Pamelia, which is a suburb of Watertown. The firm of Gleason & Earl also appears in the edition for 1867 at Watertown (Pamelia), but no further reference to them, or to any match factory in Watertown, has been found, and as neither they, nor any other factory or match concern at Watertown, is listed in the edition for 1874, it would appear that the business was discontinued there previous to the date when the 1874 Directory was compiled. This latter supposition is borne out by the data given in the Boston Book, which is:

Die approved, August 29, 1872.
First issued, August, 1872.
Last issued, January, 1874.
2,352,350 stamps issued on silk paper.
210 stamps per sheet (14x15).

The design forms an upright rectangle of the usual 1c size. In the lower part a circular disk bearing the coat-of-arms of the State of New York is surrounded by a circular band inscribed "Excelsior Match Co." above and "Watertown, N. Y." below. Outside this band in each lower corner of the stamp is a curved ribbon labelled "Friction" at the left and "Matches" at the right. A curved panel crossing the upper part of the stamp is labelled "Inter. Revenue" and the ends of this panel are curved backward in the upper corners of the stamp forming small circular spaces which enclose U at left and S at right. Between them appears "One Cent" and just under it 1 ct. Between the upper panel and the circular band is a triangular space at either side, each of which bears a trefoil. The lower corners are squared up with foliated ornaments triangular in shape. As a whole the design is effective and quite pleasing.

The stamp is exactly like its twin, the Excelsior match stamp of Syracuse, which succeeded it, excepting only the change in firm name, and whereas the Syracuse stamp always has been, and probably always will be, easy to obtain, the Watertown stamp has never been easy to find, and as the years go by probably it will be increasingly difficult. The usual condition is poor and good copies are to be highly prized. Although it may seem to be such, actually it is no exaggeration to say that a fine copy of the Watertown stamp is fully as rare, or nearly as rare, as any adhesive revenue or postage stamp ever issued anywhere in the world.

The current catalog quotation of $2.00 has been in effect most of the time since 1886, and at no time in the past thirty-five years has the stamp been quoted at less than $1.50. As far as the writer can ascertain if all the copies known to be in existence could be gathered into one place and counted, the total would not reach 40.

The stamp was engraved by Carpenter in Philadelphia, and all were printed there. Color, black.

SPECIAL DELIVERY RATE UP.

Charge to be 25 Cents in Future Instead of a Dime.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The cost of sending a special delivery letter is to be raised from a dime to 25 cents.

Postmaster General Hays, in making the change, is going on the theory that when a person sends a special delivery message he wants the message specially delivered, which is a service that cannot be rendered for a dime. As things are now, a messenger gets possibly a hundred special delivery letters and starts out with the whole batch, delivering them in the best order he can arrange. The result is that in most cases the letters come to their recipients one or several hours after they reach the postoffice.

With the government getting a quarter of a dollar, it will be possible to send a messenger with each letter. More than that, the rural communities are to have a service. The plan is to, whenever it is possible, telephone the remote locations that a special delivery letter is at the postoffice.

CANADA JUBILEE STAMPS ON SALE.

ST. CATHARINES, July 12.—Stamp collectors here today struck a regular picnic when Stamp Vendor Griffis of the Postoffice put on sale a whole batch of Canadian stamps of the Queen Victoria Jubilee issue of 1897 one-cent denomination and the two-cent ones of the following year, showing the surprising amount of red that Great Britain had then spread on the globe.

"The stamps were some kept by the late L. H. Collard, private banker here," said Mr. Griffis, "and they were brought here and sold to me as ordinary stamps. So I thought I might as well get rid of them the same way."

When stamp fanciers heard about it they rushed the stamp office and bought up all they could, because in their beautiful, unused form they are worth some money above their face value. Some ordinary folk bought the stamps and pasted them on their letters without thinking, then went back and asked Mr. Griffis if it was a new issue the Government had just got out for some reason.—Toronto Globe.

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to

UNITED STATES RARITIES

Remember that I am in a position to supply the rarer U. S. as well as the commoner varieties and of course am always in the market to buy. During the last few months I have sold such items as singles and pairs of the 24c and 30c 1860 imperforate (two pairs known), superb mint block of the 5c 1847 in the orange brown shade, mint block of the 90c 1857, block of the 3c lake, blocks, mint of course, of the 1869 10c and 90c, set of the 1869 inverts, set of the Pan American inverts, an aeroplane invert, three sets of the blue papers, the rare imperf. 5c error, and so on down the line. If you want to turn your rarities into cash, now is the time. I especially want unusual things in early mint blocks. Must be fine, however.

While I am not the "headquarters" for everything in United States, I can generally furnish the things that headquarters lack. Especially fine stock in mint blocks from 1890 on.

I will have another announcement to make very shortly that will start them all to taking. It will have the support of the foremost dealers and collectors in the country. Something worth waiting for, too. Those who know about it are full of enthusiasm. You will be when you learn about it. If you don't say that fellow Phil Ward is a hustler and is doing a good turn for philately, I miss my guess. Wait for the news. You will be sending your $1 and saying put my name down on the list. If you don't get a full one hundred cents' worth, you may have your money back quick.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES. — The daily press announces that Postmaster General Hays contemplates raising the rate on special delivery letters from 10c to 25c. In making the change he is doing so on the supposition that the general public will prefer to pay the higher rate for better service than that which can be rendered under the present scale, with one messenger getting a batch of letters, with the result that often a special delivery letter takes longer than an ordinary one. The Philadelphia Public Ledger tells us that this is a "sugar coated" way of raising the price of the service.

As the Postmaster General has the authority to raise this rate it is more than likely that we will very shortly be introduced to a new special delivery stamp. In fact it may be assumed that the Bureau of Engraving & Printing is working on the design and that when the stamp is ready the new rate will be ordered. If you have the time at the Bureau, Mr. Hays, will you please give us a bi-colored stamp. It will be a great change from the sameness of the current design which we have been using for thirteen years.

The report of the Secretary of Treasury to Congress in regard to taxation for the coming year also contains recommendations of interest to the stamp collector. He suggests that the domestic rate of postage be changed from 2c to 3c. The Government must have money. In 1920 the revenue of the Post Office Department was $437,150,212 and the expenditures $454,322,609. We are told that a three-cent postage rate would change this deficit of $17,172,397 into net earnings of about $217,000,000. This will mean that we will have another batch of 3c surface prints. As the Bureau has made strides in the printing of stamps by this method since the last lot we may count upon a new type or types. If the act retains the 2c rate on inter city letters we may use up our excess supply of 2c envelopes in this way, otherwise we will probably be overprinting our 2c envelopes "3 Cents." The same remarks will refer to our postal cards. If this happens, Mr. Third Assistant Postmaster General, will you see that a master die for the overprinting is made and that the dies supplied to the post offices throughout the country are taken from this master. That will prevent the half a hundred types of overprints that are to be found in the case of the 2c on 3c provisionals.

Mr. Mellon recommends another means of raising revenue of interest to the collectors, providing Congress acts favorably, and that is a revenue stamp on every check. The rate will possibly be such as will enable the department to collect the tax by means of the present documentary stamps. They used the same stamps in 1898 and there would be no reason for getting out a special check stamp unless the department desires to keep track of the money raised in this manner.

Mr. George P. Smith recently located an item of more than usual interest, namely, a sheet of the 1c rotary print, perforated 10x11, showing one vertical row of blind perforations. A close examination from the front gives the appearance of a horizontal pair imperforate between but the gum shows the marks of the perforating wheel. Some pairs show the perforations cutting slightly on one side only and these resemble a roulette. This is the first variety of its kind from the rotary press although we have had the 2c and 20c from the flat plates. The 2c by the way comes with the blind perforations, both vertically and horizontally, while the 20c is known with the horizontal blind perforations only. Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer tells me that he had the 1c in a similar condition some months back but that he cut them up and used them on his auction catalogues, consequently none are to be had.

Mr. Emile Jost, Mr. R. W. Boisselier and Mr. Smith have called my attention to the current 1c green, perforated 11, unwatermarked, with a very strong offset on the back. These must be pretty well distributed to have been found in the post offices of New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis. Not so very long ago the $1 was found with a similar offset, the 4c having previously been located. Other values are known with slight offsets but these three values are very distinct. Remember that by "offset" I mean a reverse impression on the back, coming from the sheet packed next to it. This is not what we call printed on the back as the case with the 3c surface print.

Mr. R. H. Mason reports that he has obtained a 2c on 1c on 3c provisional envelope bearing the imprint of a South Boston fraternal organization. He states, however, that it has the union label of a Philadelphia Printing Trades Council so that it may have been overprinted in the City of Brotherly Love. A close examination will tell the story. It will be recalled that sometime back two banks in two small Texas towns used similar envelopes, one lot being die A and the other Die E. Mr. Mason's copy is a die F, size 8 on white, watermarked 19.

Mr. R. F. Molitor sends two new colored and one white 2c on 3c provisional envelopes from Cleveland while Mr. E. Strasser has located some of the whites in the same town. Mr. A. F. Gamber has found two new amber with the Los Angeles overprint in Fargo and two new Indianapolis in Grand Forks. Mr. George P. Smith has found the first colored Meridian that has come to my attention, the same having a corner imprint. Mr. J. V. Neilson finds another amber in Charleston while our active western correspondent, Mr. E. J. Newcomer has found the second blue window envelope, with Seattle overprint, the first coming from New Orleans.

We wish to thank Messrs. J. H. Houston, W. A. Beach and George Prechavsky for notes of interest.

ANTIGUA.—The Frank P. Brown Co. have shown us the new set of stamps issued by this colony which are as follows: ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d and 6d on new watermarked paper and 3d, 1sh, 2sh, and 2sh 6d on the old watermarked paper. The stamp shows a profile view of the King in the upper left corner with the figure of value in the opposite side. In the lower right is a view of the island and on the other side are the words "Postage & Revenue." Below is the name of the colony. The colors we assume are the same as the last issue.

AZORES.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the new 24c and 36c stamps of Portugal surcharged "Acores" in black.

BRITISH GUIANA. — The Economist Stamp Co. send us a copy of the 2c red, printed on the new watermarked paper.

JAMAICA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have advised us and submitted a copy of the 5sh of the new pictorial set. The stamp has a yellow brown frame with the view in the centre of dark blue. It is printed on multiple CA paper and shows a picture of the Isle of Wood and Water in the centre. Figures of value are in each corner with the name of the colony at the top and "Postage" at the left and "Revenue" at the right. The name of the view is at the base.

LATVIA. — The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a copy of the 50k green and rose commemorative stamp with the surcharge "10 Desmit Rbl." in two lines in black.

LITHUANIA.—Mr. George Prechovsky has shown us two values of a new set of stamps. They are the 50sk, olive and 1 auk brown and green. The former value shows the likeness of a man in the centre with the value at top and "Lietuva" at the base while the 1 auk value has the inscriptions reversed.

NYASSA.—The Frank P. Brown Co. have submitted to us the new set of stamps recently placed on sale in this colony. The first four values show the giraffe eating from the palm trees while the next five show the likeness of Vasco de Gama and the last value an old time sailing ship. The values and colors are as follows: ¼c red lilac, ½c blue grey, 1c green and black, 1½c black and orange brown, 2c red and black, 2½c black and olive green, 4c black and orange, 5c ultramarine and black, 6c black and purple, 7½c black and brown. At the top are the words "Companhia Do Nyassa" and just below in small type "Correios" In each lower corner are the figures of value with "Centavos" between.

OCEANIC SETTLEMENTS.—Three provisionals have been created here, the surcharging being done at Papeete and comprising:—

5c on 2c, 14,000; 10c on 40c, 14,000; 25c, on 15c 70,000.—Stamp Collecting.

PORTUGAL.—The Economist Stamp Co. sends us the following values: 14c purple, 24c grey green, 36c red, 60c blue, 90c ultramarine and 1e purple.

SWEDEN.—We have first news of the issue, on June 6th, the National Day of Sweden, of three new stamps commemorating the Deliverance of Sweden from the Danes in 1521 by the Dalecarlians under command of that famous champion of liberty, Gustavus Vasa. The values are:

20 öre, dark violet,
110 öre, light blue,
140 öre, grey-black.

—all in a uniform design, portraying Gustavus Vasa in armor, in profile to the right with the armorial bearings of the Vasa family (a sheaf) in the upper right-hand corner and the inscription "Sverige" on the left of the stamp reading upwards, and the denomination at foot, in uncoloured type.—Stamp Collecting.

The Ajax Stamp Co. reports the 110 öre and 140 öre. We quote the following:—

"These two stamps, as far as we are able to find out, are a commemorative issue in honor of Gustaf Vasa, one of the early kings of Sweden.

The stamps are issued in coils and are the same size as those lately issued. The figure of the king is facing the left and the figures of value are at the bottom. The word "Sverige" reading upward is at the left. There is also a small ornament in the upper left-hand corner. The 110 öre is blue and the 140 öre is gray.

These stamps must have been issued the latter part of June because we have just received from our correspondent in Sweden."

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us the following values printed on the new watermarked paper: ¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d grey; 2½d, 5d, 6d and 1sh.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1593 to 1597 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinuance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

HOT WEATHER DOES NOT STOP
my sales. I put prices a little lower (increase the discount) and June proved the best month of the season for gross sales. (Of course the profits were less, but that is my look-out.)
I believe in holding old customers, and in making new ones. In two years I have made a record in this game, I believe, I have as many approval lots out as many dealers who have been in the business much longer. One thing sure, I have a nice stock of old U. S. post. and rev., B.N.A., Br. Colo., Old European, etc., etc. Only old issues, of hard-to-get sort, no cheap junk or trash on my sheets. I carry a line of slightly damaged scarce stamps, at cut prices, which are proving great sellers.
If you have $10 to $1000 to spend, let me hear from you

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER

d.—Courier Service.

This branch of the service not so long ago was the only means of inter-communication throughout the island, but by the extension of the railway and the steamer services, it has been gradually reduced. It is now practically confined to the two northern districts of Twillingate and St. Barbe, where dog teams are the only possible means of conveyance from the first of January to the 30th of April. The continuance of the coastal steam service north, even until the middle of January, has been a great convenience for the dispatch of parcels which otherwise would have accumulated in the G. P. O. and been greatly delayed in reaching their destination.

"Too much cannot be said of the pluck and endurance of these men, who, by dog team or on their shoulders, carry the mails over long stretches of uninhabited country, across frozen arms of the sea and wading rivers where there are no bridges. If there is any heroism attending the mail service it is to be found here, for ofttimes this work has to be done at the risk of life. The rivers may be swollen to torrents, reaching above the waist, or the ice may be thin or treacherous, but His Majesty's mails must go forward, no matter what the cost. In some instances the highest price has been paid in the loss of valuable lives.

Without doubt the most signal example of bravery amounting to daring was the crossing of the straits of Belle Isle from East St. Modeste to Flower's Cove, a distance of ten miles, three times each way, by Courier Ernest Doane. He used a canvas boat so constructed that he could lift it on the ice when it was compact and launch it again on reaching open water. By this means the Labrador mails were delivered in 20 days from St. John's, the ordinary winter route via Quebec taking from 90 to 100 days."

Commenting on this phase of the postal service, Dr. J. Alex Robinson wrote under date of March 4th, 1919, as follows:—

"The resources of the Department are taxed at times during the winter season to keep the mails going even with a semblance of regularity. A disorganized train service and an uncertain steam service add to the burdens of the winter couriers, and to the perplexities of control. A courier arrives with his dog teams to convey mails to find that he must wait for hours, or perhaps days, before the mail arrives, with resultant expense and annoyance. It would be unreasonable to expect schedule time in winter, and the difficulties inseparable from railway operation during the winter months are readily admitted, but the fact remains that couriers are thereby handicapped and discouraged. This is felt more now than at any time in the railway history of the island. Formerly couriers were easily procurable. Now it is with greatest difficulty that they are secured for winter routes. The large wages and high prices for fish, herring and oil, and the introduction of motor boats with the resultant diminution of hardship in the prosecution of fishery very naturally and reasonably cause men to either refuse to undergo the toil and exposure incident to winter mail carriage, or to accept it only at figures greatly in excess of those formerly received. On the other hand, the prevailing prosperity has materially increased the weight, value and interest of the mails, and the public are more anxious for and insist upon receiving them. This too is natural and reasonable, and every effort is made to meet the situation. Making bricks without straw, however, is a process of delightful ease in comparison to the carriage of mails without couriers, and it is not an unusual experience that those who are most critical and most imperative are the least helpful. Last winter the absence of snow and muddy condition of the tracks were the chief difficulties. This winter the absence of men and the heavy snowfalls have proved even greater difficulties. Another drawback is found in the Dog Act, which however, valuable it may be, and undoubtedly is in many respects, renders it a very real task to secure the necessary dog teams for routes where men cannot do the work without them, and where the horse would be unable to travel. It is true

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS OF EMCO PACKET

Packet No. 124 entirely satisfactory. I added over 450 new varieties to a previous collection of 2000 stamps.—H. S. Lynn, Pittsburgh, Pa.

I was very much pleased with the War Stamps I received in your 3000 variety packet as I added about 100 varieties to my collection of 300 Wars. It is a splendid packet all through.—R. Speer, Long Beach, Calif.

I added 316 stamps to a collection of about 3200, not counting the envelope stamps—(given as a premium) —I also found many better specimens to substitute for not-so-good ones already in my album. Then I made up the balance of the stamps into smaller packets and sold them to collectors for $3.00. As I only paid $3.25 for packet No. 124 in the first place, my net expense was 25 cents on the deal. I got so much fun looking the pile over (worth a good deal in itself) that I am converted to packets from now on.—F. M. Gracey, Cambridge, Mass.

Received packet No. 126 (2000 varieties at $10.00) in good condition and am very much pleased with same. Another order enclosed.—C. C. Colyer, Altoona, Pa.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

H. F. COLMAN

that the Postmaster General has power to issue licenses to keep dogs for mail carrying purposes, but licenses are of no use when there are no dogs to be obtained, a position which has been much in evidence both on the northeast and northwest coast.

Another difficulty in the way has been and is the winter parcel post. It constitutes a problem which must be solved, either by the abolition or sensible reduction of the service, or by the employment of an air service, concerning which preliminary inquiries are now in progress. It is regrettable to note that whilst high prices have in many instances been asked because of the heavy weights entailed by the parcel post, some tenderers have refused to carry the parcel mail when the contract has been secured, and when the circumstances render it impossible to find others ready to take up the route."

The following regulations were put into force at the end of February, 1919:—

"Until the opening of navigation parcel delivery on many of the present routes must be partially, and in some places, entirely suspended, the difficulty of securing dog teams and weather conditions, making it extremely difficult to convey heavy mails over tracks impassable for horses.

The maximum weight of parcels for winter courier routes, until the end of April, is decreased from 11 lbs. to 5 lbs. and these can only be accepted in small numbers. Whilst every effort will be made to deliver parcels, the Department cannot guarantee prompt delivery.

Not more than one parcel by any one mail to any one address shall be received from any firm from January 1st to the opening of navigation.

This does not apply to places on the line of railway, but only to delivery by courier."

e.—Postal Telegraphs.

In 1901 the local telegraph system was transferred by the Reid Newfoundland Co. to the Postal Department, and placed under control of the Postmaster General. The line commenced at Whitbourne and extended to a few offices in the northern districts. The first step taken was to run a two wire line from Whitbourne to Port-aux-Basques and open offices at all intermediate places. In 1904 the monopoly of the Anglo-American Co. came to an end, and the Government wires at Whitbourne were at once brought into St. John's. From this time the work of telegraph extension went steadily forward.

In 1902 the rate for 10 words was 50 cents; in 1905 the Government reduced the rate to 20 cents for 10 words, and as a result the business doubled itself in a year.

In 1902 the total mileage of the Postal Telegraphs line was 1,400 miles, with 56 offices, and a revenue of $8,106.00. There is now a mileage of over 3,500 miles, with about 275 offices.

Twice daily a free dispatch of general news is sent to every Postal Telegraph office in the island, and is exhibited at all the offices for general information. The movements of the different coastal and bay mail steamers are reported ahead, to the different ports of call, and the weather forecast is also transmitted free of charge to all offices and to the captains of the mail steamers. It is estimated that the "free" business passing over the wires exceeds $75,000 per year.

When practicable the telegraph offices and the post offices in the outports are combined, but in cases where postal officials who have held the offices for a number of years on a small salary, still desire to hold the office, they are not disturbed. In many instances, the Post Office duties have increased so rapidly that they are enough for one person to attend to, and when the two are combined it is found necessary to appoint two officials, one as operator, and the other as Postmaster or Postmistress as the case may be.

DICTIONARY ADDENDA.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

(We are glad to announce that the Dictionary is nearing completion. This matter will be published as an addenda. We have drawn from various sources for our information and shall be grateful for immediate corrective data or improvement of text. The complete book will be on sale probably in September.)

ALLENSTEIN.—A town and district in East Prussia, population about 25,000, where a plebiscite was ordered by the Versailles Treaty to determine whether Poland or Germany should have dominion. Two sets of stamps were issued, the first Apr. 12, 1920, and the second May 2, consisting of German stamps properly overprinted. The plebiscite was decided in favor of Germany and Aug. 15, 1920, ordinary German stamps were again put into use, though the plebiscite issues remained valid to Sept. 13, 1920.

AMUR PROVINCE.—A tract of territory in Siberia. Stamps are said to have been issued in 1917, bearing the inscription "Amypckoe Zemstoo Moyta" or "American Local Government Post". As we go to press their standing as a necessary postal issue had not been determined.

BALCONY FALLS, VA.—A town where a Confederate provisional appeared in 1861. The stamp is circular in shape and the design is a five pointed star with "10" in the centre and P-A-I-D and the letters "C. S." in the spaces between the points.

B. L. P.—These letters upon certain Italy stamps stand for "Buste—Lettre—postali" or "envelope letters".

B. N. F. CASTELLORIZO.—This surcharge on French Levant stamps means "Base Navale Francaise" and "Castellorizo" the island where the stamps were used.

CASTELLORIZO.—A small island in the Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Asia Minor with a population principally Greeks and occupied by the French as a naval base Dec. 28, 1915. Ordinary French Levant stamps from the French postal agency at Rhodes were used until June, 1920, when in quick succession three issues appeared consisting of both French and French Levant stamps overprinted (a) B. N. F. CASTELLORIZO, (b) O. N. F. CASTELLORIZO and (c) O. F. CASTELLORIZO. The last set appeared Aug., 1920, and soon after the French evacuated the island, which under the terms of the Versailles Treaty was transferred from Turkey to Italy.

COMMISSION INTERALLIE MARIENWERDER.—See Marienwerder.

DANZIG.—A former city of Germany and now considered international territory forming Poland's outlet to the Baltic Sea. Stamps were first issued in June, 1920, consisting of German stamps overprinted "Danzig".

DOPLATA.—An inscription on "postage due" stamps of certain countries indicating the nature of the service rendered.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The St. Paul Pioneer Press of July 10 published a very fine stamp article in which O. J. Olson the well-known St. Paul florist was the central figure. It occupied a bold display across five columns and made a striking appearance with its pictures of stamps. We are indebted to several subscribers for clippings.

Clare Briggs, the "human nature" nature artist who was once a member of a stamp society, we believe, has tinctured one of "The Days of Real Sport" series of cartoons with a philatelic flavor. "Collections" is the theme that serves to introduce ten kids who are shown exulting over their collections of tin tags, cigarette pictures and stamps. Under a tree four boys are looking at a stamp book and one on-looker says: "Gee, you've got a Cape of Good Hope," and a skeptic replies, "I betcha Skin-nay's got more stamps than what you have, I betcha." Mr. Reginald P. Brook in sending the cartoon from the New York Tribune, asks: "How does this take your mind back?" We again see our little stamp pals through the rosy haze of years when our happiest moment was in opening the envelope containing an approval sheet from one of the dealers who advertised in Harper's Young People.

PORTUGUESE COLONIALS

Few collections have a good showing of these stamps, and few dealers can show a good stock or variety of them. The majority of them are "hard-to-get" and desirable. We have for years been filling up at every opportunity and have today a very fine stock of all Portuguese Colonials, three quarters complete at least. Send us your list of wants, or we can submit approvals if your collection is not too large. These are stamps you cannot buy any time you feel like it, but should grab when the chance offers. Of three-quarters of these colonials there is no quantity supply anywhere.

FRENCH COLONIALS

Our remarks about Port. Col. apply to the various French Colonies as well, and we hold a very nice stock of both 19th and 20th. Not complete, but there is no such thing as a complete stock of these. Tell us what you want. Prices run about half list to sixty per cent. of cat. Sometimes a bit less than half, but in all cases reasonable for this class of goods.

WANT LISTS

suit us as well as any way of buying. Why not let us have yours? We have the stock at a "fair price to you and us," it's up to you to send us your list, 19th or 20th, any country on the map. No use in our making offers here, but tell us what you want and get list of our approval books and details of our approval dept. It offers you a service only possible at an enormous outlay.

EDITORIAL.

Catalogue—The advance sheets of the new edition of the Standard Catalogue are a reality, the first instalment having come as an earnest of the book to follow. The curiosity that has been developed as to the treatment of U. S. prices, in the light of the market courses of some of the stamps will be satisfied by an examination of the United States section. The earlier U. S. prices particularly, have all been raised. The advances are orderly rather than spectacular and we suppose are well-judged, although enthusiasts, here and there, are complaining that some of the prices are still far too low. However, we need not worry about these chaps as they may take advantage of the sense of false security that the cataloguers entertain and claim the under-pricelings as their own, if they are speculatively inclined, and cash in at the time that truth crushed to earth, rises again. The 5c, 1847, and the 10c are now $5 and $25, respectively, having risen from $3 and $15. These prices are for ordinarily good copies as 5c and 10c, 1847, in superb state bring almost double these latest quotations. The same remarks apply in some degree to all of the earlier U. S.

Fives—The 5c, 1851 to 1861, inclusive, in their shades have been boosted in price, according to general expectation. These 5's are getting scarcer and are growing in the esteem of specialists. Even the 5c, 1861, plain brown, a modest stamp that does not attract much attention, which seems to come usually in rather good condition is a surprising stamp. It is a job to find one in perfectly centered shape. A lot of two hundred picked up as they came in Europe, yielded us just one really fine stamp out of every twenty on the average; and of perfection copies, there were three. What we started to say was that in 1889 or 1890, a Canadian dealer came to Chicago with a number of pairs of the five cent of 1851 on covers, which he offered at the price of the two single stamps; and we remember that one collector said that as he was forced to buy two stamps to get one, he should be given a reduced price. The 5c, 1851, catalogued $2.50 then, if we remember rightly. Now a pair of the 5c, 1851, will sell from $75 to $150.

Difference—In the course of a letter received recently, Mr. H. D. Armond takes occasion to say: "Some years ago you had a description of a cover that had a used 90c, 1857 on it, which you said was valued at some sum that I thought was preposterous at the time. In fact, an impression was made on my mind and so when upon finding a copy of 'Our Catalogue' of 1894, among my stamp effects which I left at the old home which I am revisiting, I found the 90c, 1857, is listed at $7.50 new; $15, used and on letter quoted $25, I felt a sort of vindication." We sought out our copy of Our Catalogue, the co-operative book, which bears the rubber-stamped inscription on the fly-leaf: "Souvenir A. P. A. Convention, 1894, Niagara Falls. Compliments of R. F. Albrecht & Co." and sure enough, the 90c of 1857 is priced at $25. However, we are sure that this price was an "estimated" or theoretical one and that a stock of the covers was not on hand; now the quotation would be twenty or for that matter, forty times, this old 1894 price.

Profusion—One of the new issue dealers says that the distributions for the next few months "promise to be very heavy ones." We suppose that medals still are struck off to commemorate anniversaries of historic or other interest but it seems as if stamps are a most popular means of signalizing days and deeds. That Bermuda set to celebrate the "tercentenary of establishment of representative institutions" is a tribute to the resourcefulness of the postal authorities. The thread seems a rather slender one on which to string an issue but collectors are not so critical of the motives of issue as they were when the Society for the Suppression of Speculative Stamps was in full swing, an organization that interdicted among other issues the Greek Olympian Games set, now one of the most sought after of sets.

Ferrari—The great Ferrari sale has received all manner of newspaper notice and the list of prices on some of the rarities is given. That the sale was a success is indicated by the records that were established for the classics and thus the collection that was the most celebrated of all is scattered among appreciative collectors, certainly a not unfitting end.

Fire—We have received from a correspondent a cover that is charred around the edges and which has the rubber-stamped inscription in two lines: "S. F. California, July 16, 1921. Damaged in Air Plane Fire." The letter in question bears the San Francisco postmark. We are sorry that we have not kept all of the emergency postal marks of the kind beginning with the steamer "Elbe" letter, that have reached our hands as they would present an interesting commentary.

Encased—Some weeks ago, we received from a correspondent two examples of encased German stamps intended for use as currency in order to facilitate the passage of change. The 10 and 40pf of the current issue are protected in a white metal case, with transparent covering and on the reverse is the wording "Bernh. Ullmann & Co., Fuerth, (Bayern), Bronzefarben, Aluminium Pulver und Blattmetal-Fabriken". Our friend writes: "From information I have received, I learn that the entire issue has been bought by collectors and that they ask a high price."

Labels—From Mr. Henry Perlish, New York, we have received an additional copy of the newspaper labels that were described in a recent issue. No certain information has been received from our readers but a gentleman, Mr. R. E. Pickering of Washington, who, we assume, is much interested in postal labels of the earlier era promises that he will have recourse to all the data that he can find in an endeavor to get a clue to the use of the impressions. We shall await the result of his researches with interest.

Date—The date of the convention of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association is Saturday, August 13, 1921, at Chicago. The Sherman Hotel will be the headquarters of the convention. Thus this convention comes between that of the American Philatelic Society and that of the Philatelic Sons of America and is not the first one to be held in August as we had it in a note recently.

SMALL SELECTIONS
In addition to my well-known series of "Books by Countries" I have a very fine series of small books each containing about 100 stamps. As a rule these consist of the stamps of a single country and show all normal varieties used and unused. These books will fit an ordinary sized business envelope and are very popular with a large number of clients, who do not wish such extensive selections as those shown in the larger books. At the moment I have a particularly fine series of books of unused British Colonials, arranged alphabetically. Send a list of your favorite countries, together with the customary references, and I will mail you a selection that you will find highly satisfactory.

ON THE OTHER HAND.

By W. J. HABERLE.

As a U. S. specialist,. I beg to say a few words against Mr. Power's article "Stamps Not Holes."

Why should we cut out perforation differences for which we have a standard gauge to exactly measure them without a mistake. We greatly prize some stamps because of variations which are less sensible and harder to see. There are the U. S. paper variations of which perhaps one person out of ten are sure. Again we bother about tiny retouches which we usually must look at with a glass to be convinced. Now we come to grills. Why bother about them or about those watermarks which are raising havoc with so many collectors?

Certainly everyone will agree that it would be entirely unfair to class a perforation twelve of the series of 1908, U. S., two cents postage with the same type having the rare perforation eleven. Shall we class the rare U. S. compounds with the common perforation eleven or ten? Why make a distinction between the two cents U. S. perforation eleven and with single line watermark or the same stamps with no watermark? As to this last question, I suppose there are some in favor of eliminating watermarks also.

I say if we must eliminate perforations because they are a nuisance to some, then let us dispense with watermarks, paper variations, re-touches, re-engravings and types because they are just as difficult to keep track of and certainly must be a source of greater annoyance to many. It is very easy to lay a stamp on a perforation gauge and measure it rather than guess at it as must be done in many of the last mentioned cases.

As students of philately we all know that it is impossible to remove all sources of annoyance or there would be no enjoyment in collecting and we would only be accumulating a magnificent collection of pictures.

Let us keep perforation variations because in a few years it will be impossible to collect stamps of all countries and keep pace with their issues. Then we shall all be specialists of some countries and you may be sure that there are no specialists who will welcome a change in their hobby which will cause such a deterioration in the pleasure and value of their collections.

DEATH OF JOSEPH B. LEAVY.

Just as we go to press the news reaches us from Harry B. Mason of the death of Jos. B. Leavy at the Georgetown Hospital, Washington, July 25. Reference to this great loss to philately will be made in our next issue. It comes as a severe blow to a host of friends that Mr. Leavy had made through his connections at Washington.

THE NEW INDIA "NINE PIES".

By O. S. PEREIRA.

To keep pace with the universal increase of postal rates throughout the world and incidentally to increase the revenue of the Government of India, there has been a new 9 pies stamp issued for inland use. The 1 anna carmine has been overprinted at the top and bottom with the two words NINE-PIES, with a bar cancelling the line at the bottom where the original value is. The old 1 anna carmine stamp of 1911-2 is used. It is obvious why a higher value stamp has been utilized for the surcharging, as the use of a lower denomination would lead to forgeries.

Only fifty thousand sheets were overprinted on the government presses at Calcutta. In arranging the type for one of the presses the Indian workman set NIVE and NIUE instead of NINE. The errors were not discovered until the stamps were about to be issued in Calcutta and were removed from the sheets and destroyed. It turns out that supplies for Bombay in Karachi had already been despatched a few days previously and it is likely that errors may occur in those sheets.

The stamps were first used June 10, 1921. Mr. Pereira, whose address is 37 South Rd., Entally, Calcutta, India, will supply this stamp upon receipt of the equivalent in unused U. S. stamps, sufficient being sent to pay the cost of return postage.

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—The advance sheets for the new Scott catalogue were mailed from New York on July 20th and the first installment covered all of the United States. The postmasters and adhesives are listed as heretofore but we regret exceedingly to note that die and type varieties are omitted in the case of the latter issues. This certainly creates a demand for a catalogue or handbook giving full details as well as prices on these very interesting and extensively collected varieties. The envelopes are all there, including the main varieties of the overprinted stamp but the postals are lacking. Post Office Seals and Telegraphs are omitted but we still find the revenues as well as the Match and Medicine stamps. There seems to be more upward changes in price than in any of their catalogues for some years and a careful inspection shows but two stamps decreased. These certainly deserved to drop for every one knew last year that they were overpriced. We are glad to see that they call the collectors attention to the fact that certain stamps were never regularly issued. This is certainly a step forward and should have been mentioned many years before. Of course the advance collector is aware of these points but I maintain that a standard catalogue should contain everything to guide the seeker of information.

I had the pleasure recently of examining one each of two pairs known of the 24c and 30c imperforate unused of the issue of 1860. These are often classified as the issue of 1851 but they rightly belong to the later series for they are on the same paper. There have been rumors for a long time that a part of a sheet of the 24c is known, but if it exists its present whereabouts is unknown. It is a coincident that both pairs of these 24c and 30c stamps, which have been off of the market for years, should have changed hands within the last couple of months. I have never heard of the existence of a pair of the 90c although it may exist.

Mr. Philip Dengler has shown me a cover just received from Roumania bearing a U. S. postmark which is new, in fact, it is the first that has come to my attention. The postmark is in lilac and between two concentric circles we find "U. S. SEA POST" with the date in three horizontal lines in the center. We imagine that this is being used on registered mail handled by the vessels flying the good old "Red, White and Blue" now being seen in every port.

Some interesting provisional 2c on 3c envelopes have come to my attention this week, including the only buff window varieties that I have seen recorded so far. These have return cards of course. Mr. J. M. Bartels has located the 2c on 1c on 3c with the San Antonio overprint in die A instead of the heretofore known die E. Mr. J. V. Nielson who located the Charleston size 9 on amber recently has now found the same size on white. Mr. George P. Smith shows me a new variety from San Juan.

1920-21, 2c on 3c Provisional Envelopes.

I do not believe there will be a great many more of these provisional envelopes for if the stock has not been completely overprinted it is likely the department will stop the work for it looks very much as if we will shortly be paying 3c for domestic letters and then we will require these envelopes again.

GERMANY.—There has been a fresh issue of the 1¼, 1½ and 2½ marks stamps in new shades.—Whitfield King's Monthly List.

SWEDEN.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us copies of three commemorative stamps with the profile of Gustavus Adolphus. They are 20ö purple, 110ö blue and 140ö grey. They are perforated horizontally for use in machines and the sale of these sets were limited to 20 sets to a purchaser. The two high values are probably exhausted by this time according to Mr. Hooreman.

LEST WE FORGET.

My dear Mr. Wylie:

I believe you will be interested in knowing about the case of an invalid ex-service man, Levi E. Jensen, who is confined to his bed in a Post Hospital in St. Paul, and who, I know, would like to get in touch with some stamp collectors. He advises me that his collection "sure helps to pass the time", and my thought in writing you is that, by calling the matter to the attention of the readers of the WEEKLY, you could get some of them to send Mr. Jensen some of their duplicates, either for exchange or as a gift.

I have checked up this case with the head of the hospital and am advised that Mr. Jensen, who was in the aviation section of the signal corps, is likely to be confined for some weeks or possibly months, and I cannot imagine a better use to which the collectors could put some of their duplicate stamps.

This man's address is Levi E. Jensen, U. S. Post Hospital, No. 65, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Yours very truly,
EDWIN C. BROWN.

P. S. A number of the St. Paul and Minneapolis collectors are sending Mr. Jensen some of their duplicates, and the reward received by them has been far greater than compensation in any material form.—E. C. B.

OLD IMPERFORATE ISSUES

We specialize in the unusual of the classic issues. Pairs, strips, blocks—whatever is fine and unique. We are always anxious to buy; we can be persuaded to sell. Our business is to us a pleasure; to those discriminating collectors who prefer SUDDEN SERVICE, it is a means of profit as well as pleasure.

COIL STAMPS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

1914 Issue, Rotary Press, Watermarked Single Line, U S P S.

One other variety must be considered under this heading although it is almost of sufficient importance to have a chapter all its own. I refer to the 2c rotary sidewise coil, watermarked single line U S P S unperforated, now designated in the Scott Catalogue as No. 370i.

This variety which is known in Die I only is among the rarest coils and it is just through accident that it was ever discovered. Had the demand for the unperforated coil been great these stamps would have been used by the commercial houses and it is doubtful if its existence would be known today. As the writer was the fortunate finder of those saved to philately a few words as to how they were located may be of more than passing interest.

In the early part of January, 1917, MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS published a list furnished by the Third Assistant Postmaster General of the date of issue of all varieties turned out by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the way of 20th Century postage stamps. I checked this list most carefully with my own collection to see that I had every thing and in doing this discovered that such an item as an unperforated rotary coil had been made, heretofore unknown. Remember that this is not to be confused with the unperforated flat plate coils which had been known sometime previous. I immediately investigated and learned that this stamp had been issued on the same day as the similar perforated stamp, namely June 30, 1914. I found out that but fourteen coils of 1000 subjects and fourteen coils of 500 stamps were issued and that because of the lack of demand no more had been reeled.

These twenty-eight coils were all distributed among four post offices, New York, N. Y., Baltimore, Md., Washington, D. C., and Sanford, Me. Most of them went to New York and Baltimore and I learned from these offices that they had been obtained for patrons who especially desired unperforated coils for their machines and that the entire lots had been distributed on their arrival, hence not a single copy from these cities. One coil only went to Sanford and was promptly delivered to the Sanford National Bank. An appeal to this bank brought the information that this one coil was purchased along with a perforated coil and that they were all used at the time on their correspondence.

In the meantime I was more fortunate in my appeal to Washington where I found a few that had been in stock for several years. Outside of these few no more can possibly be found for I traced every single coil and accounted for the entire twenty-eight. As this is the only unperforated impression ever issued from the rotary press the coil may be readily distinguished and of course cannot be faked for the stamp is not known in sheets. As there was but one printing they are all of the same shade and are all Die I.

The 1c green, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally) perforated 10 was issued on December 5, 1915, a year and a month after the same stamp appeared coiled sidewise. The first pair of plates from which these stamps were engraved bear numbers 7433 and 7434.

The 1c green, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically) perforated 10 was issued on November 2, 1914. The first set of plates were numbers 7170 and 7171.

The 2c carmine, Die I, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally) perforated 10 was issued on December 5, 1915, the same day that the similar 1c variety first saw light. But four plates were made from Die I, for this endwise coil, namely numbers 5957, 5958, 6279 and 6280. The stamp in unused strips is exceedingly scarce.

The 2c carmine, Die I, coiled sidewise, (perforated vertically) perforated 10 was issued on June 30, 1914, although the report of the Third Assistant Postmaster General for 1914, page 18, states that the stamp was first issued on July 3, 1914. The latter date is without a doubt the day the first coil was sold to the public, the former the day when the Bureau actually issued it. The first pair of plates made from Die I for this variety bear numbers 6056 and 6060. The variety is not scarce.

The 2c carmine, Die I, coiled sidewise,

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

UNPERFORATED, was issued on the same day as the perforated variety, that is June 30, 1914. But a few are known and the variety is exceedingly rare. The coil was undoubtedly made from plates No. 6056 and 6060.

The 2c carmine, Die II, coiled endwise, (perforated horizontally) perforated 10 was issued the latter part of January or the first part of February, 1916. But two endwise plates of 150 subjects were made from Die II, namely numbers 7431 and 7432, and these two plates first went to press on January 13, 1916.

The 2c carmine, Die II, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically) perforated 10 was issued the latter part of June, 1915. The first sidewise plates from this die are numbers 7425 and 7426 and first went to press on May 22, 1915.

The 2c carmine, Die III, coiled endwise (perforated horizontally) perforated 10 was issued during December, 1915. The first plates for this variety were numbered 7561 and 7562, and this pair of plates first went to press on November 17, 1915.

The 2c carmine, Die III, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically) perforated 10, first saw the light of day during December, 1915, and the first pair of plates were numbers 7510 and 7511. These pair of plates first went to press on November 13, 1915.

The 3c purple, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically) perforated 10, was issued on February 2, 1916. The first pair of plates were numbers 7441 and 7442. This denomination on watermarked paper was all from one die and must not be confused with the unwatermarked which is known from two dies.

The 4c brown, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically) perforated 10 was issued on February 18, 1916. The first pair of plates made were numbers 7439 and 7453. This pair of plates however were never finished so that the first and only pair of plates to be finished and used for this variety were numbers 7440 and 7452.

The 5c blue, coiled sidewise (perforated vertically) perforated 10, was issued on March 9, 1916 and was the last of the series to appear. The first and only pair of plates ever used for this variety were numbers 7435 and 7436.

DEATH OF JOS. B. LEAVY.

The death of Joseph B. Leavy will be keenly felt in philatelic circles. The U. S. Collecters at the National Museum will be a standing testimonial to his energy and ability. The Washington Star says of him:—

"After a lingering illness, Joseph B. Leavy, head of the stamp collection section of the United States National Museum, died at the Georgetown University Hospital yesterday morning. July 25. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Born March 7, 1872, Mr Leavy was educated at Columbia University, and during his undergraduate years was much interested in athletics, especially rowing.

As a boy he devoted his time to the collection of postage stamps and became an acknowledged authority on philately, and when it became necessary to put the collections of the United States National Museum in proper order he was called from his business in 1913 to undertake the work with the title of philatelist.

Much credit has been given him for the satisfactory installation of the government collection, which includes specimens of all new issues sent to the Post Office Department from various foreign governments.

Mr. Leavy frequently acted as expert in matters pertaining to his specialty and he was a frequent contributor to philatelic journals, including a notable paper on stamps of Belgium. He was also author of a "Catalogue of the Postage Stamps and Stamped Envelopes of the United States and Possessions Issued Prior to January 1, 1919," which was published as a bulletin of the United States National Museum (1919). He served in the Army during the Spanish-American war."

To the above we may add the following tribute from the pen of J. M. Bartels:

"About nine years ago Mr. Leavy was appointed to take charge of the National Museum stamp collection, where he labored unceasingly until the end of his life. Only those who have seen the splended collection at Washington can appreciate the great service the deceased has rendered philately, the National Museum and stamp collectors generally. In two large stands with hundreds of frames this collection has been mounted with expert philatelic knowledge and a great deal of care. Mr. Leavy, a graduate of Columbia College, had been a c from boyhood, but gave up his collection some 20 years ago, whe sold at auction in New York. L specialized in various countries, es in Holland and Belgium early is which he did constructive pl work. Until rather recently he v itor of the American Philateli which he wrote the Chronicle issues. He was a native of New being of Irish descent. He leav children, a son and a daughte grown, and a host of friends t his untimely death. Those near h feared for months that he would able to withstand much longer the ful disease, which finally caus death."

NOTES ON NEWFOUNDLAND—1897-1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

f.—Government Telephones.

In 1910 a Government telephone service was inaugurated. Four outport Post Offices were connected with telegraph offices, and were the first to be opened by the Department in connection with the Postal and Telegraph offices. Additional offices were opened in the following years, so that by 1919, 86 telephone stations were in operation. Messages for transmission by telegraph are free of extra cost for the telephone.

Telephones are as expensive to install as telegraphs, but the cost of operating the former is 75% cheaper, and large saving can be effected by their adoption in small places where the receipts would not exceed $50.00. The postal officials who attend to the telephones receive only $12.00 per annum for their services, and the telephones are as useful as telegraphs, the upkeep of which would cost not less than $200.00 per year.

The connecting of the smaller settlements by telephone with the Postal Telegraph system is continuously being pressed for, for living conditions in Newfoundland are such that particularly in winter, the people are cut off for several months of the year from the outside world. The value of a telephone connection to such places cannot be overestimated. The lack of connection of the outports with the capital and the outside world during the winter, increases the isolation, and a telephone connection goes a long way towards making the people contented to live in isolated places, which it is necessary to encourage and make easy that they may continue to engage at the fishing and lumbering industry of the island.

g.—Cable.

In 1905 an agreement was entered into with the Commercial Cable Co. to forward from their office at Canso, N. S., all business of the Department to and from all parts of the world—the Department receiving a share of the tolls on both outward and inward business. At a cost of over $100,000 the Newfoundland Government laid a cable across the Cabot Straits from Port-aux-Basques to Canso, N. S., connecting there with the Commercial Cable system. Subsequently, this Company laid a direct cable from Great Britain to Cuckold's Cove, and another thence to New York. It was agreed that should the Government cable or land lines be interrupted at any time, the Cable Co. would send and receive the Department business direct from St. John's.

On July 31st, 1918, this cable connection to Canso was grounded, and business with the Commercial Co. was discontinued. The business was transferred to the Anglo-American Co. (Western Union), and it is estimated that by the transfer, the Department has lost in tolls over $100,000 per year.

h.—Wireless telegraphy.

The Marconi wireless stations on the coast of Newfoundland, and the Labrador, do not come under the control of the Post Office Department, but all messages to and from the wireless stations must be transmitted over the Government land lines. Under this agreement, the foreign business with steamers passing Cape Race is an important item of earning. However, the same cannot be said of the local business with the stations on the Labrador coast, where the receipts do not in any way approximate the amount paid for royalties. The Labrador stations are open from early summer to the close of navigation, and messages from any office in Newfoundland to the Labrador stations, are forwarded for 50 cents for ten words, and 4 cents for each additional word.

All ships engaging in the seal fishery are now required to have wireless apparatus on board and operated while at the ice. The rate to the ships from Newfoundland is 12 cents a word. The messages are sent to and received from the Northern fleet via the Fogo station, and communication with the Gulf steamers is via the Cape Ray station.

Following the sealing disaster of 1914, it became apparent that if an exchange of telegrams between the ships and the stations were effected every night, assistance might be rendered to any ship in distress or to any men astray on the ice. The matter was taken up with the Marconi Co. and the following regulations were issued by them to their operators, for a "good night" message, which has been carried out each spring, free of charge.

"Complying with the request of the Postmaster General, a message will be sent by each sealer to the nearest coast station saying whether all is well and whether any of the sealers had men on the ice before closing down. Sealers unable to communicate with the coast station will relay their messages through other ships, but every effort must be made to have all sealers report. In order to carry out this, each operator must stand by from 9.30 p. m. to 10 p. m. each night. Prior to this each operator should request the Captain of his vessel to write out a message containing the information desired by the Postmaster General. At 9.30 p. m. each operator in turn will establish communication with the nearest coast station and dispatch the message written by the Captain. On receipt of this message the coast station will at 10 p. m. send a message collectively to the ships in range stating briefly the nature of the trouble, if any, that any of the other sealers are experiencing."

PORTUGUESE COLONIALS

Few collections have a good showing of these stamps, and few dealers can show a good stock or variety of them. The majority of them are "hard-to-get" and desirable. We have for years been filling up at every opportunity and have today a very fine stock of all Portuguese Colonials, three quarters complete at least. Send us your list of wants, or we can submit approvals if your collection is not too large. These are stamps you cannot buy any time you feel like it, but should grab when the chance offers. Of three-quarters of these colonials there is no quantity supply anywhere.

FRENCH COLONIALS

Our remarks about Port. Col. apply to the various French Colonies as well, and we hold a very nice stock of both 19th and 20th. Not complete, but there is no such thing as a complete stock of these. Tell us what you want. Prices run about half list to sixty per cent. of cat. Sometimes a bit less than half, but in all cases reasonable for this class of goods.

WANT LISTS

suit us as well as any way of buying. Why not let us have yours? We have the stock at a "fair price to you and us," it's up to you to send us your list, 19th or 20th, any country on the map. No use in our making offers here, but tell us what you want and get list of our approval books and details of our approval dept. It offers you a service only possible at an enormous outlay.

steamers are heavily subsidised to carry passengers, freights and mails. The whole cost of the steam service is charged to the Department, instead of properly against the general revenue. If the subsidy were pro-rated, and the Department charged with its proportionate share, the deficit at present appearing would speedily disappear.

XXXIII—General Post Office, St. John's.

On June 6, 1886, the G. P. O. was opened for business, and while it is a building imposing in appearance, and considerable in size, it is quite inadequate to the growing requirements of the Postal system. Originally built for a Post Office and a Museum, it supplied all that was then required, but there was no system of telegraphs then, no parcel post, and the mails handled were probably not more than a tithe of those handled today. Then one floor in the G. P. O. building was amply sufficient for the business of the office. Today four floors are in use, as well as the cellars and attics.

In 1886 there were 24 officials—now there are over 200. The yearly salary bill was then $8,768.60—now the monthly salary bill exceeds that figure.

Stamps are sold at a number of branch offices scattered throughout the city, and letters deposited here, as well as in the street pillar boxes, are collected at stated hours during the day. Letters posted after the given hours are too late for the mails dispatched that day. A box at the Railway station is also cleared of late letters, ten minutes before the starting of the train—providing the "late fee" of 2 cents is attached.

There is a free delivery of letters and papers by carriers throughout the city limits, twice a day, in the morning and afternoon, and a delivery in the business portion of the city at noon, when practicable.

The G. P. O. is the only office on the island making use of electric cancelling machines, of which there are two. The cancellation takes the form of a single lined circle, lettered around the inside "St. John's, Nfld. 1921", with "Jul 5—10.30 a. m." in two lines in the center. A "flag" of seven wavy lines extends to the right. In 1918 the "wavy lines" were replaced by an advertising die reading "food—will—win the war—don't waste it," in type similar to that used by many of the larger cities in the States at the same period. This was discontinued early in January, 1919, and the "wavy lines" reinstated. About the middle of May, 1921, the flag portion of the die was again removed, and a special die inserted, reading—"Buy—Made In—Newfoundland—Goods". This advertising cancellation was used on but one machine.

During the great storm of February 15-16, 1921, an avalanche carried away a portion of the flume at the Petty Harbor power plant, and put it out of commission. For the better part of a week St. John's was without electric power. Candles and lamps were brought out, the daily papers were compelled to reduce size, and set their type by hand, and at the G. P. O. with power off the cancelling machines, the mail had to be handstamped. This handstamp was lettered "St. John's, Nfld.", with the date in three lines, in the center—"Feb—16—1921." Red and black impressions are known.

In the G. P. O. daubers are used for cancelling the stamps on registered, parcel post and newspaper matter, so that except for machine cancelled mail, dated copies are not easily obtainable.

XXXIV—Labrador.

Labrador, though geographically a part of the Canadian mainland, is a dependency of Newfoundland. The coast was visited by Cabot in 1498, and the first settlements were made by Englishmen from Newfoundland. After the territory had been handed back and forth, a number of times, between Canada and Newfoundland, the latter was awarded that part of the coast lying east of a line drawn from Blanc Sablon due north to latitude 52 degs. and thence to the Hudson straits. The boundary line between the Canadian Labrador and the Newfoundland Labrador is in dispute, and only recently have the two Governments agreed to abide by the decision of the Privy Council of the Empire, after both sides are heard.

Newfoundland Labrador contains 120,000 square miles, with a population of 4,073. The country is wild, and much of it has never been explored. Recently an aeroplane exploring expedition discovered in the hinterland a vast supply of pulp wood available for newspaper print, just as in Newfoundland. The difficulty is of course in getting the timber away from the coast in the short summer season (June to December), when the coast is free of ice. In 1919, it was June 24th, before the first steamer of the season made the roads at Battle Harbour, the chief settlement, and this after five ineffectual attempts to cut through the fields of ice.

The coast is indented with numerous harbors, offering shelter to all those who ply their trade in these waters. While the fishermen of southern Newfoundland go to the banks to fish, those of northern Newfoundland go to the Labrador.

During the summer season, the northern coastal steamer from St. John's, makes Battle Harbour, bringing passengers, freights and mails. A smaller steamer connects at Battle Harbour, serving the settlements to the north. After the close of navigation in December, mails are dispatched overland, via Quebec, fortnightly.

"General Post Office.
Labrador Winter Mails.

Mails will leave Quebec, Canada, to connect with the couriers for the Labrador on the 3rd, 17th and 31st January, and 28th February, and 14th March, 1921.

W. W. Halfyard,
Minister, Posts & Telegraphs.
4i. dec. 15, 24, jan. 5, 15."

In the summer of 1908, some labels were offered the dealers of the country, purporting to be an issue for the prepayment of postage on letters sent by a service from the Labrador direct to Canada and the States, instead of via Newfoundland. These were issued by an American Company claiming to have obtained a charter from the Canadian and Newfoundland Governments for the exploitation of the natural resources of Labrador.

The labels were of three denominations, 5c, 25c and $1 and pictured respectively a seal, an Eskimo, and a map of the northeastern coast of Labrador. The values were expressed in figures and words, and in addition LABRADOR and POSTAGE. On the $1 POST OFFICE was substituted for POSTAGE. U. S. A. also appeared twice on the 5c and $1, and four times on the 25c. Letters have been shown franked with these labels, duly cancelled, but in addition, Canadian stamps, so that their postal standing has never been established.

EXCELSIOR MATCH C
Syracuse, N. Y.

By Christopher West.

The writer has been unable to est any connection between this firm a firm which used the Excelsior Co. stamp at Watertown. As a g rule the Bureau of Internal Re did not permit the use of the sam sign by more than one manufac and it seems probable that the W town concern went out of busines sold their die to the Excelsior Co. of Syracuse, which latter pany had not been in business the period when the Watertown was in use. The Syracuse concer pears to have been an entirely ne distinct business, which saw fit the name which had previously used in Watertown.

The Excelsior Match Co. of Sy appears first in the Syracuse Dir for 1876, the address being on nut Street at the corner of East Street, which was very close match factory of Henry Stanton.

The principals were at first H win, Edward B. Judson, Jr., and P. Ryder, and all of them, with t ception of Mr. Darwin, remaine the firm until it went out of ex about 1881. In all probability th ness was acquired by the Di Match Co. and operated for a y two, which accounts for the fa the stamps continued to be issue the summer of 1882.

The owners of the Excelsior Company were closely connecte several other Syracuse concerns, ticular, with the Syracuse Glass with the firm of Judson, Willi Co., who were lumber manufa at Constantia, and whose office Syracuse. Edward B. Judson, S a partner of Judson, Williams and was also President of the National Bank of Syracuse, and Syracuse Glass Co. Frank P. was the son of Nehemiah C. who for many years was superin of the Syracuse Glass Works an 1881 became a member of the Ryder, Crouse & Welch, who o a match factory in Syracuse for months, and used the "R. C. match stamp there. In the S Directory of 1884-5 Edward B. Jr., is listed as manager at the S Glass Co., of which Jacob Crou then Vice President and Mr. Ne C. Ryder appears as a glass facturer at Durhamville. Any o cares to read between the lin possibly conclude that the ow the Excelsior Match Co. mad a good trade with the Diamond Co. that a few of their close were tempted to go into the mat ness and do likewise.

EDITORIAL.

Special—Iowa comes to the fore with a set of three state revenue stamps to levy a special tax on cigarettes that are sold within the state; and the central design of the stamps, which are lithographed and perforated 10, is the upper facade and tower of the capitol at Des Moines. The inscriptions on the stamp are: "State of Iowa-Cigarette-Tax" with denomination below. The stamps are ½c gray; 1c green and 2c red. The unused stamps are sold only to dealers who are licensed to sell cigarettes and we are told that the state treasurer is very careful not to allow them to get into the hands of non-dealers.

Exit—Several months ago, the newspapers told of the transfer of the South Sea islands belonging to Germany formerly, to Great Britain, and philatelists have been awaiting particulars of the change of title in their philatelic aspect. Now, Mr. J. H. Smyth, Sydney, New South Wales, editor of the Australian Stamp Journal sends us the proclamation whereby the islands came under the sovereignty of Great Britain, and to "be known and referred to as the Territory of New Guinea", together with information of interest concerning forthcoming stamps under the new admistration. Elsewhere, we offer the data that came to Mr. Smith from Rabaul, dated May 7, 1921.

Recalled—A reader, who has noticed several references to Harry A. Franck's works in our paper, calls attention to the following bit of extravaganza that was indulged in by the post office folks of Honduras: "Not long before my arrival the current postage stamps" (presumably the 1911 issue), "large quantities of which had been bought by foreign firms within the country were suddenly declared worthless and the entire accumulated correspondence for the next steamer returned to the senders, instead of at least being forwarded to destination under excess charges". Harry A. Franck, "Tramping Through Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras": Century Co., New York, 1916. Bill Nye's sandwich seller when berated for asking a quarter for a sandwich, replied with an apologetic cough that he needed the money, and we suppose that the Honduraneans, when taxed with bad faith, said that as the postal exchequer was running low, it was necessary to replenish it.

Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue

He and the late J. W. Scott were on familiar terms, as in days gone by Mr. Scott was attracted by the philatelic enthusiasm of the younger man. We have been the recipient of the favor of Mr. Leavy who was interested in the issues of U. S. in particular; and his knowledge of the stamps in question was extensive. An idea of his insight into our recent issues was afforded by his paper read at the Cleveland convention of the American Philatelic Society convention; and his data on the earlier issues as contributed to the American Philatelist for some time past showed the depth of his re-

Helgoland while under British rule, few people gave a thought to the little North Sea dot until, in an ill-advised moment, Britain consented to swap the islet, including its inhabitants, to the German Empire, in exchange for certain possessions and easements in Africa." Then the editor goes on to discuss the subject with a sapience that we suspect only the mind with philatelic recollections could unfold. Latterly, we have noticed not a few references to stamp collecting on the editorial pages of the big-city newspapers; and we are in favor of some special effort to lure the busy editors into the collecting ranks once more. T assed editors of the newspapers nerves are usually a-tingle, coul their troubles for the moment in Just think, as Arabella would sa the irate subscriber told the edi solete for ye Ed.) to go to Ha could turn to Nova Scotia in th album and scan the fine copy three pence and thus gain hea

SMALL SELECTIONS

In addition to my well-known series of "Books by Countries" I have a very fine series of small books each containing about 100 stamps. As a rule these consist of the stamps of a single country and show all normal varieties used and unused. These books will fit an ordinary sized business envelope and are very popular with a large number of clients, who do not wish such extensive selections as those shown in the larger books. At the moment I have a particularly fine series of books of unused British Colonials, arranged alphabetically. Send a list of your favorite countries, together with the customary references, and I will mail you a selection that you will find highly satisfactory.

DICTIONARY ADDENDA.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

D. V. R.—These letters found upon certain Russian stamps stand for "Dalni Vostochori Respoublika" or "Republic of the Extreme East". In the disintegration of Russia and the establishment of the Trans-Balkalian Government under Gen. Semenoff, Russian stamps of the old régime were surcharged with these letters in Russian Script capitals.

EASTERN SIBERIA. — An alternative name for the "Republic of the Extreme East" for which postage stamps were first issued in 1921. They bear the name of the country in an inscription in Russian "Dalnai Vosto Chnai Respoublika".

EAST OF JORDAN.—A region east of the river Jordan in Palestine inhabited by Bedouin tribes or nomads for which stamps were first issued in 1920, consisting of Palestine E. E. F. stamps overprinted in single line Arabic, "Sharki-el-Erdon."

E. & C. BOTHWELL—CLUTHA MILLS.—In the 1868 issue of Canada, parts of these letters may be found as watermarks. They indicate the name of the firm that manufactured the paper.

E. E. F.—These letters on stamps issued for Palestine mean "Egyptian Expeditionary Force". The stamps were used late in the World War throughout that part of Palestine in British occupation, comprising an area of 9,000 square miles, all west of the Jordan, or 5,000 fewer than formerly, under Turkish rule. Stamps were first issued Feb. 10, 1918.

ESTHONIA. — A former Russian province on the Gulf of Finland, Baltic Sea and Gulf of Riga, with a Republican form of government and a population around two millions. Stamps were first issued Nov. 25, 1918.

EUPEN.—A German town awarded Belgium as a result of the World War. During the first six months of tenure, Belgium stamps were used overprinted "Eupen and Malmedy" in recognition of the award.

FUTURE DELIVERY. — U. S. revenue stamps overprinted with these words are used in connection with brokerage sales.

O. F. CASTELLORIZO.—This overprint on 5c, 10c, 20c, 25c, 50c and 1fr. French stamps means "Occupation Francaise Castellorizo". It was the third and last issue of stamps for the island indicated and was made with handstamp on board the vessel La Provence.

O. N. F. CASTELLORIZO.—This surcharge on certain French and French Levant stamps means "Occupation Navale Francaise" and "Castellorizo" the island where the stamps were used.

HOCHWASSER, 1920.—This overprint on a set of Austrian Charity stamps means, "High Water". The stamps were issued for the benefit of flood sufferers and sold for three times their face value.

EESTI POST.—"Esthonia postage".

LA CROIX FRERES.—Parts of these letters found in the 1872 issue of Mexico, as watermarks, indicate the name of the firm that made the paper.

MALMEDY.—A German town awarded Belgium as a result of the World War. During the first six months of tenure, Belgium stamps were used overprinted "Eupen and Malmedy" in recognition of the award.

MARIENWERDER.—A German area located in West Prussia south of Dantzig and near the right bank of the Vistula. In March, 1920, an Inter-Allied Commission was appointed under Article 94 of the Versailles Treaty, so that the rival claims of Germany and Poland could be adjusted. Special postage stamps were prepared and certain German stamps were overprinted. Two inscriptions are noted (a) "Commission Interallié Marienwerder" and (b) "Plebiscite Marienwerder Kwydzyn". The second type was due to the protest of the Poles against the omission of "Kwydzyn" the Polish name for Marienwerder. The area voted to remain German and Aug. 17, 1920, German stamps again became valid.

MUTILADOS DE GUERRA—ASSISTENCIA SOCIAL — 1-12-1920. — Mozambique on the occasion of the anniversary of the declaration of Portuguese independence, Dec. 1, 1920, issued a set of stamps with the above inscription. The stamps were available for local postage only and were for sale for one day only. The proceeds were used for charitable purposes "Wounded of the War and the Compagnie d'Assistance Sociale."

MEIJI JINGU.—Two stamps comprise this set issued by Japan, Oct. 28, 1920, to celebrate the consecration of a shrine built in memory of the late Emperor Meiji in Yoyogi, Tokyo. The values are 1½ and 3 sen.

PLEBISCITE MARIENWERDER KWYDZYN.—See Marienwerder.

PLEBISCITE—OLSZTYN—ALLENSTEIN.—An overprint on German stamps used in the Polish-German plebiscite, Allenstein area. The word "Olsztyn" is the Polish term for the district.

PLEBISCITE STAMPS. — A name given to certain issues of stamps occasioned by plebiscites taken in various districts at the conclusion of the World War under the terms of the Versailles Treaty. Schleswig, Allenstein, Marienwerder, and Upper Silesia are notable examples of plebiscite issues.

POST-FAERGE.—A surcharge on certain Danish stamps meaning "Ferry Post". The stamps are used on postal correspondence requiring ferry service between Esbjerg and the island of Fano.

PROSORINE KUBERNIEIS KRETES—TAX (UDROMIKE) UPER (ESIA).—This inscription on Crete, 1905 issue signifies "Provisional Government of Crete—Postal Service"

PROVISORISCH WERT IN SCHWEIZ FRANK.—This overprint found on certain stamps of Liechtenstein means:—"Temporary Value in Swiss Francs."

RIVERSDALE BOND. — Parts of these words indicating the trade name of the paper, are found as watermarks in the 1918 issue of Argentina. Not all the stamps in the sheet are thus watermarked.

SAARGEBIET.—The stamps of Germany surcharged "Saargebiet" resulted from a protest lodged by Germany with the League of Nations at the use of the word "Sarre" in the French occupation of the Saar valley. See "Sarre".

SERRA BOND. — Parts of these words are found as watermarks in the 1918 issue of Argentina, but not all the stamps are thus watermarked. They indicate the trade name of the paper.

SHARKI-EL-ERDON. — An inscription in Arabic on Palestine E. E. F. stamps meaning "East of Jordan", which see.

STOCK TRANSFER.—U. S. revenue stamps overprinted with these words are used in connection with brokerage sales.

TANGANYIKA.—The stamps used here are those of East Africa and Uganda overprinted "G. E. A." (German East Africa).

TRANS-JORDANIA.—Another name for East of Jordan, which see.

VIANDEN.—An inscription on the 1fr Luxembourg, 1921, which pictures Vianden Castle, one of the oldest and the finest castle in the country.

VIRUMAA. — This is a portion of Esthonia and stamps of the latter country with inscription "Virumaa" are considered spurious or of a private nature.

WHITE BACKS.—A term applied to certain British Colonial stamps where the paper shows a white back and a colored face, either yellowish or greenish.

EARLY BRAZIL

SMALL NUMERALS ONLY

A collection of nearly 700 of the 1844-1866 issues, (Scott's Nos. 7-52), in singles, pairs, strips & blocks, used and unused, containing shades, cancellations and oddities, is offered intact. Among many other choice items are the 180r, 300r and 600r slanting numerals; singles and multiples of the 180r, 300r and 600r straight numerals; and a remarkable pair of the 430r yellow imperforate. There are also several pairs of the scarcer perforates.

The collection is full of pieces in peacherino condition and the whole lot is a daisy. Any good fellow who likes early Brazils can have a thousand dollars' worth of fun with it. Price is quite reasonable. Apply to Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—We will have a new 3c surface printed stamps, possibly of the old design. There is not the slightest doubt that Congress will include an increase in first class domestic postage rates in the new tax law and a great many are advocating an increase in the case of second class mail. The Post Office Department is making plans to take care of the extra demand for 3c stamps and has already notified the several post offices throughout the country to discontinue the overprinting of the old 3c envelopes. This will put an end to new varieties of the 2c on 3c provisional envelopes but of course many are on hand throughout the different offices that have received the surcharge but have not reached the public. By the time all of the larger collections of these provisionals have been checked and we are in a position to give a somewhat definite list as to what exists we will find that in the neighborhood of two thousand varieties will be required by the collector of entires, about three hundred by those who want all of the cities in the different dies on the different colors, about sixty who care for cut squares in the different types and dies and only around thirty by those who will collect in accordance wth the Scott catalogue, that is the seven types of overprint on the four different papers. It is doubtful if there has ever been anything in the past to cause such a stir in envelope collecting and now that the end is here renewed interest will probably be taken by those who have been holding off, afraid that the varieties would run far into the thousands.

A number of people have expressed the opinion that a portrait of Roosevelt would be a very fitting subject for a new 3c stamp but it is doubtful if the department will authorize the issuing of a new 3c stamp without changing the entire series.

Mr. W. W. Randall kindly sends for chronicle a new overprinted double reply postal cards, recently placed on sale in a number of cities. I also find that Philadelphia has finished up its overprinting by surcharging their reply postals which are now on sale at the main office. These all differ one from the other but it would be impossible to describe each in a few words so that they might be told apart. For the benefit of future writers upon the subject I will mention the type of machine used in each office for doing this work.

Plate number collectors will be interested in knowing that the following plates have been found perforated 11 from the rotary press waste. We would welcome any additions to the list, which has been kindly furnished by Mr. A. E. Owen. 2c plates, Nos. 11726, 11727, 11731, 11732, 12485, 12486, 12513, 12518, 12519, 12514, 12515, and 12516. All of these are 170 subject "S 30" plates.

A prominent eastern collector has recently obtained a very unusual item, namely, a used copy of the 12c August issue of 1861. The stamp has been expertly repaired, the original damaged copy having been found many years back by Mr. J. M. Bartels at the time he was located in Washington. I have never seen a used copy of this stamp before but the most unusual thing about it is the fact that it is upon the heavier paper of the later September issues instead of the hard brittle paper of the premieur gravures. The stamp is certainly not a mounted proof, the cancellation is a cancellation of the period and it has all of the earmarks of having done actual postal duty at the time. I have never seen mentioned any of the other August issues on this paper and it would be interesting to know if any of them are in the hands of collectors.

In my Chronicle for last week I mentioned the fact that the only two pairs known of each of the 24c and 30c issue of 1860 had changed hands. Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer tells a little tale about one of the pairs that is well worth repeating. It seems that some years back a Chicago collector picked up one of these pairs of the 24c as proofs and paid but a few cents for them. Mr. Wolsieffer sent them to St Louis for Mr. Tiffany's inspection and he pronounced them the real thing and stated that they were the only ones he had ever seen and consequently mentioned them in his wonderful book on the strength of this pair. They were later purchased by Mr. Alex. Holland and he had them with him some years later while he was on the coast visiting Mr. Crocker. When going over Mr. Crocker's collection he found a pair of the 30c but no 24c. One of them mentioned that these two pairs, then thought to be unique, should surely be in the same collection and it was proposed that a coin be tossed to decide as to who should have the two. Mr. Holland was the lucky winner and the two pairs remained in his collection until it was sold sometime later in Europe. The pairs were later offered to Mr. Worthington but evidently were not purchased, for he did not have these varieties when his collection was broken up. I am under the impression that this is the pair that finally reached the Taylor collection.

CAPE VERDE.—The 10c on 100r and the 15c on 150r, Nos. 126 and 127, have been overprinted "4c" and "2c" respectively in black. Also the 100r blue, type A4, has added surcharge "6" with the word REPUBLICA horizontally across the centre of the stamp. The "Taxa de Guerra" stamp of the 0$01. value has been overprinted "Cabo Verde Correios" and also it appears with the following changed values. "¼c" and "½c" respectively. The Economist Stamp Co sent us copies.

DAHOMEY.—M. Theodore Cha reports receipt of an envelope f with half of one of the curre stamps. It seems that for some the Dahomey post offices we tirely denuded of all except th values of stamps. For inland u stamps cut in halves were recko two 25c labels, these being b diagonally, vertically, or horizonta the postal officials themselves, to all correspondence for dispatch be handed.—Stamp Collecting.

IT'S OUR MOVE—

With the growing press of regular business and the addition of an Auction Department, we found it imperative to move to larger quarters. Our old friends, enemies, and non-partisans can now find us comfortably ensconced in Suite 705-706-707 Fullerton Building. The change was made quietly and efficiently without an hour's suspension of the customary Sudden Service.

NOW IT'S YOUR MOVE—

If your collection is for sale, let us give you figures regarding our last auction and you'll dispose of it on a better business basis after investigating the way Fennell gets results.

How do we find business? By going after it!

COLLECTING OF POSTAL MARKINGS.

Read before the Boston Philatelic Society, June 21, 1921.

By H. K. THOMPSON.

I want to bring to your attention this evening some phases of collecting postal markings. The subject presents a vast range in a more recently popularized hobby.

I will attempt to devote a few minutes to each of the following topics:

1. Definitions.
2. History.
3. Specialties.
4. Methods.
5. Classification.

After which I shall invite an open discussion and attempt to answer such questions on the subject as I am able.

Postmark collecting scarcely needs an introduction. The recent interest in cancellations and publicity marks has called attention to the general heading we use, "Postal Markings", and has demanded explanations and discussions from the Old Guard of the Postmark Hobby.

DEFINITIONS.

The following terms are to be defined:

1. Postal marking.
2. Postmark.
3. Cancellation.
4. Obliteration.

1. Postal Marking—is "a term used to designate any postmark or cancellation, authorized by a government and impressed on mail matter by an authorized employee of that government . . . . . Postal markings is a term of rather recent adoption intended to include both original hobbies of postmarks and cancellations."—(Pike.)

2. Cancellation—A cancellation is a postmark; but not all postmarks are cancellations. A cancellation is a postmark intended to void or cancel the adhesive or other postmark.—(Ritchie.) Mr. Seely exploded the theory that cancellations did not exist until the time of stamps.

3. Postmark—A term used to designate all postal markings not cancellations, with a few exceptions, always containing the name of the post office and usually the state, and date.

4. Obliteration—An obliterator is a canceller, but a canceller is not an obliterator. By obliterator and canceller usually the same thing is meant, there is however, a difference. By obliterator reference is made to an unofficial dauber, of cork, wood, rubber, or metal. We differentiate these two by thinking of the canceller as either a part attached to the postmark, or a separate instrument, in either case officially intended for the voiding of stamps (or other marks). Whereas by obliterator we may refer to pen-and-ink mark, knife-scratch, blot, etc. To be sure the canceller in part obliterates, but we should not use the term in this sense.

In every case a canceller does not cancel should it not fall on the stamp, yet the resulting impression is the product of a canceller,—and we christen it a cancellation. But an obliteration, should it not fall on the stamp or mark, falls outside of our province entirely, coming under the heading more of imperfections, smootches, blots, etc.

Let us re-state the differentiation:

1. A canceller is an official obliterator.

2. An obliterator used off stamp has no place in our literature.

HISTORY.

As our continental brothers preceded us in the more highly organized products in Philately so with Postal Markings. We look to England for the first literature on the subject. For years, the British Postmark Society held a high rank among collectors in the United Kingdom and numbered among its adherents some of the most scientific and well informed collectors of the world.

Most of the pioneer American collectors had little of the creative or so-called scientific interest which characterizes many of our present collectors, but rather they collected as a notion—as ladies gather view cards, or as an instinct—as a magpie gathers bits of crockery—regardless of kind, color, set or alphabet—or even state.

Later interest in organizing the hobby sprang up. Mr. D. O. Cummins, one of our oldest postmark collectors, and who possesses the largest number of different U. S. postoffice marks in the world, was one of the first collectors in America to list and arrange his collection in an orderly way.

Recently, men interested especially in index systems, filing and cataloguing, have taken up the cudgel and have presented from time to time readily acceptible and practicable methods of arrangement, cataloguing and checking postal markings. This work is now being attempted in an organized way by the I. P. S. of which I shall speak somewhat.

For years the pot has been boiling. A chaos has reigned among postmark collectors similar to that of toys in a nursery—without law, order or co-operation. I have purchased three collections which were made prior to 1885 by different men, each with a diametrically opposite idea, and neither had anything by which to go—as a guide or suggestion. This condition had existed for a long time. Out of the chaos, a gradual standardization period began,—due largely to the efforts of Mr. George A. Chandler, thru whose work the I. P. S. grew out in 1912.

This was the first publicly organized attempt to gather together American enthusiasts in the hope of reaching a better understanding of the details of this hobby.

The Society exists at present and has great possibilities provided men interested in this subject will unite themselves more nationally and be willing to supply whatever data is available to the committees at work. The literature and information is being assembled and organized for public use and it is the attempt of this organization to be able to supply this long felt need to this branch of collecting. The attempt is commendable and deserves your support, both for the betterment of your collection, and correlating and increasing the market.

SPECIALTIES.

As when with advancing interest, a stamp collector confines himself to a specialty, so the postmark collector restricts himself to marks of one country, of one state, of one county or city; those of railroads, of a certain year, of aeromails, of military offices, of curious place names, and of advertising marks. The latter has enjoyed special popularity recently from the increasing number of publicity- and propaganda-markings. About the first U. S. types of this kind to appear occurred during the Expositions. Their history is well recorded and an excellent collection owned by Mr. R. Porter of Los Angeles. Canadian offices have made extensive use of this means of advertising Fairs, Charities, Drives, Slogans, and their methods are being rapidly adopted by our own offices.

Collecting postmarks on stamps only is another attractive branch. Those who specialize in one or a few types of a single stamp attempt to get a specimen from each office in which this stamp was used, or combinations of postal markings used on same. Mr. Marcus of

D. A. SHAW, Box 9, Montreal, Quebec

California has such a collection of highly specialized Denmarks; Mr. Siddall of Shanghai has one of Hong Kong.

An attractive specialty is that of ship markings and R. P. O.'s.

I must not omit great praise to the men, including Mr. Ritchie of Albany, who have done so much to standardize and stimulate interest in the collecting of what we know as cancellers, daubers or obliterators (kicking-mules, eagles, emblems, etc. This division of our hobby has, as you know, within only the past few years been most enthusiastically supported. It is my regret that a more compact organization, embracing all these divisions, has not as yet been possible. I might mention that in my opinion the ideal organization is one in which each member is cognizant of the specialty or specific wants of his fellow member, either through personal data, a periodical, a circular, or through the medium of a well informed exchange manager.

Some collectors of postal markings collect only on entires. I know of entire rooms devoted to these files.

Methods.

Someone wrote on how to arrange postmarks. I bought part of his collection, and there was more order in a "thousand-packet". This shows that there is a variance of opinion. There are two questions always asked.

1. What size shall I cut my postmarks?

2. How shall I arrange them.

I will not exhaust you with the details of this struggle, to standardize the size. The question is after all one of individual taste, the only stipulation now being that a mark shall not be cut round or too closely. Various arguments have been presented. If one wishes to file a collection, entire, 2"x4", or 1½" square, is O.K.

Entire or 2x4 is too bulky to mount if any great number of specimens is involved. 2x4 seems a satisfactory size to meet the requirements of the collectors who want the stamps to show and all of the canceller, as those who want only the postmark proper. If the latter case, the 2x4 may be cut down to 1½ square, which should be the minimum.

Personally, I cut 1½ square, and when there are variations in cancellers, or obliterations, lengthen the cutting horizontally, in order to include the whole; this makes possible mounting in parallel uniform rows. My specimens are mounted in loose leaf volumes by date and alphabet, each being checked in a postal guide.

In cases where postmarks are found on stamps off cover, the stamp may be neatly mounted on cards or slips of 1½ square for placing in a file or mounting. In no case is the size of cutting arbitrary, but to accommodate the majority 2x4 is the most desirable standard.

Classification.

The pleasure in organizing and recording new facts has stimulated many of us to study a limited problem in philately. Innumerable possibilities arise in the field of postal markings which can be studied at a minimum expense and a maximum of enjoyment.

One of the first of these problems to arise and perhaps the most difficult to conclude, was that of arranging a satisfactory and comprehensive general classification of postal markings in groups or headings. The first conclusions reached were published in The Philatelic Gossip of October, 1916, and were due for the most part to the untiring efforts of Mr. A. H. Pike, with whom I have several times conferred and studied the problem to my great interest and admiration for Mr. Pike.

Slight modifications of the original have been made until it is felt that the present grouping will stand the most searching criticism and can and will be a great help to any interested in the subject.

On behalf of the members of the Postmark Society I wish to extend most hearty offering of co-operation to any interested.

ORIGINALS AND REPRINTS.

By D. E. Eastlake

We have suspicions that C. M. Tyler took a poke at us in his article "The Great Brotherhood". He said something about collectors liking a funny stamp story in prose or "poor rhyme". While we can't prove it, we feel quite sure that the above mentioned "poor rhyme" stuff is directed at our personally conducted "colyum". We admit that his description of our poetic (?) efforts is magnifique, but if he doesn't like our doggerel, why doesn't he send us a contribution?

* * *

After looking over some of the horrible color conglomerations of Neurope stamps, we have come to the conclusion that the designers must have been tone deaf.

* * *

Now that the Scott Stamp and Coin Company have decided to eliminate Telegraph stickers from the Standard Catalogue, how about writing to them in reference to eliminating the "& Coin" from their firm name? Just call themselves the Scott Stamp Company.

* * *

On second thought, though, they would insist that the "Coin" is very essential to their business success.

* * *

Say, what are these "Album Weeds" that Fred Prohaska wants? Are they some sort of mourning for a collection of dead issues?

* * *

We heartily agree with A. M. McFadden that it is about time to cease this idle chatter about the Collector-Dealer-Editor.

* * *

Perhaps not many of the dealers are Editors, but we are reasonably sure that most of them are, or have been, stamp collectors.

THE STORY OF BELGIUM'S STAMPS.

By Douglas B. Armstrong.

Belgium was the fourth European nation to adopt the system of postal prepayment by means of adhesive labels, which originated in Great Britain nine years previously. Leopold I. evinced from the outset keen interest in the postal reform movement of 1837-40. An interview between the King of the Belgians and the great postal reformer is recorded in the "Life of Rowland Hill." As early as 1841 a high official of the Belgian Post Office was despatched to England to report upon the workings of the new system.

Not until April 22nd, 1849, did the Belgian Postal Reform Bill finally receive the Royal Assent, and it was on August 7th of that year that a contract was concluded by the Belgian Government with Messrs. Jacques and Leopold Wiener, of Brussels, to organise a printing office and engrave and print national postage stamps. To Jacques Wiener, an engraver of high merit, fell the task of cutting the necessary matrix dies, from which the copper printing plates were to be laid down, with the head of King Leopold I. His model is believed to have been the portrait by Levin de Winne, in the Brussels Art Gallery, of the King in military uniform of the period.

First Postage Stamps.

The stamps themselves were recess printed upon handmade paper, supplied by Messrs. Olin Fréres, watermarked with the Royal Monogram, two "L's" interlaced within a rectangular frame, and were, of course, issued imperforate. For simplicity of design and beauty of execution, the first Belgian postage stamps have few equals, and for this reason they are much esteemed by connoisseurs of early line-engraved postage stamps. Of recent years they have appreciated in value to a remarkable extent, with the result that good specimens have become increasingly hard to obtain

On July 1, 1849, the first Belgian postage stamps were at length issued to the public, 10c brown to defray internal postage on single letters up to 30 kilometers and 20c blue for longer distances. To them was added on October 11 of the same year a 40c stamp for use on letters to France in a new design of a more ornate description, from the burin of the same engraver. The King's portrait is in this case enclosed in an oval frame surrounded by delicate tracery, and the epaulettes on the shoulders are no longer visible. Subsequently this type was adopted for the 10c and 20c stamps in August, 1850. A 1c stamp in the same design was added to the series on June 1, 1861, for the prepayment of postage on newspapers and printed matter. From April of that year onwards, machine-manufactured paper, without watermark was used for printing the Belgian postage stamps, owing to a decision to increase the size of the printing plates to facilitate rapid production. The convenience of perforation was added to the Belgian postage stamps on May 1st 1863. The sheets of printed stamps were punctured on behalf of the Post Office by a private firm of stationers in Brussels, Messrs. Gouvellos, who undertook to perforate 500 sheets per diem, at a charge of 5c a sheet.

Surface Printed Series, 1865.

The rapid deterioration of the copper plate rendered the production of postage stamps by the taille douce process a somewhat costly one, and in 1864 the Government began to investigate other systems of stamp printing, with the result that in the autumn of 1865 the London firm of De La Rue & Co, was entrusted with the preparations of a complete new series of postage stamps for the Belgian Government, to be printed by their special typographic process, which had been successfully employed in connection with British postage stamps. Dies showing a profile portrait of King Leopold, based on the national coinage, were engraved by M. Ferdinand Joubert, chief engraver to Messrs. De La Rue & Co., and the plates constructed at their works in Bunhill Row, E. C. With the exception of a first impression of 1,500 sheets of the highest values, 1f., the actual printing was carried out at the Brussels Stamp Works, under the direction of English mechanics.

The surface printed stamps were first brought into use on November 1st, 1865, and were originally impressed upon thin, unwatermarked paper of British manufacture. This gave place on June 1, 1866, to Belgian paper of thicker texture. The perforation gauging, 14x14½ was applied by Messrs. Gouvellos as before, but towards the end of 1866 the Belgian Government itself acquired a perforating machine, and on January 1st 1867, the stamps of this series began to appear perforated 15 by this machine. In the latter part of that year the Government printing establishment was removed from Brussels to Malines, whence emanated all subsequent stamp issues during the ensuing 47 years.

Meanwhile, on June 1st, 1866, a 1c stamp in a design by M. Delpierre, showing the rampant lion of Belgium in an oval frame surmounted by a crown, had made its appearance, the plates being prepared in Antwerp by an electrotype process. This was followed by 2c and 5c stamps of identical design in March, 1867, and September, 1866, respectively. Owing to the refusal of the contractors to perforate more than 500 sheets per day, it was decided in August, 1866, that, pending the instalment of a perforating machine at the State printing works, the 1c stamps should be issued imperforate.

Stamps of Leopold II.

Although the accession of Leopold II. to the Throne of Belgium had taken place in December, 1865, it was not until November 15th, four years later, that his features found place upon the Belgian postage stamps, when a new series, designed by M. Hendrickx, and engraved on wood by M. Doms, was inaugurated.

Alterations in the postal tariff led to the withdrawal from circulation of the stamps of 8c and 30c on July 1st, 1875, and the substitution of three new values in a similar design, including one of 25c, to meet the new international postage rate laid down by the Universal Postal Union. Commencing in 1881, fugitive inks derived from aniline dyes were brought into use for the printing of certain values, consequent on the discovery of frauds upon the Post Office by means of cleaned and restored stamps. Comb perforating machines with a uniform gauge of 14 were installed at the end of 1882. Four values in new designs, engraved by Messrs. De La Rue & Co., in London, but printed in Belgium, were issued during October and November, 1883, only to be superseded through adverse criticism on June 15th of the following year by a complete new series comprising denominations from 1c to 2f, the head die for which was cut in Paris by the eminent engraver M. Eugéne Mouchon, whilst the frame designs were furnished by Messrs. Hendrickx and Doms as before. The postage stamp series inaugurated on June 1st, 1893, of which some values remained current down to 1907, was chiefly remarkable for the addition of a label at the foot of the stamps inscribed in French and Flemish, "Not to be delivered on Sundays." It was the outcome of a Sabbath Day observance agitation, and was designed to lessen the volume of postal deliveries on Sunday. When the label was detached from the stamp, however, letters were delivered on the seventh day as usual. The low values from 1c to 5c were emblazoned with the Belgian coat-of-arms, and those of 10c and upwards bore the King's profile as before.

M. Onier Dierick, of the Academy of Louvain, was responsible for the portrait of Leopold II., reproduced on the stamps issued on May 1st, 1905, to mark the 75th Anniversary of Belgian Independence, the dies being engraved by M. Henri Meunier. Postage stamps bearing the counterfeit presentment of King Albert I did not make their debut until three years after his accession, the initial values being placed on sale on April 15th, 1912. The designs are attributed to M. E. Pellins, of the Antwerp Académie des Beaux Arts, the one representing the King of the Belgians in military uniform and the others the heraldic lion of Belgium. Owing to the unsatisfactory delineation of the Royal features, new dies were engraved in larger format, and stamps produced from them issued early in the following year.

War Stamps.

The State Printing Works at Malines were destroyed by the bombardment of August 28th, 1914. The last postage stamps manufactured on Belgian soil were those created at the instigation of the charitable Queen Elizabeth in aid of the Red Cross Fund, printed and issued at Antwerp for a few days only before its evacuation by the Allies on October 9th, 1914. Lithographically produced by Messrs. Verschueren in the beleaguered city, these postage stamps of the Croix Rouge were sold for twice their nominal values, half the proceeds going to the succour of the wounded. Two distinct series were issued concurrently, showing respectively a medallion portrait of the brave King Albert, and the national independence memorial at Berchem, representative of the heroic death of Count Frederic de Merode in defence of the tricolour in the war of 1830. Large numbers of these stamps were destroyed together with the lithographic stones from which they were printed, before the evacuation.

During the four years of the German Governor-Generalship (September, 1914—November, 1918), stamps of the contemporary "Germania" series of the Imperial German Postal Administration circulated in Belgium with the addition of the word "Belgien" imposed upon their faces in heavy Gothic type supplemented by new values in "centimes" or "francs." From the exiled Belgian Post Office at Havre was issued on January 2nd, 1915, yet a third series of Red Cross-cum-postage stamps, bearing a portrait of King Albert and printed by typography at the establishment of Messrs. Waterlow Bros. and Layton, in London.

In view of the enormous stocks of current postage stamps which had fallen into the hands of the Germans, of which they were disposing at huge discounts it was deemed expedient to change the design with the least possible delay. To this end a complete new series was ordered from Messrs. Waterlow and Sons, and issued at Havre on October 15th, 1915. The high values beautifully executed in taille douce engraving, reproduced historic monuments devastated by the violators of Belgian neutrality, such as the Cloth Hall of Ypres, the University of Louvain, and the College of Dinant. On the 5f was the vignette of King Albert presenting the colours to his troops at Furnes. The dies were engraved partly by a parisian artist named Dezerrois, and partly by Waterlow and Sons. The entire series printed in modified colours and overprinted with a small Geneva Cross in red, was placed on sale on January 15, 1918, at double face value in aid of the Croix Rouge Belgique.

Recent Issues.

The National fetes of July, 1919, were the occasion of the introduction of a new type of postage stamp, commemorative of Belgium's liberation from the German yoke, of which the first value, 10c, was issued on the 19th of that month. The design, a portrait of King Albert in campaigning kit, wearing the familiar steel casque of the Belgian army, has been attributed to a native artist named Jean Bast, but a prominent photographer, Mr. R. N. Speaight, claims that it is an exact reproduction of a portrait which he took, by command, on the Belgian front in September, 1917, and was approved as a stamp design by the late Minister of Posts. The master-die was engraved in Paris by Henri Cheffner, and the stamps themselves recess printed at the well-known stamp manufactory of Messrs. Johann Enschede, at Haarlem (Holland). At Liege, on July 21st, was placed on sale a special 25c postage stamp, in honour of the heroic defence of the city in the first days of the world war. It bore a vignette of the historic "Perron Liegeois." By way of Roland for Germany's Oliver, the Belgian Ministry of Posts caused to be issued on September 20th, 1919, a series of special postage stamps for use in the Belgian zone of occupation on the Rhine in the form of the 1915 types overprinted "Allemange—Duitschland" in two lines, in Flemish and Walloon. The restoration of the State Printing Works at Malines having now been completed, the Belgian postage stamps have been printed there since the end of last year.

Particular postage stamps of restricted validity were created by the Belgian Post Office in connection with the International Expositions, held at Antwerp in 1894, Brussels in 1896 and 1910, and Charleroi in 1911. Chiefly interesting from an artistic aspect are the stamps issued in connection with the Brussels Exhibition of May-October, 1910. The issue was promoted by Queen Elizabeth in aid of various charities, and it was she who selected for the subject of the design the famous Van Dyck painting in the Church of Saventhem, representing "St. Martin sharing his cloak with a beggar." In engraving the dies the treatment of the subject was varied by the two artists, M. C. Montald and H. Lemaire.

Stamps of the Belgian Congo.

Postage stamps engraved with the head of King Leopold II, and surface-printed at the Belgian State Printing Works, were issued in the then Congo Free State on January 1st, 1886, coincident with its admission to the Universal Postal Union, the dies of the 1875 issue of Belgium being utilised, with modified inscriptions. By the following year the finances of the Congo administration permitted the adoption of a distinctive stamp design, the work of M. Hendrickx, comprising a three-quarter face portrait of the King of the Belgians, flanked on either side by cocoanut palms surmounted by the Free State emblem—the lone star. These stamps were first brought into use on October 20th, 1887. The third series of postage stamps issued in the Congo Free State is one of the most artistic that has ever been produced. Its designs were reproduced from a diorama painted by Messrs. R. Mols and P. van Engelen, which was one of the principal attractions of the Antwerp Exhibition of 1894. The subjects include views of Port Matadi, the Stanley Falls, Inkissi Falls, M'pozo River, coconut gathering, elephant hunting, and natives canoeing, as well as a portrait of the Bangala chief, Morangi and his wife. The whole set was finely printed from engraved plates by Messrs. Waterlow and Sons, in London ,and issued to the public on November 27th, 1894. Two high value stamps for parcels post service, added on May 2, 1898, were, however, the work of Messrs. Waterlow Bros. and Layton.

The formal annexation of the Congo Free State by Belgium was marked by the overprinting of the word "Congo Belge" upon the current postage stamps in November, 1908, at first by means of hand stamps, both in Brussels and Boma, and, later, by typography in Belgium only. These provisional overprints were replaced on June 1st, 1909, by London printed stamps in types of 1894, re-engraved with the inscription "Congo-Belge" in token of the new regime. Further innovations were made in the stamps issued on January 1st, 1910, which had the inscriptions rendered in both French and Flemish. In consequence of the quantities of Congolese stamps seized by German raiders from East Africa in the early stages of the war, new colours were adopted in 1915, whilst in July, 1918, the full series, with central vignette in blue, was overprinted with the Geneva Cross, and sold for double face value in aid of the Croix Rouge Belgique.

Both King Albert and Queen Elizabeth are enthusiastic stamp collectors, and deeply interested in the stamps of their country.—Philatelic Magazine.

JAMAICAN PICTORIALS, 1921.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The 3d and 5s are recent additions to the new pictorial series of Jamaica, the former being issued April 8th, and the latter April 15th, 1921.

The Official Gazette describes the 3d as follows:—

"Stamp Office, April 6, 1921.

The following is a description of a three penny adhesive stamp to be used for Postage and Revenue purposes:—

This stamp will be put into circulation on April 8th, 1921. The design of the stamp represents the Landing of Columbus on the island on its discovery. The denomination, 3d, is shown on a shield (with laurel leaves beneath) in the left and right corners at the top.

Between the denomination is printed, JAMAICA—POSTAGE—REVENUE. Above the word Jamaica is a row of pineapples. At the bottom of the design are the words and figures, 'Jamaica Discovered by Columbus 1494', and underneath these words there is another row of pineapples.

The border of the stamp is blue, and the center green.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

The 3d stamp is printed in light blue and dark green, from copper engraved plates, on white paper with the old style multiple watermark, in an upright position. The perforation is single line, gauging 14. The design is treated in a transverse rectangle, and measures 27 mm. x 22 mm. Shields with circular openings in the upper corners contain the value "3d", with "Jamaica" between. "Postage — Revenue" conforms to the arched opening containing the vignette, which is lettered at the bottom "Jamaica Discovered by Columbus, 1494". The island (Xaymaca — land of wood and water) was discovered by Columbus on May 3, 1494, while sailing southward from Cuba, his landfall being probably Dry Harbour on the northern coast. The vignette shows a circular bay, on which are three ships and several canoes, with headland in the distance. In the foreground is the landing party from the ships, and several Indians.

The description of the 5s as given in the Official Gazette is as follows:—

"Stamp Office, 12th April, 1921.

The following is a description of a five shilling adhesive stamp to be used for Postage and Revenue purposes:—

This stamp will be put into circulation on the 15th April, 1921. The design of the stamp is intended to show Jamaica as the 'Isle of Wood and Water'. The spirit of the woodland country is symbolised by the God Pan, and water is symbolised by the Constellation Aquarius.

The denomination '5sh' is shown in a circle at each of the four corners. At the top between the denomination is printed 'Jamaica', and at the bottom between the denomination 'Isle of Wood and Water'. On the left and right are the words 'Postage' 'Revenue'.

The color of the border of the stamp is orange, and the design is of blue.

Signed, C. C. MANTON,
Deputy Stamp Commissioner."

Brown orange and dark blue are the colors in which the 5s stamp is printed. It too is printed from copper engraved plates, on white paper with the old style of multiple watermarked in an upright position. The perforation is comb, 14. The design is treated in an upright rectangle, and measures 25 mm. x 30 mm. In all four corners, circular openings contain the value "5sh" in color, "Jamaica" being between those at the top, and "Isle of—Wood and Water" at the bottom. At the sides are "Postage" and "Revenue" respectively.

"Jamaica's attractive title can be traced back to the faroff times when people thought more of the god Pan than present day folks think of commerce! Moreover, the title has been conferred on the island by Nature herself! Thus trees cover the whole surface even of the vertical precipices which overlook the swift flowing 'Mouth of the Waters'; and in the plain also you find the valuable lignum vitae and pimento trees; lastly, both rivers and lakes demand attention because many of them disappear in order to reappear in an elfin like way."

As to the vignette of the stamp, "at the right of the foreground one sees a little stream falling over rocks, and beyond the god Pan playing his pipes whilst he sits on a boulder. The stream

We shall put on sale the new U. S. Handbook of the issues of 1870 to 1893. Mr. Power says some real nervy things about some of the so-called stamps listed in the Scott catalogue, and the new work throws out of consideration many things that ought never to be in a standard work. These Bank Note printings are difficult to amateurs, but with this new book most of their puzzles will be solved.

"APPROVAL WANT-LISTS"
Here is the system that I strongly advise. It has been in use with me for many years and has proven of the greatest satisfaction to hundreds of my clients.
It's simple, too. Here it is in a nutshell:
(1) You send your want-list of United States, using Scott's Numbers.
(2) Add a bank or philatelic reference, if you have not had an approval account with me within the past two years.
(3) I make your wants in an approval selection with the privilege of returning any or all copies.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C.

turns to the right, being flanked by tall trees; thus a glade is formed through which distant mountains are visible. The time is night, and one is looking eastward; these things are clear because the constellation of Aquarius is rising over the mountains, the great square of Pegasus being hidden by the trees at the left of the picture. The design of the stamp, therefore, is most lavish in its use of wood and water. The god Pan, coming from the distant past is also appropriate; he is in keeping with the ancient title; he symbolises the spirit of the woods; besides all this, he is merry, as indeed are all the kind-hearted people of Jamaica.

Much space was given in the local papers to comments on the design of this stamp, the articles in the Kingston Gleaner being especially interesting, and well worth repeating.

". . . This is the first time we have ever had a stamp illustrative of the aboriginal conception of Jamaica as the Land of Wood and Water, and all those who see the new stamp will agree that that conception has been beautifully portrayed in the design. The trees and mountains and streams of Jamaica. which with its blue skies and snowlike clouds compose the beauty of a land famed for loveliness in every part of the world, are depicted or suggested on this stamp . . . .

Long ago we had a stamp depicting the Llandovery Falls, but the general effect was poor. One of the stamps now in use pictures the departure of our First Contingent to France, and will be of historic interest in the years to come . . . But the new stamp is Jamaica itself — the Isle of Wood and Water — and apart altogether from its artistic value it will serve two very useful purposes. Stamp collectors will eagerly purchase it; that goes without saying. It is expensive, the cost is 5 shillings, but a stamp collector seems not to think of money if his collection can be made more perfect by another addition, and the number of these collectors is apparently endless! But the stamp collector loves to display his treasures, often to the infinite weariness of those who take no interest in philately; he is never happy unless he is showing them to others. Now we take it that the average person caring nothing about the ordinary stamp will yet be glad to come upon this one, for in its way it is decidedly unique. It will be to such a person not merely a stamp, but a picture of Jamaica, and thus form an advertisement of Jamaica. It will be one of the souvenirs which visitors to this island will take or send to their friends, and the price of it will place it above the suspicion of being merely a cheap memento.

The new stamp was, we understand, designed by His Excellency the Governor (Sir Leslie Probyn) some time ago, and in this connection we cannot help making an observation which seems to us not entirely foreign to subjects which Jamaica has been discussing much of late. We do not know if the Governor is himself a philatelist, though probably he is. This is not the first stamp he has designed, and that fact leads us to believe that he is himself something of a philatelist. Now the word philatelist is composed of two Greek words, the first of which means 'loving', the second 'free of tax'. We therefore find that the term Tax occurs in connection with His Excellency even here, but 'free of tax' in this respect means really 'free of further tax'. We should like to take the issue of this new stamp as a sort of prophecy that we in this Isle of Wood and Water are to be free of further taxes, in which case the date on which this stamp makes its appearance will become a sort of red letter day in Jamaica. This stamp, as we have said, is certain to bring some money into the Treasury. It probably will aid in bringing tourists to the island. It should also commemorate the time when taxation in Sir Leslie Probyn's regime ceased in the Isle of Wood and Water."

The 1d and 6d remain to complete the new series. The 1d, dark red and orange, "Arawak Indians grinding corn", typographed as for the ½d, will make appearance as soon as the present stock of 1d George is exhausted. The stamp has been reported from "Specimen" copies sent out from Berne over six months ago.

The 6d stamp, also chronicled from "Specimen" copies, seems in a way not to see issue in unoverprinted state. In color it is gray and red, and the subject treated is "Abolition of Slavery, August 1, 1838". It was in 1833 that the famous Act was passed providing for the freeing of all slaves in the British Colonies on August 1, 1834, though they were to be apprenticed to their former owners until 1838, and in the case of agricultural workers until 1840. When the slave trade was abolished in 1807, there were 323,827 slaves in Jamaica. During the last eight years of the trade 86,821 slaves were imported. On the abolition of slavery in 1833, Jamaica received £6,161,927 of the 20 million pounds guaranteed by the Imperial Government as Compensation to the slave owners.

A consignment of the 6d stamp has been in the Island for some months, but according to reports from official quarters, the coloring is so execrable, that H. E., the Governor, will not sanction issue, and has ordered the printing to be destroyed. At the same time, the Crown Agents have been asked to prepare a printing in changed colors.

Another report for non-issue of the stamp is that the subject is one which does not appeal to the majority population of Jamaica, for of the population (893,580) a very high percentage is colored and black. But as the subject of the stamp was decided upon locally, the probability is that the coloring is the cause for non-appearance.

As a matter of fact, the color combinations used for the new pictorials, while striking, are peculiar to stamp printing, and seldom seen in stamps coming from De La Rue. They do not show off to advantage the several designs, and considerable improvement would be effected if black ink were used for the centers.

While the subjects on the new pictorial stamps are of historical interest, there are many scenic beauties in the interior of the island which could have been used to better advantage. In a letter to the Gleaner, dated March 4th, a correspondent asks "who is responsible for the subjects selected for the new stamps. I understood . . . they were to advertise some of the [illegible] of Jamaica, but up to now not [illegible] those beauties has appeared. Fr[illegible] had the departure of a War Con[illegible] then the Jamaica Exhibition [illegible] (which was a temporary struc[illegible] 30 years ago), followed by a st[illegible] 'Missis Queen', the Rodney M[illegible] Spanish Town Cathedral, and r[illegible] return of one of the Contingent[illegible] Union Jack on the dexter side [illegible] last (2½d) stamp is actually dra[illegible] side down. It really seems a p[illegible] with such a wealth of beauty spo[illegible] lect from, the Bog Walk Gor[illegible] coast scenes in St. Thomas, P[illegible] St. Ann, etc., we should have fo[illegible] on the world some buildings and[illegible] ments which make very nice sta[illegible] do not rise above the mediocre."

The design of the 2½d has [illegible] drawn and "reprinted at the exp[illegible] the Crown Agents who have adv[illegible] Government of the distress sig[illegible] flag, and hold themselves res[illegible] for the mistake." The new [illegible] of this value is on the new scrip[illegible] marked paper.

THE OREGON INSURANCE STAMPS.

By Frank L. Applegate.

The act of the Oregon legislature requiring the stamping of insurance policies was amendatory to an act approved in 1864, and entitled, "An Act to Regulate and Tax Foreign Insurance and Express Corporate Association Doing Business in This State." The amendatory act of 1870 was signed by Governor Laufette Grover on October 24, 1870, and became operative January 24, 1871. Conditions under which outside companies could do an insurance business in Oregon were made quite drastic as, "Every such corporation before engaging in the business of fire or marine insurance or express or brokerage shall deposit with the treasurer of the State the sum of fifty thousand dollars." A fee of $10.00 was charged as an application fee when the fifty thousand dollar certificate of deposit was filed, besides certain other expenses required for advertising notices, also, another $100.00 fee if insurance agents were to be maintained in the State.

Section four of this act required that, "The Secretary of State shall cause to be printed, stamps, as hereinafter provided, and it shall be unlawful for any fire or marine Insurance company to transact business within this State, unless they shall affix such stamps to each and every policy of insurance as hereinafter provided, to wit:

For every one on which the premium is less than ten dollars, a stamp of the value of ten cents; over ten dollars and less than twenty dollars, a stamp worth twenty cents; over twenty dollars and less than fifty dollars, a stamp worth fifty cents; over fifty dollars and less than one hundred dollars a stamp worth one dollar and an additional one per cent on all sums over one hundred dollars. Said stamps shall be affixed and cancelled at the time of delivery of said policy by the secretary or actuary of the Company by whom such insurance is affected."

Seventeen years later this act was annulled by an act of the legislature which went into effect July 1, 1887.

From the bi-annual report of the Secretary of State, published in 1872, I quote:—"In obedience to the requirements of an act of the last session of the legislature a considerable number of stamps have been printed and many have been sold." The amount realized up to this time from the sale of stamps was reported as being $1,859.95. The stamps were lithographed by the firm of A. L. Bancroft & Co. of San Francisco, who made a number of "printings" from time to time from 1871 to 1884 or 1885. The records of both the lithographing Company and of the State are very fragmentary covering these years, leaving plenty of room for philatelic research and for conjecture as well.

Regarding the first issue Mr. B. C. Kenyon was able to glean some information from the records of Bancroft & Co., which records, I believe, are no longer in existence. I quote from his book:—"The order book of A. L. Bancroft & Co. shows that 10,000 each of the 10 cent green and 20 cent blue and 5,000 of the 50c brown stamps, were shipped Dec. 2, 1870. The books furthermore, show that a 'rush' order for 1,000 $1.00 values was received on January 30th, 1871, and as no color had been specified the stamps were printed in blue.

"Owing to the fact that the order called for a speedy shipment, they were sent imperforate. The printers received another order for 10,000 more $1.00 stamps on the 4th of March, of the same year, wherein the Secretary of State requested that 'the stamps be printed in red, as the $1.00 blue stamps are easily confused with the 20c blue.' He also adds, 'See that they are punched for easy separation.'"

The general features of the designs are as follows: On the centre is the arms of the State on a large shield about fourteen mm. high, on either side of which is a row of stars. Surmounting the shield is an eagle with outspread wings, with a small shield on its breast. On the Bancroft stamps this shield is about three and one-half mm. wide and leans obliquely so that the lower tip points to the left of the centre of the large shield below. Long panels on each side touching the frame line bear the word INSURANCE in large colorless Roman capital letters. The further details of the design vary with each denomination. In the 10 cent and 20 cent there are large rosettes in each of the four corners, at the top OREGON and at the base STATE TAX in shaded capital letters on curved ribbons, the numerals being between the central design and these ribbons. In the 50 cent the word FIFTY in large colorless capitals occupies a tablet at the extreme top, below which is the numeral, and below the numeral, OREGON on a curved ribbon. Below the large shield is a corresponding ribbon, bearing the words, STATE TAX, below this another 50, and at the extreme base CENTS on a tablet to match the one at the top.

The ribbons inscribed OREGON STATE TAX are the same on the one dollar design as on the 50 cent. At the extreme top and base are fancy colorless numerals in circles with words ONE, set diagonally on either side and the word DOLLAR in colored letters on an irregular colorless label between the numerals and ribbons above mentioned.

Lithographed, small shield pointing to left, 1871. Hard, closely wove white paper, only slightly porous, and ranging somewhat in thickness. Perforated about 12¼ mm., 26x49½ mm.:—

10 cent	blue green	quantity	10,000
20 cent	blue	"	10,000
50 cent	brown	"	5,000
$1.00	blue (imperforate)	"	1,000
1.00	vermilion	"	10,000

The $1.00 blue is so rare that it is only within recent years that it has been included in any catalogue. Formerly, it was thought to have been an error caused by a $1.00 cliche having been accidentally included on the stone used in producing the 50 cent stamps. As further proof of the impossibility of this hypothesis, I have seen copies with sheet margins on the left side as well as on the right. Most cancelled copies have the initials M. A. K. (ing) in block manuscript, together with dates ranging from 1872 to 1876, which is a common cancellation on other values of this issue. Probably these stamps in blue were bought up by one firm and used over a series of years concurrently with the vermilion stamps.

I have seen single copies of the 10 cent apparently imperforate at sides.

There are no records by which the date of issue of subsequent Bancroft productions can be definitely established. Only by studying dated cancellations considered in connection with certain payments made by the State can we approximate the dates of issue. Reports of the Secretary of State show, that stamp sales for 1871 and 1872 amounted to $1,859.95 net, (5% of sales were retained by the Secretary); for 1873-4 they netted $2,718.36; for 1875-6, $3,883.60; for 1877-8, $4,479.80; for 1879 and 1880 there are no figures, but sales amounting to $9,657.97, are reported for 1882-3-4 and 5, and another $9,645.13 for the rest of the time up to July 1, 1887.

Taking these figures into consideration, we can see the original stock of $16,500 becoming exhausted about 1879. but evidently the one dollar stamps sold much more rapidly than other values, In fact, the next variety claiming our attention, could have been issued not later than Jan. 2, 1873, which I conclude from a very plainly stamped cancellation bearing that date on a specimen in my collection. This stamp shows many variations from the first issue, chief among which we note that the ribbon inscribed, STATE TAX is shaded with short lines on both ends, on the blue and vermilion stamps, while on the issue under discussion the right end of the ribbon is entirely plain. Again at the bottom end of the right hand panel, bearing the word INSURANCE, in the first issue the fleur-de-lis shaped ornament is quite blunt at the extremity, while in this issue it ends in a colorless claw, quite distinct.

I have considered the possibility of this stamp being a counterfeit, made to defraud the State, but have dismissed the possibility as it is unlikely the counterfeiter would so nicely imitate the odd gauged perforation. I have seen both stamped and written cancellations ranging from 1873 to 1877.

1873. Lithographed on thick white wove paper. Perf. 12¼, 26x49½ mm.
$1.00 deep pink.

To the next set I assign the date 1876, as copies of the 50 cent imperforate bear cancellations of that date, and since an item appears in the State records under date of Jan. 2, 1876.

"Lithographing insurance stamps (Ins. Fund), $18.00", and again under 1877, "Paid A. L. Bancroft & Co., lithographing insurance stamps, $90.00"; and again in 1880, another $50.00 to the same firm. All denominations with the possible exception of the 10 cent were again issued. The paper and perforation are the same as in the first issue but the colors are new and the designs, at least of the 20 cent and one dollar stamps, are about one mm. longer than in the first issue.

1876. Close white wove paper. Perf. 12¼. About 26½x50½ mm. for 20c and $1.00 values.
20c deep green.
50c blue.
50c same imperf.
$1.00 carmine.

There may also be a 10 cent belonging to this set, but I have come to doubt it. I am somewhat in doubt also as to the proper placing of the 50 cent imperforate as its size, color, paper and prevailing cancellations match so nicely with the $1.00 blue as to cause one to wonder if it was not an error in the sheet of one dollar stamps rather than vice versa.

The stamps listed under 1877, or on a soft porous paper, in which the pores of the paper may be either vertical or horizontal. At the risk of over emphasizing a minor difference I list both varieties. These are evidently lithographed from the original stones as the sizes are the same as the first issue. Dated cancellations on Oregon stamps later than 1876, are very rarely met with.

1877. Porous wove paper. Perf. as before 12¼, but generally ragged. Porous vertical.
20c yellowish green.
20c emerald green.
50c blue.
$1.00 rose.

Porous horizontal.
10c puce.
20c green.
$1.00 rose.

Both the 20c and $1.00 are known imperforate also.

More common are the stamps which I list under 1880. The perforation for the first time has been changed, and imperforate copies are more often met with.

1880. Same design. Porous in paper vertical. Perf. 11.
10c dark red brown (Shades).
a. imperforate.
10c dark yellowish brown.
a. imperforate
20c yellow green.
a. imperforate
50c blue. (Shades).
a. Imperf. (Shades).
$1.00 pink. (Shades).
a. Imperf. (Shades).

I have also seen a 50 cent apparently imperforate at top and bottom.

These were followed by stamps quite similar but perforated 13, in fact, one value is known with compound perforation.

1884 (?) Same perforated 13.
10c dark yellowish brown.
20c yellow green.
50c blue.
$1.00 pink.

Perf. 11x13 and also 13 on the left and 11 on the other three sides.
10c dark yellowish brown.

In 1886 the work was given over to the firm of A. Anderson & Co., of Portland, Oregon, who manufactured and delivered one issue of 43,000 stamps of different denominations, all perforated 11. Delivery was made well within a year of the repeal of the law.
